REV. MACTAVISH ROTARY GUEST

CHEER COMMITTEE REPORTS

CAMPBELLFORD, December 23 (Examiner Stag Correspondence). — The weekly meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club, held on Monday in the St. Lawrence Hotel, was of a festive nature, when a Christmas dinner was served and the Rev G. F. MacTavish, as guest speaker, spoke of the spirit of the season. The president, H. N. Carr, occupied the chair.

Mr. MacTavish saw in the spirit of Christmas three great things involved. The first of these was the spirit of peace and goodwill toward all men, or brotherhood. This, he pointed out, was one of the objects of Rotary, and he commended the organization for this fact, but said that it should also be a world-wide object. The true spirit of peace was one of the things that was needed by all men to-day, in the speaker's opinion. The second thing involved was sacrifice. This was a very necessary element, he thought, for to make men happy calls for sacrifice on the part of all. And the third thing was service, and this Mr. MacTavish said, was the real spirit of the season. It was the one thing that was practised at this time, and the one thing that should be practised all through the year.

And to serve, the speaker declared, one must be consecrated. It was necessary that a man get away from himself, for service was one of the things that make for unselfishness. Also a man cannot be of real service unless he is interested in the person he is serving. And only when men are interested can they serve their best. Service, Mr. MacTavish pointed out, will cost something, and as a rule there is no material reward, but the reward of service is in the knowledge of having done something to help, for a service that costs nothing means nothing.

Christmas costs us all something, the speaker declared, yet it is because of this fact that we get joy and happiness out of the season, and concluded by pointing out that at this season there was a great opportunity of serving, not only as a club, but as individuals.

Cheer Committee

N. A. MacColl, chairman of the Christmas Cheer committee, spoke on the work that was being done along this line, stating that he had not received the names of so many families in need this year as he expected.

A call had been made to the ministers of the town to help along this line but as far as he could see there was not the crying need this year for relief in Campbellford as in past years, owing, he thought, to the government relief measures. It was being arranged this year however, to try and see that all poor children should be given some articles of clothing as part of the cheer scheme.

Dr. B. Longmore, speaking on this subject, suggested that the town be divided into wards and a check up made to see just where the need for help lay. This suggestion was supported by G. A. Kingstone, and the club went into a committee of wards to arrange this matter.

President Carr before closing the meeting, thanked the members for their support during the past year, wishing them the compliments of the season. A vote of thanks was also passed by the club to Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe for the splendid service rendered to the club during the year.

The club also went on motion as passing a vote of sympathy to their late member, Don. Douglas, in the recent death of his father.

CAMPBELLFORD ARE VICTORS HOCKEY TILTS

Defeat Norwood 4-3 Last Night For Second Victory, Having Won the First 5-3.

EXCELLENT SHOWING.

Although a Little Weak on Defence Losers Outskate Winners on Forward Line.

(By Exainer Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23. — For the first time this season the Campbelford Maroons appeared on their own ice, when they scored a victory over Norwood ast night in the Davidson Arena to the tuneof 4 to 3. Campbellford won the first game of the series played in Norwood last week, 5-3.

Norwood played with several juniors on their line-up, and put up an excellent showing. A little weak on defence, they had come fast forward men and kept the Campbellford goal busy at times. The Maroons, a little stronger on defence played a good game, but did not have their regular line-up. The game was very ragged in places, and although not rough, was inclined to be wild at times. However it was a good game for the fans, and as an exhibition bout quite a success.

The lineups were as follows:

Norwood—Goal, W. J. Rogers; defence; T. Quinn, F. McLaughlin; center, B. Jacks; wings, S. Stevsons, L. Hill; subs, L. Scriver, P. Voyer, R. Webb, H. Lucas.

Campbellford—Goal, W. Grier; defence, H. McArthur, J. Cowell; center, L. Copperthwait; wings, A. McKay, D. McPherson; subs, W. Blue, O. Hendy, "Buster" Whitton, B. Houle.

Referee—Dr. D. C. Hay, Hastings.

NEW PICTORIAL ISSUE OF STAMPS SENT TO POST OFFICES IN CANADA

Collectors Describe New Air Mail Stamp Most Attractive Issued Anywhere.

HISTORIC SCENES USED

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.)—A new pictorial issue of Canadian stamps, conceded by philatelists to be of the highest artistic quality, is being sent to post offices throughout the country by the department.

The most distinctive production of the group, according to departmental officials, is the new five-cent air mail stamp. It bears the figure of the winged mercury against a background of the globe with the North and South American continents delineated. The color is brown. Many expressions of admiration have already been received by the Department from stamp collectors, who describe it as the most attractive air mail issued by any country.

Another striking example of the engraver's art is the blue 50-cent stamp which carries a picture of the historic chapel at Grand Pre, N.S., and the well of Evangeline. The one dollar stamp is dark green and bears a picture of mount Edith Cavel in British Columbia. A prairie scene is used in the red 20-cent stamp. It shows grain being reaped by modern machinery. In the background are grain elevators. The Quebec citadel is portrayed on the dark grey 12-cent stamp. The ten-cent stamp, green in color, bears a picture of the parliamentary library.

MAY ALLOW WOMEN OF JAPAN TO VOTE

TOKYO, December 22.—Japanese women soon may be given a taste of political power. The sample will be the right to vote in municipal elections, and it is accompanied by the implicit promise that if it is taken with no ill effects, within a few years the full feast of political equal rights with men to vote and hold office—will be spread before more than 15,000,000 female subjects of the Mikado.

At the fifty-ninth session of the Imperial Diet meeting this month (December), a bill to permit women to vote in elections for village, town and city assemblies and to hold offices in those governments is to be considered. Backed by the overwhelming majority held by the government party, the Minseito, the bill should pass the lower house without difficulty. There may be opposition in the more conservative House of Peers, but the chances are the measure will become law.

The bill stops short of admitting women to participation in national and prefectural affairs. It will not allow them to vote for members of the 46 prefectural assemblies nor for members of the national house of representatives, the highest elected officials, in the Japanese political system. Political leaders believe it will be ten years before women of Japan will have the same voting and office holding rights as men.

SANTA WILL VISIT HAVELOCK TO-NIGHT

Community Christmas Tree to be Held at Corner of George and Oak Streets.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23.—(Examiner Correspondence).—History will be made this evening at 7 o'clock when hundreds of children and grown-ups will welcome Santa Claus on the occasion of his first official visit to this town.

Santa is due to arrive at the C.P.R. station by special train, and has requested The Examiner correspondent along with the local newspaper to have every boy and girl there to meet him, and to accompany him to the Community Christmas tree at George and Oak streets, where Reeve Richard Sanderson along with the other members of the village council will tender him a royal reception and present him with a golden key to the village.

This most unusual key will be used to unlock the heart of every adult in the village and fill it with the warmth and spirit of Christmastide. It is now definitely known that he will be accompanied by some of his Toyland animals and a band.

Elaborate preparations have been made for his coming, involving a great deal of work on the part of the C.P.R. Recreation Club members and others.

Already a gaily decorated tree is in place on the vacant lot near the main corner.

Every Christmas since the organization of the recreation club a few years ago it has looked after the needy and this year will be no exception.

STUDENT CONCERT DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Annual Conversat of Lakefield High School Held in Town Hall.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual concert at the Lakefield High School was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, when the visitors, who numbered about three hundred, were cordially welcomed by the Principal of the School, J. F. Harvey and shown to their places by an efficient corps of ushers.

The hall was prettily decorated with orange and black, the school colors and the program was divided into three important parts, dramatic, official and recreation. The first part of the entertainment consisted of a three-act play, "The Elopement of Ellen," which was delightfully entertaining and amusing, as well as being well staged. Great credit is due to Miss B. C. Dunn, who directed the production. To the assistance and co-operation of the staff of the Canada Cement Company is due the fine stage and light effects which added so much to the performance.

The play was pure comedy and each character took his or her part well, indeed, although the performance of Douglas Smith in the role of Rev. John Hume, the nervous young rector, susceptible of female beauty, made a great hit. The scene of the play was laid in Pleasant Hill, a suburb of Toronto, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ford, a devoted young couple, not long married. They are entertaining a small house party and Molly Ford has boasted so much of her housekeeping that it is little short of tragic to have her treasure of a housemaid, Ellen, elope on the eve of the party. In response to a frantic long distance call to an employment bureau, a new girl is sent. June Haverill is really a college girl who is studying economics in a practical way and unknown to her people, she applies for a position meaning to stay only one day and disappear, having gathered enough material for an essay. On her arrival she finds two admirers, Robert Shepperd, who is visiting his sister Mollie Ford and Max Borden, who has just become engaged to Dorothy March. A delightful comedy of errors ensues, which as usual ends well for all but Mr. Hume, who ends as the odd man out.

Dr. J. C. Smith Speaks

Following the play, Dr. J. C. Smith took the chair, representing the High School Board, in the absence through illness of the chairman, J. W. Ridpath. He stated that the representative audience was very gratifying and that the parents should visit the school and see the equipment; according to the Inspector's report, the Lakefield High School is second to none in the province. In 1927 there was a surplus amount of money after paying the expenses of the Diamond Jubilee celebration and it was invested to establish a fund, the interest going annually to the pupil of the Lakefield School taking the highest marks in Canadian History at the entrance examination. This is the first time that a boy won but he must divide with a young lady who had an equal number of marks. The prize will be divided between Mary Davis and Jack Woodhouse who secured 87 per cent each.

A. H. Clark

A. H. Clark, fire chief, spoke of the essays written in Fire Prevention in Home and Factory by the pupils of the High and Public Schools, during Fire Prevention Week. The Fire Chief said in the six years he has held office as Fire Chief he has had excellent co-operation from the staff and pupils of both schools.

Pays Tribute

Reeve C. S. Tanner paid a well merited tribute to the efficiency of the local fire department which is the finest volunteer brigade in Ontario. The medals for the High School were won by Lilian Mason and Vliet Carveth and for the Public School by Patricia Earnshaw and Stewart Loyst. The medals are handsomely engraved and are presented by the Fire Prevention League of Ontario.

Presents Prizes

Dr. J. C. Smith paid a tribute to the value of athletics in the school. This year, an esteemed citizen, the Principal of the Grove School, has shown his friendly interest in the school by donating a cup for the mile race. As a sign of gratitude for this friendly gesture, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, D.D., was asked to present the prizes for the athletic events. Dr. Mackenzie expressed his appreciation of the invitation to be present and of the entertainment which was well done, and also urged the parents to take an interest in the school and to attend sports day. He recalled that when he came to Lakefield thirty-five years ago he had to accompany his boys to the village to protect them from the pummelling of the village boys. He felt that the best way to foster a better feeling was to have them play games together and many a keen game of hockey and football have been played.

The senior athletic championship cups for 1929 were not presented last year but presented by Dr. Mackenzie to Ruby Tedford and Ronald Kemp. The 1930 Junior Athletic championship cups were presented to Josephine White and Roy Bullock and the Senior Championship cups to Phyllis Charlton and Dominic White. Robert Nicholls won the Mackenzie Cup for the mile race.

Following the presentation dancing was enjoyed, and the 1930 conversat goes into history as the most successful. The staff of the school and members of the Literary Society are to be congratulated.

The first part of the program consisted of some delightful moving pictures relating some stirring episodes in the exciting career of Felix the Cat and the absolute stillness of the children showed their appreciation more than bursts of applause would have done.

Two little girls, Patricia Earnshaw and Jean Clark contributed piano selections and Kenneth Remnant gave a recitation. While Santa Claus rested after his long journey the children played the familiar games which are beloved of children for generations.

The ladies of the committee, Mrs. J. Earnshaw and Mrs. H. McCracken assisted the convenor, J. Earnshaw and K. A. Mackenzie in dismantling the tree for Santa.

HAVELOCK GOSPEL HALL

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — Havelock Gospel Hall annual Christmas entertainment and tree was held in the Mission Hall on Wednesday, when a capacity audience filled the hall. The children of the Sunday School began the entertainment by singing an opening chorus of Christmas hymns and carols, after which Mr. Kinnaird had them repeat many of their prayers, and to name the books comprising the Holy Bible, and each child, to the smallest tot, displayed a remarkable knowledge of everything asked.

After the musical program was disposed of, Santa Claus arrived at the hall, laden with a huge pack, and proceeded up the aisle where a large Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and lighted with electric lights in fanciful design stood. He unloaded his pack and after greeting all the children and grown ups, too, he proceeded to distribute the packages. Every child in the hall was presented with a package of some sort, some of them receiving more than one. All the children also got a bag of candies from the Mission Hall workers.

AIR FORCE GETS SPEEDIER CRAFT

RESULT OF AIR EXERCISES.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Experts are busy studying the statistics piled up in the great air exercises of the Royal Air Force recently, when most types of craft were in intensive use. The chief impression gained is one of great mobility. The tremendous distances covered by the "conflicting" air forces show dramatically the swiftness and unexpectedness of the new weapon and bring back memories of the campaigns waged by Hannibal and Napoleon before the reign of mud in Flanders brought warfare to a standstill. Another great war, should it ever come to pass, might well see the emergence of a Napoleon of the air.

The air ministry has already approved re-equipment of the Air Force which will mean an increase in speed of the standard service types, of 50 miles an hour. During the next 15 months new day bombers, fighters and, probably, army co-operation craft, will substitute earlier types while new fighters and reconnaissance aircraft are scheduled for service in the fleet air arm. More than 200 Hawker aircraft will be secured, the largest number being daybombers, a two-seater with a speed of 180 miles an hour at 10,000 feet, undoubtedly the fastest machine of its class in the world.

Fighters selected for re-equipment are the "Fury" and "Norn." The "Fury", chosen for intercepter fighter squadrons, far surpasses all foreign aircraft in speed and rate of climb—better than 200 miles an hour with full service load, and a climb of 20,000 feet in 10 minutes. The "Norn" is the sea edition of this craft, only five miles an hour less speedy. The decision to obtain these machines in numbers was undoubtedly formed as a result of the air exercises, when day bombers outpaced the single-seaters sent up to intercept them on imaginary raids from the coast to London.

CAPE TOWN CHOSEN FOR AIR TERMINUS

City Rejoices Over Position in Cape to Croydon Air Services.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Dec. 23.—(By the Canadian Press)—Plans for one of the finest airports in the British Empire have been prepared for the Cape Town terminus of the trans-African air services in connection with the Imperial Airways service between Croydon, England, and South Africa, and Cape Town is borrowing $250,000 for its municipal aerodrome. This city is feeling jubilant over having secured the terminus, as two Transvaal cities, Germiston and Johannesburg, were after it too. The Mayor of Cape Town, Rev. A. J. S. Lewis, is given credit for this.

In addressing a meeting of ratepayers which had been called to sanction the City Council's decision to borrow the necessary $250,000 Mayor Lewis said attempts had been made up-country to get the terminus for the trunk line from Croydon to South Africa. A Transvaal deputation had come to Cape Town to interview Hon. H. W. Sampson, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs and of Public Works, at the Houses of Parliament, he said, "but immediately this was known I was determined to get there first, and I succeeded in arranging an interview with Mr. Sampson 24 hours before the deputation arrived. I claimed that Cape Town and no other part of the Union should be the terminus, and this Mr. Sampson readily conceded."

CHINESE ACTRESS SPEAKS 4 TONGUES

Native of China Acts in French, German and English.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Two job will be waiting for Anna May Wong across the Atlantic when she finishes the role of the half-caste Chinese girl in Edgar Wallace's "On the Spot" here in New York.

One is to tour Germany playing "Turandot" and "East is West" in German—a language of which less than three years ago she knew not one word. The other is to make two talking pictures in Poland.

Miss Wong, whose real name is Wong Liu Tsong, hopes they won't expect her to do them in Polish. For Polish looks to her like a "language in which they pick up all the letters in the alphabet and throw them at each other."

But if they want her to speak Polish in the talkies Miss Wong will make a stab at it. For her linguistic record so far is as courageous as it is unique. Two years ago last spring she left her native Hollywood, where she had been in pictures, and went to Germany to do silent films. Then the talkies came. In about two months Anna May Wong learned her part in "The Flame of Love" in the German language, though they changed the script three times.

Last summer wshe was directed to do "The Flame of Love" in French, so Anna May Wong betook herself to Paris, got a tutor, refused to let anyone speak a word of English to her, and in three weeks was ready to play the part. Then she went to Vienna and sang in German the leading role in an operetta.

In addition to English, French, German and a few words of Polish, Miss Wong speaks Chinese, which she says is the hardest of the lot.

"My people speak Cantonese, fourth dialect. The difficult thing about Chinese is that a mere inflection will entirely change the meaning of a word. Take my own name—Wong Liu Tsong. Wong, of course, is my family name. 'Tsong' and 'Liu' merely by a change of inflection, can mean two entirely different things.

"Say it one way and it means 'second of a pair'. That's how I got the name. But it can also mean 'frosted yellow willow', which is much prettier, I think."

SHOOTING ENDS LOVER'S QUARREL

Alabama Resident Held For Wounding Girl and Companion While Dancing.

WOMAN MAY DIE.

MEDINA, N.Y., Dec. 23 (CP)—Porter Webster of Alabama, N.Y., was arrested by State troopers in the village of Stanard, near Wellville Alleghany County, according to word received here. Webster is wanted here in connection with the shooting of Helen Dunn and Walter Bryant at a dance early Sunday.

More hope was held for Bryant, although his condition also wass aid to be critical. The bullet, fired through a window, went through Miss Dunn's body and stopped in Bryant's liver.

WILL BRIGHTEN CIVIL MARRIAGES

Registrar of Shoreditch Asks Town Council to Supply Flowers.

COAT OF ARMS ADDED.

LONDON, Dec. 23. (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—"A brighter civil marriage movement has been started by the registrar of that grimy East London district of Shoreditch. Civil marriages take place in the registrar's rooms, which like most rooms of its kind is severely official in appointment.

The registrar of Shoreditch has requested the town council to supply flowers and palms every Saturday. The room's windows have been colored with the Shoreditch coat of arms and as the registrar always wears his solicitor's gown when conducting marriages the more or less happy couples will feel it is "just like going to church."

The registrar is not expected to develop his ideas to the extent of introducing a gramaphone to play "The voice that Breathed O'er Eden" or to burn official red tape as incense. Not so many years back Shoreditch couples wanting the registrar used to find him at the workhouse where his offices were established.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The Plum Pudding for Christmas is as much a special Christmas dish as is the turkey, but it is wise to not make it so rich that only a very little can be eaten at a time, for it is plain it can form a substantial part of the meal, and then children may be allowed to enjoy it without fear of indigestion.

• • • • • • •

In each instance when serving the Christmas speciality be sure to have it decorated—the simpler the pudding the more does the decoration lend glamor to the dish.

• • • • • • •

Top it with a sprig of holly or press a row of cherries around the sides. Wreath the plate in holly—the more berries on it the better.

• • • • • • •

Here is a recipe for a rich pudding; equal proportions of suet, chopped very fine, seeded raisins, fresh bread crumbs, sugar and currants. One third the above (separate proportions) of thin citron, candied orange peel, and chopped nuts. If one cup of the first group of ingredients is the measuring quantity, then one-third cup of this group is correct.

• • • • • • •

The grated rind of one orange and also that of half a lemon.

• • • • • • •

Considering the cup as the measuring unit, include 1 level tablespoon of flour sprinkled through the raisins and currants and ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1-8 teaspoon each of ground cloves, mace, and allspice; 1 teaspoon baking powder, 4 eggs. Fruit juice (from canned peaches or pears) or sweet cider to make a batter a trifle softer than for cake.

• • • • • • •

Mix all ingredients together except the eggs and fruit juice. Break the eggs one at a time into the mixture and stir each one in thoroughly before adding the next. Last of all lightly stir each one in thoroughly before adding the next. Last of all lightly stir in the liquid.

• • • • • • •

Put into individual covered moulds, filling each about half full or put in one large mould. Seal thoroughly with tight covers and immerse in boiling water and keep the water boiling for three hours.

• • • • • • •

These may be served immediately or can be set aside until needed and can be reheated in the moulds. The pudding is really better if made before time to use.

• • • • • • •

Serve with this a foamy sauce consisting of half as much butter as powdered sugar, creamed together. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring as preferred, the former is customary. When time to serve beat in ¼ cup boiling water and fold in the beaten whites or two eggs and continue to beat until foamy.

• • • • • • •

The simplest sort of plum pudding is made with bread crumbs, beaten in milk until soft but not, of too creamy consistency. Wring the crumbs in cloth to get out the superfluous moisture. Then add a good quantity of raisins, the other fruits names and oranges and lemon zest, the baking powder, and a small amount of the spices, eggs and flour enough to make the consistency of a cake.

• • • • • • •

Bake in the oven in a fluted cake tin with a tube in the centre. When time to serve invert the pudding, stick the holly spring in the centre hole and garnish the dish with holly.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

LIME OF GREAT VALUE TO THE BODY.

I often talk about lime or calcium,in its value to the body in building up tissue, warding off disease, thickening" the blood, and healing old ulcers. This of course is not the chlorinated lime which is used for disinfecting purposes.

One of its more recent uses is in cases of tuberculosis. As you know the treatment has been fresh air, good food, and light exercise, a combination that has been most successful.

In severe cases there has been the removal of some ribs, injecting gas, or cutting the nerve supply to the lung. These methods allow the lung to collapse so that it can get a chance to rest, the other lung meanwhile doing the necessary work.

However, it has been found in cases that were very slow in recovering, and yet not severe enough to have the lung collapsed, that the use of lime seemed to give splendid results.

The most striking result from the use of lime is the way the number of tubercle organisms has decreased. The patient immediately begins to increase in weight, the temperature falls, and the general health is greatly improved.

Dr. J. Hein, Berlin, reports his experiences in 218 cases. He believes that lime administered by the mouth, injected into tissues, or injected directly into the veins will give results, as the line is always absorbed into the blood, and is a great support to the system in its fight against tuberculosis.

Dr. H. Siegel, Berlin, reports the use of lime mixed with sulphur in the treatment of 80 persons with tuberculosis of the lungs.

The lime and sulphur is put into a special form of apparatus and the patient breathes the mixture into the lungs. After 3½ months 40 per cent of the cases showed an absence of the tubercle organism, and in 75 per cent of the patients improvement occured. Breathing the lime and sulphur caused no irritation in any of the cases.

Now my thought in speaking of the above is to show that lime is of help in wasting and "run down" conditions.

For when you remember that three quarters of the mineral matter in bone is made up of lime, it should be used by everybody. Growing youngsters get all they need if they drink plenty of milk. Milk is a great source for lime.

Milk products—cream, butter, cheese, would be helpful to adults.

Police had to be called recently to control the 10,000 people who visited the grave of William Whysall, a cricket player, at Mansfield, England, and deposited 200 floral tributes.

MONDAY WAS THE BUSIEST DAY

cels and letters were literally melting before one's eyes, as deft hands and fingers sorted and stamped them. A machine for cancelling stamps on outgoing mail was dealing with letters at the rate of 40,000 per hour. There was no apparent excitement, no confusion, just a steady, concentrated and orderly drive, which has been in progress now for a matter of some two weeks or more.

More people have this year taken advantage of safeguarding their Christmas parcels by insuring them, and consequently this section of the office has been abnorally busy, in common with all other departments.

On Duty at 4 a.m.

The full night staff is working this week from 5 p.m. to 5 a.m., and the carriers come on duty at 4 a.m. Three wickets are being worked to capacity supplying the demand for stamps, a temporary wicket having been installed in the postmaster's office.

The first mail carrier left the office this morning at 4 a.m., and the last man at 9.30, thus making a clean sweep of all the mail which had been received to that time. Before 7 a.m. three truck loads of parcels and mail had left on the city delivery.

Mail to and from the United States and overseas has been very heavy this year, the major portion of the Old Country mail having been received around the early part of this month.

The bulk of the mail being handled at the present is incoming mail, most people having heeded the warning to mail early. Some idea of the volume may be obtained from the fact that one mailman left the office this morning with 35 bundles of mail, each bundle containing approximately 300 letters. This makes a total of 10,500 pieces of mail, not counting papers and small packages.

In the face of such a fact as that just cited, everyone will see the necessity for co-operating with the postal authorities, and will heed the request to "mail early." Don't forget, there is no mail delivery on Christmas Day, and to ensure delivery in time for Christmas, all mail must be in the local office by no later than midnight to-night.

ROYALTY QUIT BUCKINGHAM PALACE FOR CHRISTMAS AT SANDRINGHAM

Whole Family to be Present, Including New Princess Margaret Rose.

ELIZABETH GIVEN PUDDING

LONDON, Dec. 23 (C.P. Cable)—The King and Queen left Buckingham Palace yesterday in order to spend the Christmas season, as is their custom, at Sandringham, Norfolk. Their Majesties will have practically the whole of their family around them, with a most welcome addition this year—the infant Princess Margaret Rose. With the Duke and Princess of York and her baby sister Elizabeth, the new Princess will be at the Sandringham home.

The King and Queen will as usual attend morning service at Sandringham parish church and probably the King and his sons will devote the rest of the morning to an inspection of stables and kennels. The Queen will preside over the distribution of gifts to tenants on the estate, a day or so before Christmas.

Princess Elizabeth has received a Christmas pudding from the League of the British Empire. It was mixed in the Great Hall of Australia House before a crowded company, including Lady Ryrie, wife of Sir Granville Ryrie, Australian High Commissioner and Mrs. L. C. Amery, the Canadian-born wife of the former Secretary for the Domihions.

POLICE SEEKING ESCAPED BRIDE

Officers Wait For Mrs. Buffum Bramwell to Call For Letter.

SENT BY HUSBAND.

CHESHAM, N.H., Dec. 23. (CP)—Deputies camped down here to-day to wait for Mrs. Barbara Buffum Bramwell of Oxford, Mass., who escaped from the Worcester, Mass., State Hospital yesterday, to call for a letter.

The letter was from her husband, Wilton Howard Bramwell, Steward's clerk aboard the liner Mauretania until his marriage a week ago Monday night, when his bride's fantasy turned him into a knight and commander of the Royal British Navy, thus deceiving her wedding guests and her parents for a day.

Written on stationery of the Mauretania, the missive was addressed to Mrs. Bramwell at Chesham, where an older sister has a summer cottage. Deputy Sheriff Arthur Keefe of Oxford thought the bride would try to come here for the first word from her "knight" since the few hours' honeymoon Bramwell's 24-hour leave granted him.

CABINET CHANGES BEING PREDICTED

Mahoney May Be Given Highways Portfolio Held By Hon. Geo. S. Henry.

McCREA SUCCEED PRICE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.)—Further changes in the Ontario Cabinet are expected to follow the elevation to the Cabinet to-day of H. C. Schohfield, M.L.A., Toronto St. George's, and Dr. Paul Poisson, M.L.A., Essex North, as Ministers without portfolio, says the Mail and Empire.

The presence at Queen's Park yesterday of Thomas Mahoney, M.L.A., Wentworth South, who has been mentioned as likely to receive Cabinet rank, has given rise to the rumor, says the paper, that he will shortly enter the Government and be given the portfolio of Highways now carried by Premier George S. Henry.

The resignation of Attorney-General W. H. Price to be succeeded by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, is said in some quarters to be a likely possibility, the Mail and Empire proceeds. Mr. Price left the Parliament Buildings for what officials in his Department said was a holiday of 10 days.

Morenz, Bailey, Joliat Head Canuck Group

GOODFELLOW IN TIE WITH MORENZ

BAILEY IN SECOND.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 23.—For the first time since the present race in the National Hockey League got under way, Howie Morenz, hard-shooting centre of the champion Canadiens has been overhauled in the race for individual scoring honors.

Reports issued last night from the offices of Frank Calder, and which include games of Sunday night, show that Eddie Goodfellow, tall Detroit centre-ice player, has finally evened the count with Morenz. Each has 15 points, Morenz with twelve goals and three assists, Goodfellow, with ten goals and five assists. Morenz still leads the league, however, in point of actual goals scored. Goodfellow has been getting goals and assists with remarkable regularity, whereas Morenz was held pointless in the last two games in which his club played, against New York Americans and Black Hawks, respectively.

Not only does Goodfellow head the American Section pointmakers, but Harvey Rockburn, chunky defense star of the team, heads the list of penalized players. He has served 49 minutes in all, on the bench. Eddie Shore, Boston star, is next with 40 minutes, while Joliat of Canadiens, heads the Canadian division with 38.

Harry Oliver, steady right wing of Boston Bruins, has been a potent factor in the advance of his club to the leadership of the American Section. Oliver is only a point behind Goodfellow, having scored seven goals and registered the same number of assists. "Bun" Cook of the New York Rangers, is tied with Oliver, and Bill Cook is only two points behind these two.

Irvine "Ace" Bailey, scoring leader of the National League two seasons back, has captured second place to Morenz in the Canadian Section, with 7 goals and four assists. He is, however, only a point in front of Joliat of Canadiens.

TWO BANDITS ROB STORE MANAGER SHOOT ANOTHER

First Victim Forced to Hand Over Receipts of Saturday's Business.

BOTH ESCAPE.

Same Pair Seen Later Emerging From Store Where Owner is Found Wounded.

BOSTON, Dec. 23 (C.P.) — Two young bandits shot and possibly fatally wounded Michael Rovin, a store proprietor, and robbed Edward Dwyer, the manager of another store, of $75 in two hold-ups in the Charlestown district this morning.

The first robbery reported was that of Dwyer, manager of a Somerville chain store. He said that two men lay in wait for him in a hallway of the house where he lived, and, at gun point, forced him to turn over $75 in cheques and cash, the Saturday night receipts of his store.

Two hours later a passer-by on Main Street saw two young men of the same description as those who robbed Dyer, run from the shoe store of Rovin, leap into a car and drive away. Rovin was found face down, unconscious, upon the floor, two bullet wounds in the back of his head. The store showed evidence of a struggle.

READ THE WANT ADS.

MUCH IN DEMAND

Rumours that Col. Hamond intends to make a clean up seem to be justified with the report that there will be $200,000 available for the reconstruction of the New York Americans and the Montreal Maroons. To start things off the Gotham team made an offer of $10,000 to the Chi-Hawks for Chuck Gardiner but Major McLaughlin sent bac a 'no sale' ticket. Early in the season the tip went around to watch the Hawks. The Chicago owners sent all over Canada and the United States for material and the resulting team is worrying the other members of the league. The great forward line of the Chicago Hawks is composed mainly of western lads who are noted for their speed, and if the pace is kept up the Stanley Cup series will be a battle of speed and condition.

FOUR TEAMS IN TIGHT STRUGGLE FOR LOOP LEAD

Maroons and Leaf Fixture Only All-Canadian Game on Schedule To-night.

TORONTO NEEDS WIN.

Chicago Blackhawks Have Good Chance of Tieing Bruins For American Lead.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.) — Leadership of both divisions of the National Hockey League may be shared by four team following to-night's three game schedule. Montreal Canadiens, at present leading the senior group by two points over their intra-city rivals, the Maroons, clash for the second time this season with the New York Rangers, and victory for the Red Shirts is far from a certainty.

Chicago Blackhawks, erstwhile leaders of the American group, continue their strenuous road trip when they encounter the lowly Quakers in Philadelphia. Hoving won but one game this season the Cooper Smeaton outfit cannot be considered to have much chance against the speedy Howks, who can tie Boston for the top position by winning, as the Bruins are idle.

The third fixture is an all-Canadian affair between the Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs. The latter, like a temperamental thoroughbred, are hard to figure. Last Saturday they startled their supporters by trouncing Chicago. Even though only three relief players were available. Previously the Leafs had lost three straight games, due to injuries to three star players.

Art Duncan's men are only two points behind the Montrealers and a win in the Forum will place them on even terms with the Maroon sweatered aggregation and one point ahead of the New York Americans, who are idle.

Toronto easily beat the Montrealers earlier in the season. They were at full strength then, however, and in addition the Maroons had not struck their stride. Dunc Munro's big team has not met a reverse in the last nine starts, and last Thursday they defeated the Leafs by the odd goal in three at Toronto. A win against the Leafs coupled with a defeat for the Flying Frenchmen will put the Maroons on an equal status with their fellow townsmen.

Realizing the Maroons may tie them for the leadership of the Canadian group, the Habitants will try mightily to topple the Rangers. Earlier in the month Canadiens nosed the Rangers out by netting the odd goal in nine after the New Yorkers had held a margin of the play. The game was played at Montreal while to-night's contest will be staged at Madison Square Garden, where the Red Devils are considered one of the most popular teams in the circuit.

Speedy Skaters

Both teams play fast, open hockey that thrills every hockey enthusiast. In addition there will likely be plenty of scoring as each side boasts marksmen well up in the ranks of the league leaders. Victory for the Rangers will give them a one-point edge over Detroit in the hot struggle for third place in the American group.

CANUCKS FACE WEAK RIVALS

Bulldogs Clash With Yellow Jackets While Tecumsehs Entertain Stars.

LONDON SLIPPING.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23.—(CP)—The two Canadian clubs in the International Hockey League, London and Windsor, encounter comparatively weak opposition in tonight's schedule of three games.

The Bulldogs, holders of second place by one point over Cleveland, clash with the Yellow Jackets at Pittsburgh, while the Tecumsehs entertain the last place Syracuse Stars. Considering their relative positions in the league standing the Canuck squads should be hot favorites to annex a brace of victories. Past games between the teams, however, show the league is unusually well balanced and that the lowly Stars are quite capable of giving the best teams in the King loop a stern battle. The Yellow Jackets too have upset predictions quite often and may do it again.

Tecumsehs with new faces appearing in their lineup practically every game, have been slipping steadily downward recently and now located in fifth place, three points behind Detroit and one in the van of Pittsburgh. In the last meeting between the teams the Londoners could do no better than tie the Stars.

The Bulldogs, who have been chasing the league leaders almost since the season opened, are four points behind the Buffalo Bisons, who play the Indians at Fort Erie. The Borderites team have proved masters of the Smoky City team in their games to date, but with the acquisition of two players from the Philadelphia National League outfit, the Yellow Jackets may stage a surprise.

Cleveland has met with little luck against the Bisons, who have coasted along at the top of the standing since the schedule commenced. Last season's champions scored a double victory over the week-end and a win against the Buffalonians coupled with a Windsor defeat will hoist them into second place.

Indians Set Record With 10 Straight Wins

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—The Springfield Indians, despite the recall of Joe Jerwa and Jack Beattie to major clubs, continue to make a runaway of the Canadian-American Hockey League race. The Indians established a record for the five-club circuit Saturday night when they won their tenth consecutive victory at the expense of the Boston Tigers. This New York Ranger farm has yet to meet with a defeat or be held to a tie this season.

Providence, last year's champions, continue in second place, two full games behind the Indians. None of the other three clubs are in a position to threaten the leaders.

Cecil Dillon, Springfield spare forward, continued leading the league's scorers. His goal against the Tigers last night gave him a total of 15 points. 'Obs" Heximer of the same club, also tallied to increase his points to 13. Gaudreault of Providence, continued third on the list with 12 points, the same as last week, and "Yank" Boyd and Eddie Burke, of the Tigers, followed, each with 11 points.

"Buc" Cook, Providence centre, continued as the league's "bad man," with 17 minors and three majors. Eddie Convey, New Haven, remained just behind with 16 minors and two majors, and Anderson of Philadelphia, was third with 17 minors and a major.

HOCKEY GOSSIP.

GUELPH, Dec. 23.—Announcement was made by the directors of the Guelph "Pro" Hockey Club yesterday that Alfie Skinner would again manage the team. Skinner, who arrived in the city over the week-end, has called the first practice of the Leafs for this afternoon, and among the candidates who are expected to try out for a place are: Art Randle, Norm Burmister, Buck Moore, Mickey McMillan, Don Goodwillies, Bag Magaffin, Eddie Carmody and Steve Rice. Skinner is on the lookoutf or two more players to bring his squad up to strength, and will get the team down to steady training in preparation for the opening game here with Butch Forler's Oshawa sextet on Monday night next.

NEWS OF THE MOTORING WORLD

Helpfull Hints of interest to all Canadian Motorists

by FRANK CHAMBERLAIN

I see by an English paper that a chap named A. G. Foulds, in Sunderland, has invented "a puncture alarm, providing the driver with a signal on the dashboard which operates instantaneously in cases of bursts, punctures or where the correct pressure in any tyre (isn't that spelling proof that it's English?) should fall below normal." I suppose that is meant to be a great boon to the poor benighted motorist, but personally I cannot ever remember being in doubt about when I had a puncture, but when there really was one I didn't need any little doo-dad on the dashboard trying to tell me the worst.

Speaking of tires, I hear that a prominent official at Akron, Ohio, recently predicted during the course of a speech that the United States would have a tire shortage next spring. He says there are now 2,000,000 fewer tires in stock than there was a year ago. This sort of pessimism is tire-ing, what, what?

From the land of Uncle Sam comes word that the twin-engined 2,400 h.p. car, which is being built to recapture the land speed record, will have four-wheel drive, one engine driving on the front pair of wheels and the other on the rear pair. The construction of the car is being supervised by two famous drivers, Peter de Paolo and Harlan Fengler.

The old problem of glaring headlights is always with us and apparently will never be solved satisfactorily while headlights are placed in their present position. Apparently, however, it is going to take a hero to make the break and put high headlights anywhere but in the customary position. What sounds, on the face of it, like a good suggestion is a proposal to place one powerful lamp, high up near the rear of the car on the right hand, or curb, side. The body of the car would prevent the glare from the lamp shining in the eyes of an approaching driver in addition to which the car so equipped would show up against the light behind it. Of course the car would be equipped with low-power lamps in the regular position as a guide to the width of the vehicle and its position I think it is a flashy idea, in fact, I'm completely dazzled by it!

The Austin people (not Singers' Midgets) report with no little elation that out of a total of 611 cars registered in Ceylon in the first nine months of 1930, 227, the highest figure of any one make, were Austins.

If you haven't already found this out for yourself, try it next time and see if I'm right. When your car is parked between two others, the easiest way to get out is to move first in the direction of the greater space. If there is more room between you and the car ahead, go forward — go backward if the opposite is the case.

Here's a lucky accident story that comes from Whately, Mass. Like giant pair of scissors, the locomotive of an express train clipped off the entire front of Albert Hall's motor truck on a local grade crossing and left him sitting at the wheel, unscratched. The hood, engine and front wheels were swept away in the collision.

The old story about a national automobile industry being started in Japan is going the rounds again. This time it is stated that the government is being asked to find an annual subsidy of £500,000 for five years and that a production of 1,000 cars per annum would be aimed at.

The famous old Gilbert and Sullivan diety must be revised to "the motor policeman's lot is not an 'appy one," according to an item from Newport, R.I., which states that from now until Jan. 1, Newport's "Motor Patrolmen" will be motor patrolmen in name only. The department appropriation for maintenance of motorcycles has been exhausted, and with their machines useless for want of gasoline, four members of the "motor patrol" are obliged to do their patrolling "on the hoof." In other words, they'll be taking steps to see that the law is observed.

Here's a swell idea for seeing football games in comfort. Profiting by the experience of the past season, the town of Alliance, Nebraska, is planning what will be, if developed, the first "motor" football stadium.

Proposal of the Motor Stadium was made by persons who had become discouraged at the practice of motorists driving their cars to position along the sidelines of the local gridiron, taking all the space for spectators.

To correct this several Alliance sportsmen have suggested a motor stadium of several floors or levels, facing one side of the playing field.

The structure, as planned, would be roofless and would be provided with long runways which would enable cars to climb to the desired level. Once in place, the occupants of the car would have an unobstructed view of the field, would be protected from cold and wind and be out of the way of the sideliners.

While the sales of English cars in New Zealand actually show an increase for the first nine months of 1930, about 20 makes of hitherto popular American cars having lost ground, compared to their sales figures for the previous corresponding period.

Specific surprses reserved for the National Automobile Show include a third sixteen-cylinder car, the replacement of a four by a six in the lowest-price field, adoption of free-wheeling by another large manufacturer, and a number of striking price developments in the class under $1,000.

The third sixteen to be ready after the first of the year will be a surprise to many as the company hitherto has not invaded the highest-price field, although it is the sponsor of one of the most advanced innovations of current design.

With the appearance of this new sixteen, and possibly still another, together with the conversion of a popular priced four into a six, there will be at least as many sixteens as there are fours after the first of the year. This estimate allows, too, for the presentation of a new four, the Mathis. The others are Ford, Plymouth and Austin.

Youthful Murderer Pleads Not Guilty

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Dec. 22—James Cannarella, 17-year-old bootblack, today pleaded not guilty in police court to a charge of murder arising from the slaying last Friday of Gilmon Miner, 52, bowling alley manager. Hearing of the case was set for January 2.

In a confession which police said he made after his arrest, the youth told officials he shot Miner, formerly of Fitchburg, Mass., after the latter had refused his demand for $10.

TWO LINDSAY CARS FIGURE IN CRASH

LINDSAY, December 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — An automobile accident occurred on the Toronto-Whitby Highway, near Pikering, on Saturday afternoon, in which F. J. Carew, of Lindsay, was injured. Mr. Carew was on his way to Toronto when an American car coming from the city attempted to cut in. It struck Mr. Carew's car, sending it to the ditch, and also jammed into a car driven by Harold Humphries, also of Lindsay, damaging it to some extent. Mr. Carew was cut about the face and also sustained other injuries.

Petty Thieves Busy In Stores At Lindsay

LINDSAY, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence). — Operations by light fingered individuals and the attempted passing of "rubber" cheques were reported by a number of merchants over the week-end. In a couple of stores purchases made by customers were deliberately stolen by sneak thieves, while in a number of cases articles were lifted from counters and tables and carried from the stores.

Two individuals attempted to pass phoney cheques for tidy amounts during the afternoon. The managers of the stores became suspicious and the parties made themselves scarce.

VETERAN PHILADELPHIA PILOT PREPARING FOR BIGGER SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, December 23 (C.P.). — Keep young with the future—do not mellow in the past, was the substance of Connie Mack's message to-day on his 68th birthday.

As usual, the venerable manager of the world champion Athletics, was at his tower office at Shibe Park for a short time looking after off-season baseball duties. He planned to spend the day quietly with his family.

The atmosphere and surroundings of his office seemed to emphasize his birthday thought. The familiar pictures of Chief Bender, Jack Combs, and Frank Baker, heroes of long ago, were missing. There was nothing to remind him of past triumphs. But on his desk were blank contracts for the 1931 season and sketchy plans for the coming year.

Friends told the veteran pilot that he looked splendid, to which he replied: "I feel that may." And when it was intimated that he might be getting ready to retire, he shot back: "Not on your life."

Connie smiled when someone asked if he thought baseball was losing its grip on the public. "A woman told me that a few years ago," he said. "I pointed out that she was wrong, that we were drawing bigger crowds than ever, and that instead of attracting 250,000 in a season we drew that many in two weeks or a month. She was merely losing interest and supposed others were doing the same."

Asked his opinion of night baseball, Mack said he had never witnessed it and could not comment on its merits. It will be a long time, he thinks, before the question is considered seriously by the major leagues.

TRAGIC RESULT

and they hesitate to ask for help. They have four children and a young baby. No work.

In a house in a very poor section of the city, nine children are housed. They rang from 1 year to fifteen years. A child with a broken arm is among them.

Another family with nine children will have ten before spring comes 'round again. The children are clean, for the mother sees to that, and they have nice manners.

Eight children live in another house. These are the thrifty little things who go out picking coal from the tracks, in summer evenings. Their father is a laborer at small wages. They have a Christmas tree. Someone sent it along. There is nothing to put on it.

Two little crippled children lived with their five brothers and sisters last year. Lately, one of them died. Another, since then, has developed some trouble that seems to be crippling him too. The father has no work and the mother tries to do washing out of the home, whenever she can get it.

Here is a woman who is very poor, but she gives refuge to an old lady who is poorer than she is. One remembers the utterance of that pagan emperor so long ago, when he looked at the Christians who were about to face the beasts in the arena. "How these Christians love each other!"

Here is a family in reduced circumstances. Time was when they were giving to the needy, but economic pressure and the wants of a large family have driven them almost to the wall. They have been living on bread and a little rolled oats, for many days. The man will not accept charity and the woman smuggles in neighborly baskets for the children. He will make a fierce effort to pay it back, later.

Here is a woman, a cultured and refined lady, who was a skilful musician in her day. Disease has crippled her clever fingers. And there is want in her house.

Here is an old lady who goes out in the early morning to a factory. Her husband is too old and crippled from war service. Their only son was killed in the great conflict.

Two old men live silently in a gloomy house. One is well over the mark where employers seek for help in their factories. Work seldom seeks for him. His brother is an invalid.

An old lady goes out to work every day. Her grandson, his lung already scarred with tubercular germs, cannot help. Her husband was killed in an accident a year ago.

A man with a large family tries to help, as much as possible, his old mother and a crippled relative. Ends never meet in this house and the wolf hovers always near the door.

In a little hovel five children live with their father and mother. The man has diabetes. They have been sleeping on the floor but lately kind friends brought them beds. There is one table and one chair in the kitchen. Papers cover the window panes.

Five little children and a sick baby are in another house where lack of employment has eaten up their small stock of savings. Another child, a little boy, is in the hospital. On the day that Santa Claus paraded the streets, he was jostled and fell, breaking his leg. He will spend his Christmas in bed.

These are only a few of the many. They are walking the streets beside you, looking in the shop windows at things they cannot think of buying, hoping that someone will send them a square meal on the day when Christ was born, waiting for something to turn up, waiting for a break of some kind. A little help goes a long way. Send us in a small or large cash donation. There are plenty of homes it will brighten.

NO SENIOR TEAMS IN CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE THIS YEAR

Three Teams Only in Junior Loop Owing to Lack of Interest.

START IN JANUARY.

At the City League meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce last night, three junior teams were entered: Star Athletic Club, C.E.G. Office, and the East City Juniors. There will be no senior teams in the league this year owing to a lack of interest.

Six games will be played with the first and second teams playing off at the end of the season for the city championship. The schedule will be drawn up next week, and the games will begin the first week of January. All games will be played at the Brock Street Rink.

The executive of the league is composed of: President, Chris. Jay, vice-president, Pat Calladine; secretary, S. Adamson. The committee would welcome one more junior team, but it should be entered this week.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

HAVELOCK GIRL GUIDES.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23. (Examiner Correspondence.)—Havelock Girl Guides first company, held an entertainment in the Orange Hall on Thursday evening last, which took the form of a concert and Christmas tree. A capacity audience greeted the girls and a beautifully decorated tree illuminated with fancy electric lights stood to the left of the platform, with numerous gifts placed on and around the tree. A very fine programme was given beginning with the opening chorus, "The Girl Guides Hymn."

Vocal solos, duets and recitations, as well as group drills, and a three act dialogue "The Christmas Fairy" were much enjoyed and displayed the marked ability of a number of the Guides. Especially worthy of mention were the portrayal of the Christmas Gypsy by little Betty Mathison, who arrayed in the regulation Gypsy costume, and tambourine, sang the Gypsy's fortune telling song, while she told the ladies' fortunes. In between the verses she danced in true Gypsy style.

Three recitations by Muriel Quinn, and one by Miss Lois Scott and Miss Helen Covert were also well given and received a great deal of applause.

The playlet, "Ellie in Fairyland" was one of the best numbers. Ellie (Reta Leeson) is a little girl who is very fond of fairy stories, and before falling asleep she tries to convince her nurse (Marguerite Rocke), that they are real. While she sleeps she is surrounded by a fairy band with their Queen (Marie Bedford).

A demonstration of Girl Guide work was illustrated in the chorus Guide Camp Fire Songs. It is very interesting to see the Guides with their Captain Mrs. Jean Moore, who has done a great deal to instruct them in Guide work and ideals.

A pleasing feature of the program was the presentation to the Captain of a handsome Radio lamp, as a token of appreciation, Mrs. Moore expressed her surprise and thanked them very warmly, and took occasion to give a great deal of credit for the success of the movement in Havelock to Mr. and Mrs. John Kinnaird, who so genorously gave the free use of the Mission Hall as a meeting place and has assisted her in many ways. The gratitude of the company was expressed in a tangible way later when Mr. and Mrs. Kinnaird were presented with a handsome silver nut dish.

Just before the closing number, the chairman (Rev. Dr. Lennox), received a telegram announcing the coming of Santa Claus, and then with quite a commotion the rotund old gentleman himself was ushered in and proceeded with help from the girls, to distribute the presents from the tree.

After the distribution of the presents, the lucky number in the Doll Contest was drawn by Santa Claus, and the name drawn was Aleck McLaughlin. The judges appointed to choose the best drawn butterfly in the Butterfly Contest, awarded the prize to Helen Covert, who received as a reward for her efforts, a handsome length of Irish linen.

Snow Blanket Covers Greater Part Of U.S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 (C.P.). — Santa Claus will be able to cover a good part of the United States in his sleigh on Christmas Eve.

Snow started falling generally today from Virginia to Central New England, in the Great Lakes region and in Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys.

In New York City a light snow melted almost as soon as it met the pavement, but in the suburbs, in New Jersey and in Pennsylvania there was an accumulation of one to three inches. Continuation of the snowfall in the east was forecast for to-night and to-morrow morning.

Mild temperatures were reported from all sections of the country, but somewhat colder weather to-night was forecast.

Bishop of London Scores Three Counters In Marlborough-Radley Old Boys' Match

LONDON, Dec. 23.— (Canadian Press Cable.)— Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, who celebrates his 73rd birthday soon, scored three goals for Marlborough College in an old boys' match against Radley. Marlborough won by eight to four. The match was played on the grounds of the Bishop's residence, Fulham Palace, yesterday.

'I am very fit and I enjoyed the game," said the Bishop as he ran off to change before receiving the teams for tea at the palace.

The game was soccer, which the Bishop has known since the days of his youth and since the years he spent in the east end of London before he was elevated to the Bishopric in 1901. He has indeed been fairly athletic ever since.

Bishop Winnington-Ingram takes a great interest in Canada and has paid several visits to the Dominion. A brother of his has lived in Ontario for the greater part of his life, conducting a large farm.

He is also well acquainted with the United States and on one of his visits there he defeated the then President Roosevelt in a tennis match at the White House.

CHIEF OF PUNJAB WOUNDED TWICE

Sir Geoffrey de Montmorency Has Close Call as 6 Shots Are Fired.

TWO STUDENTS ARRESTED.

LAHORE, India, Dec 23.—(A.P.) —Sir Geoffrey de Montmorency, Governor of the Punjab, was wounded above the left hip and in one arm to-day by two of six shots fired at him as he attended the University convocation.

Both wounds were stated to be minor. Two police officials were also hurt in the attempt on the Governor's life. Two students were arrested in connection with the attempt.

All the shots were fired at close quarters. The wound above the hip was a flesh wound and that on the arm a grazing wound.

Walks From Hospital.

Sir Geoffrey was taken to a hospital where his wounds were dressed. He walked out of the hospital afterward smoking a cigarette and proceeded to Government House.

Two constables were wounded also in the attempt on his life but neither severely. A woman doctor belonging to Hardinge Medical College was wounded but it is not known whether her wounds are serious.

The attack occurred at the end of the convocation as the distinguished guests were taking leave of the Governor. As they reached the exit from the University building a youth who appeared to be a Punjab Hindu drew a revolver an' fired several shots point blank at Sir Geoffrey.

The boy and another who sprang to his side as an ally were quickly overpowered and the police cleared the grounds and building in a few minutes.

IN POLICE COURT

Two local youths appeared before Police Magistrate Langley this morning charged with burglary by night. According to police, evidence found on the boys led to the charges. It is claimed that they broke and entered into the Curtis' Service Station, at the corner of Park Hill Road and Water streets. J. A. O'Brien appeared in their defence. No election or plea was made and they were remanded until December 30.

derful array of decorations which abound in every corner of the city. Never before have such decorations been seen, and at night time they blaze forth as if to challenge the very existence of 'old man gloom' who retreats in haste before their welcome and inviting glow.

The Examiner car, in charge of two representatives, set out last evening on a tour of the city in order to gain some idea of the extent and variety of the decorations in the residential sections. The trip was something in the nature of a revelation, and hardly a single street, was without its gaily lighted Christmas tree, which blazed forth its message of good will and cheer.

From the most humble cottage to the more pretentious mansions, a reflection of the warm-hearted occupants within, appeared to be symbolized by the decorations, the least of them conveying as much meaning as the larger and more artistic efforts.

The list of citizens contributing to this splendid effect, excluding the business section, is as under. It is necessarily incomplete, as it is almost impossible to note every effort, without a list of the entries to guide one. The list is nevertheless representative, and is compiled to show the extent to which decorations have been undertaken this season: Choate's Hardware Store, East City; C. H. Rogers, McFarlane avenue; Empress Hotel; Mrs. R. Paquette, 199 Crescent street; 73 Crescent street; G. H. Throop, 104 Lock street; Wm. E. Meagher, 91 Crescent street; W. E. Metcalfe, 127 Maude street; Canadian General Electric Company Limited; J. H. Verner, 320 Boswell avenue, decorated window); Wm. E. Ross, 317 Boswell avenue(decorated window); Louis A. Potvin, 309 Boswell (interior decorated window); 493 King street; D. M. Bissell, 305 Maitland avenue; H. C. Huffman, 311 Elias avenue; Wm. F. Butcher, 317 Elias avenue; Wm. H. Bradburn, 503 Homewood avenue; C. A. Salmonsen, 500 Homewood avenue; Gordon Matthews, 468 Hunter street; John R. Marshall, 580 Weller street (tall illuminated living tree); Walter R. In addition, almost without exception all the automobile service stations in and around the city, have put on festive garb, in accord with the season, while the countless Christmas shoppers are so familiar with the wonderful appearance of the stores and the main thoroughfares of the city, that it is superflous to make mention of them.

INDIAN WOMEN FORGET RIVALRY TO JOIN IN PLEA

SHARE RESPONSIBILITY.

Fear if They Are Not Considered Now Their Cause May Be Abandoned.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (By Geo. Hambelton, C.P. Staff Correspondent)—Two Indian women, one a Moslem and the other Hindu — sank their old communal rivalries in a joint plea for the common cause of Indian womanhood.

Before the franchise sub-committee of the Indian Round Table Conference, Mrs. Shah Nawaz, wife of a member of the Punjab Legislature and Mrs. Subbarayan, wife of the Chief Minister in the Madras Government, urged in a joint memorandum that the conference should not lightly brush aside the claim of women in the new India.

"In our opinion," the memorandum reads, "if the question of women is postponed to a future and uncertain date after the Indian constitution has been reformed, and the claims of others to special consideration have been weighed and settled, it will be far harder to secure adequate representation."

Ask Portion of Seats

They asked that in the Legislatures of the new India, a special arrangement should be made alloting, temporarily, a small proportion of the seats in the Legislatures to women members. It would be purely a temporary measure and "We believe that after a time, when the public is no longer startled by the conception of women in public life and has learnt to appreciate their presence there, that such a provision should be no longer necessary," the memorandum said.

Mrs. Subbarayan opened the case for the women of India. "We want Indian women to bear their full share of responsibility in the new India. At present women are supposed to be on an equality with men in regard to the franchise," she said. "But there is no real equality because of the property qualifications. In six of the nine Provinces there is an average of 22 male voters for every one woman voter.

Mrs. Shah Nawaz then argued that if full adult suffrage was not practicable at present then the present area under franchise should be widened.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S GOOD BUNNIES

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the snow. The cold wind blew on the old rabbit gentleman, and made his pink, twinkling nose almost a red color, for that is what December weather does to noses.

"But I am glad I have on my warm, fur coat," said Mr. Longears, rubbing his nose with the bag of sugar to make it warm—I mean to make his nose warm. And the reason Uncle Wiggily rubbed his nose with the bag of sugar was because he couldn't reach his nose with either of his paws. They were filled with bundles for he had been to the store for Nurse Jane.

"But I'll soon be home," thought Uncle Wiggily. "I'll soon be in my warm, cozy, hollow stump bungalow and I can sit by the fire and read a bedtime story in the evening paper."

For night was coming on. The rabbit gentleman had been out nearly all day looking for an adventure but none had he found. Then, as he got home, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper happened to remember that she was out of sugar and flour and butter and a lot of things, so Uncle Wiggily had to hop back to the store to get them.

"But I'll soon be home," he told himself again as he hopped along. "And as it is getting late, all my good little bunny children will be home from school. I'll sit by the fire and read them the bedtime story and then it will be time to eat and then we'll all go to bed and after a few more weeks it will be Christmas."

The thought of Christmas made Uncle Wiggily feel very happy. But, all of a sudden, as he was hopping past a bush, he heard a rustling in the dried leaves near it, under the snow and he came to a stop.

"I wonder if that's the Fuzzy Fox—the one I fooled into making a fire in my snow house so it toppled on his head?" thought the rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily looked sharply at the bush, ready to throw the sugar or flour or everything at the fuzzy chap if he should pop out, and then the rabbit intended to hop away as fast as he could. But no Fox came out of the bush. It was only the wind rustling the dried leaves in the snow and Uncle Wiggily wasn't afraid of the wind.

"Well, I'll soon be home!" thought the rabbit as he hopped on his way and, in a little while he was at his bungalow and all his bunny boys and girls ran to the door to meet him.

"Sit down in this easy chair by the fire, Daddicums, and warm your poor, cold feet!" said Jingle, wheeling the chair in front of the blaze.

"And let me take your hat!" begged Jingle.

"Shall I get you a hot cup of tea before you eat supper?" kindly asked Baby Bunty.

"My My! What a good lot of bunnies!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Why so kind, all of a sudden?" he asked as Tingle brought him a warm dressing gown to slip on after he had taken off his coat.

"Why so kind?"

"Don't you know?" asked Nurse Jane with a laugh.

"Why, no, I can't guess," answered Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his nose.

"It will soon be Christmas," said the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh, we didn't do it for that at all!" cried all the good little bunny children. "We love our Daddicums, even when it isn't Christmas!"

And then, all of a sudden, out in the hall a voice said:

"Let me take them to him!"

"No, I'm going to!" cried another voice.

"Well, you take one and I'll take the other!" said the first voice.

Then Buster, a boy rabbit, came in with one of Uncle Wiggily's slippers, for he had taken off his shoes on account of the snow making them wet.

"Where's my other slipper?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his good bunnies as Buster gave him one. "I have two feet, you know."

"Custer is bringing the other slipper," said Buster. And just then out in the hall, Custer cried:

"Now you let go that slipper, Buster! I'm going to bring it to Daddicums! Let go!"

"Let go yourself!" cried Buster. "I got hold of the biggest half and I'm going to bring it to him!" Then there were cries of "No!" and "Yes!" and, all of a sudden there were two bumps and in came running Buster with half a slipper and Buster with the other half.

"Oh! Oh! What happened?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I'll tell you," said Nurse Jane. "Your good bunny boys each wanted to bring you that second slipper, each had hold and wouldn't let go so they had a tug of war and pulled the slipper apart!"

Custer and Buster looked very much ashamed. They had wanted to be good, but they never thought this would happen.

"Never mind," said their father with a laugh. "It will soon be Christmas and perhaps I'll get a new pair of slippers." Then he put on an old one in place of the torn apart one and read to his bunnies the same bedtime story you are reading now.

HARD TASK LIES BEFORE VICEROY

EXERCISE IS FEATURE.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Whatever may be the result of the Round-Table Conference, the task of the next Viceroy of India will be one of the most delicate and difficult which any Viceroy has had to perform, declares The Sunday Times in an editorial upon the appointment of Viscount Willingdon, the present Governor-General of Canada, to the all-important post.

The Sunday Times believes the Government is to be congratulated on the choice of Lord Willingdon at a time when the careful selection of a pro-Consul is of more than ordinary importance.

The Observer, J. L. Garvin's newspaper, finds the principal wonder of the Willingdon appointment in the fact that it was so little anticipated.

"If daring experiments were excluded, the Prime Minister could not have made a better nomination. We wish to congratulate him and the man he has chosen to face a critical task and an historic opportunity. Through his long and varied career Lord Willingdon has never filled a post without raising his reputation, and his wife has been his admirable colleague. As Governor-General of Canada, he made no mistakes.

"The choice lay between fresh genius and ripe experience. Lord Willingdon's double experience of India itself and of constitutional management elsewhere may well prove a saving asset."

The Sunday Despatch claims it learns "upon good authority" that Lord Willingdon's tenure of the Viceroyalty will be of a temporary nature owing to his age, but it is hoped he will remain long enough, adds The Despatch, to tide over the immediate developments likely to arise from the Round-Table Conference.

Firemen Injured In $50,000 Blaze

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Three firemen were injured during a general alarm fire at a four storey Congress street manufacturing plant and warehouse early to-day. Loss was estimated at $50,000 and the cause of the fire was undetermined.

The injured firemen were: John J. Harley, who was pressed against a fence by a skidding fire truck and had both legs broken; Joseph Willard, who had his hips injured when he fell through a roof to the basement of an outbuilding; and Captain John Thomas, who injured both arms and legs when he jumped from a second-storey window.

TO THE MEMORY.

With thoughts sincere this Christmas tide
And hearts that proudly swell
In reverence toast the mighty host
The memory of those who fell.

Sing us a song of the boys we know
Comrades of yesterday
Who gave their all at duty's call,
Whose ashes lie far away.

In the cause of peace a lasting peace
Supreme was their sacrifice,
Then let us vow to retain it now
That dear bought, hard won prize.

Join in the song ye nations all
Let this be our refrain,
While peace we keep, the brave shall sleep,
They have not died in vain.

The dogs of war have gorged themselves
We will sing of a better plan,
Of peace and the fatherhood of God,
The brotherhood of man.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM STEWART

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The funeral of the late William Stewart was held on Saturday, December 20, from the family residence, Lot 26, Con. 4, Seymour Township, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, the Rev. Donald A. McKenzie, assisted by the Rev. H. Shaw, officiating. The pall bearers were: Leo Fry, Lindsay Fry, Harold Fry, Alex Haig, William Dunk and Raymond Dunk, all grandsons.

Mr. Stewart, who died on December 18, was in his 81 year. Born in Kingston Ont., the child of James Stewart and Ann Mitchell, both of Scotland, he came to the township of Seymour to reside 50 years ago, where he lived up to his death. A farmer by profession, he was one of the first breeders of Ayreshire stock in this part of the country, introducing the strain as soon as he settled in Seymour.

For forty years he was an exhibitor at the Toronto Fair.

A man well known and beloved, the large attendance at the funeral evidenced the respect in which the community held him. He was a staunch member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, William of Whitby, and James on the home farm, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Haig, of Stirling, and Mrs. George Dunk of Brighton, Ont., also one sister, Mrs. Walter Todd, of Campbellford.

Interment was made in Burnbrae Cemetery.

Commuters' Troubles Will Be Dealt With

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23. (CP)—Assurance that the problems which are vexing the border cities in connection with the restrictions imposed by the United States on commuters from Windsor to Detroit would be taken up with the Government of that country through the Canadian Charge d'Affaires at Washington was given to an influential delegation which presented the situation to the Prime Minister here to-day. Hon. R. B. Bennett informed the delegation that the question would be considered in all its phases and every effort extended towards securing adjustments of a troublesome condition of things.

District Churches

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 23.—(Examiner Correspondent.)—Christmas service was held on Sunday morning at Springville United church with the pastor, Rev. S. H. Moyer, in charge. Special music was rendered by the choir in the anthem "The Song of Wondrous Beauty" and a trio composed of Mrs. -(Rev.) Moyer, Miss M. Southam and B. Preston sang the beautiful hymn, "Holy Night."

The scripture reading was schosen from Matthew 1: 18-25 and 2:1-23, while the text was found in Galatians 4:4 But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law.

The birth of Jesus was not an accident—He did not come into the world until everything was ready. The way for his coming was paved by the influence of the Roman, Greek and Jew. The Jews gave the gift of religion to mankind. Judiasm was the world's religion. The Jews faced up to the fact of their sin. They realized that sin created a barrier between man and God. Jewish missionaries were scattered throughout the world with one purpose—that of making their Saviour known. The centre of their religion was the World Saviour (God sent His Son to save the world). They prepared the soil for the message.

Rome was master of the world at this time. This was part of the Divine program. Rome had worked out the principle of Federal Government. Her Empire was seamed and covered with a network of beautiful roads. These became the highways of the people who were to carry the word of the Great Redeemer. Rome gave Christianity a chance to be heard. There was freedom of worship, all religions having an equal chance.

The Roman Empire was built upon the ruins of Greece. The act of conquering a nation cannot overcome the culture or language of the people. The Bible of the old church was written in Hebrew, the language of the Jew. Seventy scholars translated it into Greek that was common to all the people. Greek was a pagan language and was an expression of pagan culture. This was made the language of the Holy Ghost proving again that the coming of the Saviour was not an accident, but was previously planned. He came at the right time. All things work together for good.

God sent forth His Son—also in due time, that same Son died for the ungodly.

MONTEAGLE SCHOOL

MADOC, Dec. 23. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The closing exercises of the Monteagle Valley school in North Hastings, consisted of a concert and Christmas tree under the training and auspices of Miss M. E. Nickle, and was provided entirely by local talent, largely that of the pupils of the school.

The funds provided by the small fee charged will be used for playground equipment and library restoration.

William Treadwell made a most efficient and pleasant chairman, and after a very short address of welcome to all, pupils, parents, and friends, called on the different numbers, which were all given very nicely, showing the careful preparation made by all who took part.

The opening Chorus given by the whole school was "Welcome to Our School." A Recitation followed, by Lloyd Bruce, an address of welcome by a very small boy. A monologue, very well given, by Gregg Fitzgerald, "Easy Christmas Shopping." A recitation by Reg. Olmstead, was followed by a Holly drill and chorus by the senior pupils. No. 6 was a vocal solo "Capital Ship," by Mr. Treadwell. Mr. Bert Bartlett supplied two excellent readings, in character, at different periods, giving "The Habitant Farmer," and other French Canadian numbers with excellent effect, and adding much to the pleasure of the evening.

Several recitations were very well given, and much enjoyed. Allan Davis gave "The Bachelor Sale;" Emily Price told "What the Christmas Stocking Said," and Patsy Fitzgerald gave "All He Wants."

An amusing dialogue given by the senior boys and girls, in two acts, was entitled "The Two Santas," Thelma Anderson had a good monologue, "Making Christmas Gifts" and Betty Thompson cleverly gave a long monologue, with her dolls for audience, "Christmas Company."

Musical numbers were interspersed, an accordion solo by Sam Hunter, a chorus by the children, "Santa Claus is coming", Another vocal solo by Billy Treadwell, "The Little Black Moustache," recitations were given by Everett Price, "The Good Little Boy", by Mary Rutledge, "The Tree and the Candle," and Thelma Wasmund "The Crippled Dolly."

An entertaining drill "The Dance of the Christmas Stockings," by the senior pupils, was followed by Carol Singing to the accompaniment of lantern slides, beautifully illustrating the Christmas Story, given through the generous kindness of Rev. Mrs. Stout and Mr. Pepper of Bancroft. Needless to say that the pictures were greatly enjoyed by the children, and the old familiar Carols were heartily enjoyed by all.

At the close, presents were distributed from the tree, and a half-hour of genuine sociability was enjoyed over the dainty lunch provided.

Teacher and pupils were heartily congratulated over the huge success of the undertaking, and thanks were extended to the ministers, the chairman, the musicians, and all who had in any way contributed to this pleasant Christmas entertainment.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 26 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In the town of two of the canoes were the runners that the chief had sent forth three hours earlier. It was evident they had been despatched to follow and bring back this party and the signal from the bank was one that had been determined upon. The dugouts now drew up to the verdure-clad bank. The native warriors piled out and with them a half dozen villainous-looking white men.

But none was more evil-faced that the fellow who commanded them. "Where is this white man your messengers report to be with you?" he asked of the chief. "This way," Buta replied the chief. "Come quietly. He sleeps within my village." "Stand by us," said the leader, "and I will give you a rifle and some ammunition." The chief then led the way toward the hut, outside of which Tarzan was sleeping.

Behind the two men, in perfect silence, came the others. As the leader's eyes fell upon the giant figure of the sleeping ape-man, an ugly smile touched his lips. Then he signaled to men and six brutes leaped upon the surprised Tarzan, binding him securely before he could make half an effort to escape. Then they threw him down upon his back and he saw the malign face of Nikolas Rokoff.

A sneer curled the Russian's lips. Then he gave the prostrate man several vicious kicks. "That for your welcome," he said. "Again, you pig, I have caught you! Have you not learned sufficient wisdom to keep away from Nikolas Rokoff? Tonight, before my Ethiop friends eat you, I shall tell you what has already befallen your wife and child, and what further plans I have for their future."

BANK PRESIDENT TAKES HIS LIFE

Baltimore Man Believed Depressed Over Marital Troubles.

MOURNED BROTHER.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 23.—T. Edward Hambleton, President of the banking firm of Hambleton and Company, was found shot to death in his home at Lutherville, a suburb, today.

Death was caused by a bullet wound in the head.

The banker, prominent in New York, Baltimore and European society, had just returned from a big game hunting expedition in Indo-China, during which his wife, the former Adelaide McAlpin, daughter of the New York hotel magnate, established residence in Reno to seek a divorce. They had been married for 20 years.

Mr. Hambleton was said by his friends to have become depressed over his marital difficulties and the death of his brother, John A. Hambleton, who was killed in an airplane crash a year ago.

Dutton Disappointed Way Nomination Went

Expressing disappointment at the turn the municipal election situation took at the nominations this morning, James Dutton, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce told The Examiner that he had hoped there would be no elections. "I was hopeful that there would be acclamations throughout, saving the city the expense of an election at this time", he declared. "I believe Mayor Denne has served the city capably and he deserved an acclamation."

Mr. Dutton, who has served two years on the Board of Education, was returned by acclamation.

A Christmas Message

"'Tis the festive time of year,
Time when glows the old year's ember,
Time to make us all remember:
Howe'er cold be life's December
Hearts can warm us, love can cheer."

This message of the poet seems particularly fitting for this Christmas when so many of our people have found life's December cold and yet have had abundant reason to know that hearts can warm and love can cheer

The way has been none too smooth in recent months; unusual economic conditions have brought the wolf to the doorstep of many a home he had never visited before; there has been poverity in strange places.

But Providence be thanked, there has arisen as if through the spell of this glorious joyous festival of Christmas that each year casts its magic into the lives and hearts of God's people everywhere, a spirit of unselfishness and altruism such as rarely been experienced before, a spirit that says, "Show me where I can help," a spirit that should enable this community, in spite of unusual conditions, to be warm and well fed and happy on the greatest day of all the year.

Adversity, in short, has brought the real significance of Christmas more sharply into view than ever did the prosperity and affluence of so-called better times; "good-will" has been given a new meaning and a greater force; this community is throbbing to-night with a greater love for the people about us, a deeper appreciation of the troubles of others and a more genuine desire to ease some of the burden from shoulders that are heavy laden.

It is the earnest hope of The Examiner in this halting attempt to summarize the unusual conditions upon which Peterborough enters upon the observance of the gladsome festival of Christmas that in the days that follow we will retain this wonderful spirit, this urge to help others so that this community shall rise triumphant over the period of depression, and no where within our boundaries shall people suffer from lack of the things that are essential to keeping body and soul together.

If we carry over into the new year the enthusiasm and the unselfishness of this Christmas eve, then will to-morrow be indeed, as The Examiner fervently hopes it will be, a merry, merry Christmas, followed by a happy new year for all us—dark as may be the shadow that seems at present to lurk over many of our homes.

RUMOR LABOR GOV'T IS PREPARING WHEAT PURCHASING QUOTA BILL

Percentage of British and Dominion-grown Supplies to be Bought Will be Stipulated.

EVERY CHANCE OF SUCCESS.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(C. P. Cable)—The British Government is understood by the Daily Express to be preparing legislation for quota purchasing of wheat for the British market, following generally on the lines discussed at the recent Imperial Conference.

The details of the bill which is said to be underway, are not known as yet. It is forecast however that it will firstly set forth the percentage of British-grown wheat to be taken by the millers and secondly the amount millers must secured from foreign countries.

As was known at the time of the conference, the British Government will not attempt to divide the Empire quota between the different Dominions. Besides Canada, wheat is grown in large quantities in Australia, South Africa, India and New Zealand.

Plan Practical

The special economic committee of the Imperial Conference reported such a plan was practicable, because wheat purchasing was conducted along well-defined commercial channels. No decision however, was reached by the Imperial Conference delegates. The committee report suggested no definite percentages, but it was assumed British millers would be required to take 55 per cent of supplies from the Dominions.

The special report also found it would be impracticable to divide the empire allotment among the Dominions, but it pointed out there need not be any restrictions against the Dominions competing with foreign countries for the remainder of Britain's wheat requirements after the minimum percentage had been secured from British wheat-growers and from the Dominions. If the bill materializes and is produced in the House of Commons, it is unlikely that it would be defeated, for the Conservative party includes as one of its main planks a very similar scheme. The wheat quota purchasing scheme in fact was first devised by the Conservatives many months ago and then adopted, with modifications, by the Labor government as an alternative suggestion to reciprocal Empire tariff preference proposals laid before the conference by Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada.

TAXICAB DRIVER SHOOTING VICTIM

Montreal Man Suddenly Attacked as He Lets Passenger Out.

NO MONEY TAKEN.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 24.—Shot three times without warning as he opened the door of his taxi-cab to let a lone passenger out, Leon Pettigrew, 33-year-old driver, was lying in hospital critically injured with bullet wounds in the abdomen, shoulder and leg, here to-day.

Pettigrew was not robbed by his assailant and no motive has been advanced by the victim and the police for the shooting. After being shot down, Pettigrew rallied sufficiently to get into his cab and drive it to a nearby stand. From there he was rushed to the hospital.

At the hospital, Peetigrew, who regained consciousness for a few minutes, described the gunman as about 25 years old, five feet five inches tall, wearing a drab overcoat and a brown cap.

The Weather

A year ago today three inches of snow fell, which gave Christmas Day a real Christmassy aspect. This morning the thermometer gave 10 degrees above zero as the lowest last night, while today the sun shone brightly like a spring day. Little snow lies on the ground in this section, but elsewhere it is much heavier. As usual, I extend to the readers of these notes my best wishes for a Happy Christmas. This is the 34th annual occasion, but repetition does not dull its sincerity, nor lessen its genuineness. —W. P.

LONE GUNMAN GRABS $5,000 MAKES ESCAPE

Desperado Critically Wounds Paymaster Who Was Carrying Money.

FLEES IN VICTIM'S CAR.

Robbery Occurs as Two Men Halted in American Mills Company Yard.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., December 24 (C.P.). — Joseph Ordazzo, 50, gate tender of the Allingtown Branch of the American Mills Company, was shot to death and Charles A. Kern, Jr., paymaster of the company, was critically wounded to-day by a bandit who escaped with the company's payroll, estimated at $5,000.

The robbery occurred as the two men were about to alight from an automobile in the yard of the company with the payroll. The bandit, brandishing a pistol, confronted them and demanded the money.

Resists and is Slain.

Ordazzo, who had been in the habit of accompanying the paymaster to the bank for the payroll, was shot as he approached the bandit to resist the latter's demand for the money. Following the shooting the bandit escaped in Kern's automobile.

Kern's name was placed on the danger list at New Haven Hospital. He was badly wounded in the arm, and the hospital reported that a bullet may have also penetrated his chest. Ordazzo was dead on arrival at the hospital.

The office of Coroner James J. Corrigan said that preliminary reports indicated that the men shot were the paymaster and his assistant and that only one bandit had participated in the robbery.

Many Notables Present in Throng Which Crowd St. Stephen's Church.

SIMPLE SERVICE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24.—Followed by men who have held high and responsible positions in federal, provincial and municipal affairs, in business and in journalism, the body of Claud A. C. Jennings, late Chief Editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire, was borne from St. Stephen's church, of which he was for more than 40 years a faithful and active member, and laid in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The large congregation that filled the church, the profusion of floral tributes surrounding the bier, and the hundreds of messages of condolence that reached Mr. Jennings' family, All told of the hosts and friends and admirers the late editor had made during his lifetime by his work and fine personal qualities. The service was a simple one.

International Bridge Is Urged Upon Gov't.

GANANOQUE, Ont., Dec. 24.— A delegation will shortly seek an interview with Hon. H. A. Stewart, Canadian Minister of Public Works, to urge upon him the desirability of building the proposed International bridge at points selected at a public meeting here Monday night.

The points chosen for the construction of the bridge are from Ivy Lea, ten miles east of here, to Collins Landing on the United States' shore, just above Alexandria Bay. This plan involves the use of Hill and Wellesley Island with only short spans over the Canadian and United States' channels and an International stretch of only one hundred feet. Public ownership of the bridge was favored.

The meeting was held in an attempt to organize Eastern Ontario interests in this connection.

F. J. Skinner, M.L.A., for Leeds, said the Provincial Government has promised to build a highway from the Canadian end of the bridge to connect with Provincial Highway No. 2, some two miles distance.

MONTREAL FIGHT HAS FATAL END; ONE IN HOSPITAL

Wounded Man Confesses to Slaying and Admits Attempting Suicide.

PISTOL RECOVERED.

Body Found By Police Hidden in Cupboard Where It Had Lain 3 Days.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 24.—Grievously wounded by a self-inflicted bullet wound over the heart, Maxime Ethier to-day was lying between life and death in a local hospital. His fellow workman, Louis Levesque, is dead, and police say Ethier confessed the slaying and attempted suicide.

The two men, Levesque dead and Ethier wounded, were found last night in Ethier's home. Levesque's body was in a cupboard, with four bullet wounds in the head.

Teh apartment bore signs of a struggle and evidence of drinking, police announced.

Dead Since Saturday

According to the police announcement Levesque had been dead since Saturday night, and Ethier had shot himself during the same night. For the intervening four days Ethier cared for himself, and when police officers visited the house last night was able to stand up and talk to them without raising any suspicion that he was hurt. The first visit of police was perfunctory as they were seeking Levesque, who was missed from his place of employment and was known to be an acquaintance of Ethier. Shortly afterwards a neighbor told police he was suspicious of that apartment, and a second visit followed. A careful search this time revealed Levesque's body and signs of a struggle. Ethier was taken to headquarters, where his injury was discovered.

Argument Over Documents

Several documents, believed to be in Levesque's writing, were found and supplied a possible motive for the quarrel. One was a promissory note, police stated, made out for $170 in Ethier's favor and due last September. Blood-stained towels and a revolver were found also.

There was a strong possibility that Ethier would not recover, hospital authorities said to-day.

Both men were employed by the Montreal Tramways Company and Levesque's body was dressed in his uniform when found.

Huskies and Planes Are Used by Santa In North Country

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 24.—(CP)—Reindeers may suit the purpose of Santa Claus way down south—but they're outmoded in this man's country. Today, airplane and dog-team are busy at Santa's job, delivering the Christmas mail to the outposts beyond the frozen frontier.

With a bundle of canned goods and a carton of "smokes," the Yuletide mail swoops down from the skies in a ski-fitted plane. Or it glides in from the spruce-girt train on a high-piled sled drawn by jogging huskies.

Weeks ago, most of the Christmas bundles started their journey into the north. From The Pas, in Northern Manitoba, packages were hurried up the Churchill line on the rumbling "Muskeg." By dog team, packages were borne from the flagstops to isolated posts, by plane, they sped to Baker Lake, 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg, and farther on.

Santa's "Donner and Blitzen" do no business in the north country but the primitive sled-dogs and the modern airplane handle the job to perfection.

NIXON IS SILENT ON DRY QUESTION

Progressive Party Chief Admits Conference Was Held in Toronto.

NOTHING FOR PUBLICATION.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 24. (CP) While admitting that the Prohibitionists did have a conference at Toronto, Hon. H. C. Nixon, M.L.A., for Brant, and lesder of Ontario Progressive Party, declined to say anything further for publication.

"We did have a conference, Monday" Mr. Nixon stated "and we discussed the political situation generally."

"What about the party's policy?" he was asked.

"We shall certainly carry on as before" Mr. Nixon replied.

"As the Progressive Party?"

"Yes, as the Progressive Party."

Regarding predicted "dry" party or any plans in connection therewith, Mr. Nixon was no committal and when pressed for a statement reiterated his first reply that there was nothing for publication at this time.

PREPARE AHEAD FOR DEPRESSION SAYS LABOR HEAD

MANY OBJECTS TO GAIN.

Exercising of True Christmas Spirit Proving Boon at Present.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24. (CP)—Through preparing for depression in times of prosperity, and nation-wide unemployment insurance, the worst features of hard times can be eliminated in future, says Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in his annual Christmas message. Organized labor has long advocated these measures, and the present period of distress has led to their acceptance by many thinking people, says Mr. Moore, although there are many obstacles to be overcome before they are put in effect.

Mr. Moore's statement reads, in part:

"At no period has there been greater need for the exercise of the true Christmas spirit than at the present time. To many people absolute want is either a vague shadow of the past or totally unknown, and to those Christmas offers a real opportunity to bring a measure of cheer into the homes of others less fortunate.

Warehouses Full

"With agriculturists unable to dispose of the products of their toil and with warehouses choked full, there is widespread unemployment, causing thousands of our citizens to be dependent upon either public relief or private charity for the barest necessities of life.

"This is a chaotic condition that cannot be allowed to continue unchallenged, and it is encouraging to find that people in all walks of life are now recognizing the seriousness of the situation and seeking diligently for some means of alleviating the same and removing the causes as far as may be possible, so that a recurrence in the future of similar conditions might be prevented."

SPEND CHRISTMAS QUIETLY

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 24. (CP)—Christmas of 1930 will be spent quietly at Government House by Their Excellencies the Governor General and Viscountess Willingdon. It will be their last Christmas in famed Rideau Hall, because of their imminent departure for India.

Four Old Aldermen Seek Re-Election, Seven Are In Field

Nomination Meeting For Aldermen Held Last Night Most Peaceful Affair—Each Nominee Present Was Given an Opportunity to Address the Electors Present.

James C. Ellis, Richard C. Heard and Fred O. Goodfellow Are the New Men Who Have Entered Aldermanic Contest

Council Chamber Was Well Filled With Ratepayers—Four Aldermen Who Are Seeking Re-election Give an Account of Their Past Two Years' Stewartship.

Eleven men were nominated to contest the five vacant seats in the City Council for 1931 at last night's nomination meeting held in the Council Chambers. All of the retiring aldermen, except Malcolm McIntyre who is opposing Mayor Denne's re-election reaffirmed their intention to send their names again before the ratepayers. Three others of the eleven nominees stated for certainty that they would stand for election.

The other nominees were absent last night and it could not be learned whether they would leave their hats in the ring. The intentions of all will be known by 9 o'clock this evening, which is the time limit for qualifying.

Those definitely announcing their candidature at the meeting were James C. Ellis, Richard C. Heard and Frederick O. Goodfellow. All of whom were aldermanic candidates last year.

Meeting Most Peaceful

The meeting was decidely peaceful. Each of the candidates took the opportunity to express his views on the needs of municipal affairs and the aldermen gave comprehensive summaries of their efforts in Council. Every speaker appeared sincere and gracefully traced his arguments. All the aldermen expressed pride in the achievements of this year's Council and there was a hinted challenge for anyone to accomplish more.

The room was well-filled, showing increased interest on the part of citizens in municipal affairs. One nominee, William Lytle, waived the honor of contesting the election.

Those nominated were:

James C. Ellis, proposed by Isaac P. McNabb and T. H. Gillespie.

Richard C. Heard, proposed by W. J. Hancock and J. J. Duffus.

Henry C. Huffman, proposed by V. Eastwood and H. G. Boyle. .. ..

E. Melville Turner, proposed by W. H. Lytle and George Graham.

Daniel J. Holland, proposed by Vernon Morphet and J. Abraham.

John A. McNabb, proposed by C. S. Cummer and R. Grant.

Frederick O. Goodfellow, proposed by F. H. Dawson and W. T. Holloway.

Nagle E. Phelan, proposed by E. S. Cotton and J. M. O'Brien, M. B.

Herbert J. McCannan, proposed by E. A. Stinson and Darcy Dunlop.

William H. Lytle, proposed by Darcy Dunlop and E. A. Stinson.

James C. Ellis, first to speak after the nominations were closed, said that last year he had been a candidate but had not been successful at

PRAIRIE'S WANTS IN WHEAT CRISIS NOT ALL GRANTED

Bracken Claims Move to Ensure Orderly Marketing of 1930 Crop Will Aid.

PREMIERS HAD 4 REQUESTS.

Manitoba Premier Refuses to Comment Until Further Details Given.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 24 (CP)—Prairie premiers' requests for Dominion aid in the present wheat situation, presented at Ottawa five weeks ago, have not been granted, it was evident following an interview with Premier John Bracken of Manitoba. Queried by the Canadian Press with reference to Premier R. B. Bennett's announcement that arrangements had been made to ensure orderly marketing of the West's 1930 crop, Mr. Braken stated that the move should acomplish "one of the results urged by the Prairie Premier."

The List

Asked what other results had been sought, Mr. Bracken produced a letter presented by the Premiers to Sir George Perley, then acting Premier, on Nov. 18. In brief, the letter suggested, in order of preference: (1. guaranteed domestic price for Canadian wheat of 70 cents Fort William; (2) assurance of the banks against loss in carrying on the wheat pool in an orderly way; (3) establishment of a Government Stabilization Board; (4) consideration of advisability or ordering a Grain Board probe into short-selling on the Winnipeg Exchange.

Mr. Bracken's sole comment on the Dominion Government decision follows, "announcement that arrangements have been made to ensure orderly marketing of the crop will be welcomed by all. The decision should restore confidence to the market, one of the chief needs during recent weeks. It should accomplish one of the results Western Premiers urged in Ottawa more than a month ago." He preferred not to comment further until details of the Dominion plan were available."

Five Have Entered Aldermanic Contest

Only five aldermanic nominees had qualified to stand for election at 2 o'clock to-day. But it is confidently predicted that before 9 o'clock this evening, the time limit for qualifying, at least two and probably three more will have submitted their qualification papers to City Clerk Armstrong. An aldermanic election is guaranteed, since at least seven nominees have stated their intention of contesting the five vacant seats in Council.

Those having qualified by 2 o'clock were: J. C. Ellis, R. C. Heard, C. H. Huffman, J. A. McNabb, and Nagle Phelan. Daniel Holland will seek re-election and will qualify and Fred O. Goodfellow will definitely be in the race also.

Mel. Turner had not yet decided to leave his hat in the ring when The Examiner spoke to him this afternoon. It is far from probable that Herbert McCannan will stand.

This makes seven sure candidates, one doubtful and three almost definitely out, James Hamilton, William Lytle, and H. McCannan having evidenced little desire to run.

FIGHT CONTINUES ON ELECTORATES

Six Weeks Failed to Solve Hindu-Moslem Differences at Conference.

RIVALS OBSERVE CHRISTMAS

LONDON, Dec. 24 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent) —Christmas comes with the Indian Round-Table Conference still overshadowed by the Hindu-Moslem disputes. Six weeks of negotiation have failed to result in a settlement of the difficulties which admittedly lie at the foot of a successful issue to the conference. The main issue is over the electorates. The Moslems want to retain separate electorates with special voting lists for their community, for the Hindus are greatly in the majority.

The Hindus on the other hand want joint electorates, but are willing to reserve for the Moslems a certain number of minority seats in the Federal Legislature of the future India.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who had hoped to spend Christmas at Lossiemouth, his Scottish home, is remaining at Chequers, country home of the Prime Ministers, where he will consult with experts and keep in touch with the situation.

Yet, though they cannot agree over the electorates, the delegates from India's two rival communities are touched with the spirit of Yuletide. Moslem and Hindu alike are sending Christmas cards.

North Monaghan to Have Election

McINTOSH AND RYE ENTER LISTS RENEW STRUGGLE FOR REEVESHIP AT N. MONAGHAN NOMINATIONS

ELECTION A CERTAINTY.

Municipal Meeting Marked By Verbal Clashes and Flashes of Humor.

John McIntosh—Proposed by Sydney Hall and A. B. Preston; also by R. T. Lillico and M. H. Johnston.

Harold B. Rye—Proposed by J. P. Andress and Alfred Cummings.

For Deputy-Reeve

W. G. Waterman—Proposed by R. T. Lillico and M. H. Johnston.

Robt. A. Dobbin—Proposed by Ira Robson and John F. Clark.

W. J. Byers—Proposed by Harry Clark and A. M. Lang.

For Councillors

W. J. Byers—Proposed by R. T. Lillico and M. H. Johnston; also by Sam Adams and John Carter.

Wm. Whitfield—Proposed by R. T. Lillico and M. H Johnston.

George Patton—Proposed by R. T. Lillico and M. H. Johnston.

Andrew Kent—Proposed by Sam Adams and John Clark.

W. L. White—Proposed by Orville Young and R. A. Dobbin.

Times change and men age, but the rivalry between Harold Rye and John McIntosh for the reeveship of North Monaghan is perennial. It flared up at the municipal nominations in May's school Tuesday afternoon with a crossing of swords that have been notched in many another duel, and once more the ratepayers will be the referees with their ballots on New Year's day.

The two veterans have their own favorite arena all to themselves and a contest was assured by Mr Rye's decision immediately after the meeting to file his papers with the township clerk, Bruce Johnston.

Mr. McIntosh re-enters the lists as the retiring reeve of 1930, and the other members of the council declared their intention of taking on all-comers. The present deputy-reeve, W. G. Waterman, saw two other nominated against him, but William J. Byers announced that he was remaining in the council group. Robert A. Dobbin, another of the township's seasoned warriors, may give Mr. Waterman a battle, but at Tuesday's meeting he intimated that his preference was to return the council as a whole by acclamation. Hence, it all depends upon "Bob" Dobbin's decision whether there will be a fight for the deputy-reeveship.

Council's Contestants.

The three 1930 councillors, Mr. Byers, George Patton and William Whitfield were nominated by Torrance Lillico and Johnston, and opposing them are Hy Wood, William Stevens, Andrew Kent, and possibly Howard T. Fallis. W. L. White was also proposed but he declined to be thrust into the fray.

Reeve Fred McIntyre and Deputy-reeve Alex Huston of Otonabee were present, and invited Monaghan men to look in on the Otonabee nominations next Monday.

"We always have a big crowd at Keene," said Mr. McIntyre.

"But do you kick up as much dust," a voice from the audience asked, from which it might be inferred that he was one yeoman more or less satisfied that North Monaghan's democracy had again asserted itself.

Many Farmers Present.

Farmers were noticeably numerous in yesterday's assembly. Possibly recent suburban activities stirred up their interest and their curiosity of what was developing on the city's fringe. The big school room was crowded. A palpable expectancy of the usual piquant fare of nomination day was not disappointed, but it was an orderly and good-humored gathering with Bruce Johnston as chairman. Heckling was discouraged, but William Faires contributed several wise-cracks, and the McIntosh-Rye debate produced several verbal clashes. W. J. Byers boomed a broad irony at William Stevens and Hy Wood and Mr. Wood staged a breezy session that just about deserved the spot place on the afternoon's bill.

Maver told Provincial Officers Metcalfe and Wood that another car proceeding in the same direction, in passing the American car gave a glancing touch sufficient to send it careening off the ice-coated pavement into the tree.

AIR MAIL LINK SAVES TWO DAYS

New Service Between Prairies and Eastern Canada Starts February.

VIA DETROIT TO TORONTO.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—Approval by Cabinet Council of the new air mail link between Winnipeg, Minneapolis and St. Paul is announced by Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General. The new service, which links the Prairies with Eastern Canada, is expected to go into operation about the first of February.

The new air mail link comes into being as a result of an arrangement between Post Office Departments of Canada and United States. Mail for the East will be taken over United States air lines to Detroit and from thence to Toronto, Montreal and the Maritimes. The arrangement was entered into in order to escape the hazards attached to flying between Manitoba and Ontario points. Approximately two days will be saved in the carriage of mail across the continent.

LIBERALS RETAIN SEAT IN ESTEVAN

Defeated Conservative Candidate Indicates Recount Will Be Sought.

WON BY FIVE VOTES.

ESTEVAN, Sask., Dec. 24.—(CP)—Status of parties in Saskatchewan's Legislature remained unchanged today after the count of ballots in the Estevan by-election. By five votes, Norman McLeod, Liberal, won the straight fight for the south-east Saskatchewan seat left vacant by resignation of E. W. Garner, Liberal. David McKnight, defeated Conservative candidate, indicated a recount would be sought.

Demand from rural Saskatchewan for a change in administrative policy is indicated by the election result, according to James V. Gardiner, leader of the Liberal Opposition group. "Never did any Government make a more desperate effort to win a constituency," he said, claiming that the whole strength of the Government was thrown into the campaign.

Figures issued by the returning officer were: McLeod, Lib. 2,703; McKnight, Cons., 2,698. The total vote listed 736 ballots more than were cast in the last Provincial election, when Garner was chosen by a majority of 732 votes over McKnight and H. G. Galloway, Progressive.

Present standing of the Saskatchewan House is Conservatives, 24; Progressive, 5; Independents, 6; Liberals 28. Thus the Co-operative Government of Premier J. T. M. Anderson consists of 35 members as against a Liberal opposition of 28 in the House.

ROYAL FIRESIDE AT SANDRINGHAM BE HAPPY SCENE

King Becomes Simple Country Gentleman Free From Palace Routine.

THIRD SON ON HIGH SEAS.

Princess Elizabeth to Aid Grand-parents Distributing Presents to Retainers.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Dec. 24—Nowhere in the world this Christmas Eve will there be a more cosy fireside or a more united household than that of the British Royal family.

During the holidays the King forgets the cares and vast responsibilities of State, forgets the pomp and ceremonial of Court, and becomes just a family man, spending a happy Christmas among his children and grandchildren.

The King and Queen are spending their holiday quietly in their country home, Sandringham House, which stands in Norfolk, surrounded by rolling heath land and pine woods that sweep down to the sea. There it is that the King, free from the routine of life at Buckingham Palace, becomes a simple country gentleman.

Documents Come Twice Daily

Only the red despatch boxes, containing Government papers and State documents, which come twice a day by King's messenger from London, remind him of the affairs of the Empire.

Around the Royal Family circle Christmas Eve will be the Prince of Wales with his brothers; Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, with her baby sister, the four-months-old Princess Margaret Rose, will bring the youthful spirit of boisterous happiness without which no Christmas can be complete.

The Duke of Gloucester, the third son of the King, is absent from the family gathering. He is spending his Christmas on the high seas on his way back from Abyssinia where, after the coronation of Ras Tafari, he has been hunting big game.

Holly and mistletoe and gay decorations hanging in every part of the house help to keep the spirit of old-time Christmas alive. Every year the same traditional invaried routine is carried out.

On Christmas Eve the King and Queen, with their children and the one or two intimate friends who are invited to the Royal House Party, go downstairs after dinner. From a big Christmas tree, sparkling with silver festoons and bright with many colored candles, they distribute presents to the servants and tenants on the Royal estate.

Princess to Aid

This year it has been whispered that Princess Elizabeth will act as the fairy princess. For the first time she will help her grandparents to hand the presents to the King's retainers.

Folk at Wolferton, the pretty little village that nestles near the great iron gates of the Royal park, are all hoping that their gifts will come from her dainty hand.

It is all very simple, informal, and rather surprising, like a scene from a fairy tale—dignified butlers and footmen, housemaids, "tweenies," yeomen, farm laborers, and game-keepers, stepping up one by one to receive their gifts from the hands of the King and Queen and their family.

TWO ARRESTED ON ARSON COUNT

Action Follows Story That Firebugs Fled From Blaze With Clothing Burning.

GAS POURED ON FLOOR.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24.—Samuel Bornstein, 45, and Samuel Levine, 48, were arrested last night by local detectives on a charge of arson. Both men are alleged to be the "fire bugs" who set fire to the home of Max Wortzman, on Monday night.

According to police a strange story was told by nearby residents that they had seen two figures with clothes on fire and shoes burned off, running from the Wortzman home, prior to an explosion and spectacular blaze. Gasoline was poured on the floor and furniture of rooms in the house then set on fire, police claim, following a lengthy investigation.

After their arrest the men were examined by a physician and injuries were found on their feet and legs which were ascribed to burns.

Bornstein is a former business partner of Wortzman, who left his home Monday accompanied by his family.

Police are unable to state what motive was behind the burning of the house and investigation by police and provincial fire marshal's department is proceeding. Meanwhile the men are held on bail of $10,000 each.

Warkworth Couples Celebrating Wedding Anniversaries

EPOCH IN THE HISTORY OF THIS DISTRICT MARKS WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker Married Fifty-five Years Ago Near Campbellford. While Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Peterson United By Rev. D. G. S. Sutherland in 1879.

ENJOYING GOOD HEALTH AND SPRITS.

MR. AND MRS. W. J. BAKER

WARKWORTH, Dec. 24.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—This village is to-day making history in the province if not in the Dominion of Canada, for two aged couples are celebrating fifty years and more of married life. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker were married fifty-five years ago in a little farmhouse near the town of Campbellford, by the Rev. M. Sims, then Methodist minister at Norham, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Peterson, who are celebrating fifty-one years of wedded life, were married by the Rev. Donald G. Sutherland, then Presbyterian minister in this village.

Mr. Baker, who is a native of Stirling is seventy-six years of age, when he was nine years old his parents moved to Norham, where he was later to establish a carriage factory. At that time all kinds of vehicles were made by hand, when the workmanship was of high standard and only the best material was used. There are still in commission in this vicinity sleighs, wagons and buggies that were turned out years ago from Mr. Baker's factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker, the latter being seventy-two years of age, and whose maiden name was Charlotte Taylor, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor of Port Hope, were maried in 1875 by the Rev. Mr. Sims who at that time was Methodist minister at Norham, the ceremony being performed at the residence of a relative of the bride on River road, a short distance from Campbellford.

Mr. Baker is a member of the local Masonic order and has served the council. His municipal service was given back in the '90's. He also served for years as member and chairman of the school board. He has for forty-four years been churchwarden and for the past sixty-four or five years a member of the Anglican choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker raised a family of twelve children, ten of whom are living, all holding good positions in the communities in which they reside. They are: Malcolm of Hastings; Tom of Campbellford; Will of Rochester; Mrs. H. B. Wilson, Hastings; Mrs. (Rev.) Russel McGillwray of Edmonton, whose husband is pastor of Central United Church, Edmonton, and former pastor of the Presbyterian Church here; Mrs. J. E. T. Musgrave, Corbyville; Miss Blanche, at home; Wallace, of the local telephone Exchange; Mrs. George A. Parker, Niagara Falls, whose husband is a commercial teacher at Stamford School in that city, and Mrs. Blake Valleau of Rochester. Mrs. Charles Summerby, a daughter, died six years ago last August, and Colin, a son, lost his life in the Great War.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson

Mr. Peterson, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Peterson was born in Consecon, Prince Edward County in October 1847. At the age of six years he moved with his father to a farm one mile east of Norham, which is now known as the Peterson homestead.

Mrs. Peterson formerly Miss Isabella Wilson, the fifth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson, was born in January, 1857.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were married in the evening of December 24th, 1879 by Rev. Donald C. Sutherland, minister of the Presbyterian Church of this village.

Miss Ellen Louisa Wilson, now Mrs. E. Hill of Peterborough, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Martin H. Peterson who now resides in California, brother of the groom was best man.

The couple have always been active church workers, formerly members of the Methodist Church and now of the United Church and have always resided in Percy township.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have raised a family of five children, all of whom are living. They are: Mrs. George Dawe and Mrs. Charles E. Bowan of Warkworth; Roy, living on the homestead; Alex on the farm adjoining to the east. There are six grandchildren.

FOUR OLD ALDERMEN TO SEEK RE-ELECTION, SEVEN IN FIELD

the polls. He declared that at the request of East City residents he would be a candidate again this year. "I think East City is entitled to representation on the Council by two members. If I remember rightly that was the promise made when East City joined the city.

"For the past two years East City has been represented by one whom we are all proud and by one of whom East City thinks very highly," continued Mr. Ellis.

He thought that the debenture debt of 5¼ millions should be reduced if at all possible, and in this connection maintained that the burden of paying the Old Age Pensions should be wholly carried by the Federal Government. Further in relieving municipalities he held that the Province should be liable for the full expense of suburban roads because the funds from the gasoline tax went into the Provincial coffers.

"I am only a working man and a small manufacturer in this city for forty-two years. I'm not a large manufacturer nor a rich man and have no desire to be anything but honest," he stated in conclusion.

W. C. Heard in thanking the mover and seconder of his nomination, said, "I like Mr. Ellis realize the fact that it is much more easy to criticize than it is to furnish a substitute in the way of constructive remedy, and I also realize that one who is not in touch very closely with municipal affairs is not in a position to criticize too hard. The Council does not have all the spending of the public money, and is not responsible for a great deal which is collected by them. They have to build streets to carry the traffic from the highways, at their own expense. I think we should try to keep our expenditures as low as possible, consistent with giving good service to the citizens. I know it is easy to talk about things—much easier than it is to carry them into effect, but if elected to the Council I will do all in my power to keep the expenses low."

"I think that at the present time the most live question is that concerning unemployment. I do not think our workingmen want doles—I know they don't—they want to be able to hold up their heads and say we have earned what we get. The Council cannot give us the whole remedy to this question, but it can give leadership, so that in conference with manufacturers and employers of labor the situation might be made better. In closing I feel like saying that if you gentlemen think that I would be one of the best five men to be elected to the 1931 Council I solicit your vote and influence, otherwise I bow to your will."

Dan J. Holland—"At the outset I wish to thank my proposers for having nominated me to the honorable position as alderman of this city. I have been alderman now for two years, during which time I have occupied, for one term the position of chairman of the Property Committee. It is necessary for me at this time to give some account of my stewardship on the Property Committee, which while being one of the more modest committees, is nevertheless in my estimation an important one. This committee has charge of public buildings, including the incinerator, market hall, the management of garbage collection and disposal and other work as well. In connection with the buildings in charge of the committee I may say expensive repairs have been made at the incinerator plant. The Property Committee were fortunate, however, in having Alderman Fred Tuggey, a practical bricklayer, who when the arches were to be built gave valuable services in making these repairs. The committee also struck estimates of the years requirements, realizing the necessity of making the dollar go as far as possible and giving the working man a chance of employment. We have finished up the year with an expenditure of something like $1,000 less than our appropriation. In my committee I have always had the sympathy and support of other members of the Council. I have proposed several things and have been able to put before the Council my reasons why my proposals should be adopted. That I have had the sympathy and co-operation of the Council, will be readily realized from Alderman Huffman's report. A lot of work has been accomplished by the Board of Works, which is a big feature of the Council." In conclusion Alderman Holland, stated, "I promise you to carry on in my modest way and to give you as much economical public service as is possible for an alderman to give."

Alderman Harry C. Huffman, who in 1929 served on the Council as Chairman of the Property and this year as Chairman of the Board of Works, stated that he would be a candidate for re-election.

He reviewed the work of the Board of Works, declaring that at no time this year was there not at least 25 more men employed by the Board of Works that at the same period last year. At the present time he said 160 men were being regularly employed.

Business in general was not good at the start of the year, he said, and right at the start the Board of Works made a sincere effort to relieve unemployment. Before the frost was out of the ground a fence was built on Armour Road in the construction of which poles from the street railway were used as posts. The Douro street outfall drain was built, the job starting in May and running with a big gang through most of the summer. Many drains on streets in East City were laid, and work is still proceeding on the Roger street sewer.

Continuing, Alderman Huffman said the sewers were built to serve the property near the Queen Mary School, which last year was annexed to the city. At the Ovaltine plant a drain was built and the old Edison drain was cleaned right down to the river. A new bridge was erected in Jackson Park at the low cost of $2,600, which was a credit to the city, said Alderman Huffman. Sidewalks were also laid on the now property in the city and Geraldine Avenue, a new street running betwen Benson Avenue and Aylmer street was opened up.

Telling of the unemployment relief undertaken by the Board of Works, he said that by the end of the year $55,000 will have been spent. Five gangs are at work constantly laying storm drains in the unemployment relief scheme. Drains had been laid on Prince, Princess, Stewart, Dalhousie, Sherbrooke and Bethune streets.

"There has not been a day that I have not been out keeping in touch with the work of the gangs," Alderman Huffman said. "I have given much time and taken a great deal of pleasure out of it. I am ready to serve again and if you do not see fit to elect me again I shall give 100 per cent co-operation to the men that are elected."

Alderman John A. McNabb in announcing himself as a candidate for re-election, said that he had served two years on the Board of Education and two years on the Council.

In his previous campaign for Council, he said he stood for a measure to restrict the residential districts from having their property value reduced by the further building of gasoline stations. One month after he had entered the Council, he affirmed, that the necessary legislation restricting the gasoline companies had been passed by the Council.

Further, Alderman McNabb said that more than a month ago he had suggested the co-ordination of relief organizations in the city. The suggestion was turned down by the Mayor, he said, because it was considered unnecessary. "It is time for leadership by the City Council in solving the unemployment situation. The problem can be solved and there are men in the city big enough to do it. There is no use shutting our eyes to the serious proportions this situation has reached in our city."

He maintained that if a public meeting were held to deal with co-ordinating relief that candidates should not capitalize the meeting to advance their candidature.

Alderman McNabb expressed strongly the view that there should be a shakeup in the chairmanship of committees. He maintained that a man's services were of more value to the city if he served on several committees and that no alderman should retain a chairmanship too long no matter how valuable he was in that one capacity.

Speaking of paving, he said that he supported the original paving tender of the Warren Paving Company, which was to remove the car tracks on George street, resurface George and Charlotte streets and do a little paving on Simcoe street.

The East City paving was later given to the Warren Paving Company under the excuse that it would reduce unemployment, he affirmed. He gave figures, based on the fact that only 27 city men were employed on the job at 40c an hour for a ten hour day and allowing six weeks for the completion of the job. According to these figures, he said that only $3,688 of the $37,000 paid to the Warren Paving Company for the East City job, was paid out as wages to local employees.

He said that he had offered a counter-plan of the city doing the work itself which would have meant that 80 per cent of the cost of the work would have gone directly into the pockets of city men. Further, he said that three different delegations from East City had waited on the Council, urging that the work be delayed until 1931. "I will never again cast a vote that gives a Peterborough job to the Warren Paving Company," Alderman McNabb declared. They have been coming here for years doing work and they have always left after having done more work than was first planned. "I understand that Peterborough is within the Warren Paving Company's zone and that no other company can secure a tender here. The Warren Company is always lowest."

He declared that all committees in the Council in 1931 must closely scrutinize their budget and that the tax rate must be kept the same if not lower than last year. "It is time for conservative retrenchment of capital expenditure. We should not make any addition to the debenture than that retired each year."

Referring to industries, he said that the change in Government would no doubt result in an influx of foreign industries to Canada and that the Council should put every effort to line up these factories and bring them to Peterborough.

Alderman McNabb declared himself strongly against making an addition to the sewage disposal plant until the Department of Health had a suitable plan to place before the city for such a plant. He maintained if plants were built in North Monaghan such as the members of the City Council had observed in Toronto conditions would be insufferable.

Further, he maintained that the committees must expend the money for the purpases for which it was originally voted in the budget by the City Council. While praising Alderman Stocker for the splendid way that he had managed the city parks, he said that the Council had appropriated $1,000 for expenditure on James Stevenson Park and the money had not been spent there but on other parks.

Alderman McNabb said that the cost of the Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pensions had exceeded the Council's expectations. "They are beyond our control and they are mounting higher each year. All we can do is pay them," he explained.

He declared that all civic work should be done by tender, and that no work should be let without first calling tenders. He referred to work let to the Warren Paving Company in East City in which no tenders had been called.

High praise to the work of City Clerk Armstrong, was given by Alderman McNabb, and also to the other civic employees. He especially mentioned the work of the Fire Department in relief work.

As chairman of the Claims Committee last year, he reported that $631 had been paid out in claims during the year. Threatened suits up to $3,500 had been settled out of courts to the advantage of the city and the satisfaction of the claimants.

Alderman Nagle Phelan briefly summed the various way in which the taxes were spent. He said that he had served on the City Council for eleven years and for the past ten years had been chairman of the Finance Committee. "Doubtless in the past year we have made mistakes; everyone does, but I believe that this Council has been as good as any we have ever had.

The school rate takes 35 cents of every dollar collected in taxes; and the debenture debt, built up years ago for patriotic purposes, the Hunter street bridge, the Collegiate addition etc.; takes another 24 4 15 cents, he said. In all the Council has control over only 25 cents over every dollar of taxes. On this all civic business must be paid for; and all city improvements and the running the city.

To prove that Peterborough's financial position is sound, he said that this year Peterborough sold bonds at a better interest rate than did the City of Windsor.

Next year the debenture debt would be retired by some $300,000 and Alderman Phelan declared that he had sound hope that the tax rate would be reduced at least slightly. He promised that it would not be higher.

F. O. Goodfellow in thanking his proposer and seconder, made reference to the fact that he had sought election to the Council at the last election, but had been unfortunate. Producing a copy of The Examiner of Monday, December 15th, he said, "There was a piece in the paper stating that I was willing to drop out of the race and allow the Council to have another term. Under the present circumstances he said he would allow his nomination to stand. He had in mind the idea that during the present depression, that if he could save an eection by withdrawing his nomination, it would be the means of saving the city $1,500 which would go a long way, if split up between the Great War Veterans, the Salvation Army and the Catholic Women's League, which would be $500 each.

"It has been said tonight that a change sometimes does a lot of good, so this election is, I presume going to carry through and I hope to see some changes. In regard to expenses I am of the opinion that we have been spending too much money during the past three years. The tax has now been increased to 39.2 mills and if this is going to carry on, it looks as if that in 1931 the tax rate will be increased to 40 mills. Touching on the unemployment question, Mr. Goodfellow asked, "how are we going to take care of the unemployed. In the first place he thought the expenditure on roads was too great, having regard to the fact that outside contractors have been getting the work in the past. He said of an expenditure of from 35,000 to 40,000 dollars on roads only about $6,000 had been kept in the city. Why cannot we do concrete work ourselves and employ local labor," he asked. If we bring in an outside contractor his first plan is to bring in about six men. In about a weeks time you see other men coming in on the highway. Two or three one day, two or three the next day—their regular staff."

"If I a elected," he promised, "I will be opposed to any contract being let to outside contractors, that is providing contracts are equal. I know what it takes to lay a yard of concrete and what it costs to lay a yard of concrete, and if contracts were equal I would endeavor to give both contracts my support."

William H. Lytle—"I will stay outside the brass railing", said Mr. Lytle taking up a stand immediately in front of the public benches, anyone inside the railing has a tendency to go to sleep. We do certain things in the City of Peterborough from year to year, and I often ask myself where does the money come from? I have heard arguments tonight about expenditures, but where do you get the money from—it has been said that it comes from the general fund. What is the general fund, how does it come?

Mr. Lytle enumerated several improvements which have been executed this summer, around the city, mentioning the new sub-division in the north end, in which Geraldine avenue has been opened up. Where did the money come from? If it all comes out of the 25 cents in the dollar, I will say the Council are doing well."

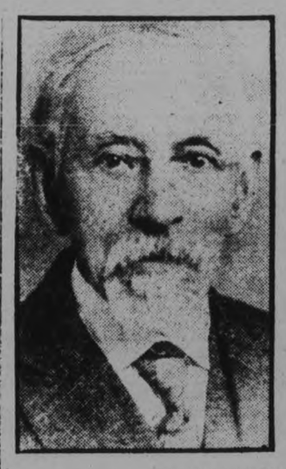
Mr. Lytle mentioned the improvements which are being undertaken at the C.N.R. crossing, "where the C. N. R. have dumped down their 'bohunks' and torn up the city pavement. Nobody knows. It appears to me it should be somebody's business. I asked the chairman of the Board of Works, he doesn't know.

Mr. Huffman—I don't know yet!

"We have spent money on pavements this year which could very well have been saved", Mr. Lytle proceeded. We have hear very much about unemployment and we also hear a lot about leadership, co-ordination and co-operation. I thought there was only one man in the Council and he was Mayor Denne and still they want leaders, while he was leader last year. I thank my mover and seconder said the speaker in conclusion, but I cannot see my way clear at the present time to get in front of the brass rail".

Rising to speak after Mr. Lytle had finished, Alderman Huffman explained to Alderman McNabb the construction of the little red huts which had been erected on the site of certain works being undertaken by his committee. Alderman Huffman said, he had been down to the scene of the unemployment relief work operations, one morning and found many workmen, with their lunches hanging on a fence in 4 below zero weather. The lunches were frozen stiff, and the men were feeling cold also. He gave instructions to Harry Evans to get some old lumber and have huts erected and fires provided and this work was carried out, at a negligible cost. (applause).

MARRIED 60 YEARS



MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH LEE.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee, of Orpington Road, who are this Christmas-tide celebrating the diamond jubilee of their wedding, having been united in marriage on December 25, 1870.

Mr. Lee, eighty-three years of age, is still enjoying good health, as also is his good wife, who is now 80 years of age. Christmas Day each year is a day on which the family does not only gather to spend Christmas together, but to celebrate also the anniversary of the wedding. There are three sons: Harold, Albert and Ernest, who reside in this city, and also five daughters, namely: Mrs. H. C. Robinson, Mrs. Monks, Mrs. W. McKinstry, Mrs. Charles Porter and Mrs. E. Kitney, also of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee came from England twenty-one years ago, arriving in Peterborough on May 2nd, 1909. As a machinist, Mr. Lee had taken a position at the C.G.E. machine shop, had worked in the brass department and finally in the tool room until he was seventy-seven years of age. Mr. Lee then retired owing to an injury to his left hand and arm, and since then has confined his efforts to looking after his garden and enjoying the twilight of life. He is a retired member of the Peterborough Independent Order of Foresters, and attends St. James' Church regularly.

LARGER GRANTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Effective in Three Inspectorates of the Central Ontario District.

NEW ATTENDANCE PLAN.

COBOURG, Dec. 24.—(Special to Examiner.) — Grants for Public school purposes in Cobourg, Campbellford, Colborne and Brighton will be increased from four to five times for 1931 and general increases including rural and town schools will be for the three local inspectorates headed respectively by Lt.-Col. J. W. Odell, Cobourg; Lt.-Col. E. E. Snider, Port Hope, and A. A. Martin, Brighton.

As an example and giving only a rough estimate Cobourg will receive over $3,000, in provincial grants for 1931 as compared with something over $700 for 1930.

In addition noteworthy changes in the regulations governing substitutes for rural school equipment are announced by the Ontario Dept. of Education. Hitherto only small grants have been made, at the most only a few dollars in any given year. In the future for new work a rural school will be asked to pay only fifty cents on each dollar for new equipment including slate blackboards, better seats, sanitary drinking fountains, water systems and modern plumbing. The Ontario Government under the Act pays 25 per cent., the Counties Council pay 10 p.c. and the balance only is paid by the ratepayers of a school section.

The new basis is worked out proportionalately to salaries paid on the total of equalized assessments. In addition all schools get special average attendance of one dollar for each child.

That is to say if one hundred pupils are enrolled and if the average attendance for the year is 85 the grant will be $85, this is in addition to other grants and is designed to stimulate regular attendance.

Inspectors of this district are studying the new basis, Col Snider, public school inspector of Port Hope and district addressed the county council at its recent session and urged that every school in the counties should take advantage of the new equipment in general but will make rural schools happier center of educational and community life.

In a recent month automobiles registered in England numbered 17,846, an increase of 726 over the corresponding month of the previous year.

FRIENDS HONOR J. ROXBOROUGH

SPLENDID TRIBUTE.

NORWOOD, Dec. 24 (Examiner Correspondent). — Almost the entire populace of Norwood and district yesterday afternoon attended the funeral of John Ewing Roxburgh — a splendid tribute to the deep and lasting impression which he has left behind in the community, to whose interests he had devoted so much of his lifetime.

Following a private service at the family home, "Ceasnook," the cortege moved off to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where an impressive public service was held. The proceedings were in charge of the pastor of the church, the Rev. A. C. Reeves, assisted by Rev. Dr. D. A. Thompson of Hastings Presbyterian Church, and Rev. J. T. O'Connor-Fenton of Norwood Anglican Church. The funeral was described by older residents of the community as being one of the largest ever held in the village.

The chief mourners were the deceased man's widow, formerly Miss Letetia Meharry, and his two daughters, Miss Jean of Toronto and Miss Sarah of Norwood.

There were also a number of relatives from a distance, among them being the late Mr. Roxburgh's brother Gerald of Winnipeg, and also a number of more distant relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cameron of Toronto; Mrs. Wicken and son, of Kingston; Miss Beasle and Miss Davida Meikle and James Meikle, Marvin Craig and Mrs. McIntyre and daughter, all of Toronto.

The East Peterborough Agricultural Society, of which the late Mr. Roxburgh was for some years secretary, attended in a body, as also did the Norwood Council, on which he was serving as treasurer up to the time of the accident, which resulted in his untimely death.

The honorary bearers were: P. M. Grover, Dr. N. H. Sutton, K. G. Thomson, D. B. Cutcliffe, William Robson, and F. D. Kerr. Active bearers: E. P. Cuffe, Alfred Finlay, John Rok, Wm. Thompson, Chas. Fowlder, and J. T. Lancaster.

GOOD WORK RECOGNIZED.

The re-election of John Crane to the Utilities Commission by acclamation was an expected development of yesterday's nomination proceedings.

Mr. Crane, first elected to the commission three years ago, has done excellent service as a member of the body which controls the city's light, water and gas departments, and his business training has stood him in good stead in this most important municipal business.

It is gratifying to find good work publicly recognized as has been done in the returning of Mr. Crane to office without a contest.

The acclamation given the four members of the Board of Education, whose term expires with the present year, was also looked for.

All four, Dr. Archibald Moir, E. F. Reid, James Dutton and I. P. McNabb, are outstanding citizens whose field of usefulness to the public has not been confined to educational matters.

They are all in close touch with the problems with which the Board of Education has to deal, have given faithful and intelligent service in the past, and there is every reason to believe that their experience in regard to the educational requirements of the community will enable them to do even better work in the next two years.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

Although The Examiner was hopeful that an election for the mayoralty would have been averted, the issue has been joined and Ald. Malcolm McIntyre and Mayor Roland Denne are appealing to the electorate.

Throughout the year this paper has endeavored to report the proceedings of the Council and to present activities to the public as fairly and accurately as possible, and because of a sincere appreciation of the qualities shown by Mayor Denne in his three years of office, we have advocated his re-election without a contest.

If that position appears to Ald. McIntyre as unfair we regret that fact, but there did not seem to us any other position to take that would be consistent with furthering the best interests of this city.

The Examiner, having done what it believed to be its duty as a community newspaper, does not propose to further discuss the mayoralty campaign in its editorial columns.

The records and personalities of the candidates are well known to the electors, and the latter are the jury who will have to make the decision.

For The Examiner to actively support one of the aspirants for the office would leave the other without newspaper assistance, a position that might appear to many people as unfair, having regard to the fact that The Examiner is the only newspaper published in this community.

The issue may quite safely, we feel sure, be left to the good judgment of the citizens, who will make a choice of a man for the mayor's chair who has a policy they feel will give the city the best results for 1931.

A GOVERNMENT SANTA CLAUS.

The Department of National Defense has qualified as a genuine Santa Claus, the decision to turn over $250,000 worth of military overshoes, socks, underwear, sweater coats and trousers to the Canadian Red Cross Society for distribution among needy citizens throughout the Dominion being a move that will be warmly applauded.

These supplies are a surplus left over from the Great War, the end of the conflict finding a reserve on hand that has been sufficient to equip the permanent force ever since, and makes possible the donation of a quarter of a million dollars worth to the Red Cross Society and still leave sufficient to take care of the needs of Canada's military forces for the next ten years.

To hand over this clothing, which is, of course, of excellent quality, selected for its wearing ability, to those who are most in need of assistance because of economic conditions is not only good business but a humanitarian gesture that will be appreciated.

The extent of the supplies they made available for relief purposes will be appreciated when it is realized that the list includes 22,000 pairs of heavy winter underwear, 24,000 winter underwear shirts, 18,000 khaki flannel shirts, 42,000 pairs of socks, 48,000 pairs of trousers, 3,500 pairs of long black stockings, 7,400 sweater coats and 1,300 pairs of tan overshoes.

The distribution is to be made by the Red Cross in all parts of Canada, and the local branch of the organization will undoubtedly share in this unexpected Christmas gift.

MUST GET TOGETHER.

The Examiner is satisfied that any one who has come into close contact with the conditions existing in many local homes to-day are convinced that a systematic relief plan must be adopted to deal with the situation for the balance of the winter.

Christmas will soon be only a memory, but unfortunately the poverty that has evoked so much pity and brought forth such splendid aid during recent weeks will not fade that quickly.

The assistance must continue to come, and in no other way can it be guaranteed than through the medium of a representative citizens' relief committee that will co-ordinate the efforts of the various organizations and utilize the desire-to-help that exists to such a marked degree among the people of this community.

We must face realities and get down to business; must realize that fine as were the hampers of food and gifts sent out on the eve of Christmas a hungry family soon makes short work of the contents of the most generous Christmas basket, and that the hungry must be fed and the shivering clothed and kept warm for many months after the last bit of food in the Yuletide boxes has long since disappeared.

Team-work is the only shield against privation and suffering that can be depended upon; we must get together, pool our resources and our ideas, and perfect an organization that will grapple with and triumph over this relief problem.

EMPIRE TRADE.

The campaign which is being carried on by the Hon. Frank Carrel, M.L.C. of Quebec, for the establishment of a central Empire trade agency, on non-political lines, appears to be attracting a good deal of favorable attention. Mr. Carrel's idea, as we understand it, is that the promotion of Empire trade is a vital problem, and that in order that it should be properly developed it is essential that there should be a common meeting ground for all of the interests engaged in intra-Empire trade. This would be provided by his suggested central agency, which would be a huge clearing house for information. By this means the manufacturer in England would be made aware of export opportunities for his goods, or of favorable locations for branch factories; the merchant handling the produce of a dominion would be put in touch with new Empire markets; and questions of commercial significance could be discussed and disposed of in a non-political way.

Such an organization, properly functioning, could go far toward preventing such political happenings as those of the Imperial Conference, in which the actual discussion on Empire trade almost fell to the level of the spokesmen calling each other names. There would be no question of "humbug" about an Empire trade proposal which had been looked at and discussed from all sides by the trading interests of the Motherland and all the dominions before it came to the point of being translated into legislative action.

An Empire trade agency could probably do much to overcome the opposition of British manufacturers to the establishment of branch factories in the dominions —a policy which has resulted in the loss of a great deal of business that they once held. It would certainly be of assistance to Canadian producers and manufacturers, because quick and accurate information on markets is beyond price. And that it would prove a potent factor in promoting intra-Empire trade seems beyond doubt, provided it is properly financed and directed with a view to rendering the ultimate in service to all sections of the Empire.

There is more than a little in this idea of Mr. Carrel's.—Border Cities Star.

APPEAL TO CHURCH WORKERS.

It must have been a revelation to those who contend that the Ontario liquor control system is impoverishing many of its patrons to learn from a speech delivered recently by Sir Henry Drayton in Toronto that of the 1,350 persons whose names were sent to the Board of Control by social workers from August to November, only 79 were found to be holders of permits. This would seem to indicate that liquor, at least that acquired at the Government stores, was not responsible for the condition of 1,271 of these unfortunate people. It is indeed a very serious thing to suggest, as no doubt some uncharitable people have done, that their unhappy condition was the result of their drinking. The vast majority of those in financial distress at the present time have not been confirmed drinkers. Many of them have never bought a dollar's worth of liquor at a Government store, and we haven't the slightest doubt a very considerable number of them are total abstainers, some of them even being out-and-out prohibitionists.

While all this is true, there are nevertheless men who are patronizing the liquor stores at the expense of their families. It is these men whom Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, desires to prevent from securing liquor. He has instructed the store officials to refuse them liquor and to this end has repeatedly invited the co-operation of church and social workers. He acknowledges co-operation from these workers, but says it is not 100 per cent. "We are trying to help the people who are buying too much through this method," he declares. "We ask that all social and church workers send us a list of names and addresses of those who require this help to see whether they have the right to buy liquor. We hope soon to have workers in all parts of the Province doing this."

It seems to us that all social and church workers should be glad to supply this information, whether or not they believe in liquor control. While there may be a few workers who would purposely withhold information in the belief that all uncorrected abuses tend to discredit the control system, the majority should be ready to practice practical Christianity to the extent of helping the drinker and those depending upon him by securing an order forbidding the selling of liquor to him. This should appeal to the prohibitionists as it would be real prohibition. A supposed Christian who will shut his eyes to abuses of the control system, in order to bring about its destruction, even when these abuses entail much suffering on the part of innocent, helpless people, has about as much Christianity as a heathen god.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner's best wishes for a joyous Christmas go out to all readers of this paper.

In Toronto you don't vote for the mayoralty candidates, but either for the Telegram-Globe combination or the Star-Mail and Empire partnership.

The number of hold-up men who are eating their Christmas dinner in Canadian penitentiaries this year should convince other gunmen that the racket does not pay.

Not a cent in fines was collected in Smith Falls during October, which would seem to show that Ontario is not being quite so thoroughly demoralized by Government control as Mr. Drury was once fond of pointing out.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

Christmas Eve!

If there is any day of the year that holds greater happiness than Christmas, it is the day which immediately precedes it. For then we are all aquiver inside with such infinitely thrilling expectations that they can be never quite fulfilled in reality.

Grownups, on that day, are going about with a mysterious air, doing strange things behind locked doors, slipping odd-looking bundles in the back way, making wholly unintelligible signs to one another, and, in general, conducting themselves in most amazing fashion.

And the children, to whom Christmas must always represent something far beyond the grasp of the adult, seem suddenly to lose interest in their usual entertainments and hang around the house and look alternately curious and wise, and are so careful of their behavior that one might think they had, overnight, departed forever from the ways of mischief and had committed themselves to lives of sober speculation.

In a certain magnificent residence on Commonwealth avenue — more or less commonly referred to by native Bostonians as "the Clause mansion" — there was more feverish activity than had been known in the great house for many years. Servants hurried, with surprisingly little fuss, from room to room, winking knowingly at one another as they passed and wearing set smiles that had come on twenty-four hours before and had refused to go off. Through the tradesmen's entrance bundles literally poured, big bundles, and little bundles; long, slim bundles, and fat, dumpy bundles. And now and then there came to the same entrance special messengers bearing parcels so small that they could have amounted to very little in volume, and would not trust them to the servants that answered, but must see Mr. Clause, or Mrs. Clause, or young Mr. Robert Clause in person. And everywhere was that air of mystery and carefully suppressed excitement.

In an extraordinary large room on the second floor of this house — papered with beautiful sailing ships, and comical Dutch boys in wide pantaloons and wooden shoes, and demure Dutch girls in great white bonnets and flowing skirts, and here and there a motionless but infinitely fascinating windmill — sat a contented little old lady reading from a long, broad book that was largely brilliantly colored pictures. Beside her, in a little rocking chair, sat sedately a yellow-haired miss in whose wide blue eyes strange shadows played. Ostensibly all ears for the story, her little head was teeming with a thousand irrelevant thoughts wholly foreign to the action of the tale being read to her.

Miss Wood, coming to the end of a page, looked down at her charge and smiled happily. "Isn't it a nice story, Ellen?"

"Oh, yes," Ellen agreed quickly, eagerly. "It's the nicest kind of story." And then, cautiously, "Miss Wood, can we really hear the sleigh-bells when Santa Claus drives up on the roof?"

"Why — I'm not so sure, dear. You see, we will all be asleep, and we won't know. Shall I go on with the story?"

"Yes, please."

More of the story then, and after a time another pause.

"Miss Wood, did you know Miss Melba was coming to spend Christmas with us?"

"No more than you did, child. But I'm sure we'll all be happier for having her here. Don't you?"

"Yes. I like her lots." And, contritely: "Will you please read some more now?"

And the story in which Miss Wood is not, personally, interested, and to which Ellen is listening only at great intervals, goes on.

In the first-floor library of this enormous house a sort of family reunion is in progress. The elder Clause sits in a fireside chair before an open hearth, smoking a particularly fragrant briar pipe. Mrs. Clause, inclined to be stout, full-bosomed, with a ruddy complexion and a kindly, composed countenance, occupies a Windsor rocker, her two hands moving deftly with bone needles over a ball of yarn. Before them, feet apart, his broad shoulders leaning against the mantle, stands Sandy, known to his parents as Robert.

Unfortunately, we have missed much of their conversation.

"No one can tell me," Sandy was saying, "that there wasn't an invisible hand working out its own predetermined pattern from the beginning. Mind you, I run into her in the middle of New York at the very time when I am most certain of my — well, for the sake of argument, call it love — of my love for Marcia. And yet, that first night she —" smiling self-consciously — "she did something to my heart. I didn't realize it then, but I know now that I was in love with her from the very moment I left her in the restaurant and went out to call Marcia and the newspapers."

His father, gazing into the smouldering fire, grunted contentedly. "You've always been a lucky young scamp," he mused quietly. "So was I, for that matter. I suppose it runs in the family. Think what might have become of us if your mother had refused me the last time I proposed."

Mrs. Clause looked up from her knitting and smiled at her always chivalrous husband. Then, to her son: "You are fortunate, Robert. She's a beautiful girl, and beauty to me is more than externals." And after a moment, "I suppose you both would prefer something — informal?"

"Lord, yes!" Sandy assured her. "No stiff-neck weddings for us. The less fuss the better. I should like it to be here in the house, if you don't mind." He leaned heavily against the mantle and sighed, very, very deeply. "It's almost impossible to believe. Long ago, she told me once, she asked her own personal Santa Claus to bring her a great adventure for Christmas. And to-morrow, Christmas Day, she's to be married — to me."

Suddenly, his thoughts were running back to the events of the day before, when he had, on mad impulse, caught her up in his arms and stepped into the waiting limousine.

Jean hadn't been easily subdued. Understanding at last what he was doing, she had fought with all her strength, beating vainly on his broad chest with clenched fists, kicking, twisting, struggling to free herself from his strong embrace. And then at last, her anger spent and painfully aware of the futility of fighting this man in whose sturdy arms she was but an impetous and contrary child, she buried her head under his arm and wept, copiously.

Never before had she felt the brute strength of a man. Never before had she experienced the humiliation of knowing herself inferior, in any sense, to a man. And, to be perfectly frank never before had she been inspired with such profound respect for that which has ever made man superior to woman, his ability to be at once both strong and gentle.

Not once during the better part of that journey into Boston had he spoken. Ultimately she had pulled away from him and sat in the far corner of the wide seat, and waited for him to begin his apologies.

But he did not begin, and while she knew instinctively, that his eyes were on her, watching her every movement, he did not speak.

She told herself that she hated him, that she would presently open the door and leap out of the machine and scream for help. But that, she knew, was absurd, for something told her that if she made an attempt to get away now, he would let her go, and she didn't want to go. She knew now, as under no other circumstances she could have known, that she loved this man more than her own soul and that she would never, never, of her own accord, go away from him.

Still he sat there, watching her, waiting, silent; and gradually the silence became unbearable.

Presently, when she could stand it no longer, she half turned her head and looked at him out of the corner of her eyes. There was a gentle smile on his lips, and pleading, hopeful laughter in his eyes, and, feeling nothing but her great love for him, she suddenly threw herself in his arms and buried her face in his coat.

That afternoon, following her introduction to the persons and wonders of the great Commonwealth avenue house, Sandy had wired Lionel to have Mollie pack Jean's clothes and send them by the night plane. Before she had retired, a servant had brought them, new bags, with everything she owned, including the miniature baby the factory manager had given her.

"My darling," — she read — "We were terribly disappointed about missing the plane. That cuckoo pilot must have been in an awful hurry. But if sending your things to Boston means what I think it does, it must all have happened for the best. Lucky gal!

"Sandy has invited us up for Christmas. We're coming by train, if you please, and ought to arrive at about nine-thirty to-night.

"Had a letter from Fannie Uhlman from dear old Kelsey to-day and she says your old flame Phillip Baldwin has gone daffy over a new school teacher. Now tear your hair out!

"Am I happy? Lord, lord!

"Love,

"You old Mollie."

The elder Clause got up from his fireside chair, knocked his pipe out against the stone fireplace — ignoring any number of ash receptacles — and laid it on the mantle.

"Did the package come from New York, son?" he asked Sandy.

Sandy grinned. "It's in your library upstairs. I'll have it sent to her first thing in the morning." And after a moment, "I've often wondered if she ever went back to look at it after the day I found her there by the plate-glass window staring at it as if it were the only thing in the world worth having. I bought it, you know, on condition that they keep it in the window until I went for it."

Mrs. Clause looked up at her two men curiously. "Are you two talking about the ermine wrap?"

Sandy nodded. "It came this morning," he told her. "I've hidden it in Dad's library."

A little sigh escaped his mother. "I can understand her wanting it," she said quietly. "Ermine means a great deal more to a young girl than you mere men can ever know." And suddenly she had put a finger to her lips and pointed quickly toward the door.

Ellen's quaint little voice came to them from the hall.

"Mr. Sandy wanted a minatoo baby, too, but I don't think he ever wrote Santa for one. Is that the one you brought up to see me a long time ago?"

And then they were in the doorway, Ellen and Jean, and in Jean's arm, the miniature baby the factory manager had given her.

Seeing Mrs. Clause, Ellen promptly ran to her and crawled into her lap. Sandy, his eyes reflecting the radiant happiness that was so evident in Jean's pretty face, went to her, and led her back to the fire, to stand between his father and himself.

"I brought this down for you to see," Jean said to the older man. "I'll tell you more about it when Ellen isn't about."

But the elder Clause frowned comically and gently took the modishly gowned little figure from her arms.

"Oh, no, my dear," he told her smiling. "Dolls are quite all right for very little girls, but there'll be no miniature babies in this family."

THE END.

"CAPRICORN"

If December 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9:45 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Disturbing influences will be in force on this date, and your efforts will be too scatter-brained to prove fruitful. Lurking dangers are pictured in possible quarrels, social pleasures, and the opposite sex. A feverish and eventful time, but not to your good.

The child born on this December 24th will have a romantic nature, an active imagination, and a "flashy" mind. It will be difficult for it to seriously concentrate upon the serious things of life, and it will be an indifferent student. Its adult life, however, is not pictured as an unsuccessful one — experience will be its best teacher.

Humanity is the one big interest in your life, and you live to be of service to your fellow associates. You are not self-centred, and your thoughts turn to outside interests and other beings. You have the qualities which make you an almost hundred per cent friend and pal, to those who are fortunate enough to call you such. You are sympathetic and understanding without being gushing. You can take confidences in without letting them out, and you can give advice without being preachy. You have the courage to live up to your ideals, and to lead the kind of a life which appeals to your tastes, and which is covered by your pocket-book. You have the grit to do what in your heart you know is on the level. Your investment of a clear conscience brings in steady returns of contentment for you.

You have a methodical mind, and are a very thorough worker. You have a fair amount of vision, and enough courage to go into something more daring than a "safety first" profession. Your own initiative is sufficient to make you take advantage of your opportunities, without outside stimulants. You prefer doing things on your own, although you can do team work with good grace and will. You are a little inclined to harbor your grievances bit by bit, until you have such a load that you spontaneously explode, disaster following. Your smile often conceals turbulent thoughts.

If December 25th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger period is from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Materially, things will be at a standstill on this date, although there may be an unusual mental awakening, which may mark the beginning of a period of advancement. A certain amount of care is necessary in respect to health. Successful time for those having sporting or athletic interests.

Children born on this December 25th will have practical natures, moderate ambitions, plodding ways, and even tempers. They will reveal no decided talents, although they will be capable of doing many things well, and they will be chronically industrious.

You have a very optimistic nature, and you seldom allow yourself to get downhearted. Your philosophy of life wins for you the affection of the world at large. You dip into life's pool too deeply, not to pick up many heartaches, but "the tougher the break, the broader the grin." You have a stimulating, intrepid personality, and the confidence which you have in yourself, or any cause which you may champion, is quickly transmitted to your associates. You are a sunny, and not a gloomy, person to have around. As a companion, a host or a guest, you are delightful, and although you are an able conversationalist, you are also a willing and interested listener.

You have innumerable ties and interests, and will enjoy a full social as well as business or home life. It is not unlikely that you will be a competent servant of the public, and a much loved one, in whatever capacity you work. When you are inwardly tingling with enthusiasm and excitement, you are outwardly debonair and casual. There is always a burning spirit beneath your neat, unruffled exterior and air of quiet self-possession. Allied with your receptive and acute intelligence, is a tireless energy and the gift to get things done.

Your horoscope is the picture of that of a happy and busy being. You are not a rainbow chaser; you find your sunbeams in the everyday realities.

Council Of Ministers Names New Members

PARIS, Dec. 23.— The Council of Ministers to-day filled several vacancies caused by recent resignations. Maurice Dormanu was made Minister of Pensions; Ernest Breant, Under Secretary of State for the Interior; Etienne Chariot, Under Secretary for Agriculture; Jacques Stern, Under Secretary for the Navy, and Pierre Tricard-Graveron, Under Secretary for Physical Education.

The Government renewed for six years the mandate of Gabrielle Hanotaux to the Permanent Court at The Hague, and it awarded the Cross of the Legion of Honor to the corps of firemen at Lyons for gallantry in the recent landslide disaster.

NO ELECTION NEEDED

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I have read the letters of Walter J. Oke, and H. O. Goodfellow, which appeared in the Examiner last night. The idea of having no election this year strikes me as a good one, as the amount required to carry on an election could be turned over to relief which is much needed in the city at the present time.

Without in any way endeavoring to thwart the will of the people in their desire for representation, I feel that under the circumstances, we could very well this year make an exception, and elect the members of the three bodies by acclamation.

Yours very truly,

MONEY NEEDED FOR RELIEF.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—After reading the two letters in the "Voice of the People" I have come to the conclusion that F. O. Goodfellow and Walter J. Oke have described truthfully the sentiments of the people of Peterborough, especially the working classes, which are the great majority of the voters.

Not many people can afford $1,000 or probably more—for relief during these depressing times and the money should be kept for some fund for further relief—which I firmly believe will not make any difference as regards the running of our city for another twelve months, until things are better and then anyone who cares can throw his hat into the ring for what he desires.

Yours truly,
Charles Duggan.

GOOD WILL TO MEN

Once more, Times' restless, running stream,
Brings round the joyous Christmas tide,
And chiming bells again ring out
The glad Evangel, far and wide;
Again that jubilant refrain
Re-echoes over vale and hill,
Glory to God in Heaven above,
To men on earth, peace and good-will.

This song, the Heavenly Minstrels sang,
When Christ was born in stable stall,
A Prince and Saviour come to bring,
Salvation free, for great and small;
Lingers that song's sweet cadence, still
Glory to God, in Heaven above,
To men on earth, Peace and Good-will.

Solace for every aching heart,
And balm for every human pain,
Light, life and love, and hope and joy
Breath in that blest angelic strain,
Oh, may it, with bright Yuletide cheer
And gladness every bosom fill,
Making our lives one lasting song
Of praise to God, to men good-will.

Let all that's bygone, bygone be,
If aught it brought us of regret,
The thoughtless word, and unkind deed
The wrong, strive to forgive, forget,
Thus for our Lord the way prepare,
That He may come, and reign, until
That He may come, and reign, until
The whole wide world takes up the song,
Glory to God, to men Good-will.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

The weekly meeting of the First Peterborough (St. John's) Troop met last Friday at the usual hour. After the usual opening the patrols were inspected by the leaders. The boys were sent to their corners to carry on in the patrol work. A great part of the evening was given over to parcelling up the toys which were to be distributed by the boys.

At the camp fire the boys sang lustily. Final arrangements were made for the distribution of toys.

It was announced that instead of the usual meeting next Friday the boys would have a hike. The boys are to leave the corner of Brock and Water Streets at 10.30 a.m. sharp, with the Assistant Scoutmaster in charge. If, however the weather is unfavorable the usual meeting at 7 p.m. will be held instead. The meeting closed in the usual manner.

AJAX LEADS OIL SECTION

Mine Issues Display Some Strength in Forenoon Despite Light Trading.

NORDON DECLINES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24. (CP)—In spite of light trade mining issues displayed some strength in the forenoon to-day, bulk of movements taking an upward direction.

Ajax oil was a bright spot in its section, price showing a gain of 18 at $1.40 at noon. Acme recovered a point to 20 and interlisted oils were all slightly higher. Nordon dropped another fraction, however, and Calmont was off 3 to 20.

Noranda firmed 35 to $13.75, Sherritt Gordon was up a couple oat 68 and Nickel was up a quarter almost from the opening. Other base metals were unchanged in small turnover.

Lake Shore was in good demand and gained a half to $22.50. Dome advanced 10 to $8.90. Big Missouri eased a couple to 38 and balance of the gold group was holding.

Chicago Wheat Lower While Corn Advances

CHICAGO, Dec. 24. (CP)—Wheat averaged lower and corn higher at the opening to-day. Absence of aggressive buying characterized the wheat market, whereas corn offerings were relatively scarce. Starting 3-8 cents off to ¼ up, wheat afterward held steady. Corn opened 3-8 7-8 cents higher and subsequently reacted.

SALTA, Argentina, Dec. 24. — (C.P.).—Thirty-five persons were killed and seventy injured in an earthquake which rocked the State of La Poma in North-Western Argentina early to-day.

Fragmentary despatches received here said the entire town of La Poma, which has about 1,500 inhabitants, was destroyed.

NEW YORK LIST STRONGER TODAY

BONDS READY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(CP)—The security markets were decidedly cheered at finding a 2 per cent rediscount rate on Wall Street's Christmas Tree to-day.

The recent abundance of money has been more apparent than real, owing to the unsatisfactory market for bonds, and the financial district, which a fortnight ago had about decided there would be no Christmas, felt that it had grounds for believing this gift from the Federal Reserve would prove more useful than ornamental.

Stocks responded with a brisk advance, bonds were only a trifle steadier, but the effects could scarcely be expected to be felt so promptly in that market. The advance of stocks was evidently accelerated by short covering. Such wide moving issues as Union Pacific, Worthington, Allied Chemical, Case, American Water Works, and Auburn advance 5 to 7 points, and gains of 3 or 4 were made by such issues as American Can, Borden, American Tobacco "B", Air Reduction, and Eastman. Such issues as U.S. Steel, Anaconda, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, Union Carbide, Macy, Woolworth and International Harvester gained 2 points or more.

The favorable interpretation placed on the reduction in the New York Federal reserve banks rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent was in contrast to the rather cynical view which had been taken of some of the numerous reductions which has carried the rate down from the peak of 6 per cent 14 months ago. During earlier months of the year, however, the bond market was strong, and credit not only cheap but readily available.

Election of Officers All Saints' Choir

J. Raybould was elected president of All Saints Church Choir at the annual meeting held recently, when the activities of the past year were reviewed and election of officers for the coming year took place.

G. E. Chandler occupied the chair and the past president, F. G. Roberts read a very encouraging report, expressing his appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him in being president for two years and the proud feeling he had to preside over such a splendid body of singers. He thanked the members for their support. Reports were received from the other officers all of which were very encouraging.

Expressions of thanks were tendered to George E. Chandler, choirmaster and Mrs. W. A. Logan, organist, for their valued services, in leading and directing the choir.

Other officers for the coming year are: Mrs. W. A. Logan, Hon. President; Mrs. E. Young, vice president; V. G. Chandler, secretary; A. Siddall, assistant secretary; J. Packman, librarian; J. Gibson, assistant librarian; Mrs. J. Gibson, robes mistress; Mrs. D. Worboy, treasurer. Mrs. J. Howard, social convenor.

Dainty refreshments were served by the social committee and the singing of Auld Lang Syne brought the meeting to a close.

IT'S UP TO MAYOR DENNE.

Editor, Examiner:— With the way practically cleared to an acclamation election, why is it not up to Mayor Denne to retire in my favor, and keep his promise. Having handled the affairs of the city for many years, and being the senior member at this time, I feel that I am the logical candidate for the office of chief magistrate for 1931. Having stood aside to allow Mayor Denne an extra term un-contested, I now look for a like courtesy, as promised a year ago.

RUMOR MEIGHEN MAY RUN AGAIN

Ottawa Report Claims He Will Re-enter Politics in East Hamilton Election.

BE FINANCE MINISTER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24.—Rumors, occasionally rife, were revived again Monday with an Ottawa report to the Manitoba Free Press, that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, of Toronto, might re-enter politics, run in the East Hamilton by-election, and become Minister of Finance.

Inquiries at the home of Mr. Meighen disclosed the fact that he was in Ottawa. In ministerial circles the report was regarded with some scepticism.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, interviewed at Montreal on his way to spend Christmas at Sackville, N.B., was laconic and non-committal. He would not affirm. He would not deny. All he would say was:

"I have nothing to say."

It was reported from Ottawa that Mr. Meighen's visit to the captial involved business with the Department of Railways and Canals ,on behalf of a client.

FIREMEN FINISH PROGRAM FOR CHRISTMAS RELIEF WORK

Packing Bales of Food, Clothing and Toys for Thirty-five Families.

SUPPORT APPRECIATED

At last, with Christmas only a day away, the firemen are commencing to prepare boxes for the many families in need of the season's cheer. The gigantic task has been most efficiently handled by a group of men whom the public look upon as merely firemen, but who are really artisans. To say that they are skilful in this manner requires no other proof than the sight of the wonderful transformation of old broken toys into new ones. Wheels missing from trains, heads missing from rocking horses, incomplete games, torn books, faulty motors are all rectified in an incredible manner. A new coat of paint makes the toy worthy of any high-class toy department.

The willingness of the workers too is amazing. The serious fire-fighters are young once again and a feeling akin to boyish pleasure pervades the workshop where they spare neither time nor labor.

The more substantial work of collecting and storing food and clothing is done with equal good nature. A fireman was seen peeling the debris off some cabbages, of which there were some six dozen, and it must be remarked the relationship of this occupation to the one of fire-fighting seemed somewhat remote.

Some 20 bushels of potatoes have been divided into 35 boxes; cabbages, beetroots, squash, and turnips will be added to each. Groceries from the second floor storehouse will also be included.

To correspond with the 35 cartons of food, the same number of boxes of clothing are being made up. The Assistant Chief calls off the members and ages of the people in a family, and their requirements. The judgment of the firemen is, of course, aided by his relief research, so that underwear, stockings, shirts, ties, trousers, waistcoats, suit coats, toques gloves, shoes, overshoes, overcoats, dresses, etc., are selected accurately for each family.

The firemen have given three distinct proofs of their enjoyment and sincerity in the work. In the first place, one of the men said, "We get as much kick out of doing this work as the people who receive aid through our means." Another proof is their willingness to carry on the work in answer to any request. And lastly, instead of waiting to be thanked, thank those who contributed to their fund. They make the following statement: "We, the members of Branch No. 11 of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Firefighters, wish to take this opportunity of thanking all those who have in any way contributed to the success of our enterprise."

It is indeed such noble-hearted men who make the world a better place, and though they receive no monetary reward, yet they have the esteem and respect of both donor and receiver.

Mr. Ling was identified by his son, who read the story of the finding of the body in the morning papers. Davis, at Lake Avenue, and looked after the management of their farm.

MASON CITY, Iowa, December 23 (C.P.). — Dixie Willson is still $495 ahead.

Miss Willson, who described herself as scenarist and short story writer from New York, chased a tall purse-snatcher down a street for all her short strides and 37 years.

"Give me the purse," she said, "I need the money."

"I need it myself," was his answer.

Arbitration followed over a five-dollar note and three ones. He insisted on keeping the "five," to "buy himself a good meal."

Miss Willson expressed herself satisfied, wished her robber a Merry Christmas, and returned to her mother, revealing a hidden coin purse containing $500, salvaged from the purse during the parley.

GALT SITE FOR GIRLS' SCHOOL.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24.—(CP) —Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario, yesterday announced after a Cabinet meeting that the Ontario Government had accepted the site at Galt, Ont., for the building of a girls' school. The site constitutes 40 acres on the Galt-Preston highway and cost the City of Galt $8,000.

McINTOSH AND RYE ENTER LISTS

of the unemployed residents of the township brought out the fact as stated by Mr. Waterman that the cost of provisions, fuel and other aid is charged against the municipal treasury; and the further fact as stated by Mr. Rye and Mr. Wood that the expense of constructing sidewalks, which has been the major employment created by the township, is levied against the owners of the property fronting on these sidewalks.

Archie Patterson, road commissioner, reviewed the year's work in his department. As an example of the cost of improving township roads, he showed that 181 yards were drawn from the municipal pit to the river road at a cost of $232.80, or $1.30 a cubic yard. To the 12th concession 189 yards were crushed and hauled by truck at a cost of $184.20 or 98 cents a yard. As a comparison with this cost, Mr. Patterson said that 62 yards were drawn by teams to this same road for $90.30 or at the rate of $1.46 a yard, and this gravel was not crushed.

Bruce Johnston.

The money levied for relief work would be completely expended by the end of the year, Bruce Johnston said.

"Unemployment conditions in the township have been a big problem this year," he continued. "We did not realize the extent of them until the last few months, and it will take a lot of money if we keep up employment until spring as we have been doing. The paysheet for the last eight days amounted to between $500 and $600. That is a large sum for the township, but it is better business to provide work for men than the other system of providing them with provisions."

Mr. Johnston said that the relief employment was cutting wood, and building sidewalks and improving roads.

Reeve McIntosh.

Reeve McIntosh said that this year had been one of the most difficult from the council's standpoint. It had been a heavy problem to furnish the means and work for the unemployed men of the municipality.

Mr. McIntosh reviewed briefly the major activities of the county council this year. The Bensfort and Wallace Point bridges had been greatly improved and strengthened at a cost of $6,290, half of which was paid by the province and the other half was borne equally by Peterborough county and the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. Old Age Pensions exceeded $8,000, and Mothers' Allowances $7,665; schools cost the county $25,000 and provincial highways added $11,000.

Passing on to North Monaghan affairs, Mr. McIntosh stated that the program of building sidewalks in the suburban section of the township was adopted for the convenience of the ratepayers who needed them on their streets, and also because of the employment given to men who were out of work.

"We gave employment to all the men we could," said Mr McIntosh. "We asked Henry Hickey, who was in charge of the work, whether he could change the crews around in weekly shifts, but he said that the teaching of new men would add to the cost, and while we wanted to help the unemployed we did not feel like wasting the people's money. I don't do it in my own affairs."

The Reeve was asked why city men were employed on the job, and this opened the way to further discussion of the boundary barrier against the exchange of labor between the city and he township.

"Township men were turned down on the Y.M.C.A. building", said the Reeve, "but the Y.M.C.A. gets help from the rural parts of the county. I have done all I could to help the unemployed in North Monaghan this year, nine-tenths of the labor employed on the sidewalks was from the ranks of the unemployed and I believe every dollar was earned."

Mr McIntosh next referred to the year's economy of drawing gravel by trucks instead of by teams. He quoted the number of truck trips an hour, and said that the cost this year by trucks was $1.20 as compared with $1.74 by teams last year.

Radios, Gas and Liquor.

Mr. McIntosh denied the report that the council had ordered the surrender of liquor permits as a condition for the engagement of men on the township's work. "And we didn't say that unemployed would have to sell their radios and swap their autos. But we certainly did feel that when relief was to be granted it did not look well for money to be going to men to get liquor when their wives and families needed every cent of that money. We did say that if radios were paid for and they didn't cost much to operate then it was none of the council's business; we also said that we did not intend to supply any man with money for oil and gas to run around the country while his family needed food."

Sidewalk Cost.

A. Rose, contractor, said he was interested in the Edison Avenue sidewalk work. There were 774 blocks, each five feet square in this sidewalk. Each block cost the township $5.90.

"That seems an awful price," Mr Rose remarked. "If the work had been let by contract you could have saved $600 or more, and you would have had just as good a job."

Reeve McIntosh replied that on the contract system the township would have had to engage an engineer.

"We did have one for half a day, and his rate was $18", the Reeve continued. "At that rate the engineer's wages would have more than balanced the $600."

Deputy- Reeve Waterman.

W. G. Waterman, deputy-reeve, declared that, considering everything, the council this year had given good service. The rate was up a little, but that was due to the low township rate last year resulting from a provincial grant on a grader.

"I think there is a silver lining for next year," said Mr. Waterman. "The Government is going to give us 40 per cent. on our road levy. As to the cost of schools that is not in our hands. We are just a collecting agency.

There has been some criticism about unemployment. One thing I'd like to say is that as long as we have two sections in the township, the suburban and the rural it behooves us to be careful and not ask the farmers to pay a special tax for charity. The Suburban Development Act provides for such a situation as we have. For the suburban section you would have a service board of five elected members who would arrange for the work to be done in that area and the tax to be levied. I think that system would work better for all concerned in our township.

Peter McArthur—Does the cost of the sidewalks affect the farmers in any way.

Mr. Waterman—No, except for their upkeep. The people who petition for the walks are the ones who pay for them. It is a charge against the property abutting on the walks that are built.

Mr. McArthur—The money that is paid out for that work is not charity. The people are getting full value for their money.

W. J. Byers in the Field.

Wm. J. Byers, announcing that he was again in the field for councillor and was not seeking the deputy-reeveship, declared that he and Mr. Patton who were in charge of the sidewalk construction had saved the people a "lot of money."

"On the cement we bought we saved six cents a barrel, and that amounted to $105; on gravel and sand we saved 25 cents a load. If you feel that I have been of any use to you, I hope you will elect me again next year."

George Patton

"There were two or three city men working on our sidewalks from the start" said George Patton. "Mr. Hickey asked for that privilege and we gave it to him. On the other hand he employed township men on work in the city. He had as many as five township men on a city job. I got on to help a carpenter on the house Mr. Hickey was building.

Late in the fall Mr. Hickey took most of the street gang up to that job in the city and had them there two or three days. I don't think we should sit too hard on Mr. Hickey. He could have sat on us, by not hiring any township men in the city. He said he hoped the mayor wouldn't get to known. I believe we got as good a job on those sidewalks as we ever got. I stand behind the Reeve in our relief policy. I won't stand for buying gas with relief money. As for the liquor permits we simply gave to the vendor the names af the men who were on relief work. That was just what Sir Henry Drayton wanted. He issued an order to all government vendors not to give permits to men on relief work."

William Whitefield

Mr. Whitfield struck an optimistic note throughout his short speech accepting nomination. He suggested acclamation for the council as a whole. The township would save $100 or more.

Harold B. Rye

Mr. Rye said he had no fault to find with the council's handling of the routine business of the township this year.

"The township rate is exactly what I had expected it to be this year. A year ago when I left it, I expected the rate to be increased, but I also expected some relief would be necessary in S.S. No. 2. The farmers' tax rate is a little higher, because they had to raise a little more money. I know a lot of people in the township had the impression there was something crooked because they never saw a half-mill rate before; and that was used against me. Has this year's council found anything astray in the accounts we left? Did they find a deficit and have to raise money to cover it? I'd like to hear anyone tell the ratepayers now what our record showed. The difference in the cost of running the township this year and last year is simply this: It was $296.18 higher this year than last year. If that is all the difference, we can say that there wasn't much money wasted last year in running the township.

I am sorry to see a division between the rural and urban sections of the township. It had always been my objective while in office to try to keep the two sections united and in harmony. A house divided against itself cannot stand. Surely we should be able to get together, especially in this time of crisis."

Referring to Mr. Waterman's remarks, Mr. Rye said that the Local Improvement Act was designed for districts like North Monaghan, although it was not a panacea for all the troubles of the township.

Says Farmers Laughing

"This year I think the farmers are laughing up their sleeves at the people in this end of the township. I was especially interested to hear it stated here to-day that the sidewalk work was started to give work for the unemployed. The property owners are the people who pay for their sidewalks; but the sidewalks were planned for relief work I'd like to know why less than ten percent. of the ratepayers have been called upon to carry the employment relief since June."

Voice from the audience—"That's right."

"In regard to township men working in the city, everybody knows the sidewalks in Monaghan were purely a civic contract paid for by the people, and the foreman should have been instructed to employ only township men. The city would never consented to any such arrangement as that. On his own job Mr. Hickey could hire whoever he wished. You can't get a North Monaghan man on the city drainage work to-day.

There is some talk of letting the old council go back. I'm satisfied. I don't envy Mr. McIntosh his job. I know it too well; but perhaps it might be the best thing to clear the atmosphere by having an election.

Mr. McIntosh criticized me last year, saying he couldn't see why we bought some gravel from Archie Patterson when we had a pit of our own. He said I had an interest in Patterson's pit."

Mr. McIntosh—No; you are misinformed.

Mr. Rye—I have that from my friends. This year, Mr. McIntosh got gravel from Patterson's pit not only in the spring, but in November he bought 189 yards from Mr. Patterson. I'm afraid, Mr. McIntosh, you have a bigger interest in that pit than I had. You must have bought my share.

If there is an election I'll be in the field, and I have just one word. I'd like to have Mr. McIntosh fight the election on its merits and leave my personal affairs alone. I never go out whispering little stories around. If Mr. McIntosh wins, I can congratulate him as I have done before, and take the trimming with a smile. I ask you all to get out and use your franchise. I'm not asking you all to vote for me, because I know very well all of you won't.

When Mr. Rye had finished, Mr. Faires asked him: "Didn't you say a year ago that you were not coming out again?"

Mr. Rye—No. I said 'perhaps this is the end of my career'.

Mr. Faires—When you were Warden didn't you say that was the last?

Mr. Rye—I told Torrance Lillico, and he is present here to-day, that whenever he wanted the chair I would step out. Isn't that true, Mr. Lillico?"

Mr. Lillico Yes.

Robert A. Dobbin

Mr. Dobbin predicted a strenuous time for the 1931 council, no matter who was elected to it. He expressed the opinion that this year's council had transacted the affairs of the township in an economical and efficient manner. The taxes had gone up a little, and they were likely to go up a little more."

"I'd like to see the Council go in by acclamation" Mr. Dobbin said.

Hy Wood Speaks Out

Hy Wood of the Johnson Motors Company, candidate for council, told the ratepapers, in other words, that he wore no man's collar.

"The sidewalks built this year don't interest any people in the township but those who are paying for them, and that's the man whose property faces on the sidewalks" Mr. Woods asserted.

"You employed Mr. Hickey at $12 a day or more, and he spent part of the time on that job and the rest of the time he was bossing Mr. Patton and the other fellows on that job uptown."

Mr. Wood attacked the council's system of gravelling the roads.

"Why don't you have that done by tender?" he asked.

Mr. McIntosh—We've always done it our own way.

Mr. Wood—That's one thing that's wrong. The council has been lax in its method of handling that business."

W. J. Byers—We want a wise man like you in there.

Mr. Wood—That's all right.

Mr. Wood next stated his belief that the farmers with their steady work, their warm homes and beds, and their three "squares" a day, didn't know anything about the need of charity in the suburban sections. "I use the word charity, but we mean relief up here" Mr. Wood commented. "I don't think the property in this township was ever properly assessed. That is something that needs attention. You've never had a competent assessor as far as I can see."

"All right" remarked Mr. Wood. "I've lived here twenty years, and I think I know something about it. I don't call a farmer competent to value buildings. What does he know about the cost of buildings? If he had to value horses and cattle, I certainly say he should know all about it."

A farmer asked Mr. Wood what a city man knew about farm values and he replied that a competent land valuator could be engaged in such cases.

"If I get in and it will make no difference to me any way, at least I won't be dictated to by the reeve or deputy-reeve."

Mr. Faires—You will be if you're under Rye.

Mr. Rye at the rear of the hall was laughing as heartily as the rest of the crowd.

Mr. Wood (pointing at Mr. Faires in the front seat)—This man thinks he knows more about Mr. Rye than I do. And if I get in, the township clerk won't dictate the policy of the council.

Mr. McIntosh—Who would dictate?

Mr. Wood—The council.

Mr. McIntosh—It has always been that way in my time.

Mr. Wood—I don't think so.

Mr. McIntosh—You weren't at the meetings.

William Stevens

William Stevens announced himself as the people's candidate. His policy, he declared, was a square deal for every taxpayer in the township, without any distinction between the rural and suburban sections.

Mr. Stevens said he believed in the principle that the office should seek the man.

"I've never yet gone seeking for an office" he proclaimed.

Mr. Faires—Then you don't belong to the unemployed.

Mr. Stevens—I do. There must be some reason for this friction between the city and North Monaghan; and it is up to the new council to get together and solve that difficulty whatever it is, so that our people can work in the city for that is where they spend their money.

Mr. McIntosh—It cant' be done.

Mr. Stevens—There's no such word as can't.

Mr. Stevens concluded with the recommendation—"Elect me and you won't be sorry."

W. J. Byers—We'll have money in the bank to burn if you get in.

More laughter at that repartee, and Mr. Stevens returning to the back of the hall where Mr. Byers was also seated followed up the argument in the din, and along that front there was anything but quietness...

Andrew Kent

Mr. Kent imparted the information that if he lived on the north, instead of the south side of Lansdowne street, his tax bill would be $75 higher.

Mr. White declined to address the council. "It keeps me busy looking after my own affairs" he said.

Reeve Promises Work

Speaking again, Mr. McIntosh said —"I'll take twenty men out of employment and give them work all winter at my own expense."

Mr. Wood—At what wages?

Mr. McIntosh—Just a minute, if I am elected to the council of Monaghan, and if the township provides vehicles for the men! They will be paid every Friday or Saturday for whatever work they do. If I haven't enough money perhaps Mr. Rye will piece me out."

Mr. Rye—I've never had to go out and buy votes yet.

Mr. McIntosh—I've never had to go out and buy them, either.

Mr. Rye—You have just said that you would give twenty men work providing you are elected.

Mr. Wood—How about the wages?

Mr. McIntosh—$1.50 a cord for cutting it. That is what they are all paying.

ASSESSMENT APPEALS ARE HEARD BEFORE HIS HONOR JUDGE HUYCKE

JUDGMENT RESERVED

T. H. Adam, 355 George street; J. P. Bond, 359 George street; W. Flannery, 162 Charlotte street; Hon. G. N. Gordon, over 393-395 George street; Gordon MacKay and Company, 351 George street; Grafton and Company, 379-81 George street; H. E. Hodgens, 345-347 George street; McDermid Drug Company, 393 George street; McDermid and Jury, 321 George street; Metropolitan Corporation, 371 George street; H. S. Routley, 341 George street; Tip Top Tailors, 329 George street; United Cigar Store, 323 George street; Stanley Warne, 349 George street; F. W. Woolworth Company, 375-377 George street; L. Yeates and J. Econs, 339 George street; L. Yeates, 337 George street.

Hon. G. N. Gordon acted in the interests of all the above respondents, with the exception of the Gordon MacKay Company and Grafton Company, who were represented by J. A. O'Brien.

Four Others Listed

Four other appeals were also listed in which the appellants were the Woolworth Company, F. O. Goodfellow, Dr. Barnado's Homes and The Bank of Nova Scotia, all respecting their own property, which they claim is assessed at too high a rate.

Witnesses included City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, City Assessor Henry, Miss Helen M. Lynch, registry office stenographer; H. T. Hickey, building contractor; G. H. Thompson, accountant Toronto Loan and Savbroker; Walter Nugent, real estate broker; T. C. Ephgrave, contractor, adjustor and appraiser, and the various respondents and appellants.

Giving his reasons for the increased assessment for the year 1931, in respect to the Grafton Store, the City Assessor, stated he had taken into consideration the sale price of other stores in the immediate vicinity and had also taken a careful survey of the number of people passing on the east and on the west sides of George street, and found that from 55 to 75 per cent more people use the west side of the street. He knew of no alterations to the Grafton Store in the past year.

Mr. O'Brien—To what extent do business conditions influence assessment?

Witness—Supply and demand regulates the values.

In reply to Mr. Gordon witness could not say whether building costs had been reduced from 10 to 12 per cent this year, over last year.

Inspected Building

H. T. Hickey, building contractor called by Mr. Corkery said he had made an inspection of the Gordon MacKay store. In order to arrive at an estimate as to its value he had seen copies of the plans and had measured the building, and had also inspected it to find out the nature of construction, and had figured on the unit costs. He placed the net value of the building at $47,328. The Woolworth building he valued at $38,320 net value.

Cross-examined by J. A. O'Brien, witness said he had made four valuations in his 22 years experience in the contracting trade.

Mr. Gordon — I suppose the evidence you have given in regard to the Gordon MacKay building will apply to the Woolworth building.

Witness—Yes Sir.

T. C. Ephgrave, building contractor, adjustor and appraiser called by J. A. O'Brien, said of the Grafton building that it is one of the oldest buildings on George street. He placed the depreciation on the building at 5 per cent per annum. There are lots of old buildings on George street, said Mr. Ephgrave, which are built of soft brick.

Witness had tendered on the alterations to the Gordon MacKay building, and would say that the evidence as given by C. H. Saunders the manager of the Richard Hall Store, had covered the ground very well. He did not think there would be much salvage from the Gordon MacKay building during alterations. The destructive work on the building would run as high as 40 per cent, he said in answer to Mr. O'Brien, and thought that Mr. Hickey's estimate of 23 cents per cubic foot for the construction work was too high, mentioning that the Loblaw Store which was constructed in the winter time, when building costs are higher, cost 21 cents per cubic foot.

Mr. Hickey, recalled by Mr. Corkery, stated the difference in the construction of the Loblaw Store and the Hall store and the reasons for estimating the same at 23 cents per cubic foot. He said the same cost as the Loblaw Store would be $10 per linear foot and for the Richard Hall Store [illegible] of superior construction and has two banks of plate glass windows at $140 per linear foot. He had put in the Kresge Store [illegible] at a cost of $174 per linear foot.

His Honor [illegible] the court said I shall [illegible] my mind as to whether to make an increase or decrease but I [illegible] very well question them.

MILLBROOK SCHOOL

MILLBROOK, Dec. 24. Examiner Correspondent.—The annual entertainment rendered by the pupils of the Public school in the Town Hall on Friday evening was an undoubted success the weeks of careful training by the teachers ending in the capable manner in which each number on the program was given.

J. W. Smith, chairman of the school board, acted as chairman, and extended a hearty welcome, on behalf of the school staff, to the large audience, promising a program of merit as is the case each year when the pupils, senior and junior, make up the list of artists. Miss Ella Elson was the pianist of the evening. Decorations in keeping with Christmas season made the interior of the hall attractive, the gaily trimmed Christmas tree being a feature of special interest.

An opening chorus, "If I were You, And You Were I," with the pupils of the three rooms of the public school massed upon the platform, made a strong appeal to the audience, the excitement visible on the faces of the row of little tots in the front creating an especial sympathy and interest.

Little Mary Handley, daintily-dressed, and with cute gestures, had a welcome with her recitation, "Merry Christmas", and the brief dialogue, "Santa's Mistake" by Bobby Ridge and Ruth Lunn, with its story of a doll for the boy, and jumping jacks for the wee girlie, the exchange of the gifts, and the smoothing over of the blunder with a kiss, won all hearts.

An exercise, "Christmas Wishes," by seven girls of the primary room, was very pretty, those taking part and carrying appropriate emblems, being: Betty Thornton, Mary Handley, Emma Pearce, Mary Raper, Betty Smith, and Ruth Lunn. One of the 'hits' of the evening was the drill which followed, given by sixteen of the boys and girls from Principal B. B. Dawson's room, the precision of movement with which the streamers of red and green, suspened from a large hoop gaily decorated with small Christmas bells, were woven and inter-woven throughout the intricacies of the various figures, calling forth prolonged applause from the audience. The girls were very trim in their white middies and dark skirts, and bright green ties, while the boys were equally smart in their attire of white shirt waists and dark trousers, with red bow ties.

Concluding this part of the program was a recitation, "The Teacher's Visitor at School," cleverly given by Maude Raper who looked very dainty in her little frock of ribbon-trimmed, white georgette, and made her opening and closing curtsey with the grace of an experienced performer.

Pleasing Second Half.

A cantata, "Bringing Up Santa", made up the second half of the entertaining program, Principal Dawson offering a brief explanatory sketch before each of the two acts and incidentally thanking all who had helped in the task of preparing the entertainment, giving special mention to the willing and capable service of Miss Elson at the piano throughout the practices as well as on the evening of the concert.

The raising of the curtain disclosed a bare-looking room, with a candle, in tin holder burning dimly on a common deal table, while plain chairs, much the worse for wear, completed the furniture of what was really the Shome of Santa Claus. Into this shabby room came a young lady of fashion, Bernice Smith, who turned up her nose at its unattractive interior declaring it must be improved upon at once, and her intention of sending Fitzgerald to accomplish this purpose. Her accompanying assistants, upheld her in the projected changes, were: Marjorie McDowell, Kathleen Smith, Grace Sloan, Mary Ridge, Doreen Deyell, Ada Pearce, Audrey Garside, Kathleen and Prudie Davis.

Mrs. Santa (Mary Nattress) had a very sweet voice as she sang "Santa Wants Home Sweet Home," in answer to the revolutionary changes proposed by William Fitzgerald Van Dusen (Jack Arundel), whose many grips were brought in by the taxi-driver (Reg Edmunds), and whose lament at the lack of a valet for his personal service was decidedly voiced. Jack also had a most attractive voice for his several songs and the song of Santa himself. Jos Thorndyke, "Keep on Smiling," was so "catchy" it nearly had the audience joining in.

Scene two was a revelation as the curtain rose and showed Santa's home refurnished and redecorated, a radio being prominent among its new arrangements. Eveidently Mrs. Santa, now appearing with her plain dark dress discarded for a dainty affair of flesh-colored georgette, and her hair fashionably dressed, had fallen in completely with the plans of William Fitzgerald with the resulting transformation of herself and the home.

Santa, however, does not care for the changes in his wife and the home affairs, and is particularly disgusted with the jazz furnished by the radio. The maids also, Mary Eakins, Marjorie McDowell, Audrey Garside and Beatrice McDowell, in trim caps and aprons, voice their disapproval in the song, "Ask the Maids". The arrival of the doctor (A. T. Armstrong), his diagnosis of a "Very Serious Case," together with a limited diet, reduce poor Santa to feeling so ill he has to be helped to his couch, and there is grave danger no trip on Christmas Eve will be possible.

The verdict of the insurance agent, Mr. Brown (Harry McLeod), and the visit of the Neighbors (Margaret Smith, Ida Lunn, May Ferren, Bonna Clarke, Lloyd McMahon, Kenneth Kidd, Lawrence Hawken, Gertie Richards), with their song, "Don't you Worry and Fret," also contributed to Santa's depressed condition. In the end, however, William Fitzgerald is forced to leave, giving up his intention of taking Santa's place on Christmas Eve, in a new and up-to-date costume, and with his valet, James, (Lyal Nattress), departs for his home in New York, since Gordon Jones' arrival, and his cheery song, "Nothing is the Matter With You, Santa," convinces the jolly old chap that all is well, and his illness only imaginary.

Mrs. Santa's change of mind, and of dress, lead too to the 'going back to the old days when we were so happy,' and the closing chorus, "O Santa, Better Believe He Knows a Thing or Two," brought to a happy conclusion a well-rendered program.

The distribution of gifts from the tree was a feature of especial interest to the young folk, the teachers, Misses B. Montgomery, and L. Orchard, with Principal B. B. Dawson, and Miss Elson, all being remembered with presents from the well-laden branches. Every pupil had a bag of candy, and no one went home without his or her personal gift from the tree, as well.

Radio music, while the audience was gathering, and during the program was made possible through the courtesy of G. F. Harrington, who kindly loaned a fine instrument for the occasion.

Knights Of Pythias Distribute Relief

The Knights of Pythias, under the leadership of Chief George Gimblett, were busy Tuesday afternoon preparing boxes for distribution to the poor and needy. The Lodge is very fortunate that there has been only one case of need in the Order, and that was immediately remedied. It is expected that 23 cartons of food will be given away, so that that number of families may have the wherewithal to make their Christmas dinners.

Each box contains the following: a 12-pound fowl, cabbage, turnips, potatoes, ½ pound tea, 7 pounds of flour, one pound shortening, 5 pounds sugar, 2 ounces of pepper, 1 pound salt, 2 cans of peas or corn, 10 oranges, 2¼ pounds sweets, 1 pound butter and bread.

Great credit is due the Knights for their splendid contribution. The money comes entirely from the proceeds of bridge parties. So a good by-word in this case would be "Pleasure for pleasure," for by people paying for pleasure they provide happiness to the less fortunate.

Lunch was greatly enjoyed by all.

A vote of thanks was proposed to the teacher, Miss Florence Tedford, for the time she had spent in preparing the concert and for her lovely gifts to the children.

AT ROSENEATH.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 24.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Monday was a great day with the teachers and scholars of the Roseneath schools. Sharp at one o'clock the large crowd was called to order by Rupert Nichol who was appointed chairman. The program opened by a chorus from the pupils of the junior room.

The remainder of the program was as follows: Recitation by Jessie Mounrey; dialogue, "Hiring a Maid"; song, "Christmas Dolls"; recitation by Gordon Pacey; a very pretty feature was the star drill; recitation by Jean Carew; dialogue, "Christmas Eve in the Schoolroom"; song "De West Wind Blows from de West"; recitation, Lois Talling; drill, "The Bethlehem Babe"; dialogue, "Uncle Joe's Will"; recitation by Clark Mouncey; selection by the orchestra, consisting of ten little tots dressed like 'niggers,' each playing some kind of a musical instrument, very much out of time but very amusing to the audience. A boys' drill which followed was splendidly given and humorous; recitation, Azetta Blodgett; dialogue, "At the Photographers"; song, 'Star of the East,' by Misses Bessie Turner, Avis Towns and Jessie Mouncey; Christmas carol by the audience, "Silent Night"; daisy drill by junior girls; recitation, Luella Timlin; dialogue, "The Hat Shop"; pantomine, "The Gypsy's Warning."

A chorus by the school closed the numbers on the list and then Santa Claus walked in and had a very busy time unloading the well- filled tree. Each pupil received a gift along with a big candy and an orange.

Silence was again called by the chairman and the pupils from both rooms presented to their teachers a (without ceremony) tray, with reflector and silver mountings and on the trays were placed a dainty tea service, also a box of chocolate. The teachers (Misses Kathleen and Helen Barrie) though taken by surprise, made a pleasing reply in thanking the pupils, their parents and friends, not only for the cherished gifts, but for their presence in attending the children's concert.

MADOC

MADOC, Dec. 23.—(Examiner Correspondent.)—The services of the different churches on Sunday 21st, were characterized by special Christmas music celebrating the glad approach of the Christmas season, and the festival of the Nativity.

After the lessons of the morning in the Sunday Schools, the joyous strains were continued throughout the morning and evening services of the day.

In the Anglican Church of St. John the Baptist, the Processional Hymn, "Hark! a Thrilling Voice is Sounding," and with special prayers and lessons the theme was carried through the morning service. The Scripture Readings were given by Professor Cross, and portions were read from Isaiah 32, and Luke 1: 26-45. The message given by Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds was based on the text, Thess. 1: 8-9, "For from you sounded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad; so that we need not speak anything. For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how we turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God."

Special organ solo followed the offertory, and the hymns, "Jesu, Lover of my Soul," and 'O Holy Spirit, Lord of Grace," followed, the latter as a Recessional.

The evening service was a special musical service, with caols, solos and choruses. The Processional Hymn, "Rejoice, the Lord of King," was preceded by an Organ Voluntary of Christmas tunes.

The usual order of evening service, was used by the Rector, Prof. Harold Cross again reading the lessons, St. Matt. 25: 31-46, Nunc Dimittis, Creed, and Prayers followd, after which a beautiful organ voluntary, "Judean Plains at Midnight," was played by Miss L. Hart.

Prof. Cross then read the Angel's message of the Birth of Christ, which was followed by 'Silent night, peaceful night," by the choir.

A beautifully rendered Sacred solo, "Song of Bethlehem," was given by Mrs P. Gatley Reynolds, which was followed by the Anthem, taken from Luke 1, "Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy," by the full choir.

A carol, solo and chorus followed, "See amid the winter snow," the solo part being well taken by Master Robert Aylesworth.

The scripture reading, 'And it came to pass," being the story as told by the shepherds, prefaced the Sacred solo, "Nazareth" (Gounod) by Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds, in spendid voice.

Offertory was followed by Organ Voluntary, 'O Sanclessima," The Christmas Carol, "The First Nowell," was joined in by choir and congregation, followed by Benediction and Vesper Hymn. As a Recessional Hymn 'Hail Gladdening Light," was used, and the Recessional Voluntary was "The Heavens are Telling," from Haydn's Creation

There was nothing of outstanding quality in the light run of cattle at the yards yesterday morning, but all killers sold readily at steady to firm prices, and the offering was cleaned up before 11 o'clock. Calves, including several loads which arrived by truck, sold at steady prices from $7.00 to $11.50 a cwt. for vealers. A few good lambs sold strong at $8.50 to $8.75 a cwt., or even with Monday's slight decline. There were no sheep in the offering up to 11 o'clock.

The hog market was unsettled up to 11 o'clock, with prospects of prices ranging from $9.75 to $10.00, f.o.b., and $11.00 to $11.25 w.o.c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Increased export buying was evident yesterday offsetting the meagre export business worked overnight which amounted to only 250,000 bushels.

The December future ended the day at 51¾c, May at 54¾c to 54⅞c, and July at 55¾c per bushel. Cash wheat figures were unchanged but coarse grains advanced fractionally in sympathy with the climb in wheat futures.

Futures:

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.— Upturns in grain values formed the rule most of the time yesterday, but corn toward the last backslid to fresh bottom levels. Influenced by profit-taking old May corn dropped to 68 5-8 cents per bushel, outdoing the season's previous low. Earlier, corn had scored brisk gains owing largely to curtailment of receipts, with wheat advancing as a result of unlooked for rallies in Liverpool quotations, and because of official statement that domestic old crop wheat prices would be maintained and at perhaps higher figures.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 to 7-8 cents per bushel above Tuesday, corn, 1-8 to 1 cent down; oats, unchanged to 1-2 cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25 cents.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—Retail prices of butter were higher, carlot quotations on fresh eggs were mainly lower, while cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

The increases in butter prices to retailers announced Monday went into effect yesterday, solids being 32c and prints 34c a pound, both up 1c. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized in carlots was quoted at 30¼c to 30½c a pound. Receipts were 210 boxes.

British Columbia carlot prices of fresh eggs were lower, extras selling at 44c to 45c, unchanged, and firsts at 37c, off 3c, while pullets were down 2c at 33c to 35c a dozen. Carlot prices of Ontario fresh eggs were up slightly, extras being quoted at 42c, unchanged; firsts at 35c, off 1c, and pullets up 1c at 33c. Seconds gained 2c at 30c a dozen. Receipts were 1,410 cases.

Ontario cheese was unchanged at 11c to 11¼c a pound and receipts were 269 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were unchanged, being quoted in carlots at 80c per 90 pounds bulk and to retailers 90c per 80-pound bag.

CHRISTMAS PARTIES IN THE GAY NINETIES

HOMES WERE LARGE AND ROOMY AND FROM MANSION TO COTTAGE EVERY HOME HAD BIG RE-UNION

Holidays Then as Now Had Their Rounds of Gaiety and Their Balls.

SANTA AND HIS BROWNIES.

Christmas Has For Centuries Been Kown as Great Home Festival.

The Christmas party of the '90's it was always a home festival, of course for who would dream of separating himself from family circles on this greatest day of all the year?

The holidays, then as now, had their round of gaieties, their balls for the college folk, their parties of the children their frolics at the church and in the Sunday school, their teas, and their various other festivities but the family that could not stir up a lively entertainment by itself and for itself for Christmas Eve was indeed socially impoverished.

Homes were large and roomy in those days. The more lavish and elegant houses had ball rooms on their upper floor but everywhere on Christmas eve every room of every home, mansion to cottage was ablaze with light in every room, even the unused parlors thrown open for the family gatherings that began when at an early hour in the evening, the first bevies of them began to arrive, mothers, fathers and children, maiden aunts and bachelor uncles, sometimes the family pastor, who had no family of his own, or the favorite teacher, stranded alone for the holidays, making up the great crowd of them when at last all had arrived

To the Jingle of Bells

Some of them would come by train in the daytime—guests whose arrival caused particular excitement by virtue of the distance, perhaps all of fifty or a hundred miles, which they had traveled Some of them would drive up to the door with flourish of jingling sleigh bells and a flash of horse and cutter The farmer brother would bring his family into town in the great bob sled in which he hauled wood in the daytime, and others would "walk over" the little youngsters bundled up on their wooden sleds and drawn over the packed snow on the wooden sidewalks to the very door of a hospitable home such as Aunt Martha's

There were various reasons why Aunt Martha and Uncle Will were customarily the hosts of Christmas eve to a family party. For one thing, their's was the largest and newest home in the family. For another, Aunt Martha was the finest cook among the lot of excellent cooks, and she dearly loved the excitement and never minded any of the bother of entertaining.

Old Fashioned Verandah.

Her wide and handsome house stood on a corner lot, surrounded by its verandah on the two street sides, with its bay windows downstairs and upstairs, its green shutters outside and its oaken blinds indoors. It was crowned with a magnificent cupola, and was brave with its rococco adornment of porch roof and window frame. Its wide door swung wide to each arriving group, and the gas light flickered out below the fanlight to illuminate the porch and steps and aid the stumbling ones. Her cordial smile and the hearty handshake of Uncle Will went out to welcome as the guests were drawn inside, embraced and greeted and directed to bedrooms upstairs or down to remove their wraps. Cutters were driven back into the barn and horses tied in the stalls or unhitched for the hours of their drivers' merrymaking.

By eight o'clock everybody had arrived, the multitude of wraps, the lap robes—plush or fur or buffalo hide—and the whips had been disposed variously about the house, the children were already romping through the long halls and sliding hilariously down the banisters, and the sleepy ones among the littlest of them had been made comfortable on the beds to dream their own little dreams of a baby's Christmas eve.

Tree of Importance.

Focus point of attention among the youngsters from the first was the tree—one of rearing magnificence, branches almost touching the carpet and the top cut off that would otherwise have swept the ceiling, and the star of tinsel hung upon the topmost twig. Its ornamental glass balls and strings of tinsel caught the reflection of the gas chandelier's glittering pendants, and when, with gay ceremony jolly Uncle Will lit the dozens of colored wax candles all over it as a signal for Santa Claus many the 'ohs" and the "ahs" that met its ravishing splendor. It seemed to the transfixed children that the pretty task was scarcely completed when who should bounce in but Santa Claus himself! There he was actually, the same gay scarlet Santa of the picture books, with his pack of toys and his string of sleigh bells jingling as he hopped around from child to child, shaking hands and pinching cheeks and patting awed little faces to whom so wonderful a happening was simply unbelievable as real. He was the jolliest of Santa Clauses—as jolly as young Uncle George, for instance, and one wondered for just a minute where Uncle George had gone just then, but soon forgot him again when Santa began to swing the attention of all to the tree.

A band of little "brownies" was commandeered among the youngsters by Santa, and gifts began to come down from the tree, to appear from hidden nooks beneath its branches or behind them, and girls and boys scurried from one to the other of the gay company as names were found on the packages and a child darted to deliver them to their owners Everybody had a generous pile of things by this time the last candle had flicked down into its tin socket and all the lights were extinguished on the tree for safety, and everybody had a tarleton bag of candy, a red apple and an orange

Jokes flew around and fun ran high in the holiday spirit of the evening rampant everywhere. Somebody suggested a song, about this time, and everybody flocked around the piano where Cousin Mamie, home for the holidays from college, coyly played a few of the skittish songs of the times—"Daisy Bell," and "We Won't Go Home Till Morning", and the like, then, everybody singing with great gusto, there followed the favorites from the Family Song Album! "O Susanna," "Old Black Joe," "When You and I Were Young," "Swanee River," "After the Ball," "White Wings," "Two Little Girls in Blue," and many others. Finally the music struck into a gay quadrille, and everybody took partners for a square dance.

"Swing Your Partners."

Back and forth the partners wove, in and out and round and round, circling, swinging, shuffling, tripping and diving in and out, while Uncle Will called the figures, 'swing your partners," "everybody waltz" and all the rest of them. Fun waxed higher and higher and the Virginia real was in order, with its long lane of partners bowing, swirling, meeting parting, marching and stepping to the gay music, until everybody had laughed and danced until they were quite out of breath and a halt was called while handkerchiefs fanned hot faces or wiped perspiring brows.

Somebody then discovered that the children were wearied of that sort of entertainment, and suggested games in which they might participate. Cousin Mamie whirls back on the piano stool and dashes into a lively march as chairs are set back to back in a long row for "Going to Jerusalem," and round and round march the girls and boys, intent on flipping down into a seat when the music suddenly stops, and when one marcher was always left chairless and out of the game. Then followed "Spin the Platter," with the tin plate spun in the middle of the group of players while names of fruits or vegetables were called and in the ensuing scramble two players fought again for a chair, and then someone wanted "Blind Man's Buff." Half a dozen or more of these games followed in succession. By that time the evening was well spent, and whiffs of the odor of coffee began to come from regions rear.

And, oh what "eats"

Everybody was ordered to find a seat, and with he flutter scarcely died down in came the hostess and her helpers with great piles of plates, each plate with its folded triangle of paper napkin, and steaming dish after dish came by and stopped for each to help himself—platters of cold meat, dishes of "scalloped" potatoes, pans of baked beans, pressed glass bowls of cabbage salad, jars of pickles, dishes of celery. platters high with thick sandwiches of meat and cheese, plates of hot biscuits, dishes of jellies and preserves, piles of yellow cheese, platters of sugared doughnuts, and then, oh, treat of winter treats, saucers piled high with home made ice cream, yellow with cream and smooth of texture as the best of custards, and custard frozen it was indeed, the mixture boiled and then consigned to the freezer. Mountains of layer cake and slices of fruit cake and pound cakes, cubes of sponge cake and dozens of gaily-decorated cup cakes went round with this. Coffee flowed freely and so did milk for the youngsters, ready to drop to sleep with sheer exhaustion at this state of the game, but prodded awake by fond parents with an eye to their fitness for the home journey, until the feat was over, everybody stuffed to excess capacity and conscious that the hour was late—actually midnight, and parting time was at hand.

And a Pleasant Time.

So the sleepy and sleeping youngsters were crammed into their wraps, horses were hitched again in the barn and sleighs brought round to the door, sleds were manned with small passengers and every father and nearly every mother had a sleeping child across the shoulder. Loud and enthusiastic were the expressions of pleasure in the evening's merriment, many were the "Merry Christmasess" exchanged, for the mystic hour of midnight was indeed arrived, and Uncle Will and Aunt Martha closed the wide door slowly on the last of the gay company, took a last look around at the garlands of green and the shorn spruce in the parlor corner, shut the blinds, wound the clocks and made their sleepy way upstairs to bed.

JANET'S FIRST CHRISTMAS IN CITY

(By Jessie Johnston)

Janet, whose papa died when she was a wee small girlie, went with her mother to live with friends on a big farm in the country.

It was nearing Christmas when they arrived at their new home, where everything was strange. Through sadness of losing her dear husband, and being scarce of money little Janet's mother was without any Christmas spirit, and she warned her daughter not to look for Santa Claus this year, telling her the roads were impassable, the heavy snow storms had blocked them full with snowdrifts. Yet Janet's faith was strong and she lived with great expectations and told her mother that Santa would come for daddy had told her so, if she were a good little girl.

Many many times during the Christmas week, she would say to her mother—"Mama, isn't I the bestest girl in the place?" Her mother was always safe in answering, yes, for Janet was the only child for miles around.

All day before Christmas and Christmas eve, Janet was full of excitement, drawing from the older members of the household a loving sympathy in watching her childish pranks and listening to her amusing sayings. Even though she had been told about how bad the roads were, she prepared a nice lunch with a big glass of milk for Santa and put a chair at the table leaving everything in readiness to give him a royal welcome— Away she went to bed! as happy as a lark! She had every faith that Santa's reindeers could flit over the snow no matter how high the drifts were! Her mother as usual carried the lamp to show her little tot to bed. How her heart ached that night with sadness as she watched the small, little frame kneel by her bedside to say her evening prayer. Janet had an extra prayer to make on Christmas Eve and in her simple way asked God to help Santa Claus find where she was and tell him to bring her a dolly and a box of paints. How snugly Janet's mother wrapped her in the coverings that night! How quickly she put out the light to hide the hot tears which gently fell upon the upturned little face as she kissed her good night. But Janet was soon in the land of dreams, and her Mother's eyes were still wet with tears as she returned to the kitchen, thinking of the young life so full of faith and joy while she herself was stricken with grief. The death of her loving husband only a few weeks before and far away from her own people, brought sadness into her heart yet she bore her sorrow bravely for the sake of her little daughter and other members in the home.

Christmas morning Janet was awake at daybreak and down stairs she went like a whirlwind eager to find out if Santa Claus had come. Her stockings were filled to overflowing. But he did not bring her big dolly and paints she had asked for! What do you suppose he brought her? Two large onions, two lovely carrots, some choice potatoes, a box of popcorn and some home-made candy, and away down in the toe was a pretty little silk ribbon bag filled with a whole lot of five cent pieces and pinned to this was a letter from Santa Claus explaining his difficulties and he snow drifts and why he left the money for Janet to purchase for herself a dolly and the box of paints that he knew she was wishing for Little Janet was greatly pleased, satisfied and happy all Christmas day. How she cherished the vegetables and other things that Santa had brought her; they were much better than any she had ever had before. And that Christmas night she did not forget to thank God for sending Santa Claus to her and hoped all the little boys and girls in the world would be remembered as well as she had been.

Years passed and one day Janet was forced to leave her mother and the country home

She decided to go to the big city to seek employment. Never had she been very far from home in all her life, nor had she ever travelled on the train; and this new experience gave her a thrill of excitement— the bright lights and crowded streets of the busy city made her eyes gleam with a mazement.

Being just in time for the Christmas rush she secured a position in one of the large departmental stores, with the promise of a permanent position if her work was satisfactory. And satisfactory it must have been, for soon she found herself busily engaged in "The Gift Shop," where the finest craftsmen on four continents are represented in its collections of beautiful and unusual gifts. Fabulous silver from Jensen, fine leather and quaint majolica, unusual pottery, glorious brasses, rare china and modern jewels. Right readily she noticed some were made in England, France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, China and other lands. This was like a lesson in geography, how interesting it all was.

With a logical introduction of the beautiful gifts, Janet devoted her time to both young and old explaining and describing what she had learned about the various articles and finally the manager, having noticed her cleverness, promoted her to the position of head saleslady in charge of the department.

All this was very rwell, but alas, it was Christmas eve and everybody was talking Christmas. She was never away from her mother before on a Christmas day, and this year she was compelled to remain in the big lonesome city. How would she do it? Sadness crept into her heart and a lump rose in her throat as she walked to her room that beautiful Christmas eve. She planned to stay in bed all day; then she would not see or hear anything of the outside world.

Reaching her room, she found the mail had brought her a bundle of letters and many parcels; also a big box by express had come from her mother.

The box from home was the most important, it was filled with many good things to eat and wear, among them was a pair of heavy mitts her mother had made, and sent by mistake, Janet thought saying to herself,—"I can never wear these in the city; people would laugh at me."

So placing them neatly into a box, she put them in her trunk, all the while saying to herself, "I must be brave I'm not a baby anymore," but her fit of lonesomeness still clung to her and with her pillow wet with tears she at last fell asleep.

When she awakened in the morning the sun was shining through her room and told her of the glorious Christmas morning it must be. It would be a shame for her to lay in bed on such a beautiful day. No she would not. God had been so good to her in many, many ways, she would not be sad and disagreeable and determined to make the best of it. She got up thinking she would busy herself writing and reading. As she was looking over the presents and letters she had received the night before, a knock came to the door. Surprised she opened it and was greeted with "Merry Christmas" by Susia Allan, a young woman at the store with her, and wholive lived with an Aunt and Uncle at the Mission House. Susia's face was a pocture itself? Healthy and happy she was! Her cheerful disposition and open countenance brought a tingle of joy to Janet. Her message was hurriedly spoken. She had come for Janet to go to her home for dinner and then they were to help decorate a Christmas tree, for Santa Claus was coming to the Mission! They (Susia and Janet were to help gather the children from the slums and take them for a treat to the Mission.

It didn't take Janet long to decide! She was dressed and ready in no time! As she turned the key in the door she thought of the mitts in her trunk and turned back with a bright, cheerful smile, saying to her friend, "If you have a good thing you don't need, pass it on!"

In short time the two girls were on their way with renewed spirits. A delicious meal awaited their arrival. Susia's Aunt and Uncle were exceedingly kind and their hospitality made Janet feel she was a favored guest. A busy and merry place was the Mission house that afternoon! Everybody seemed in the same spirit and the enthusiastic helpers soon gathered two hundred and five boys and girls of all sizes and ages up to sixteen and seventeen years. Janet washed the faces and hands and combed the hair of dozens, to make them presentable of the big event.

Some of the rich people of the city had supplied a bountiful meal for these children and loaded the tree with useful clothing and a number of toys for the wee tots. The meal was over and all were seated in a large lecture room to enjoy the music and Christmas carols that filled the air, when a voice from the platform called Hark! Hush! Silence! Sleighbells were heard at a distance, but gradually coming nearer and nearer. "It's Santa Claus," shouted one little lad in the audience. And then a chorus of voices. Oh! what a noise, full of excitement and gladness from the two hundred little children that were eagerly waiting to see Santa Claus! Yes, it was him with his rosy cheeks and his hearty laugh now creeping from under the chimney. He told the kiddies of his trip, which made them roar with laughter. Unloading his pack of candy, he gave to each little boy and girl a package. Then with the assistance of Susia, Janet and several others he took from the tree a gift for each of the two hundred and five boys and girls. What an uproar of excitement! Janet was overwhelmed with joy she quite forgot her worries and in the midst of it all, she heard a little fellow yell "look what I got, a dandy pair of mittens. I can make snow balls now, alright." She looked down over the crowd only to see a pair of hands high above the heads with the very mitts she had given Santa Claus. Truly this brought pleasure into her heart, and then to witness so many made happy that beautiful Christmas night.

As Janet walked to her room that night she was suddenly aware that the big load that had made her downhearted in the morning had fallen from her. The night was soft the streets were bright, the skies were very deep and soothing.

In a shop window an electric sign blinked at her the words, "It is more blessed to give than to receive. "How true it was! It was an advertising sign, made to sell goods. But it sold Janet more than that.

Before she retired that night she wrote a long letter to mother telling about her first Christmas away from home and ended by saying that the kiddies were all made as happy as I was the year Santa brought me the potatoes and onions.

Janet's spirits were greatly changed from when she woke in the morning and she thanked Gofd for his goodness in giving her the opportunity of helping to make others happy and saying in her prayer, Christmas is Christmas. Its glowing heart is the worship of the little Child in the Manger, and its essence in all countries and through all ages is that spirit of Christmas proclaimed by the Angels on the Bethlehem hillside. "Glory to God in the Highest, Peace on earth: Good will to men."

The Christmas season of 1930 is proving a very happy event for the members of Knox United Church choir. On Sunday it was their pleasure to present the ever-welcome melodies which speak the message of "peace and goodwill" to large congregations at both services. Assisting were Mrs. Mendell Braund and Mr. Victor Boorman, whose solos were highly appreciated. The efficient and popular leader, Mr W. R. Potter, was the recipient of a cheque as a token of appreciation for the splendid leadership in the regular musical services from week to week, and particularly in the presentation of "H.M.S. Pinafore," which proved to be such a genuine success. In responding Mr. Potter paid tribute to the splendid co-operation from every member which means so much in choir work. As a result of a suggestion, some fifteen of the less fortunate families of the city will have a box of "good cheer." A collection was taken and a handsome sum realized. This gesture of good-fellowship emphasizes the fact that the members of Knox choir are friendly among themselves and their neighbors.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

"At Christmas tide the open hand,
Scatters its bounty o'er sea and land,
And none are left to grieve alone,

• • • • • • •

Christmas Eve! Oh how eagerly we have been looking forward to Christmas Day, with all the joy and festivity in connection with it. I know the children can hardly wait for the night to pass and Christmas morning to come.

• • • • • • •

May I wish for you the very Merriest Christmas you have ever had and health and happiness in the New Year? Health is perhaps the more important because one is generally happy when in good health.

• • • • • • •

Somehow there is a feeling abroad at this season of the year that makes one feel so friendly toward others. I think, perhaps, that is why the citizens of Peterborough have so generously responded to the call for help for the unemployed.

• • • • • • •

The world seems to be experiencing one of the worst depressions in years and at this time it is noticed more than at other seasons.

• • • • • • •

So it is up to those who are more fortunate to show the Christmas spirit—the spirit of helping others to enjoy this most delightful and sacred of all celebrations.

• • • • • • •

It is delightful, isn't it, to be able to give gifts to others, knowing that they will bring happiness. That "it is more blessed to give than to receive," is indeed true.

• • • • • • •

There is a much greater thrill in giving a gift than in receiving one. And especially when it is received only after one has been given.

• • • • • • •

I don't think that is the Christmas spirit, and yet it seems to be so common. All the joy in giving a gift is taken away when the one who receives it, thinks he should return one for it.

• • • • • • •

Does Christmas mean to you all that it should? Or is it just a holiday when everyone seems to be happy, and candy and good things to eat are in abundance.

• • • • • • •

When the word "Christmas" is mentioned, it should bring to your mind the time—many centuries ago, when the Savior of all men was born.

• • • • • • •

It should bring to your mind the picture of a stable with a young man and woman and a child wrapped in swaddling clothes, and Wise Men kneeling before the Christ Child, humbly presenting their gifts.

• • • • • • •

I think it is wonderful that Christmas should come at this time of the year. It bring a new hope to those who have suffered through unemployment—a hope that in the coming year times might not be so hard.

• • • • • • •

Are you satisfied with what you have done in the year 1930? Have you taken advantage of every opportunity that was presented to you—whether it was an opportunity to step up in business, or an opportunity to help someone who was down and out?

• • • • • • •

Have you kept all the resolutions you made last year? If you didn't why not strive harder in 1931 and do your part toward making this country a better place in which to live.

• • • • • • •

Keeping the Christmas spirit in mind at all times, let us go forward with the determination to help—to do more than our share.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

Would like to write and wish you and all the neighbors a Merry Christmas. I expect tonight you are very busy with your Dinner Dance, how perfectly lovely that The Examiner should sponsor such a wonderful cause, working so unselfishly for the relief of the unfortunate! I think I can see the gay scene of everyone dancing with an added zest in that they are helping their fellowman and having a lot of fun in the bargain. It is the truly Christmast spirit I am sure and I trust The Examiner will always be in the management of just such a generous staff.

Well we have our Christmas cake made and am now making ready to put the home in order. We won't have a chance to be very gay but I hope we will be very happy and that everyone on earth will be the same. What a wonderful thing, 'Peace and Goodwill to all men' means, Do we ever stop to think of how far reaching it is. If only everybody would truly hold that thought would would it not usher in the Kingdom of Heaven hede and now? I think it would.

Now I must close wishing you again the merriest Christmas and 'A Guid New Year to one and all!'

VIONNET.

Thank you, Vionnet, for all your good wishes. The dance and the midnight show were both very successful and I trust many people will be happy because of them

Dear Anne, and Everybody:

I am coming back just to wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

To you, Ad Nauseam. I wish to say that I have thought of you often and wondered how you were coming along after your sad illness, I hope you are much better and I would have written you personally at the time you wrote the page had I not been so busy on account of a little tough luck in our own home circle.

I see where I have a new cousin in our circle. Welcome to you old dear, come again. I'll admit you have me guessing who you really are. I seem to talk on paper exactly as I do when talking directly to a person which rather spoils it for me as we are supposed to be just shadow friends. Oh well, that's me!

I'm glad everyone seems to keep so well and you are a wonder yourself, Anne, there seems to be no give up for you. We all would surely miss you if you were ever taken ill. Your Christmas suggestions have been just dandy, Anne, thanks for all of them.

Sonny boy is anxiously waiting for Wednesday night to come. Guess we all are. And now I must say goodbye for the last time this year anyway, and once again dear folks one and all I wish you the merriest Christmas you have ever had and a bright, and prosperous New Year.

Your old friend,

HIGHFLYER.

I knew you couldn't resist writing when 'A Cousin of Highflyer's wrote Thank you for all your good wishes

APPRECIATION

The end of another year approaches when it is customary to think and express emotions that lay dormant during our business activity.

In former days there was no room for sentiment in business; selfishness and shrewd bargaining efforts to outwit one another characterized commercial enterprise.

But modern business has gradually changed, and in spite of all that is said about the degeneration of morals and religion, business ethics are to-day on a higher plane than ever before.

We are, personally, not only interested in the welfare of our customers, but we have in every possible way tried to make our business dealings throughout the year express our good-will.

And now, as another year draws to a close may we express an old-time wish, a Merry, Merry Christmas to you and yours and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Yours very truly,

Choate Hardware
H. G. E. CHOATE

Christmas 1930

To you, whose friendly goodwill has meant so much to us in the past, we send cordial Greetings with the hope that we may long continue to serve you helpfully.

Leafs Tie Montreal Maroons 4-4 in Overtime

TEAMS SCORE FIVE GOALS IN THIRD PERIOD

Andy Blair and Nelson Stewart Tally First Goals of the Game.

LAND IN THIRD PLACE.

Rangers Play Brilliant Hockey to Defeat Habitants 5 to 1.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24 (C.P.)—The crashing victory of New York Rangers over the Canadian group leaders, Montreal Canadiens, by a 5 to 1 score and Toronto's courageous stand against Montreal Maroons were highlights of last night's National Hockey League schedule of three games.

The downfall of The Habitants was not unexpected, as in the previous meeting between these teams Rangers had outplayed the Flying Frenchmen only to lose out, 5 to 4, on Montreal ice. Their triumph by so wide a margin, however, is somewhat of a surprise, as the Canadian group leaders have been displaying impressive form in recent games, this being their first reverse in 10 starts.

Too many Cooks spoiled the broth as far as The Habitants were concerned, for William, oldest member of the Cook family, beat George Hainsworth, cool net custodian of the Flying Frenchmen, for three of his team's five counters. Brother Bun got one and Frankie Boucher, brainy centre ice star, accounted for the other New York tally.

The game was a brilliant exhibition of Canada's popular winter pastime. Both teams played fast, open hockey, and the speed-crazed Gotham fans voted it the best N.H.L. exhibition of the current season.

The victory enabled Rangers to oust Detroit Falcons from third place in the American group and, incidentally enabled Montreal Maroons, who tied with Toronto, four-all, to draw within a point of their intra-city rivals for first place honors in the senior division.

Rangers commenced the game with a blinding burst of speed and scintillating combination play which had the Canadiens baffled. A few minutes past the halfway mark Bill Cook took Boucher's pass to open the scoring, and the parade started. Less than seven minutes later he skated through the whole Canuck team to chalk up goal number two, and the Blue-shirted New Yorkers were well on the way to victory.

Boucher added another tally halfway through the second frame to give Rangers a commanding lead before The Habitants countered with a goal by the dazzling Howie Morenz, leading scorer of the Canadian group.

A brace of goals by Bill and Bun Cook late in the final period when the Montrealers were concentrating on the attack completed the route of the visitors, who had not been beaten previously in nine starts.

Draw With Leafs

Still minus two of their "kid" front line stars, the Maple Leafs gave everything they had in an effort to chalk up a victory against their Montreal Marcon clad rivals. Twice they took the lead but were unable to hold it against the relentless Montreal thrusts.

The game was a strenuous affair from start to finish and it was only the superiority in manpower that enabled Dunc Munro's husky outfit to tie the fighting Torontonians, who under the conditions, should have won.

Andy Blair, elongated centre ice star, gave them the lead in the first frame when he scooped the puck past goalkeeper "Flat" Walsh, early in the second period, after a scoreless opening 20 minutes. The advantage was short lived, however, as Nelson Stewart, crafty pivot of the Maroons, took successive passes from Hooley Smith, fiery winger, to put the Maroons in the van.

Three rapid fire goals in the third session gave Toronto a lead which seemed insurmountable considering the evenly matched strength of the teams, but, two second string players, Bill Phillips and Huggins, knotted the count, with unassisted tallies in the last few minutes of the period.

The teams were too tired to exert themselves in the overtime session which was devoid of feature.

As a result of the tie Toronto garnered one point which enabled them to tie New York Americans for third place, two points behind the Maroons.

Chicago's 3 to 2 victory over the lowly Philadelphia Quakers was not unexpected. The win enabled the Hawks to once again tie Boston for the American group leadership. Goals by Tommy Cook, speedy forward, in the second and third periods, earned the fast skating Chicagoans victory.

The team finished the opening frame tied at one-all, the Quakers having scored through Hib Milks and the Windy City representatives through Gottselig.

It was the 13th defeat for the Philadelphians, who have won but one game this season.

THREE LEADERS TIE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 24 (C.P.)—Howie Morenz, of Canadiens, who for some time has maintained his lead of the scorers in the Canadian section, National Hockey League, with 15 points, broke through last night, and scored one goal to place him still further ahead. In the team competition, Canadiens are still leading, but Maroons are only one point behind. The Maple Leafs and Americans are both tied for third place, and Ottawa is far in the cellar. As for the American loop, Boston and Chicago are tied for first place, Rangers are one point ahead of Detroit and Philadelphia, winners of just one game this year, have only 3 points.

There were no shutouts last night, so the standing in this branch of the noble pastime remains the same. Gardiner, Chicago, leads the American loop with 5, while Worters of Americans, heads the other section with the same number. Grant and Chabot, Toronto, have also scored five between them.

Harvey Rockburn, Detroit, with 49 minutes, leads his loop in penalties, while Aurel Joliat, Canadiens, has accumulated 45 minutes in the Canadian group.

TWELVE TEAMS SOUTH END LOOP

Schedule Opens First Tuesday After New Year With Two Games a Week.

THREE SECTIONS

The South-End City League is certainly doing its share toward developing hockey material in Peterborough. From eight teams last year, it has jumped to twelve this year: four bantams, four juveniles, and four juniors with age-limits of 16, 17 and 20 years respectively. At least three of last year's players will be wearing O. H. A. sweaters this year.

Games will be played at the Sacred Heart and the All Saint's rinks beginning the first Tuesday after New Year's. The schedule calls for two games a week, with the first and second teams playing off at the end of the season for the championship of their section. The bantams play off for a cup presented by Mark Bredin, the juveniles for one given by J. A. O'Brien and the juniors for the J. A. Stewart cup.

Much credit should go to Bill Kay president, and W. Rogers, secretary for bringing this league along so well.

All the managers are urged to attend an important meeting of the league next Monday night at 7.30 at the Raybestos, when final arrangements for the season will be made.

Port Hopers Defeat Norwood Combines 5-2

NORWOOD, Dec. 24. — A keen game of hockey was enjoyed by a large crowd of spectators last evening, the match between Norwood Combine and Port Hope resulting in a 5-2 win for the visitors. Port Hope took the lead in the first period, in which they put up two counters to their credit, against the home team's nil. Norwood counted in the second and third periods, but were hopelessly outclassed when the Port Hope forwards got through their defense, and put in another three goals in the third.

Line-ups:

Port Hope—Micks, goal; Ware and Crossett, defence; Francy, centre; Moyse and Hagerman, wing; W. H. Hills and A. Hills, subs.

Norwood Combine — Rogers and Bond, goal; McLaughlin and Scriver, defence; Webb, centre; Kempt, Thompson, Hill, Stevenson and Lucas, wing; Tedford and Jacks, subs. Referee McConnel, Norwood.

GETTING INTO SHAPE

Fifteen year old Jimmy Good, holder of the junior speed skating title at 440 yards and Toronto and Ontario champion indoor and outdoor is getting into shape for the International meet at Dearborn on New Year's Day where he was a winner last year. The Old Orchard star has been skating since he was ten years old and is still eligible for the 15 pear old division. He is the winner of innumerable cups and medals and is rated as a fine Olympic prospect. In addition to his prowess as a blade pusher "Jimmy" is no mean golfer, being the junior champion of the Cedarbrook golf club the last 2 years, and winning in his own class in the provincial championship held at York Downs last fall. Out of a field of 185 comprising the flower of the province the versatile youngster finished fifth. He also plays hockey, basketball and baseball, striking out 17 in an 11 inning playground championship game.

Schmeling Willing To Defend His Title Against Best Available Opponent In June

NEW YORK, December 24 (C.P.). — Max Schmeling, through his manager Joe Jacobs, is expected to tell the New York Athletic Commission next week that he is ready to defend his heavyweight title against the best available opponent in June, not necessarily Jack Sharkey of Boston.

The Commission recently ordered Schmeling to agree, within fifteen days, to a title fight with the Boston sailor, but Schmeling's reply was that Jacobs was his manager and qualified to speak for him. Jacobs has been under suspension here for some time for his part in the controversy over a managerial contract Arthur Buelow held on Schmeling's services.

Jacobs is to go before the Commission next Tuesday and probably will pledge his protege to a title defence in June whether it be against Sharkey, Young Stribling, or Victorio Campolo. If the Commission accepts this promise, the way would be paved for a match between Sharkey and Stribling or Sharkey and Campolo early in the spring. Unless Sharkey can prove conclusively in actual combat that he is the best challenger available, experts feel a Sharkey-Schmelling's bout is foredoomed to financial failure.

Chicago promoters have offered Schmeling $500,000 to fight Stribling there in June, but present indications are that the title bout, if and when it is held, will be staged here.

BURIED UNDER STRAW STACK

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 23. —Fred Abbott, aged Southwold township farmer while doing chores around the barn last night, was buried under falling straw stack. He was not missed for an hour and a half, but he could still make his voice heard and hurried call to neighbors ended in his prompt rescue.

TECUMSEHS ENTER WIN COLUMN BY DEFEATING SYRACUSE 6-2

INDIANS LOSE OUT 4-3.

TORONTO, Ont., December 24 (C.P.). — After three straight losses London Tecumsehs entered the win column of the International Hockey League last night by defeating the cellar occupants, 5 to 2, in the Western Ontario city, while their fellow Canadians, Windsor Bulldogs were being held to a four-all tie by Pittsburgh. In the third scheduled fixture, the league-leading Buffalo Bisons maintained their firm grip on first place by trouncing Cleveland, 4 to, 3, after overtime.

The Tecumseh victory kept them safely in possession of fifth place in the standing, two points ahead of the Yellow Jackets, but it was only a late rally in the final session that enabled them to down the stubborn fighting Stars, who tied the score at two-all early in the closing twenty minutes.

Both sides chalked up a counter in the first sesion when Harry Lauder scored for the Stars and Leo Goldworthy, for the home team. The latter put the Tecumehs in the lead latter put the Tecumsehs in the lead notched his second tally of the game unassisted.

Lauder took Holmes' pass soon after the third period had started to place the Stars on even terms and overtime loomed when the Forest City team suddenly came to life with a pretty display of combination which netted them three goals from the sticks of Adams, Pettinger, and Reinikka, for the deciding margin.

Windor had their game with the Smoky City outfit placed well in the win column when the Yellow Jackets came to life with a vengeance and notched three tallies in the last half of the third session to tie the count.

The Bulldogs had taken the lead in the opening frame when Bat Phillips and Ear Robinson scored a brace of tallies unassisted. Duguid added another early in the middle frame and there seemed nothing for the Border City team to do but await the final bell. However, Roger Smith formerly of the Philadelphia Quakers, gave the Yellow Jackets renewed life when he scored on Freddy McGuire's pass, near the end of the period. This counter was nullified when Baldy Northcott registered the Bulldogs' fourth goal on Lever's pass. Then Tex White, another former Quaker, started the home team on a scoring bee, which Gregg climaxed with a neat pair of goals to tie the score. Neither team was able to do much in the way of threatening in the overtime.

The Indians secured a two-goal lead in the first period against the Bisons, but were unable to protect their lead in the face of the smooth-passing attack launched by Mickey Roach's well-balanced squad. After Mike Brophy and Alexander Gray had scored for the Clevelanders in the opening frame, Jackson reduced the marvin in the second on an unassisted tally and then Carl Voss and Rolly Huard put the Bisons in front early in the third stanza following clever combination thrusts. Little Ken Doraty tied the count for the Indians a few seconds later only to see his effort wasted when Ronnie Martin notched the winning marker late in the overtime session.

More than $36,000,000 has been spent on irrigation works in the Bombay Presidency of India in the last two years.

Chicago White Sox Buying New Material

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 (C.P.)—The Chicago White Sox aren't shouting much these days, but they are making a lot of quiet moves to improve their entry in the 1931 American League flag race.

Since the last days of the 1930 season they have obtained six new players, rescued Pitcher Vic Frasier, who deserted them last season, and have opened negotiations for more young talent.

The new acquisitions include Frank Grube, a leading catcher from the International League; Walter Henline, a veteran backstop who batted .344 for the Toledo club of the American Association last season; Fred Eichrodt, a former Cleveland outfielder, from New Orleans; Luke Appling, a promising shortstop, and Ray Radcliffe, a prospective first baseman from the Southeastern League, and Bob Finlator, another outfielder from the Southeastern League.

Husband Kills Wife In Drunken Frenzy

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Joseph Cholewka, 50, was in a hospital here yesterday, her condition reported critical, after being shot twice by her husband, who then reloaded his pistol and ended his life with a bullet.

Police said Cholewka shot his wife in a drunken frenzy, emptying his pistol at her as she ran out of the room. He then went into a woodshed and shot himself. A sixteen-year-old son fled from the house and telephoned for police. Cholewka was a coal dealer.

OFFICERS FOR 1931 ELECTED

G. A. Ironside to Head Campbellford Branch Canadian Legion for Coming Year.

PRESENTATION MADE

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 24. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The election of the slate of officers for 1931 was the feature of the regular meeting of the Campbellford Branch, No. 103, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. held on Monday evening in the Armouries, Campbellford, with the past president, J. Watters, in the chair.

Nominations for the different offices were made at the last meeting and each office had its quota of aspirants. Noting by ballot, the result of the election was as follows; President, G. A. Ironside; first vice-president, Rev. N. Clark Wallace; second vice-president, C. Zufelt, Warkworth; secretary, E. H. Armstrong; re-elected; treasurer, H. W. Lapp; executive committee, Major J. M. Bygott, T. Dutton, J. McEachern, with the officers and two others to be appointed by the committee.

One matter that was brought up was the arrangements for the annual dinner, which it is expected to be held about the second week in January. Major Bygott reported for the committee handling this affair, stating that matters pertaining to it would be arranged in due time.

A feature of the evenings business was the acceptance of a presentation, made by Miss Sara Nevin to the Campbellford Branch, of a photo of three of the town boys who enlisted from the community, who are doctors and two of whom are now dead. These are Dr. R. E. Horkins, killed in action; Dr. R. H. Bonnycastle, died of war wounds, and Dr. E. V. Frederick, now a resident of California. On a vote of the meeting this gift was accepted and the secretary instructed to write acknowledging it.

WANT DEMPSEY PROMOTE FIGHT

Man Mauler May Take Charge of 1931 Battle of the Everglades.

"MAKINGS" OF PROMOTER.

NEW YORK, December 24. — The Miami prize fight situation crystallized down to William Harrison Dempsey yesterday. The grand old Man Mauler, rumor hath it, is due here on Friday, and will be greeted with a proposition to take charge of the 1931 Battle of the Everglades for the Madison Square Garden corporation.

William F. Carey, 'tis said, is none too eager to run the show himself, and is unwilling to turn it over the Garden Stadium at Miami to Frank January Bruen, former general manager of the Garden, who has Primo Carnera signed and no place to put him.

Carey cannot forget the big part that Dempsey played in the Miami spectable of 1929, a match between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, which drew $405,000. The death of Tex Rickard threw most of the burden on Dempsey's shoulders, and Jack acquitted himself nobly. Carey still feels that the fellow who did it once might be the fellow who could do it aagin.

Carey himself cannot afford to be away from his New York affairs long enough to handle the event in person. Tom McArdle, the Garden matchmaker, has his hands full trying to find weekly attractions for the local arena.

With the exception of Bruen, no one seems anxious to have any financial connection with the Miami match. Bruen's indifference to an almost certain loss is due to the fact that he is running the Hialeah race track just outside of Miami, and whatever is lost by the fight will be more than made up by the influx of extra money at the track.

Now that he has made himself a red-hot card in this city, Bat Battalino, the featherweight champion, is going to Chicago. Articles were signed yesterday for a match between Battalino and Eddie Shea at the Chicago Stadium on January 16. The title will not be at stake, as Shea agreed to weigh 130 pounds, four over the featherweight limit.

Battalino and Kid Chocolate drew $66,480 at the Garden ten days ago. It was the largest net gate recorded at a local indoor match this year, and, more important, it was a blazing fight.

Scottish Golfer

Tommy Armour, great Scottish golfer, who carried off the Canadian professional championship, beating Leo Diegel in the final at Hamilton. He also established a course record. Armour is rated with the world's best.

C.G.E. Tool Makers Hold Good Workout

The C.G.E. Tool Room entry in the new East Peterborough Hockey League held a workout last night at the Brock Street Arena when eighteen players tangled in a strenuous practise game under the direction of Frank Barrie who is piloting the Toolmakers this season.

This team will undoubtedly be a real threat in the league as they have last years' team practically intact besides several promising prospects who if added to the roster will round the outfit into a well balanced hockey machine which will give the district entries plenty of opposition. Lackey, Howe, Palmer, B. Jones and Meagher are some of the new ones who were seen in action last night.

Toronto Marlboros Beat Hamilton 4-2

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 14.—(C.P.)—A youthful front line, possessing speed and plenty of scoring punch, as shown in Toronto Marlboros, caused the downfall of Hamilton Tigers, Ontario Hockey Association senior titleholders, in the opening of the current season here last night. The brilliantly garbed Marlboros won by 4 to 2 and might easily have doubled the score but for erratic shooting.

Tigers failed to impress in their first appearance here since losing to Montreal Amateur Athletic Association in the Allan Cup playdowns last March. Their forwards lacked the speed and aggressiveness necessary to cope with the clever Marlboro youngsters, while defensively the Hamiltonians did not appear as strong as formerly.

REBELS SPEND CHRISTMAS IN JAIL

MADRID, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Some of the most prominent figures in Spain are celebrating La Noche Buena — the good night, which is the Spanish name for Christmas eve—in jail.

The Government has arranged the utmost in Liberty, behind prison walls, for the Republican chiefs and suspects arrested during the recent revolutionary upheaval and is taking every measure to keep their celebration up to standard, under the circumstances.

NEW SKI CLUB IS ORGANIZED

POPULAR SPORT.

About forty enthusiats met last night at the Chamber of Commerce and formed a Ski Club. Optimism was the key-note of the meeting, and judging from the confidence and eagerness shown, the club is in for a great winter. A junior section will be formed with a view towards developing younger boys and girls interested in ski-ing.

A committee composed of Horace Hayward, Jim Wilson and Terry Hall was appointed to bring in a recommendation on by-laws; and another committee composed of Doug. Hall, 'Dode' McFadden and Otto Laderach to meet the directors of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club to discuss possibility of using their clubhouse as headquarters for the Ski Club. The skiers expect to build a "hut", or out-of-town club-house in the vicinity of Nassau. At the meeting the question was discussed about the cutting of trails as is done by the Toronto and Ottawa clubs.

It may surprise many to know that, for its population, Peterborough is one of the best ski-ing towns in Canada. Each year more and more are taking up this sport which has an ideal background in this district. It is not difficult to learn, and as the skier becomes more adept, longer and more exciting trips will be made. As the chairman, Doug. Hall, pointed out, the club can obtain more privileges than individual skiers could.

The club is holding another meeting next Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce to elect officers, adopt a constitution, form by-laws and make final plans for the season. Everybody interested in skiing is invited to attend.

The Peterborough Hockey Club is missing no opportunities in their efforts to get both its junior and intermediate teams into proper shape for the O.H.A. campaign, which opens at Brock street rink on Friday night with the intermediates in action against Bowmanville.

This evening both outfits will hit the ice for an hour's practice. The juniors will go from 6 to 7 o'clock and the intermediates will do their stuff in the next hour.

Only Clever Team Can Win Allan Cup

KINGSTON, Dec. 24 (Special to The Examiner).—In view of recent articles in a leading Canadian magazine and a number of the daily papers regarding the amateur qualification of numerous hockey players, who are functioning in the different Provincial amateur hockey leagues, affiliated with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and in an endeavor to learn just what influence such a controversy might have upon the standing of Canada's Olympic hockey representatives for 1932, a representative of The Examiner interviewed Capt. Jas. T. Sutherland, of Kingston, a past president and life member of the C.A.H.A., and a member of the Canadian Olympic Winter Sports Committee for 1932.

Captain Sutherland made the following statement: "The winners of the Sir H. Montague Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship for 1931, will, as in the past, have to measure up to the very highest standard of amateur traditions. It will, very probably, be the team that is to represent Canada on the ice at Lake Placid, New York, in 1932. It is, therefore, obviously imperative that none other than a team of the highest amateur standing can hope to receive the sanction of President James W. Hamilton, of the C.A.H.A. and his efficient executive, to represent Canada in such an outstanding competition as the world's amateur hockey championship has become.

"If one might venture to offer an unofficial suggestion to all officials who are connected with clubs that have the Allan Cup aspirations, and who are not certain as to the genuine amateur qualifications of their players, it would be to advise them to have a thoroughly good 'housecleaning' at once, and to purge their clubs of all 'under cover pros.' and tourists. If this is not done, such clubs cannot complain later on if their team is 'set down' and its place taken by some other team, that in the opinion of the C.A.H.A., answers fully to the necessary amateur conditions."

CHRISTMAS AND CAROLS

By P. T. Moseley

Christmas is essentially the season of song. Ever since the Angels sang "Gloria in Excelsis Deo et in Terra Pax," so has the world re-echoed the song at the Christmas season in hymn or carol form.

Carols are usually associated with this joyful season, but carols are sung at other seasons of the church's year, as at Easter, though it is suspected that many find it too much trouble to listen to these delightful old songs let alone learn them.

The carol is a word that suggests singing, just as its kindred word ballet suggests dancing, yet the carol is not the exclusive possession of the church or of any religious body, but of any party that cares to use it, and is brought to life on any occasion when song is needed to express the emotions of joy.

In the England of Chaucer, carolling oft times meant singing and dancing, while the Italians of the same period used the word to denote a "ring dance" accompanied by singing, as also was the "carole" of the French. The carol is a combined dance and song rendered dramatically in association with religion, has continued in popular use in Spain up to the present time.

Wassail Songs.

While the Italians and French gave us the word "carol" the custom of carol singing is particularly English, one that can be traced far back into antiquity.

There are some Christmas carols that were sung before the Christian era in Britain, only, naturally, at that time they were not "Christmas" carols, but the songs of the pagans in honour of the oak, the holly, and the ivy. These carols are known to us as Wassail songs and are mainly confined to expressions of good cheer, sometimes mixed with a little religious sentiment.

Old-country folks need little reminder of the times when the bands of carollers would appear before their houses and to hear at least one Wassail song. ("Wass," good; "hael," health). Some of the best known Wassail songs are "The Cherry Tree," "The Holly and the Ivy," "The Boar's Head Carol," "Welcome Yule," and the one of which there are various versions according to each county, but which always included a verse commencing "God bless the Master of this house."

The Christmas carol dealing with the birth of our Lord, is usually one telling the scriptural story, and not always the story of the birth, but of the events leading up to this great historical event according to the Old Testament Scriptures. Some of these tunes have great antiquity and some have been arranged with modern harmonies by the best composers.

Some Old Hymns.

Others are still sung to the medieval melody, which tune was the one popular at the time, and which was used for every type of song. Again the mysteries and nativity plays of this period were responsible for many of the simple carols. A good example of these carols is the one "I saw three ships go sailing by," the tune a popular one of the day which was used for May dance, drinking songs, and so forth, is still known to us when sung to "Here we go round the Mulberry bush," or "Nuts and May."

The oldest Christmas carol is, of course, the "Gloria in Excelsis," which the Angels sang, but the oldest known Christmas hymn which antedates all known Christmas carols by some eight or nine centuries, is the one written by St. Ambrose, Bishop of Milan in the fourth century, it is "Veni Redemptor Gentium," and is set to a Latin melody of the same period. In its modern form it is known as "Jesu, Redemptor Omnium," and is sung in the Roman Catholic office on Christmas Day to a plain song of the Dorian Mode. Another, of about the same period, is the well known hymn "Of the Father's Love Begotten," written by Prudentius and still sung to the old plain song melody.

Just how long carolling has been associated with the Christmas season is not known, but we know it was before the Reformation, as we read of Luther saying how he, with others, went singing carols in four-part harmony; also by the existence of a book of Scotch pre-Reformation carols, which shows that the Scots celebrated this Feast of Feasts and sang some delightful carols before the Puritanical wave substituted goodness for holiness.

Carol Singing Popular.

The oldest known manuscript of a carol is a fourteenth century one in the British Museum and is in Norman-French, the title, if I recall aright, is "Angelus ad Virginium."

From this time onwards, carols grew in favour, the best being those of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, and the earliest collection is a book of carols of Wynkyn de Worde, dating from 1521. During the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries many lovely carols were written and to-day, some of our best composers are giving us new arrangements of the old carols as well as some brand new carols.

Carol singing is again being revived and in many places in Canada, the memories of long-forgotten Christmasses are being recalled by bands of carollers giving forth the sounds of sweet harmony in the stillness of Christmas Eve.

The Christmas hymns we sing in our churches are not carols, but were written for a special season of the church's year, nevertheless, this will not stop us singing with heart and soul, "O Come, Let us Adore Him, Christ the Lord."

HASTINGS

HASTINGS, Dec. 24.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The annual community Christmas tree held in the town hall on Monday night was attended by the largest crowd and was the biggest success in the history of the tree. The committee in charge worked very hard to make it the success it was.

Promptly at eight o'clock Santa Claus arrived amid great applause from the kiddies. Before opening the program, C. P Doughty, on behalf of the committee, thanked the citizens who through their generosity made it possible for the committee to put the tree on. He was very pleased with the large crowd present, and certainly showed that the committee will have to look for larger quarters next year. Mr. Doughty then announced that there was a bag with a lucky ticket with A. J. McKenty's name on it and that the child that got it would receive a fine dollar gold piece from Mr. McKenty.

Reeve Dr. Wilson then gave a brief address to the large crowd, thanking all those who were responsible for the tree, on behalf of the citizens of Hastings.

Christmas Carols were then out on the screen and everyone joined heartily in the singing, after which Santa started his big task of giving each kiddie their bag of sweets, oranges and nuts. The tree, which was very prettily decorated, was on one side of the stage, the Excelsior Orchestra on the other, with Santa in centre. The kiddies were directed up onto the stage on the right side and coming off on the left. It took over an hour to hand out the bags, over four hundred being passed out by Santa. Little Miss Rosebud Calberry, daughter of Mr and Mrs. James Calberry, Jr., got the bag with the luck ticket.

District Churches

AT FENELLA

FENELLA, Dec. 24. (Examiner Correspondence)—Bringing a special Christmas message to his people Rev. R. W. Paton, preaching in Fenella, United Church, on Sunday evening chose his text from Gen. 49:10, "The Sceptre shall not depart from Judah nor a law giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be."

"This statement from the lips of Jacob" said the speaker, "has a decidedly prophetic note. The old Patriarch was simply summing up in his own language the fact that Judah would hold the sovereignity until its true possessor, the Messiah, should come."

"The new Testament records the birth of Jesus, the fulfillment of prophecy. Again the year has passed and Christian folk throughout the world commemorate the birth of Christ and in so doing we celebrate the glory and splendor of meekness, tenderness and simplicity. At the same time we celebrate the attractive power of One, who from birth, stirred human society to its depths, laid His hand upon every class; compelled the most powerful to consider Him; drew the most humble to worship Him; One who revealed God to the world and ever since has been the meeting place for the human race. Only one power can subdue the hearts and minds of men—the power of Him whose birthday we commemorate at this Christmas season." 'Unto Him shall all the gathering of the people be.'

Little Buying On Christmas Market

Judging by the poor attendance, at the Christmas Eve produce market, both on the part of buyers and sellers, the majority of people laid in their Christmas supplies last Saturday. At any rate Saturday's market was one of the largest Yuletide markets held in this city in recent years, and to-day's sparsely filled square and market hall provided a strange comparison.

Notwithstanding the small demand prices remained around Saturday's level, turkeys being offered at 33 cents, ducks 30 cents and geese 25 cents a pound. Chickens were scarce. Fresh eggs were in slow demand at from 38 to 42 cents a dozen. Dairy butter 31 cents a pound. Pork 16 to 18 cents.

There were still several Christmas trees on offer, ranging at slightly lower prices than formerly, at from 25 cents to 50 cents each.

SAYS MAYOR DENNE RESPONSIBLE FOR COMPANY COMING TO CITY

H. M. Campbell of Johnson Motors Replies to Alderman McIntyre's Statement.

HARD HITTING SALESMAN.

The Examiner has received the following letter today from Hugh M. Campbell, manager of the Canadian Johnson Motor Company, Limited.

The Peterborough Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario.
Gentlemen:

The reported statement in Tuesday's Examiner by Alderman McIntyre "that no one was responsible for bringing the Johnson Motor Company to Peterborough" has come to my attention.

I have the greatest respect for Alderman McIntyre, but I believe credit should be given where credit is deserved, and for this reason wish to correct Alderman McIntyre's alleged statement.

Peterborough was not considered as a site for the Canadian plant of the Johnson Motor Company of Waukegan, Illinois until Mayor Denne insisted that he at least be given the opportunity of an interview.

The writer together with an executive of the Johnson Motor Company, met Mayor Denne, Alderman McIntyre and City Clerk Armstrong in Toronto As a result of this meeting we promised to come and look over Peterborough.

After leaving Peterborough we were still undecided as to what location to choose. In the meantime Mayor Denne was in touch with us continually.

While it is true we found a vacant building in Peterborough suitable for our operations, the decision to locate in the city was made a year before the decision to buy the building available, or erect a new one, was made.

Mayor Denne and no one else is directly responsible for our Company finally deciding on Peterborough as our Canadian headquarters.

I have had the pleasure of seeing the Mayor use his salesmanship on various representatives of American concerns considering Canadian locations. He has always made an excellent impression on such representatives.

It is no fault of the Mayor that Peterborough has not secured at least three new industries within the last year.

I again wish to say credit should be given where credit is deserved, and my hat is off to Peterborough's enthusiastic and hard hitting salesman, Mayor Roland Denne.

Yours very truly,
HUGH M. CAMPBELL
Manager Canadian Johnson Motor Co., Ltd.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 27 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Near Tarzan's prison, women were now preparing many little fires and fetching cooking pots filled with water, for a great feast was to be celebrated before the night was many hours older. Already a group of black warriors, their bodies smeared with white and blue paint, stood about a stout stake in the center of the circling fires, waiting in savage anticipation of the coming orgy.

Tarzan of the Apes was to be the victim of their bestial appetites. And such an end! The most unthinkably horrid death that it is given a white man to die. He strained his mighty muscles at the bond that pinioned him, but even his giant brawn could not budge them. Well he knew the fate that was to be his end. He writhed in agony at the thought that he had been trapped like a silly, dumb creature.

Tarzan was glad that Jane would never know his ghastly fate. He believed Rokoff's threats concerning her was merely blustering lies; that in reality his wife was safe in London. "But my little son!" he groaned. "I, Tarzan of the Apes, mighty lord of the jungle, the only one in all the world fitted to find and save from the horrors Rokoff has planned. With me will perish the boy's last chance for safety."

Through the thick, tangled jungle, for two nights, a giant, lithe creature pursued its lonely way. Half famished for food, it had halted only once to make a kill. In utter silence, under the equatorial moon, it kept steadfastly on its way, and now had come to the palisades that surrounded a large native village. Here the beast sniffed for a moment and then turning its head slightly listened with uppricked ears.

What the panther heard was no sound by the standards of human ears, yet to the highly attuned and delicate organs of the beast a message seemed to be borne to the savage brain. As if it had been poised upon steel springs, suddenly released, it rose quickly and silently to the top of the palisade, disappearing stealthily and catlike into the dark space behind a native hut.

Around the stake the Dance of Death was commencing. Two warriors dragged Tarzan roughly from the hut. A score of bowling blacks bound him to the stake in the centre of the circle of fires and boiling cooking pots. At last he was made fast and seemed quite helpless—beyond the faintest hope of human aid. Rokoff now stepped close to the ape-man and was the first to prod him with a spear.

Though a little stream of blood trickled down the giant's smooth skin from the wound in his side, no murmur of pain passed his lips. The smile of contempt on his face seemed to infuriate the Russian. He leaped at the helpless captive, beating him upon the face with clenched fists and kicking him mercilessly. Then he raised a spear to drive it through Tarzan brave heart.

Before Rokoff could drive the weapon home, the chief sprang upon him and dragged him away from his intended victim. "Stop, white man!" he cried. "Rob us of this prisoner and our death-dance, and you yourself may have to take his place." The threat was effective. On went the dance! Yelling, leaping warriors circled about Tarzan, the flickering firelight playing upon the hideous scene.

An Angel came to call
our Mary home,
And guide her soul to that eternity,
Where dwells the God of love on heaven's throne.
Eight years ago this Christmas Eve
With golden glow shone round you, Mary dear,
But loving hearts were sad ere came the night,
For you had gone and left us sorrowing here.
Eight years ago—fast flow the sands of time,
Some day again our Mary dear we'll see,
And in the garden of God's love divine,
Walk hand in hand for all eternity.
Farewell till then, oh dearest, Mary mine,
And when on earth each task of five is o'er,
Our souls made pure shall journey home to thine,
To have your joys with God for evermore.

NINE ENTER CITY ALDERMANIC CONTEST

Half Million Letters Handled at Post Office

HEAVIEST MAIL IN CITY'S HISTORY HANDLED IN 1930

Letter Carriers Were Permitted to Spend Christmas at Home.

UNNECESSARY WORK.

The Christmas rush at the Post Office is over and an unusual calm in comparison with the storm of the past few days has settled over the offices.

For the first time, the letter carriers were permitted to spend Christmas Day with their families, instead of trudging over their routes, while other people gathered around the family tree and board. Just what such a thing mean to the men can be readily realised, said Postmaster Charles Lacheur, who states he has a letter carrier in the employ of the local office who has not been home on Christmas morning with his family for the past eighteen years. The men certainly earned their brief rest, for they did duty on Christmas Eve from 4 a.m. until midnight—sixteen hours, without a break.

In the five days preceeding Christmas Day the local office handled half a million letters. Counting parcels and newspapers etc, the sum total of mail handled is far in excess of anything ever through the local office before.

One Improperly Wrapped

Of this vast quantity of mail only one parcel was improperly wrapped, a unique record. The same was not true of letters and cards, many of which were improperly addressed and had to be put on one side for directory service. Of the half million pieces of outgoing and incoming mail, only 300-400 pieces were not delivered because of improper addressing. These were being dealt with this morning, and every effort was being made to locate the addresses. The ommissions in some instances were ludicrous; for instance there were several cards containing nothing more than a greeting—no name; no address. They will eventually find their way to the dead letter office. Other pieces of mail were addressed to certain persons, with the number and name of the street omitted.

A great deal of unnecessary waste of time, and of course the assurance that improperly addressed mail could be disposed of with dispatch.

GOOSE IS SERVED AT COUNTY GAOL

Sixteen Prisoners at the Jail Given a Good Yuletide Menu.

DESSERT PROVIDED.

The Christmas spirit of cheer and goodwill made itself felt even within the confines of the County Gaol yesterday, where the drab monotony of prison routine was happily alternated for the sixteen inmates, by the addition of Yuletide fare to the menu.

The meal included ample portions of goose and chicken, embellished with tasty savory stuffing, and served up along with potatoes and other vegetables, and generous supplies of appetizing brown gravy. Dessert was provided in the form of mince pies and Christmas cake, which was followed by oranges and nuts. So ample were the supplies of chicken, that there was enough left to provide for the evening meal.

Needless to say, the change of diet was greatly appreciated, the regular prison fare consisting of boiled meat every two days, potatoes, and soup, with dry bread. Tea or coffee is not served. The gaol officials are restricted in the matter of food served by the law, which dictates exactly the weight and nature of the food to be provided. Not being allowed the use of knives or forks, the prisoners are given their food already cut up, and eat it with the aid of spoons.

Fruit and candy were generously provided by the Salvation Army, while Tom Dawson and the Purity Baking Company donated Christmas cake.

Yesterday's prison population of sixteen men corresponded in number to those in confinement at the same period last year, although that number was made up of 15 males and 1 female.

LONG STEP TAKEN IN AVIATION LINE

Small Plane Can Be Operated at Same Price as Car Says Lindbergh.

AIR TRAVEL INCREASING.

(By Foster Hailey, A.P. Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — Aviation has come a long way since a young fellow from Missouri took off from Roosevelt Field four years ago next May and flew to Paris, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh believes.

Lindbergh talked to-day of aviation as it was five years ago and as it is now; of low and high wings; of engines and speed and radio—topics that are the very breath of life to him. He said in part:—

"We have had more progress in the development of aircraft in the last five years than could have been foreseen at that time.

"The small, private plane of 85 to 100 miles an hour cruising speed can be operated to-day at practically the same cost as a medium-priced automobile.

"For example, let's take a 100 horsepower plane. It sells for $3,000 to $5,000. You can get from 10 to 15 miles on a gallon of gas; that's with a pilot and two passengers. After 300 or 400 hours—which is about 25,000 to 30,000 miles—it will need an overhaul. Afterwards it is ready for another 300 or 400 hours, and the total life of a good plane is 2,000 hours or more, which is 170,000 miles of flying."

Passenger air travel is increasing—in 1930 it was substantially greater than in 1929—and in many places it is becoming a part of everyday life, Colonel Lindbergh said.

Colonel Lindbergh has no particular flying plans for the new year. He said he does not expect to attempt this winter an air tour of South America—a flight he has long had in mind.

Campbell to Drive New Blue Bird Racer At Daytona, Carrying 1,450 H.P. Motor

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—When Captain Malcolm Campbell races down Daytona Beach in January he will be driving the most powerful racing car in his hazardous experience.

The new "Blue Bird" is much lower than the car in which he flashed 214 miles an hour over the same sands in 1928.

When he is seated at the wheel, the top of Captain Campbell's head is less than 45 inches from the ground. The car has a clearance of only 3½ inches.

It is powered by a 12-cylinder super-charged Napier motor developing 1,450 horsepower, at 3,600 r.p.m. while in 1928 the engine had only 920 h.p. The bore of the motor is 139.7 and the stroke 130.17.

The engine itself weighs 1,116 pounds and thus develops one h.p. for every ¾ pound.

The wheelbase is 12 feet 6 inches and the length of the car overall is 25 feet 6 inches.

The tires are specialy made, with a very thin rubber tread and 14-ply canvass. They have been tested up to 300 miles an hour. The wheels, fitted with discs, are 38 inches in diameter.

The whole car weighs 2-1½ tons.

ONTARIO SPENDS HOLIDAY QUIETLY FEW NEGLECTED

Family Re-unions, Church Services and Christmas Dinner Main Features.

MILD WEATHER A BOON.

Jail and Hospital Inmates Not Forgotten—Much Christmas Mail to Go Out.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 26.—Family reunions, church services, and the annual Christmas dinner were the main features of the holiday celebration in Ontario yesterday, with both young and old proudly exhibiting the gifts the season brought.

The great majority of Ontario spent the day quietly after the excitement of the preceding night and the shopping days previous to that. Services appropriate to the day were heard in all the churches, garlanded with holly and other decorations for the occasion.

It was Ontario's boast that no one should be without good things for the table and weeks of effort on the part of various organizations made it certain that no known case of want was unattended.

Hospitals throughout the Province were amply provided with Christmas cheer and each patient therein received a gift from the tree and as much of the festivities as his or her condition permitted.

Special Dinner for Prisoners

Jails, reformatories and other institutions were not forgotten in the general joyousness. The usual fare was discarded for the day and a more bountiful and delicate repast placed before the inmates.

The past service at least the delivery section, rested from the arduous work of distributing the colossal amount of mail handled during the past week or more. A huge overflow remains to be delivered yet, however, and it will probably be a few days before the postal employees are back to the normal amount of mail matter.

Entertainment of all varieties closed the day. Mild weather prevailed generally throughout the day and automobile travel between urban centres was fairly heavy.

MOLONEY TO BE PRESENT.

Proposed Australia - Canada Trade Pact Believed Underlying Topic.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.) — Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is on his way back to Ottawa from Vancouver at the request, it is understood, of Premier R. B. Bennett conveyed in a wire sent by Mr. Bennett from the Maritime Province. The likelihood is that the Premier may reach Ottawa from Sackville, N.B., sometime tomorrow and a meeting of the Cabinet in the course of the day is probable.

It is understood that Hon. Parker Moloney, Australian Minister of Markets, will be in the Capital tomorrow night, and following the return of Mr. Stevens there will be a conference respecting the proposed new Canada-Australian trade pact. Mr. Moloney spent Christmas in Quebec City.

Original Plan Changed

The original plan had been to put the final touches on the trade agreement at a meeting between Mr. Stevens and the Australian Minister somewhere in the West before Mr. Moloney sailed from Vancouver for his antipodean home. However, the Australian Minister has been in cabled correspondence with his government with respect to the provisions governing the proposed agreement which, it is understood, will regulate the flow of Australian butter into this country as well as deal with better treatment to Canadian exporters of lumber to Australia in competition with United States exporters.

The fact that Mr. Stevens is coming back to Ottawa for the conference is taken here to indicate that some of the suggestions coming from the Australian Government are of such a nature as to require the advice of officers of the Department of Trade and Commerce, and perhaps other members of the Dominion Government.

KIWANIANS HEAR REPORT OF WORK OF CLUB IN 1930

Service and Community Building Well Exemplified in Annual Reports.

TRIBUTE TO WORKERS.

Between 50 and 60 Baskets Were Distributed During the Christmas Season.

Service and community building, the ideals for which the Kiwanis Club is ever striving, were well exemplified in the reports on the year's work, presented by the chairmen of the various committees at to-day's luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Carl S. Browne, the retiring president, in expressing his appreciation for the great amount of work which has been accomplished, made particular mention of Walter Oke's work as chairman of the Sunshine Committee. "He has been functioning 100 per cent. throughout the year," said Mr. Browne. Special reference was also made to Dr. C. B. Waite's work as chairman of the Underprivileged Child Committee, and of those who had assisted him. Dr. Waite's report stands as a splendid testimonial to the enormous amount of humanitarian work which has been performed, and will be quoted in detail in a future issue of The Examiner.

Hundred Per Centers.

In appealing for a hundred per cent. attendance next year, the president mentioned the following Kiwanians as "hundred per centers" this year: Isaac McNabb, H. Boyle, H. Huffman, A. Sharpe, C. S. Browne, L. J. Pattit, and G. Copping.

Reports were also presented by the chairmen of the following committees —J. B. Nelson, Agricultural Committee; W. Freel, Attendance Committee; Dr. J. J. Craig, Business Standing Committee; J. J. Turner, Kiwanis Education Committee; John I. Allen, Program Committee; J. Campbell, Publicity Committee; W. Oke, Sunshine Committee; Dr. C. B. Waite, Underprivileged Child Committee; Herbert McCannan, Vocational Guidance Committee; John Meyers, House Committee; Al Sharpe, Inter-Club Committee; J. Marshall, Public Affairs; J. A. McKone, secretary's report.

In the course of his report Mr.

ONLY TWO OF ELEVEN NOMINEES FAIL TO QUALIFY AS A CANDIDATE FOR FIVE VACANT SEATS IN COUNCIL

Four Retiring Aldermen Are Again Seeking Election to City Council.

LYTLE, McCANNAN OUT.

Storm clouds lower over the aldermanic arena as nine candidates gird themselves for the battle of ballots on New Year's Day. With nine candidates grimly tilting for the five vacant seats in the Council the city ratepayers are promised a real election scrap.

The number of candidates exceeds expectations. Only two of those nominated failed to qualify. The others are all in there and each candidate made it quite plain to The Examiner this morning that he will call on all his forces and strive with might and main to gain or retain a seat. All old warriors of the municipal ring these; since six have earned victories at the polls before and the three others have all been through the smoke of an election.

Four of the candidates are seeking to retain the seats in Council they held for the past two years. These are Henry C. Huffman, J. A. McNabb, Nagle Phelane and Daniel Holland.

Two Are Veterans

Then there are two veterans of City Council who are striving to stage a comeback. These are E. Melville Turner, who served on the Council during the four years from 1923 to 1926, and James Hamilton, who has six years experience as alderman to recommend him to the electors. He served four years from 1916 to 1920 and again in 1928 and 1929. Fred C. Goodfellow, R. C. Heard and James C. Ellis.

While the other three have not had Council service they are not newcomers or strangers to municipal affairs. The trio were all candidates in last year's election. All introduce strict economy as one of the main planks in their platform. All three are well-known citizens, respected and having earned credit in their own field of business.

The two nominees who failed to remain in the arena were: Herbert J. McCannan and William Lytle.

What the candidates will base their election platforms is not known now. But it can safely be assumed, that financial retrenchment and paving will form the major points in five candidates' platforms. The aldermen seeking re-election will likely base their claims on past service and the business they tried to get through Council during their terms.

Great interest is centered on the mayoralty contest where Alderman Malcolm McIntyre is opposing the re-election of Mayor Denne.

The whole field has brought out a flock of worthy candidates and they deserve a big vote on New Year's Day.

Mispelled Words Trap Extortionist

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—A youth who police say attempted to extort $25,000 from R. A. Long, wealthy lumberman, was held today, trapped by two mispelled words.

Col. Charles Edwards, Chairman of the Crime Prevention Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, and Detective Lieutenant E. L. Nelson said last night Charles Leonard Duncan, 23, had confessed he threatened death to the millionaire in two notes.

In a handwriting test, they said, the youth mispelled street and curbing, peculiarities of the message to Long directing disposition of the $25,000.

The youth, unemployed since April, was arrested Wednesday.

JAR SAVES LIFE OF STOREKEEPER

Bandit's Bullet Fired at Mimico Man is Deflected By Glass.

ROBBERY FOILED.

MIMICO, Ont., Dec. 26.—A jar of peanut butter saved Sam Aguanna, proprietor of a fruit store at the corner of Melrose avenue and Church streets, from a bullet aimed at him by one of three holdup men as they left his store, frustrated in their attempt to rob him.

The bullet from the bandit gun was deflected by the jar of the counter directly in front of the proprietor. The three men entered the store and Aguanna was ordered to lie on the floor. This he refused to do and offered such resistance that the men abandoned their attempts and made for their car waiting outside not before one of them, however, had fired at the storekeeper.

ESCAPED PRISONER TRAPPED

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.)—The last of four men who escaped in a spectacular jail break from the Sandwich County Jail Christmas morning was captured this morning at Amherstburg by Provincial Police, as he waited a boat to take him to the United States. He was Willard Mellish, Monroe, Mich., awaiting trial on charges of conspiracy to kidnap.

PETERBORO DID WELL BY ITS NEEDY DISTRIBUTE HUNDREDS OF BASKETS

Citizens Were Never So Well Cared For at Festive Season.

TRANSIENTS LOOKED AFTER.

Christmas should have been a happy day in Peterborough. The city can hand itself a bouquet when it thinks of the way in which the needy were looked after. Possibly there wasn't any place in the whole Dominion that did any better by its citizens than this city.

And the day was made possible by the manner in which everyone cooperted. For a fortnight before Christmas, and perhaps longer than that, agencies of every kind were active in preparing lists and baskets for those who aren't getting a very good break at the present time. And, if anyone was overlooked, it was their own fault or the fault of their neighbors, for every possible channel was tapped to find out just where the need was greatest.

Possibly there was a little overlapping. There always is. But no one should worry overmuch about that. In homes where there are seven and eight children, or even illness, where the wolf sets his paws over the doorsill and refuses to budge, an extra basket on Christmas Day will not be too much. And in many homes, one such basket was all that was received.

On Christmas morning agencies were busy looking after several that had been missed. Through the kindness of several merchants, it was possible to provide meat and groceries in several instances, late on Christmas morning or afternoon.

Transients Cared For

The transients who drifted into the Police Station had a happier Christmas than they anticipated, probably. Through the kindness of several, it was possible to give them good dinners and suppers. As late as ten o'clock last night, when two blew in to the Station, after a long

BROTHERS PERISH IN AUTO SMASH

Two Captains of Great Lakes Vessels Hurled From Car Near Barrie.

MISSED CURVE.

BARRIE, Ont., Dec. 26.—Two men died in hospital here last night as the result of an automobile accident on Highway No. 11, three miles north of Churchill earlier in the day.

They are: Capt. Matt Green, 38, of 209 Sixth street, Midland and his brother, Captain. Edwin A. Green, 34, 314 Second street, Midland. Both were travelling to Toronto to meet the daughter of one of them, who was returning from New York.

The light car in which they were riding made the first turn of an "S" curve, but failed to negotiate the second. The car took to the ditch and turned over several times before coming to a stop a considerable distance away.

The men were found about twenty feet from their car by a passing motorist who notfied police. They were taken to hospital both suffering fractured skulls and internal injuries of which they died several hours later.

Police are investigating the accident. Both men died without regaining consciousness and the only information available as to the cause of the crash is what can be deduced from the marks on the roadway near the place where the wrecked car stopped.

The Green brothers were captains of vessels sailing the Great Lakes.

RUM RUNNER HALTS AFTER GUARDS FIRE THREE SHELLS INTO STERN

British Schooner Yields 2,800 Sacks of Liquor Worth $100,000.

NINE ARRESTED.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 26. — With three shell holes in her stern and 2,800 sacks of liquor in her hold the British auxiliary schooner Audrey B. was towed to New York to-day by a coastguard patrol boat.

The schooner was captured yesterday in Fort Pond Bay, off Montauk Point, after the coastguard patrol boat 290 fired three one-pound shells into her stern. Coastguardsmen estimated her cargo of liquor was worth $100,000.

The searchlight of the coastguard patrol boat revealed the Audrey B. standing in toward Fort Pond Bay, where a fleet of motor trucks and a gang of men had been seen.

When Boastwain Alexander C. Cornell and the crew of the patrol boat hailed the schooner with a Christmas greeting, the British craft swung about and headed away from Fort Pond Bay, disregarding signals to halt.

After the third shell crashed through her stern, the ship stopped. Her crew of nine was taken aboard the patrol boat under arrest.

Boatswain Cornell was exonerated a year ago in the shooting during the capture of the rum runner Black Duck, which was fired upon when the craft attempted to escape December 29, 1929.

Christmas Day Means Nothing To Soviets

MOSCOW, Dec. 26. (CP)—Christmas day dawned in Soviet Russia with the meagerest activity to reflect the celebration in the Christian world outside.

There was not a Christmas tree to be found, even among the Christians who usually celebrate moderately. There were said to be no Christmas trees available because the authorities do not permit the promiscuous cutting of pines and evergreens.

At the Church of the Redeemer in Moscow, one of the greatest edifices left standing in Russia by the Communist anti-religious campaign, some 400 worshippers observed the day, most of them aged men and women.

Few if any young people attended the scanty services in the churches, most of the youth of the country never having heard of Christmas.

Before leaving Vancouver, Mr. Stevens expressed his regret at being unable to attend the unemployment relief conference which was to be held here to-day.

Amateur Burglars Enter Lindsay Store

LINDSAY, Dec. 26 (Special to The Examiner).—Burglars, believed by the police to be local amateurs, attempted to burglarize three local stores last night. They entered the J. G. Edwards hardware store from the rear and carried off some loose change and also a quantity of cutlery. They also attempted to enter J. A. Cain's furniture store and H. Mercer's drug store but were apparently frightened off.

INDIANS UNCOVER WRECK IN WOODS OF NORTH QUEBEC

LOST SINCE OCT. 9, 1929.

Plane Will Take Indians Back to Spot North of Lake St. John to Recover Bodies.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26—Lost for over a year in the desolate hinterland of Quebec, the bodies of Pilot W. H. ("Bill") Cannon and his mechanic, Leonce Lizotte, who disappeared on Oct. 9, 1929, while flying from St. Felicien, Que., to Chibougmau, have been found.

Telegrams were received here from Arthur Lizotte, father of the dead airman, to the effect that Indians had returned to Roberval with part of the plane's wings, bearing the registration marks of Cannon's machine. They explained they would be able to return and identify the locality in which the airplane was found, somewhere north of lake St. John.

Plane to Go Out

J. A. D. McCurdy, President of the Curtiss-Reid Aircraft Company, which employed the men, received one of the telegrams and stated that every effort would be made to send a plane to Roberval, take the Indians aboard and fly immediately to the spot where they found Cannon's machine. It is expected a plane will be ready Saturday morning, and departure will be made at daybreak for Roberval.

APPEAL BY RADIO UNITES BROTHERS

Search Continent Wide Ends in Hamilton on Christmas Day.

PARTED 20 YEARS.

HAMILTON, Dec. 26.—Parted for twenty years following the death of their parents, during which time all efforts to locate each other failed, William McNally and Hector McNally, aged 36 and 38 years respectively, were united yesterday through a radio appeal.

William McNally came to Hamilton three months ago from Montreal after he had learned through a law firm in Sydney, N.S., that his brother, Hector, had been traced to this city. The directory failed to enlighten him regarding his brother's whereabouts, but he arranged to have requests for information broadcast, and the reunion followed.

Hector McNally has lived in the city for five years.

"It is the merriest Christmas we have had since we were boys at home," said William McNally last night. "We were born in Watertown, Mass., and when I was eight years of age my mother died and shortly after my father passed away. We were left alone and were taken to different homes. For eight years we communicated with one another, but after that I heard nothing of Hector. I have written to police departments and papers from coast to coast in Canada and the United States, but failed to get any trace of him. There was a ray of hope when the law firm which handled legal matters for my parents wrote me in Montreal, advising that my brother was believed to be here. I decided to try again and I quit my work to continue the search."

Six At Drinking Party Die As House Burns

WHITING, Ind., Dec. 26 (C.P.).—Six men were burned to death yesterday in a frame tenement building where they had been celebrating Christmas Day drinking.

So befuddled were they when a wall of flame swept the structure at dawn that they made no attempt to escape. Another man, badly burned, finally jumped from a second storey just before the sheath of fire could consume him. The eighth member of the drinking party was rushed to a hospital, where physicians thought they might be able to save his life.

FOUR PRISONERS BEAT UP TURNKEY AT WINDSOR JAIL

Three Are Soon Captured After Their Escape on Christmas Morning.

TRUSTY GIVES ALARM.

Found at Home of Prisoner's Brother in Walkerville—One Man Still at Large.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.).—After attacking Turnkey George Meloche in the Essex County Jail yesterday, taking his keys and locking him in a cell, four prisoners made an escape, but three of them are behind the bars again to-day and in close confinement. The fourth is still at liberty.

Amos Findlay, awaiting trial on a hold-up charge; Tony Becker and Norman Teetzel, Brantford boys arrested on charges of hold-up of a gas station in East Windsor, and caught in Sarnia, and Willard Mellish, of Leamington, facing a charge of attempted kidnapping, were the men to escape.

The first three were captured several hours later at the home of a brother of Findlay in Walkerville. Walkerville and Windsor police made the capture.

Led By Findlay.

Turnkey Meloche opened a door into the bullpen to push in some pails so that cleaning operations might be carried on. The men, believed to have been led by Findlay, rushed him and managed to drag him into the pen. Then they made their escape, and it was some minutes before an alarm was raised by a trusty. It being a holiday, Meloche was alone on duty at the time, the other turnkey being away to breakfast, and Governor Colonel John Warden being at his residence. He responded to the call bell alarm sounded by the trusty.

An intensive search was at once begun by members of all border police departments and the Provincial police. Trails led to the home of Findlay in Walkerville, and the three men were found there.

They tried to make an escape but were quickly overhauled, without putting up any fight, by Walkerville and Windsor officers. They were at once returned to the county jail and placed in close confinement.

Meloche was badly pummelled but is not believed to have been seriously hurt. He did not complain of hurts, but is covered with black and blue bruises. He is an elderly man, and has a clean record as a jail official, where he has served for some years.

WOMAN KILLED HOLIDAY PARTY IS NEVER HELD

Hamilton Auto Crashes Head-on Into Toronto Street Car.

HUSBAND LOSES ARM.

Three Others Injured—Daughter Collapses When Told of Tragedy.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.).—One woman was killed and four other people were injured, one of them seriously, when the light automobile in which they were riding crashed head-on into a street car here yesterday.

Three Others Injured.

The other occupants of the car, less seriously injured, were: Dorothy Walsh, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, suffered head injuries; John Murphy, Toronto, brother-in-law of Mr. Walsh, and driver of the car, cuts on the head and face; and Jean Murphy, 16, head injuries. All of them are in hospital, their condition not considered serious.

The accident occurred at Birchmount and Queen Streets, when the car driven by Murphy is stated to have turned out to avoid hitting another automobile, crashing into the street car moving in the opposite direction, the force of the impact reducing the automobile to wreckage.

The Walsh and Murphy families were returning for Christmas dinner with Mrs. Walsh's mother after a drive through the city when the accident occurred.

Audrey Walsh, eldest daughter of the Hamilton family, was spending Christmas with friends in that city, ignorant of the fact her mother was dead and her father and sister seriously injured. Friends in Hamilton, listening in to the radio, heard the news of the accident broadcast and at once started a hunt for the girl. They found her and brought her to the hospital here, where her sister was confined, but it was not until she visited another hospital that news of her mother's death was broken to her. She collapsed.

Re-union Broken Up.

The tragedy broke up a family reunion of 37 people—daughters, sons-in-law, children, grand-children and great-grandchildren—at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGee. They left a festivity set Christmas table untouched, while a large Christmas tree, bending under the weight of its "good things" for everyone, was forgotten without having yielded a single one of its treasures.

Beyond the remark that the interview had been satisfactory, no statement as to the details was given out at its conclusion. Announcement has already been made that new buildings will be constructed and that the cost will be shared among the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and the City of Toronto.

CAVAN TOWNSHIP FARM VALUES SCANNED BY JUDGE O'CONNOR

Assessment Enquiry For United Counties Nears Conclusion.

SALES EXAMINED.

Assisting Judge O'Connor in the assessment enquiry in Cavan township were James Paul, assessor, J. N. McGill, township clerk, Reeve Hooton and Mr. McCamus and Mr. Donaldson. The session was held at Millbrook and in many instances it was noticed that the assessment was comparatively high. The following is a list of sales and corresponding assessments with estimates of actual values, followed by a few estimates of values and the registered assessments:

Wilbert S. Thornes sold to Samuel Bonner 100 acres on the 2nd concession for $4,000. Valued at $3,500. Assessment $1,000.

Thomas J. Lang bought from David Robison 5 acres east of Millbrook for $900. Assessment $450.

Wesley Dainard sold to C. H. Bigelow 50 acres on the 11th concession for $3,500. Assessment $2,000.

David Robison sold to Jas. L. Larmer 100 acres on the 4th concession for $6,000. Mr. Donaldson said that Mr. Larmer bought this place in order that his boys could go to the Millbrook school. Mr. Paul valued the property at $5,000. Assessment $2,600.

James Anderson bought from John George 50 acres on the 7th concession for $500. Anderson is a Peterborough man. The property was described as a piece of swamp. Mr. Paul placed it at $100. Assessment $300. Mr. McCamus said $300 would be enough to pay for it.

James Roddy sold to Alfred Davis the east half of lot 21 in the 6th concession for $4,000. Mr Paul and Mr. Donaldson valued it at $3,500. Assessment $1,800.

William Finnemore sold to John R. Thompson the east half of lot 20 in the fifth concession for $7,100. Mr. Donaldson said $6,500 would be a good price. Assessment $3,800.

Thomas W. Widdis sold to Winnifred A. V. and Fred H Moore 150 acres ninth concession. That deal went through in April 1928, and Moore sold in April 1929 to Leonard Hibbard for $4,500. He bought it for $5,000, and apparently dropped $500. Judge O'Connor remarked Mr. Paul thought the first sale price too high. Assessment $3,700.

John H. Moore sold to Sidney Todd 50 acres. 8th concession for $2,700. Assessment $1,200.

T. W. Widdis bought 100 acres from Joseph Lancashire for $4,200. "He paid enough for us," said Mr. Paul.

Mr. Donaldson—"Just as I said about Mr. Larmer, he wanted a place to get his children to school.

Mr McCamus estimated the value at $3,500. Assessment is $1,200.

BRANTFORD FIRE SWEEPS STORES

Hamilton Fire Department Sends Assistance to Fight Stubborn Blaze.

TWO BUILDINGS GUTTED.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 26. (CP) Fire, breaking out in a confectionery store here last night, caused damage estimated at nearly $150,000 before being brought under control by the local fire department, with the assistance of one pumper and twelve men from the Hamilton department, who made a fast trip over icy highways. Before the blaze was brought under control it had gutted completely the Artemis Sweets, in which it originated and the Metropolitan Store adjoining.

The fire burst out on a city celebrating Christmas. It came almost without warning, for the first indication of its appearance was a curl of smoke trickling from a window of the confectionery store.

Simultaneously with the alarm, the store, smoke filled, seemed almost to explode. Flame shot through the entire structure, as it suddenly swept into the Metropolitan store.

The local Fire Department, fighting desperately, managed to confine the flames to the two buildings but sent out a hurried call for help as the fire appeared to gain even further headway. The Hamilton crew responded, and made the twenty-mile trip in near-record time. They arrived just as the local fire-fighters had blocked the path of the fire with fire walls.

With the reinforcements on hand, the fire was brought under control within a very few minutes. It is not known whether any insurance was carried on the two structures.

MARVEL OF MODERN SKILL IN SURGERY

Boy With Ruptured Heart and Deflated Lung Expected to Recover Fully.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 26.—(By the Canadian Press.)— What would you do if you had been run over by a wagon, your internals moved all out of place and terribly injured and you were suffering the very torments of the condemned? Probably turn over and wish for death, which, incidentally, would nine times out of ten come, says a story in the Ontario Intelligencer.

But little Bobby McGibbon, who lives on a farm near Detler, Ont., had this happen to him and by the miracle of modern surgical skill is still living— and, unless something intervenes in later life, will live to a ripe old age. The other afternoon a reporter went up to see Bobby, who will soon be 5 years old. The lad was lying on a couch with a blanket wrapped around him, busily engaged blowing up balloons and enjoying his prosaic sport immensely. (Bobby doesnt play with these balloons for the fun of it, he has to blow them up to exercise his lung, which was completely crushed.)

There are, according to medical statistics, but three cases where children under 12 years have have survived such injuries. Dr. S. R. McCreary, local doctor, assisted by Dr. George S. Stobie, performed one of the most amazing and difficult operations ever tried in Canada and it was successful. When little Bobby was borught into Dr. McCreary's office here about a month ago, X-ray pictures revealed that his heart had moved from the left side to the right, his left lung had collapsed, his diaphragm was ruptured, part of his bowels and other intestines had moved up into the vacant lung space and he was suffering from numerous other internal injuries. He was taken to the Belleville General Hospital and it was not until 10 days later that Dr. McCreary thought it advisable to operate. Now Bobby is going to get well.

Unfortunately Mrs. Jones was not able to be at Sunday school, hence the original intention of presenting the gift after the regular school session had to be abandoned, and the present sent to the parronage with its accompanying address.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1930

THE ORGANIZATION DELAYED.

It is regrettable that any suspicion should have been voiced in regard to The Examiner's plan for the systematic relief of the city's needy, or that there should be the impression created that some candidates (the reference was undoubtedly to Mayor Denne, who had announced his intention of calling a public meeting) might seek to gain political advantage from the movement.

This development has had the unfortunate consequence of postponing the organization of a relief committee until after the municipal election, in order that the effort to systematize relief operations here should be free of the slightest suspicion that it was being furthered for political purposes.

The Examiner, which brought forward the plan in the sincere belief that only by some such method could the problem of taking care of the many needy families in the community be effectively carried out, regrets the delay that has been occasioned, feeling that every moment counts when conditions are such as to leave many households absolutely dependent upon public help.

Surely a humanitarian effort of this kind might have been spared the insinuation that it would be used for unworthy purposes.

The effective administration of a business-like policy for the care of those in need is of far more consequence than the political fortunes of aspirants for municipal positions.

WHERE THE CREDIT SHOULD GO.

The Examiner in its issue of December 24th announced that it would not discuss the mayoralty contest editorially, nor do we propose to depart from that policy so far as attempting to advise the electors or to take sides in the contest thus concerned.

In self-defence, however, apart altogether from the merits of the two candidates or the general issues of the campaign, it is surely the privilege of this newspaper, having been attacked at a public meeting because of alleged unfairness in assigning credit for the location in Peterborough of certain new industries, to point out that the executive head of one of these firms, the Canadian Johnson Motors, Limited, has confirmed The Examiner's position.

Hugh N. Campbell of the Johnson Company says in a letter to The Examiner:

"Mayor Denne, and no one else, is directly responsible for our company finally deciding upon Peterborough as our Canadian headquarters."

If any one is in a position to speak with authority as to whom the credit for a company coming to Peterborough should go surely the man at the head of that particular industry should be.

And his statement, it is necessary in fairness to ourselves to point out, is stronger and more positive than anything The Examiner has said on the subject.

THE MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN.

In addition to the mayoralty contest, Peterborough will also see a battle for five aldermanic posts, thus providing a fair-sized menu for the consideration of the electors on New Year's Day.

The election of at least one new alderman is assured, inasmuch as the decision of Ald. McIntyre to seek mayoralty honors paves the way for the entrance into the Council of a new aspirant to civic service.

All four retiring members of this year's Council, C. H. Huffman, Nagle Phelan, Dan. Holland and J. A. McNabb, are asking for re-election upon their record of achievement in civic activities, while the new candidates, who include two former aldermen, promise faithful service if honored with the support of the electorate.

With all due deference to the aldermanic candidates, it is readily admitted that the mayoralty contest is responsible for most of whatever interest is being shown in the municipal campaign and will be the chief factor in bringing out the vote.

In this connection The Examiner would respectfully suggest to the ratepayers that it is in their own interest to study the candidates who are in the field, weigh their policies and endeavor to make the best selection possible.

It is a matter of the very greatest importance to the whole community, and therefore surely worth sacrificing a few minutes' time out of the first holiday of 1931.

Leaving it to George to do is a dangerous policy when applied to the selection of a civic government.

NO LACK OF EDUCATION.

From a recent report issued by the Bureau of Statistics, it is evident that Canada is not suffering from any lack of educational facilities, no matter what other things she may require.

The figures given out by the bureau show that at the present time there are enrolled in the educational institution of all kinds in Canada 2,287,000 students, a tremendous total.

The question of how the thousands of these pupils who graduate each year are to be absorbed has been giving the St. Thomas Times-Journal some concern.

"Are we paying heavily for the cost of educating and training a large number of young people who will then give the United States the benefit of the knowledge and skill paid for by Canadian citizens?"

Fortunately, however, it would seem that the exodus to the neighboring Republic has been thoroughly dried up, and that for the present at least trained Canadians are remaining in Canada, satisfied that the outlook here is better than across the line.

The problem of finding desirble vocations for the yearly crop of graduates is indeed a serious one, for while vocational training has given the Canadian youngsters a fresh chance and has cut down to some extent the outpouring of young people from the schools in search of "white collar" jobs, the fact remains that the greater use of modern machinery has in turn materially reduced the demand for man-power.

PROHIBITION BY DEMAND.

From several quarters, all of them of a strictly dry tendency, has come the suggestion that the liquor stores in Ontario be closed during the period of hard times, but it is a foregone conclusion that the Control Board will not heed the demand, the chairman, Sir Henry Drayton, taking the position that to close the stores would be to play into the hands of the bootleggers. There is no doubt that thousands of citizens if denied the right to purchase liquor at Government stores would secure their supplies from illegal sources, spending much more than they do now, and getting liquor of questionable quality and, perhaps, of a poisonous nature.

Once the legitimate supply were cut off, there would be great haste on the part of the illicit vendors to meet the demand, especially should the suggested closing come at the Christmas season, and there would be much "doctored" liquor which would have an injurious effect on the health of the purchasers if it did not actually kill them. In these times of financial stringency, many of the patrons of the Government stores are content with Canadian wines or beer, which can be acquired at very reasonable prices, whereas if they had to buy from a bootlegger they would be compelled to buy harder stuff and would have to pay stiff prices for it.

Some organizations seemingly have the idea that the Liquor Control Board should close their stores on their demand. This, of course, would be an easy way to secure prohibition. Denied it at the polls, all the drys would have to do would be to demand it when this or that emergency arose. If they could close liquor stores merely by request they would soon find plenty of excuses so that the stores would be shut practically all the time. But prohibition cannot come on the mere demand of dry organizations. It came by the votes of the people and it can only go the same way. The Liquor Board was appointed to carry out the will of the majority, not the desire of the minority.

The liquor trade, like every other line of industry, has been hit by hard times. Figures issued at Ottawa indicate a decrease in exports, imports and in domestic manufacture, and Ontario reports a drop in the number of liquor permits and a corresponding decrease in sales. This proves rather conclusively that people are not spending for liquor money that should go for other things. There is still a large quantity of liquor sold at the liquor stores, but the greater part of this is bought by men who can afford it, and who are not denying their families the necessities of life. As a result of the order of the Control Board, forbidding the sale of liquor to those not in a position to afford it, and of the action of many relief agencies in denying assistance to those possessing permits, very few of those in an impoverished condition are patrons of the liquor stores.

Another thing to bear in mind in considering the money spent on liquor in Ontario is that a large part of this will find its way back to the people in unemployment relief, while if the stores were closed, this money would go solely to enriching the bootleggers, who are generally worthless members of society.

R. H. Halbert, past president of the United Farmers of Ontario, in addressing that organization at its annual meeting in Toronto this week, expressed the view that the major cause of depression, so far as Ontario was concerned, was the legalized sale of liquor. We wonder to what Mr. Halbert would ascribe the depression in the prohibitionary United States. The fact of the matter is that this depression, which is world wide, is due to causes on which Government control or prohibition would have very little effect.

TAXES FOR ROADS.

There seems to be a good deal warranting sympathetic consideration by the Ontario Government in the request to be made shortly by a deputation from urban municipalities that the Government assume the whole cost of construction and maintenance of provincial highways and suburban county roads. This is particularly so in connection with provincial highways towards which the larger centres throughout the Province have been paying out considerable sums year after year. The benefits of such highways are so general that it would appear to be a matter for the Province to take care of, but the situation may perhaps be a little different in regard to suburban roads which do add greatly to the advantages of cities where the suburban roads system is in effect.

The argument to be advanced by the deputation is that it is unfair to tax ratepayers generally for roads which are of benefit to only those who use them, and the Government is to be requested to appropriate some of the revenue accruing from the gasoline tax and from motor vehicle licenses and fees to pay for the two classes of roads.

In this way, it is contended, those who use the roads will be paying for them. There is a point, however, which must not be lost sight of, and that is that in having good roads, particularly good suburban roads, the principal cities and towns benefit materially from the tourist traffic which naturally moves where such good roads are available. This traffic is a valuable consideration because it benefits local business and is a permanent indirect form of advertising attractive communities, thus tending to create a more or less steady stream of such benefits.

But, apart from this, it would appear that the deputation has a case that merits some concession from the Government. An example of the expense to which municipalities are put is given in the local figures which show that Ottawa contributed $28,783.65 for provincial highways in the past four years, and $246,300 in the past five years for suburban roads, or a total of $275,083. This is an average of $37,000 a year, or one-third of a mill in the tax rate.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now that Christmas is over, let us not forget that the needy must be sheltered and fed and clothed.

Whether North Monaghan elects a Rye or a McIntosh, there will be a wet hint about the result, as the punster of the Toronto Star will doubtless point out.

The municipal campaign at all events will be short—if not necessarily sweet.

According to Premier Bracken, the West has not got all it asked from Santa Claus Bennett.

The Christmas spirit will have to carry through the next few months if there is not to be suffering in Peterborough.

Brilliant Students in Studying English

Mah, minister of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, have proved unusually brilliant by mastering the English language and heading their school classes in that short time. They are shown above—Back row, left to right: Ruth, aged 13; Joseph, aged 16, who was the only pupil out of 200 at Mimico Centre to get 100 marks in every subject in entrance examinations; and Ruby, aged 11. Front: Daniel, aged 9 (left), and John, aged 7. They attend Public School, and all procured at least 95 per cent. in the examination papers. Joseph received a gold medal at the closing exercises.

What To-day Means To You

"CAPRICORN."

If December 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The least propitious hours are from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

December 26th is a day full of promise. There will be sensed an urge to be up and doing. A little concentration of mind will indicate the thing to do, and fortunate results can be anticipated. In the evening affection will be stimulated and reciprocated. A good day for work and play.

A child born on this December 26th will be precocious—too much so—and imaginative. These childish qualities will die down gradually, and it will develop into a normal adult, without kinks. Its life will, undoubtedly flow along usual lines, marked neither by failure or exceptional achievement.

You have been struggling, since your advent, against adverse birth conditions; the signs hold out for you no alluring prospects of dazzling ventures. One saving factor has, however, rescued you from disappointment, and failure. Your indomitable will-power has kept your head above water, and will enable you to reach the Harbor of Safety and Success.

You are not gifted with any exceptional intelligence as it takes you a long time to learn. Even at school, you were never in the vanguard of attainment. You, however, possess a measure of "stick-at-itiveness" which has enabled you to overcome the disadvantages from which you have suffered, and, by the same spirit, have acquired a redtentive memory. You are not even now an intellectuality, but have a degree of sound, common sense, which is often worth more than book lore.

You have also had to flight against that shyness and timidity which characterized you in your early days. You are now a reacy conversationalist with a gift of quick, albeit kindly, repartee. Your sense of humor is strong. You are self-assured, though not boastful; self-confident, though not a braggadocia; masterful, though not dominating; convincing, though not obstinate. You radiate a compelling and an attractive personality.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

DIAMOND PRICES ARE MAINTAINED BY GOV'T CONTROL

Board of South Africa Has On Its Hands $60,000,000 Worth of Stones.

HEAVILY GUARDED.

Plane Brings Gems From Diggings to Cape Town Once a Week.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 26. — (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—In the midst of a world-wide depression and the rising argument concerning Government control of crops, there is one crop that is Government controlled and maintains its price and that is diamonds.

The Diamond Control Board of South Africa, it is learned here, has on its hands about $60,000,000 worth of the traditional engagement stones, which it is prepared to feed out to the world as the world demands. It keeps them in a big safe at Cape Town and in various vaults at the Kimberley and Premier diggings. Every week a diamond airplane heavily guarded by the South African air force, flies between Port Nolloth near the diggings, and Cape Town carrying thousands of dollars worth of gems.

Governmental control of the diamond output came about in this way. There were originally two big diamond holdings, the Kimberley and the Premier. Then diamonds were discovered in alluvial deposits along the Orange River. Individuals and small companies procured from the Government licenses to fish for diamonds at the expense of half a crown a year. The average income from this industry was about $1,000. But for the protection of the market, Kimberley, Premier and Government interests came together and the Government declared the Orange River deposits Government property. A diamond control board was formed, buying diamonds from both the old holdings and the Government's Lamaqualand deposits.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA PRESENTED IN MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH

Under Auspices of Golden Links Mission Circle of Saint Andrew's Church.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

MILLBROOK, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—A service of unusual interest was held in Saint Andrew's United Church on Sunday evening, when a sacred cantata, "The Spirit of Peace", appropriate to the Christmas season, was presented by the Golden Links Mission Circle, the president, Miss Jean L. Burnham, having had full charge of the training and directing.

A lighted manger-cradle occupied the centre of the pulpit platform, and after the opening worship ritual conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., the cantata was proceeded with, taking the place of the sermon period.

The choir entered from the hall, singing the processional hymn, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear", as they came up the east aisle, and as they approached the altar the vestry door opened and the Madonna (Betty O'Brian), in a blue dress with white scarf thrown about her head and shoulders, took her place beside the cradle; two little cherubs, Peggy Howe and Betty Thornton, with gauzy wings, were seated at either side of the foot of the crude bed where the light at the head was the only type of the Christ Child; Joseph (Eddie Nattress), in eastern garb, entered with Mary, and an angel choir, in white gowns, with halos encircling each head, formed a background for the Oriental scene. The girls of the choir were: Marian and Martha Earle, Margaret Pallis, Marjorie Skitch, Sadie Rowland, Charlotte McMahon and Marjorie Sayles.

On either side of the platform the Old Testament (Dorothy McDowell, and the New Testament (Jean Burnham), stood during the early part of the pageant, the former reading her section of the Bible narrative from a parchment shaped like the tradition stones on which the commandments were written, and the latter with scroll-like manuscript. Filling in the picture were the Spirit of Light (Phyllis Kidd) in white and silver with tall, blue lighted candle in brass holder; and the Spirit of Truth (Beatrice Jones) who also wore a gown of soft material, with silver trimming. The old and New Testament characters wore black gowns, banded with white, and crowns tipped in front with silver.

While the choir took their places in the pews to the left side of the pulpit platform, the Women of Jerusalem (Madeline McDowell, Charlotte Luxon, Bryar Edmunds, Anna Rowland, May Ferren) grouped themselves on the right facing the large silver star which swung softly in the warm air, typifying the one which guided the Wise Men to the Saviour.

Appropriate Christmas carols and hymns were sung throughout the cantata, telling the story of the birth of the Christ Child, the coming of the Shepherds (John Coulter, Grant Henry, and Johnston Rowland), who knelt in reverence beside the cradle; and the visit of the Wise Men (Kenneth Fallis, Walter Sayles, and Jack Stinson) who in rich robes worshipped before the Saviour, laying at the foot of the cradle their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, while the choir sang, "We Three Kings of the Orient Are."

A Woman of Galilee (Helen Mitchell), in black dress with head covering of black draping, came seeking the promised Messiah, and the carol, "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing" was sung by the angel choir. The Spirit of Light guided the shepherds to the scene of the Saviour's birth, and one of the beautiful numbers was the duet, "Silent Night", sung by Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss L. Hansman, while the Three Kings showed their adoration by the presentation of rich gifts.

While the choir sang, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", one by one the characters slowly passed from the platform, bowing low at the foot of the cradle, and finally only the lowly bed, now quite dark, was again in the centre, and the "old, old story", told in a new, and most impressive form, had reached its dramatic conclusion.

The special offering for the funds of the Mission Circle reached a goodly figure, and the organization, which donated fifty dollars each year toward the salary of Miss E. C. Hawken, missionary-teacher at the Wahnapitae School Farm, Alberta, will reach its full allocation of one hundred dollars by the close of the year.

Higher-priced Metals Firm With Nickel and Noranda Unchanged.

TORONTO, Dec. 26 (CP) — The ticker was at a standstill for long periods in the post-holiday period on the mining market to-day. Price action, except in a few scattered instances, was dull but general tone remained firm.

Ajax Oil again was to the fore with an advance of another 10 to $1.50. Nordon continued to show easier trend, price dropping a cent or so to 35, while other oils held unchanged.

Higher-priced base metals were quiet, both Nickel and Noranda standing at Wednesday's closing levels at noon. Amulet firmed a couple to 30. Lindsleys, with the exception of Sudbury Basin, off 3 to 47, were steady.

Dome eased 10 to $8.80 and Teck Hughes gained a like amount to $5.80, the two issues showing the only change in a dull gold section.

HUNTER DIES FROM ACCIDENTAL SHOT

Sad Tragedy Mars Christmas Holiday at Everett H. Fairman's Home at Blackwater.

LINDSAY, Dec. 26 (Special to The Examiner).—A sad tragedy marred the Christmas season at Blackwater on Wednesday, when Everett H. Fairman, married, of that village, was shot through the accidental discharge of his rifle. Fairman, in company with his father-in-law, O. Nicholls, started out on a hunting trip, and after leaving the village stopped to converse with four woodcutters. Fairman, who was leaning on his rifle, attempted to dodge a block which had rolled from the wood haul when the rifle was discharged, the contents entering his stomach. He was rushed to the Lindsay Hospital, where he died Christmas Day. Coroner Dr. Logan deemed an inquest unnecessary.

KIWANIANS HEAR

Allen referred very sympathetically to the passing of Joseph John, and asked all present to stand for a moment in tribute to his memory.

Harry Boyle, who rendered the report of the Sunshine Committee in the absence of Walter Oke, said that during the past week a great deal of work had been accomplished in providing for needy families throughout the city. Between 50 and 60 baskets had been distributed by the Kiwanis Club, a large increase over last year's distribution. He made particular mention of the work done in this connection by Kiwanians Rev. J. D. Paterson, Percy Blackmore, and Harry Huffman.

"On Saturday night" said Mr. Boyle, "the club members found they were short of toys for distribution and volunteered their services to the Fire Department." He spoke in high terms of the unselfish service which the firemen have rendered this Christmas season, and also spoke of The Examiner Relief Fund, the Catholic Women's League, and the Salvation Army.

Members of the club are reminded that the installation ceremonies will be held on Friday night of next week, which has also been slated as Ladies' Night.

BROCKENSHIRE RALLIES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.).—Jack Brockenshire, self-confessed slayer of a local police officer, who is in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from bullet wounds received when he tried to evade capture, is reported by hospital authorities to be "improving favorably." Brockenshire, who was reported to have taken a slight relapse yesterday, spent a very good night, according to early reports. Harry Clarkson, who was with Brockenshire at the time of the shooting, and who at present faces a charge of murder, will appear in Police Court to-day, and will probably be given another remand.

Market Turns Sharply Down in June After Regaining 60 Per Cent of Losses.

ODD LOT PURCHASES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — The stock market painfully retraced its step down the diminishing scale of share values during the past year to the point where its 1927-1929 ascent became steep and exciting.

Despite injuries suffered in its tumble from the 1929 peak, the market courageously resumed its climb during early months of 1930, and actually had regained by April almost 60 per cent of the lost altitude, but in its eagerness neglected to see gathering storm-clouds of a major business depression.

The market turned sharply downward in June, and as measured by share price indices, by December had retraced its steps to the general price level of the spring of 1927.

The average prices of rail shares reached a level not seen in five years, while utilities fell back to prices of only about two and a half years ago.

Although extreme depression of prices led to an assumption in many quarters that the so-called common stock era was at an end, statistics do not as yet support such a conclusion.

Stock held in speculative brokerage accounts has been drastically reduced in volume, but at the same time, lists of stockholders in individual corporations have increased to huge totals.

It is probable that many speculators have become investors against their wishes, that is, that they have decided to pay for their stock in full and take it out of their brokers' hands with the determined intention of keeping it until it commands a price somewhere near that paid for it, no matter how long it may take.

Brokers state, nevertheless, that a large section of the public has profited from the experiences of the past year and a half, and now is anxious to buy stocks at the bottom rather than the top.

Odd Lot Purchases.

The result has been a small but steady stream of odd lot purchases during periods of extreme pressure against prices. A glance at the total quoted value of stocks listed on the New York exchange shows that much remains of the great bull market which started in 1924.

The latest figure, for December 1, 1930, shows a total quoted value of roughly $53,000,000,000. While this shows a shrinkage of some 40 per cent from the peak reached in autumn of 1929, it is still about double the quoted value of all listed shares at the beginning of 1925.

In further efforts to gain the wider distribution of their shares, more of the large corporations split up their stocks, and these splitups, together with the sharp shrinkage of values, reduced the average price per share of stock listed on the New York exchange to less than $40, the lowest level in years.

Trading was fairly heavy in the first half of the year, and the market experienced one 8,000,000 share day, but nothing comparable to the 12,000,000 and 16,000,000 share turnovers in November, 1929.

The 1930 turnover on the stock exchange was about 810,000,000 shares, against 1,125,068,620 in 1929.

The market all fbut faded out for a large number of issues traded in the curb market. The curb, furthermore, suffered from the sharp decline in common stock financing, since as a primary market it generally introduces new market it generWly intrMduces shares.

SOME ACTIVITY IN OIL GROUP

"Typical Day After Christmas" Trading on Toronto Stock Exchange.

NORANDA UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Dec. 26 (CP). — It was the "typical day after Christmas" on the Toronto stock exchange. The forenoon session suffered from the usual lack of interest also noticeable during the festive season and trading was light, price movements narrow and the market dull in all respects.

The oil section proved to be the one bright spot, all issues showing slight gains from their closes of Wednesday. British American advanced a ¼ to 13¾, Imperial an 1-8 to 16⅜, and International Pete a like amount to 12⅛.

International Nickel sold up an 1-8 to 15 although during nearly the whole morning the stock sold unchanged. Noranda came out unchanged at 14.

The rest of the list appeared irregular with the price fluctuations of a very narrow character. Brazilian advanced a half point on odd lot sales to 21¼. Goodyear Tire was up 2⅛ in a sale of 5 shares to sell at 104. Massey-Harris and C.P.R. both receded small amounts from their previous closes.

Bakeries, Abitibi and Canadian Wire Bound Boxes were all unchanged.

Walkers in the liquor group was unchanged at 6¼.

C.N.R. EARNINGS.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 26 (CP). — The gross earnings for the Canadian National Railways for the period ending December 21st, 1930, were $3,712,981 as compared to $4,653,313 for the corresponding period in 1929, a decrease of $940,332.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner.

One factor which enters the Wall Street market and which the Canadian exchanges are free of, is selling to establish 1930 income tax losses. There are only four more days to accomplish this, and on one of these days transactions must be made for cash.

It would be interesting to know just what the value of this kind of selling has been in the last few months. It probably runs into many millions of dollars and was partly responsible for the heaviness and irregularity of the market in the closing days of the year. Inasmuch as a considerable amount of the sales already made are uncovered, it is fair to assume that buying to replace stocks sold for tax losses will appear in the opening days of 1931 and will be interesting to note how the market may act once relieved from this pressure. The days between Christmas and the opening of the new year are generally ones of adjustment and a time when investors take stock of their holdings, selling some securities and purchasing others with a view to strengthening their position. The current year has been one of drastic price changes in the stock market and conditions underlying certain securities have undergone such a change that investors in going over their lists will find many switches suggested.

At this time trading is at the lowest ebb of the year. It is a holiday season when a large number of traders are out of the city and speculative commitments at a minimum. Volume drops off and the market usually moves within a narrow range unless unforeseen developments crop up to ruffle the surface. Trading on the Toronto board in the forenoon to-day lived up to precedent with the market dull and inactive.

Possibilities of the sale of its products in the South American field are not being overlooked by General Steel Wares, Limited. The standard of kitchen comfort and labor having devices is not so high in South America as in Canada and as a means of attracting business in this direction the company is contributing to the Canadian section of the British Empire trade fair at Buenos Aires, in the form of a comprehensive display of household articles, fabricated from steel, as well as a line of motive toys, express wagons, kiddie cycles and scooters.

No Radical Change.

"Fundamentals such as the general credit situation and commodity price levels have undergone no radical change which would warrant the drastic readjustment of bond prices," says the Brookmire Economic Service in the last issue of their investment opportunity bulletin. "The short term money rates are still at extremely low levels, while the declining trend in commodity prices continues. The causes lie near the surface, and consist of factors which have disrupted the balance between supply and demand sides of the market.

"Conditions generally indicate that it should not be long before an upward trend in the bond market will be resumed and as soon as the outlook for business in general becomes more encouraging, good second-grade and lower-grade bonds also will undoubtedly come into greater public favor and advance with higher-grade issues."

ESKIMOS ENJOY CHRISTMAS DAY

Natives Flock to White Posts in Far Northland to Join Celebration.

MESSAGES FLASHED OUT.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26. (CP)—Christmas Day is not a problem in the Arctic. Along the thousands of miles of Canada's northern coast to-day the tiny, scattered settlements, extending from the mouth of the Mackenzie River on the west to the tip of Labrador on the east, became centres of merriment and good cheer. Small groups of youthful Canadians on isolated wireless stations throughout the north forgot their loneliness, constables of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, even more remote from human habitation, factors of Hudson's Bay Company posts, missionaries, traders and trappers, all surrendered themelves to the spirit of Christmas.

The Arctic region of Canada being the normal home of Santa Claus, this jovial and hearty old philanthropist flitted swiftly from settlement to settlement. The champing of his reindeer and the jingle of his sleighbells were heard outside the igloos of the Eskimos where he left gifts for parents and children alike. More and more the aborigines of the north look forward to Christmas, and lony before the day they begin to gravitate toward the white settlements.

Stations Describe Parties

From three wireless stations description of how the inhabitants in those distant places celebrated Christmas day were flashed through the ether to the radio branch of the Department of Marine. All of them revealed a cheerfulness of spirit which distance from civilization could not depress, and adaptability to conditions which distinguishes the pioneer, and a determination to observe the festive season in appropriate fashion. Those messages came from Coppermine, a radio post on Coronation Gulf, the base from which Major L. T. Burwash began his epic flight to discover the relics of the Franklin expedition; from Chesterfield Inlet, far up on the northwest coast of Hudson Bay and from Cape Hope's Advance, a marine radio station in Hudson Straits.

FEW ISSUES DROP TO NEW LOWS IN 'AFTER CHRISTMAS' TRADING

New York Market Offers Complete Contrast to Advance of Year Ago.

ANACONDA IS FIRM.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — The post-holiday stock market was in anticlimatic nd dreary affair to-day.

Prices crept lower under unusually light offerings. The losses in pivotal shares were mostly small, but a few issues broke into new low ground. The market was, indeed, an extreme contrast to the vigorous advance which followed the Christmas holiday a year ago.

Several of the merchandizing issues were sold presumably on the theory that earnings from holiday trade would be disappointing, because of reduced profit margins. Macy declined more than 5 points, and Sears Roebuck 2, to new low levels. Woolworth, Best & Co., and Associated Dry Goods eased moderately. Gillette dropped about 2 to a new minimum under 19, and Southern Pacific, Coca-Cola, and Western Union declined as much. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Liggett and Myers "B," New York Central, North American and Paramount sagged a point or more. The list firmed for a time in the morning, Eastman making a temporary gain of 5 points.

A declining stock market in the last week of the year has been rare in stock market history. Selling to establish losses for income tax purposes has usually been completed by that time, and traders have been inclined to accumulate stocks in expectation of a January reinvestment demand. Furthermore, holding and investment companies have favored a firm market at the close of the year, to give a large market value to their holdings as reported in their Dec. 31 statements.

To-day's stock market appeared to suffer from neglect as much as anything. There was little in the business news to encourage speculation for the rise, and many traders who left town for the holiday planned to stay away until next Monday.

The opinion was expressed in brokerage circles that there was still a little belated tax selling in progress, and the feeble tone of the list encouraged bear selling.

Anaconda was an active and firm feature of the early trading. Declaration of the regular dividend was encouraging, as was that statement which accompanied the announcement, showing that the company, as a unit, was one of the lowest cost producers in the industry. Cost per pound, after all charges was, was placed at 8.63 cents.

Business reports reflected little but the year-end quiet normally apparent at this time. It was pointed out, however, that the year-end let-down started from an abnormally low level, producing such widespread slackness that such indicators as to the new year's activity, as are often apparent at this time, were lacking.

Credit rates were in the main stationary, but call money, officially at 2 per cent, was firm, reflecting the year-end and banking demand for funds.

would be assured if all correspondents would affix their name and address to the top left hand corner of the envelope, and also of course take all precautions to ensure that the correct address of the receiver is placed on the package or envelope also, stated Mr. Lacheur.

Of the nineteen auxiliary men who were secured to handle the Christmas mail, all were ex-soldiers with dependents. They will be paid off to-night.

Rural Mail Men Worked

On Christmas Day the wickets were open for the sale of stamps from 8.30 to 10.30 a.m. and for general delivery for the convenience of transients. The rural mail couriers also worked as usual, and cleared out a vast amount of mail for the country districts.

This morning the racks were practically empty, and gone were the large stacks of parcels and mail which had littered the office all last week and during the first two days of this week.

The outgoing mail fell off on Christmas Eve about 2 o'clock, but the rush was maintained by incoming mail, which the entire staff handled with such efficiency and despatch.

He stated, however, that it is the intention of the Government, at the next session of parliament, to bring down legislation to permit of complete representation being afforded all provinces.

Under the Canadian National Railway Act, directors are appointed "from one annual meeting to another or until their successors are appointed, unless removed by the Governor-in-Council for a cause."

Keep Peterborough Forging Ahead

At a time like this; energy and driving power and alertness are needed in the administration of civic affairs.

There are industrial prizes ahead for the municipality that will go after them with the determination, intelligence, and enthusiasm Mayor Denne has shown in his three years in office.

The head of one of the new industries Mayor Denne was responsible for bringing to Peterborough describes him as "Peterborough's enthusiastic and hard-hitting salesman," and says: "I have had the pleasure of seeing the Mayor use his salesmanship on various representatives of American companies considering Canadian locations. HE HAS ALWAYS MADE AN EXCELLENT IMPRESSION ON SUCH REPRESENTATIVES."

It would be poor business at this time to dispense with the services of our HARD-HITTING SALESMAN.

More than ever next year Peterborough will need at the head of affairs a man who will put the city's business ahead of his own, who would work day and night for the interests of this community, a Mayor who feels that Peterborough comes first, even if that means personal loss—in short, the kind of Mayor Rollie Denne has been these last three years.

The Voters know Mayor Denne's record; they know the man himself, and his enthusiastic championship of everything that promises to advance the interests of Peterborough.

They know they cannot afford to take chances by experimenting with somebody else.

That is why they have decided to Vote Denne For Mayor!

LIFFORD LINE

LIFFORD LINE, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—A particularly interesting gathering of young and old took place in the Lifford community hall on Saturday evening when the pupils of the public school and those of St. Mary's Sunday School under the direction of Miss G. Hutchison, teacher, gave their annual Christmas concert.

In the unavoidable absence of Rev. Mr. Feirheller of Bethany, James Strachan, a trustee acted as chairman for the occasion.

An opening chorus by the school with Miss Hutchison accompanist was highly applauded and Ralph Mulligan followed it with an address of welcome.

A lullaby song by five litle girls Audrey Mulligan, Marguerite Neals, Leone Lang, Mary and Agnes White was a very pretty number as the dolls were hushed to sleep by motion and song. Gerald Mulligan, Marguerite Neals, Helen Rowan, Mary White, Audrey Mulligan and others favored the audience by entertaining readings.

A very appropriate number on the program was a chorus, "Merry Merry Bells," by the entire school.

The Lifford four piece orchestra composed of Cecil Tims at the organ, George Tims with the violin, Norman Neals playing the banjo and Jack Neals the auto harp, delighted the audience with several selections which were encored on every occasion.

Helen Rowan recited, "'Twas the Night before Christmas," while Ralph Mulligan in night apparel accompanied her with suitable motions. Other sleeping children were near by.

A beautiful and impressive tableau was presented by the school robed in white gowns with tinsel, the motions being accompanied by a solo, "Little Star away up yonder" by Doris Tims.

The concluding number was a play "Whiskers" in which Mabel (May McGill) and Chester (Cairns Lee) experienced considerable difficulty in the conduction of their marriage ceremony on account of Chester's fear of arrest for failing to appear as juryman on the day of his wedding. Mr. Gibson Lowery took a prominent part as Uncle of the groom while Miss Hutchison acted as Aunt of the bride. Isobel Sisson, Doris Tims, Leva Mulligan, Vera Strachan, May Mulligan and Robert Sisson contributed their parts in making the play most entertaining. Mrs. Herb Neals assisted with music during the procedure.

The chairman moved a hearty vote of thanks to Miss Hutchison for providing such an excellent program. A hearty clap of hand voiced the approval of all present.

Santa Claus (acted by Cairns Lee) then arrived on the scene and after a few remarks called on assistants to unload the heavily laden and beautifully trimmed Christmas tree. All joined in singing the National Anthem and the happy occasion was brought to a close.

BAPTIST CHURCH, CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — A very successful Christmas concert was staged by the Sunday School of the Baptist Church, Campbellford, on Monday, when the church hall was filled to capacity to delight in an excellent program. The chairman for the evening was David Mason.

The function was opened with the singing of a hymn and prayer by the Rev. L. M. Smith. One of the features of the proceedings was the presentation of attendance prizes by Mr. Smith, the winner of the first award having a perfect attendance for the year. Rev. Jones, of Millbrook, acted as chairman, and in his opening remarks mentioned the loyal support given to the teacher by the parents and residents of the section.

The opening chorus, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," by the young people, was much enjoyed. It was followed by recitations by Raymond Kennedy and Earl Hubbeard; chairman's remarks; chorus, "Little Star," by school pupils; recitation, Joyce Kennedy; trio, by Rev. Before dismissal Mr. Coulter moved a vote of thanks to Miss Wood for the entertainment. Mr. Hubbeard seconded the motion, and the audience showed approval by continued applause, to which Miss Wood replied in a few words of thanks to those who had helped make the concert a success.

"FAIRVIEW," S. S. NO. 14.

On Friday afternoon the pupils of "Fairview" School, No. 14, Cavan, presented their annual Christmas entertainment under the direction of their teacher, Miss Dorothy E. Hall.

The decorations made the interior of the school very attractive with a gaily decorated Christmas tree and blackboards, cedar boughs, bells and streamers of green and red paper.

There was a good attendance from the section, together with a few other visitors. Each pupil took his or her part in a very capable manner.

R. O. Larmer ably acted as chairman for the afternoon.

The opening number was a motion song by the school, entitled "Up on the Housetop." Following were recitations by Donald Pritchard, entitled "A Tiny Fellow"; by Robena Tate, entitled "Manners"; by Wilma Armstrong, entitled "The Rival Artists," and by Dorothy Hood, entitled "The Dead Doll." Then followed a dialogue, "The Census Taker." The characters included Mrs. Norton (Jean Belch), Samanthy, her daughter (Phyllis Larmer), Bill, her son (Arnold Bonner), the census taker (Allen Earle), Mrs. Harris (Vera Armstrong).

A mouth-organ selection was given by Allan Brown. Then nine pupils, each wearing a red letter of the word "Christmas," decorated with tinsel, came in singly and recited what each letter stood for until the whole word was formed. Then they sang, "Away in a Manger."

Allan Brown recited, "A Little Boy's Complaint," after which Mr. T. W. Belch spoke in an interesting manner to both children and adults. He stated that the rural districts have played a large part in giving to the world some of its greatest men.

A very amusing dialogue followed, entitled "The Train to Mauro," the characters being Mrs. Buttermilk (Vera Armstrong), Johnnie, her son (Arnold Bonner), the station agent (Allan Brown).

Jean Belch gave a recitation, entitled "Compensations," and then the school gave another motion song, entitled "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas." After this Phyllis Larmer recited, "I Do, Don't You?" and Allen Earle recited, "Santa Claus."

The concluding number given by the pupils was a dialogue, "Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus." Allan Brown played the former part, while Vera Armstrong took the latter.

When the gifts were distributed from the tree, Rev. J. Riddell, who had just arrived, spoke particularly to the children on "The Origin of Santa Claus" and to the adults on "Education."

Each pupil brought home-made candy and every one present was treated.

Mr. T. W. Belch moved a vote of thanks to the teacher and pupils for the interesting program, and Mr. H. Tate seconded it. Miss Dorothy Hull replied in a few suitable words. The afternoon program was closed by singing the National Anthem.

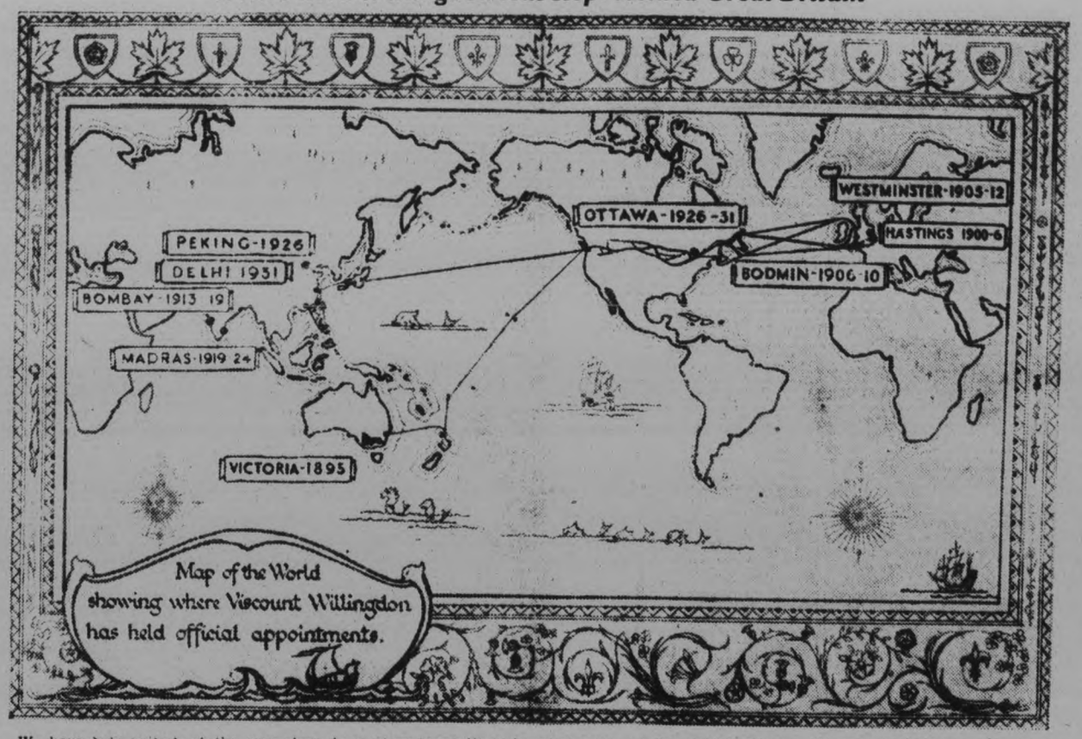
Where Lord Willingdon Has Represented Great Britain



We have only to look at the map above to see how many times in what parts of the British Empire Viscount Willingdon has done service for the King. Practically all his appointments have been difficult to execute and it speaks well for our Governor-General that the Princes of India welcome him as their new Viceroy.

BETHANY.

(Examiner Correspondence).

Miss Margaret Jackson, who has been spending several weeks in Toronto, arrived home for the holiday season.

Miss Emily Preston is visiting friends on the Eighth Line during the holiday season.

Mrs. Carscadden, of the Public School staff, is holidaying in Toronto.

Miss Washington was a business visitor to Peterborough on Monday.

Mrs. Alfred Driver was a business visitor to Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowan.

Of course!

WHEN you want to get down-town in a hurry, you don't sprint ten or twenty blocks in order to be there on time. You take an automobile or a street car, of course.

When you want to ask a question of a friend who lives a mile or so away, you don't walk to his house to find out what you want to know. You call him on the telephone, of course.

And so it goes—in all the affairs of your daily life. You take the easy, intelligent means of accomplishment every time.

When you want to buy a refrigerator or a car or a piano, you don't need to look all over town to discover the kind you want. You read the advertisements in your newspaper. They bring you all the facts necessary to decide just which refrigerator or car or piano will give you the most satisfaction, how much to pay, where to buy it.

You buy through the advertisements because they save you time and effort. Because they enable you to command certain values. Because they assure you of getting reliable and economical products every time.

It pays to read the advertisements

DOAK'S APPOINTMENT MADE HOOVER SEE RED

President of the United States Was Determined to Appoint His Own Secretary of Labor

WHEN William Nuckles Doak joined the United States cabinet recently as Secretary of Labor, a sharp dispute was ended between President Hoover and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Green wanted to see a member of the federation appointed, and President Hoover had made up his mind that Doak was to be the man. Green held out stubbornly for an appointment from the ranks of his organization, and the dispute precipitated a near-quarrel between Hoover and the Labor leader. At last, Hoover finally took the bull by the horns and talked like a Dutch uncle to Green to the undisguised delight of the attentive press.

W. N. Doak

Green's foot seemed to slip in the diplomatic tug-of-war, for, after an interview with the president on the matter of Doak's pending appointment, he issued a statement to the effect that the appointment would have to be made from the ranks of the federation. This public statement laid him wide open for the sword of the president, and he got it, for Mr. Hoover was able to say that it was Washington's prerogative to make appointments to the cabinet, and that it was his duty to guard the right of the government of the United States to maintain the principle of open and equal opportunity and freedom in appointments to public office. Mr. Green, therefore, had placed himself in the position of appearing to dictate to the president of a country priding itself upon democratic freedom in making public appointments.

The cause of all the bother, William Nuckles Doak, is a Virginian, and the son of a Confederate soldier. His appointment is the first cabinet recognition that has been accorded the solid south since President Hoover won the five southern states in the 1928 election, so that there were good political reasons why Hoover wanted to exercise his authority. But quite apart from that aspect of the question, Doak is an eminently suitable man for the high office that has been given to him. He has been associated with organized labor all his life, having served sixteen years as an officer of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and having shown sound judgment in many labor negotiations.

He is the legislative agent for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Forty-eight years old, he has been through the mill. He began life as plain Bill Doak, and his introduction to railway life was in the yards of Bluefield, West Virginia, where he threw switches and checked box-cars. His wages in those days amounted to $1.30 a day, and he thought he was pretty well off at that. He has preserved the old ten-cent lunch-basket that he carried then, and is proud of it. Success has not spoiled him. He is easy to approach, simple in his manner, and friendly. They say, too, that he is a scrapper, so that if Mr. Green persists in jabbing at him, another battle may start.

Doak has the jump on Green, however, for his appointment was well received by the organized workers of the United States, and by the press.

DUSTY IKE: Please, sir, I've a sick wife—could you help me out?

Business Man: I can give you a job next week.

Dusty Ike: Too late! She'll be able to go to work herself by then.

A good story is going the rounds just now in court circles concerning Queen Mary, whose love for antiques is well known.

While motoring in Sussex recently, she "spotted" a small antique shop, and stopped her car, intending to enter and inspect whatever articles of value the proprietor might have in stock.

Leaving his mistress seated in her car, a footman went up and knocked at the shop door, which was answered by a young and somewhat pert-looking servant girl.

"Please tell your master," said the footman, "that her majesty the Queen wishes to see him."

"Garn!" said the girl, "who do you think you're kidding?" and shut the door in his face.

The Queen, laughing heartily at the incident, ordered her chauffeur to drive on. But what the proprietor presumably said to the girl later on, when he came to hear about it, is perhaps best left unrecorded.

Britain's Poet Laureate Believes in Simplicity

JOHN MASEFIELD—now Doctor John Masefield, if you please—is a popular Poet Laureate in Great Britain. He once swept the floor in a New York saloon, and sailed the Seven Seas for years in windjammers, so that he does not put on any unnecessary airs now that success has come to him.

John Masefield

He was up in Edinburgh recently, speaking to the learned folk of that old city on narrative poetry. Big audiences attended his lectures, and he amused them by reading what he called a traditional Egyptian story. It was a funny one, and made everybody laugh. Only a few of the people who heard it knew, however, that it was a translation of a poem that Dr. Masefield had written the night before! Poet Laureates must have their little jokes.

He told a good story in Edinburgh, to illustrate the need of simplicity in poetry and prose. A little girl, he said, was asked about Elisha, and she replied: "Elisha was a very good man and the bad boys called him names. He said: 'If you call me names, I shall call a bear and he will eat you.' And they did, and he did, and it

Mr. Ferguson by R. T. L.

HOWARD FERGUSON has been premier of Ontario for seven years, but now is called to far, far, higher things.

He realizes that thus far in his career he has only been puddling around with little things and perceives at last that England needs him.

He has a nice new house on Avenue Road in Toronto, and a nice old one in Kemptville, but is willing to forego both of these in order to save the empire.

He does not intend to bother about wheat and will leave such minor matters for his subordinates.

It is only during the last year or so that he has become completely aware of his importance. This development, however, has occurred in time to assist him in making his retirement of a soft job sound like a coronation.

He does not care about the salary, so long as Mr. Bennett does not become similarly indifferent.

He was sixty years old last June.

He dislikes reading, pretends to be impulsive and is the smartest politician this side of Senator McDougald.

He does not make good speeches, but they are better than they used to be.

His father was Dr. Charles Frederick Ferguson, who was a member at Ottawa for twenty-three years and is said to have had Conservative leanings.

He goes to the Woodbine because he is Irish and usually leaves early because he is Scotch.

He goes to the Church of England for no reason at all, except, perhaps, Canon Cody.

He has more friends than anyone in Canada except George P. Graham, Mr. T. L. Church, ex-M.P., and King Clancy. Most of his friends call him Howard; the rest call him Fergy.

He was born in Kemptville and stayed there until he was seventeen. Then he went to Toronto to go to the university and be a lawyer.

After he got to be a lawyer he went back to Kemptville and stayed there for another eleven years.

He was councillor and reeve of Kemptville for six years and might be reeve now if a man in the village hadn't made him mad in 1902. He stayed mad until 1905 and then ran in the election to show what he could do.

He has been in politics ever since, and has maintained that he does not like the life.

He never takes any exercise.

He does not like lemonade, work, Mr. Meighen or people who don't realize that he is only joking.

He got into a lot of trouble over the Trent Valley canal in 1912, and it looked like a penalty of two thousand dollars a day. Then they made him a cabinet minister.

He got into another mess about selling timber limits and there was a probe that was going to drive him out of public life. Then they made him leader of the party.

He got into a bad jam over the Ontario Temperance Act, and between wets and drys it looked like his finish. Then he was made premier.

He thinks he isn't lucky and does not know that he is a fatalist.

He has exceptionally strong arms, and hardly anything has ever made him sick except a man named Raney.

The Hon. G. Howard Ferguson

His best meal is breakfast and he likes bacon and eggs and orange marmalade. This is one reason why he should do well in England.

His favorite color is supposed to be orange, but he has always favored blue.

He thinks the St. Lawrence waterway would be a good thing for Ontario—about 1985.

He and Arthur Meighen don't send each other Christmas cards any more.

He has breakfast in Mrs. Ferguson's room every day and she reads him the morning papers. He reads the evening papers when he is by himself.

His waistband is forty-four inches.

He intended to retire in 1920, but Mrs. Ferguson would not let him. He would have retired in 1925, but he had promised not to. He is retiring now, because Ramsay MacDonald, Lloyd George and Baldwin need someone to tell them something.

He is sorry that the high commissioner has to wear a top hat, because he prefers a gray fedora. He wears his on the side of his head because he feels that way.

He used to be disturbed about getting bald, but has stopped doing anything about it.

One of the things he likes least in life is shaving himself. He likes barbers that talk to him.

He is five feet ten inches tall and weighs two hundred and eighteen pounds.

A Record of Faithful Service

Edward Kennedy Wm. T. Brown James McDowell

AWAY back in January of 1871, when the Massey-Harris Company was a struggling little firm in a tiny frame building at Beamsville, Ontario, a young man of twenty-one came to the factory looking for a job. He was James McDowell, a product of Lincoln county. He was given a job, and from that day to this he has worked continuously for the Massey-Harris Company (latterly as foreman of the paint department at the Brantford works.) When he retired on pension the other day, he had completed 60 years of work with the company. He is the oldest employee of the far-flung organization; enjoys excellent health, and is retiring at his own desire.

Another employee of the company who recently retired on pension is William T. Brown, of the Toronto plant. He was born in Perth, Ontario, in 1859, and entered the service of the Massey Manufacturing Company at Newcastle in July of 1872. Mr. Brown, therefore, has completed 58 years of continuous service with the company. When he retired he was factory inspector.

Edward Kennedy joined the company in 1880, and has been with it ever since, so that he has completed 50 years of service. Like James McDowell, he was in the painting department, and like Mr. McDowell, he enjoys the best of health, so that the traditional idea that a painter's health is menaced is badly dinted by their records.

These three veterans, therefore, have, between them, given 168 years of continuous service to the Massey-Harris organization—surely a record. They began their careers in the implement business long before binders were in use, and they helped to produce the giant combines that now cut, thresh and clean the farmers' wheat in one operation. The pension scheme under which this unique trio retire was inaugurated by the Massey-Harris Company in 1919.

This Jap Specializes In Fixing Marriages

OVER in Japan they have the same marital troubles that we have here. Sometimes when a young couple are suited, the parents are not. That needs fixing, or the marriage is off. Sometimes an elderly man wants to marry a young woman. That often calls for a fixer. The combinations of trouble are varied, but nearly always an outsider has to step in and smooth things out.

Years ago, a Japanese by the name of Eizaburo Ujiiye, which sounds better than it looks, began to fix up some of these wedding troubles. He was very successful. He was so successful, in fact, that he took it up as a business just as a lawyer take up knotty problems of law. It has paid him, for he is eighty-four years old, is kept busy, and is happy.

He started in to untangle wedding difficulties when he was twenty-five years old, and during his lifetime he has arranged 805 marriages that looked hopeless until he waved his magic wand. In Japan they have a slogan: "Ask the Man Who Owns a Ujiiye Wife."

According to Ujiiye, he had only one failure to his discredit, which seems to beat any minister's record, especially in America. In the instance referred to, an old man who was very rich wanted to marry a young waitress who had good looks but no money. The girl was unwilling. Ujiiye was called in to do his stuff. He talked to the waitress, telling her that in a few years time she would be enjoying a wonderful widowhood, with plenty of money to spend. The girl weakened, and the fixer fixed the wedding. But it didn't stay fixed, for shortly afterwards the young bride committed suicide by drowning. It turned out that she had wheedled enough money out of her old husband to pay off the debts of a young fellow with whom she had been keeping company all the time. Her Japanese sense of honor led her to take her life after she had deceived her aged husband.

Mr. Ujiiye claims, however, that his marriages are invariably happy. In fact, he claims that they forestall suicides. In more than a hundred cases he had blocked double suicides by getting in his work at the right time—for the people of Japan are apt to be suicidal over their love affairs.

Mr. Ujiiye is married himself. He fixed his own marital affairs very nicely. And here's the best part of the story—he doesn't collect fees for his diplomatic work among the lovelorn. It's all a labor of love.

Public Welfare Minister Gets Some Queer Requests

HON. W. G. MARTIN, minister of the newly formed department of public welfare in the Ontario government, confesses to finding the name heading his division a rather embarrassing one. The people of the province, he says, are apt to misunderstand the meaning of "Public Welfare," and a few stories he tells bear out his contention.

Just what the bounds are and just what comes under the heading of Public Welfare is a rather puzzling problem to the minister, and in the short space of time since he has entered the cabinet as minister of this division, he has been called upon to right many strange wrongs and issue much strange advice.

One day Hon. Mr. Martin loitered in the waiting room of a railway station in a small Ontario town. One train happened to be a few minutes late in departing, and this fact seemed to excite anger in the breast of one traveller, who was apparently in a great hurry. He strode up and down the waiting room muttering beneath his breath.

Finally, he noticed the minister and a look of recognition brightened his countenance. He strode up to Hon. Mr. Martin.

"Aren't you the minister of public welfare?" he asked.

Mr. Martin blushingly confessed that he was.

"Well, then," came the astonishing request, "Can't you do something to speed up the service and make this train pull out. It's three minutes late already!"

On one other occasion the minister was surprised to find in his mail a letter whose envelope bore the heavily underlined word, "Personal." The writing was distinctly feminine, and the minister wasted some moments in wondering who would take the trouble to address a personal lette. to the department of public welfare. Then he opened it.

"I was surprised to find," he says, "that a dear old lady in northern Ontario had noted the name of my department and decided to solicit my expert advice on a weighty problem of public welfare. She asked my views on the best method of home canning fruits which grow in the north country!"

He neglected to say whether the "expert advice" was forthcoming, but now Hon. Mr. Martin is expecting daily to receive missives asking his opinion on anything ranging from babies' welfare to the probable strength of Toronto Maple Leafs since "King" Clancy has been added to the roster.

Public welfare, like charity, seems to cover a multitude of sins.

There Was Plenty Sorry When Ship Took to Sink!

PILOTS the world over take their responsibilities seriously. Red men or white, black or yellow, sincerity and loyalty are their dominating traits.

Probably no one knows this better than Captain Robert Dollar, the veteran shipping man whose keels plow the seven seas. A large number of the Dollar Line vessels sail up and down the great Chinese rivers, where the water is often low, currents treacherous, sandbanks shifty, and bandits are always in the offing.

Naturally, the pilots on these river boats are picked men. But even to them accidents sometimes happen. When this does, the pilot feels deeply on the matter, as witness this letter received by Captain Dollar from one of his Ichang pilots:

"Dear Sir Dollar,"—thus the pilot raises the veteran to the ranks of the nobility—"In 24 April, downward, Chungking watermark, 4 feet 6 inches at morning a.m. 6 o'clock. Leave Chungking for Ichang. Breakfast before.

"The carry cargo very heavy and met the badly wind. Just as she sailing in the wind's eye to blowing very, very force. Water much violent. Also the stern cannot rule the steamer. therefore at Chai Pan Tze place took to sinking to my great horror.

"The break happen. I cannot with power to help. And this time is being chief pilot's duty. Which is me.

"Beg, Sir Honorable Dollar, to excuse me. I have done the pilot position in your company for five years ago, not to break the little things. Shall not happen once more if by preventing I can and do stop.

"When our steamer sinking finished, I go then to Chungking to report the matter to one manager of your large company. He so sorry. Also to report to river inspector. He so sorry, too. They are very kindly talk me not to trouble again.

"Now I am very sorry and ashamed and cannot but lose face, so am I write to you to steer everything straight. Beg to excuse me, and please.

"Your obedient servant.
"CH'ANKilsa'e kxqOF.
"CHAN KEE POO. Chief Pilot"

Captain Dollar has filed this interesting document in the company archives. He says it is almost worth a wreck to get it—especially when ship and cargo are adequately insured.

It Must Be Admitted—

THAT Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain has his hands full, and that he has proven himself to be as resourceful and elastic as Lloyd George.

Consider his problem—or problems. He holds power by the narrowest of margins and must win the support of the Liberals or give up the reins of office. He has managed to do that, and he has had to deal with one of the cleverest manipulators—Lloyd George—in the House of Commons. On the other hand, he is faced by the powerful Tories, who are strong in parliamentary experience and debating power.

Ramsay MacDonald

He faces a hostile House of Lords. Outside, the powerful press is against him. All over the British Isles capitalistic newspapers attack his government day in and day out. It has been shown repeatedly, of course, that a public man can beat the newspapers to their knees if he is right, and if the country believes he is right, but it takes a strong man to stand up against the relentless hammering as Ramsay MacDonald has done.

He even has the hostility of overseas premiers to reckon with. Premier Bennett's attitude at the Imperial conference was nothing more or less than a rather clumsy attempt to shove the Laborites out of power in Great Britain and put good sound Tories in their places. Ramsay MacDonald had to deal with that, and it is now seen that he handled it with Scot's caution and an adroitness worthy of Disraeli.

The spectre of unemployment confronts him, also the spectre of Britain's disastrous trade returns.

Last, but not least, Premier MacDonald is terribly handicapped by the calibre of many of the men in his cabinet. He has strong legal backing, and has a man of iron in Philip Snowden, but most of his other ministers are weak, judged by British standards. They lack driving power, they lack business acumen, and they lack diplomacy. They have to lean upon the permanent heads of their departments. They do not dominate. MacDonald has to stand behind these men.

History will probably record that Ramsay MacDonald carried a heavier load, and avoided more pitfalls, than any British premier of his time. Not once has he been wounded by the darting weapons of his unrelenting enemies.—P.H.D.

BABE RUTH WAS SHOWN HOW TO SAVE HIS MONEY

But Before He Was Taken in Hand He Had Squandered Fortunes With Happy Abandon

THE man who is known as the King of Swat, and whose face is familiar to every schoolboy in North America, and a lot of schoolboys who no longer attend school, earns big money and spends big money. He is supposed to get $70,000 a season for playing baseball for the New York Yankees, but that is only a part of his income, and probably not half of it, for he has all sorts of lucrative sidelines. For instance, he writes articles for the newspapers, he plays exhibition games which bring him money in large wads, he appears in vaudeville between the baseball season, he puts his face and his name behind certain products—at a price—and he pops up at sales meetings—also at a price. He could easily make $150,000 a year, and probably does.

Babe Ruth

About five years ago the Bambino was throwing money around like a drunken sailor. He was playing the ponies a good deal and getting properly trimmed in the process. It was rumored that he had put $100,000 through the pari-mutuels without getting any of it back. With money passing through his hands in large amounts, he was continuously up against it for ready cash.

His friends worried about it. They knew that Babe is in many ways a big happy-go-lucky boy, quite incapable of planning his financial future intelligently. So they did some thinking, and the result of it was that steps were taken to protect the clouter from himself. His guardian angel, in the matter of finance, was Christy Walsh, who took care of the syndication of Ruth's articles. He went to Babe and advised him to lay up some money for a rainy day. Babe wasn't interested.

But Walsh persisted very seriously. Babe thought it was quite funny to see a man worked up about saving money, but he agreed to let his friend start something after it had been gently hinted that baseball days didn't last forever, and that most baseball players leave the diamond finally with nothing in their pockets or the bank.

The upshot of the conference was that Babe Ruth agreed to take out an annuity insurance policy for $50,000. He also agreed to let Walsh start a trust fund for him, to be built up out of the Babe's sidelines.

That was in 1929. But the end of the baseball season of that year Walsh had built up a nest-egg of $100,000 for the clouter. This fund could not be touched by the man it protected, but the cheques from it went to Ruth. Some of these cheques are pretty big—running into three figures. They are not re-invested because Babe Ruth thinks they mark his penury. To him, they represent months of self-denial, giving him the incentive to go on saving. If he didn't get those cheques, and didn't have the opportunity to spend them as he likes, he would very likely throw over the whole trust fund idea.

Of course since the fateful days of November, last year, when the market in the United States began to go into convulsions, things have been happening in the land of the Almighty Dollar. Investments have gone to pot. Money isn't being thrown around any more. A lot of easy-money financiers who thought they were smart have been shown up pretty badly. Their "gilt-edged" securities have become worthless. Just how much of those of Babe Ruth's have deteriorated is not known, but whether or not, it is safe to say that the Bambino swatter has built up a good reserve for his old age. Markets may come, and markets may go, but baseball goes on forever.

Labor's Foremost Peer Is Also Cabinet's Dean

THE oldest cabinet minister in Great Britain is Lord Parmoor. He is now in his seventy-ninth year, and represents the Labor government in the House of Lords. Prior to throwing in his lot with Ramsay MacDonald, he was a typical Conservative, but he was so angered by the war-mongers and disgusted by the attitude of the moneyed class towards war that he joined the forces of pacifism. It was a bold step, but England's big men are never afraid of taking bold steps.

Lord Parmoor

He is a lawyer of distinction. For half a century he practised as a barrister, and to-day he is regarded as one of the soundest authorities on British law in the country, for he has sat in the House of Lords and the House of Commons for many years, and has Britain's legal affairs at his finger tips. For fifteen years he was attorney-general to the Prince of Wales. That was, of course, when our present King and the late King Edward held the rank.

This great old man is a typical Englishman of the old school. He is able, he is wise, and he is courageous. He speaks in the Asquith manner, with force, clearness and conviction. He has the old-world courtesy, but when he is roused, or unfairly attacked, he can summon a blasting eloquence, and can hit with a heavy hand. In spite of his advanced years, Lord Parmoor is a prodigious worker, putting many of the younger members of the British cabinet to shame by his industry.

WHY NOT?

MR. YOUNGHUSBAND was taking his little son, aged five, for an evening stroll before going to bed.

"Daddie," he remarked, as they neared home, "I think I should like to get married."

"Do you, my dear? And whom do you want to marry?" asked the proud parent.

"Well," said the little lad, "I'd like to marry Grannie."

His father laughed heartily.

"And do you think I'd let you marry my mother?" he asked, patting the boy's head.

"Why shouldn't you?" countered the other warmly. "You married mine, didn't you?"

ABOLITION OF UPPER CHAMBER TO BE DECIDED BY REFERENDUM

New South Wales High Court Hands Down Decision.

APPEAL TO BE MADE.

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 26 (C.P. Cable via Reuters)—The abolition of the Upper Chamber in the state of New South Wales is a matter that must be determined by referendum, declared the full High Court of five judges, with one judge dissenting, in a decision handed down today. The Government of Premier J. T. Lang, a newly elected Labor administration, will appeal the decision to the High Court of Australia.

Premier Lang was involved in a constitutional clash with Governor Sir Philip Game on this issue. The Governor refused to appoint 40 new members of the Upper House, which appointments the Premier desired so that the Upper House could abolish itself.

The court today granted, on the application of the members of the Legislative Council, a perpetual injunction restraining all Legislative councillors from presenting to the Governor for Royal assent, any bills passed by the Lang ministry for the abolition of the Upper House, until the matter has been submitted to the people by referendum.

In the decision the Chief Justice stated the court was not concerned with politics, but the proposal to substitute a single chamber for the present two houses was so far-reaching that it should not be left to be determined by the usual Parliamentary procedure.

CLUBMAN FACES 140 YEAR TERM

Hollywood Financier Pleads Guilty to 10 Counts of Theft Totalling $8,000,000.

JUDGMENT FRIDAY.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—Gilbert H. Beesemyer, 45, former Hollywood financier and clubman, to-day faced a long penitentiary term—a possible maximum of 140 years—for the theft of $8,000,000 from the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles.

The former Secretary-Manager and 65 per cent stock holder in the Guaranty Firm withdrew a not guilty plea to plead guilty yesterday to ten counts of theft.

Beesmyer asked Superior Judge Walton J. Wood to sentence him immediately, but the judge refused, saying he wished to make a summary investigation of the case and set Friday morning for pronouncement of the penalty.

Beesmyer is subject to a sentence of from one to fourteen years on each of the ten counts. The sentences or any part of them may run consecutively or currently.

BURMAN NATIVES GO ON RAMPAGE

TROUBLE SPREADING.

RANGOON, Burma, December 24 (C.P.). — Five hundred armed natives on the loose in Upper Burma set fire to a village in the Tharawaddy district yesterday, murdered one of the village officials, drove back a handful of police, and began an orgy of looting.

The trouble is spreading, reports from the interior said, and a police detachment sent out yesterday was obliged to retire when its ammunition gave out. Five police were wounded, one of the natives was killed, and in all there have been seven deaths in two days.

Reinforcements have been sent from Rangoon. It was believed the trouble began as a protest against payment of taxes in view of the depression in the local rice trade.

Officer No Expert, But Knew Whisky

WASHINGTON, December 26 (C.P.). — A cautious soul is Mrs. Edward W. Bundy. Christmas or no Christmas, a peculiar looking package arriving from an unknown source might contain an infernal machine.

She called a policeman. He was inclined to agree, but was no expert on infernal machines. Reinforcements, also not experts, came. One of them bravely smashed the box in an alley.

Out tumbled one package of cigarettes, a screw, a box of candy, a sausage, and a bottle. The police said the bottle contained whisky, so they left with Mrs. Bundy one package of cigarettes, a screw, a box of candy, and a sausage.

That Body of Yours

ASTHMA OFTEN CURABLE NOW.

One of the ailments that was considered incurable just a few years ago is asthma. The patient simply went through with his coughing spell or spasm and as patients didn't die of it, it was considered like rheumatism, as something that just had to be endured.

However, physicians began to study asthma more carefully about twenty years ago and each new line of treatment seemed to help some, but not all, cases.

First it was felt that it was the lack of enough lime or calcium in the blood which was the cause of the trouble and the calcium-chloride and lactate—were administered. This helped a few cases.

X-ray treatment was then tried but without success.

Then followed ultra violet rays with success in some cases, but failing in many more.

Then operation on the nose, throat, and sinuses began to give results, but of course there were many asthmatic cases where there was no indication for any operation.

Foods were also thought to be a factor in the causation, and fried foods, pork, starches, and candy were avoided.

Then Dr. Jas. Adam, Glasgow, Scotland, and Dr. Burton Hazelton, Chicago, without knowing of the other's work arrived at the same conclusion and that was that most asthmatics are in a poisoned condition, which may arise from a variety of conditions—infection of teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall bladder, the intestinal canal; failure of system to get rid of the wastes of the body by means of the skin, bowels, or kidneys; errors of diet or habits of living; unfavorable place of residence.

What about the treatment?

This consists of getting rid of the condition that creates the poison in the system, and the condition that excites the spasm or coughing spell. First sweating is induced with hot packs and having patient drink ten glasses of water daily; thoroughly cleansing the intestine by the use of calomel and salts, and high enemas or irrigations of the lower bowel.

Daily treatments given to the upper and back part of the nose with a silver nitrate solution.

With intestine carefully cleansed, and the nose in fair shape, any surgical operation necessary on nose or throat is then done.

As you know the treatment during an asthmatic attack is adrenalin 5 to 10 drops by hypodermic injection or 10 to 20 drops by mouth.

Asthma is now curable, but there are cases some where the cause is not found and until it is found they will simply have to use the adrenalin during attacks.

MADOC UNITED CHURCH

MADOC, Dec. 26.— (Examiner Correspondence).—The united choir of juniors and seniors (the junior choir in their new white surplices) to the number of thirty, joined to make the Christmas music of Trinity United church, something to be long remembered.

The processional hymn was "Christmas Bells", and all the hymns used were carrying the universal Christmas message of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill." Two anthems were given by the choir. "Christ, the King", and "The Cradle of Bethlehem", the solo part being taken by Mrs. Charles Whytock.

The talk to the children on "Christmas, the best day of the year", by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers. The sermon was from the text, "What think ye? will He come to the feast?" urging his hearers to not think of it merely as a feast day, but that we ask Christ to join us and in so doing we realize the full meaning of Christmas.

A beautiful solo was given by Miss Ramsay, "Listening O'er Jerusalem", of the first Christmas morn, and the recessional hymn was "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

At the evening service, the theme was "If Christ has not come?" and the music and hymns appropriate. The hymns were "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Silent Night, Holy Night", and the anthem, "Glory to God." A solo was given by Miss Ramsay, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and a Christmas duet was given by Mrs. Hulin and Mr. R. Black.

Processional and recessional hymns were used.

MADOC CHURCH.

MADOC, Dec. 26—(Examiner Correspondence).—At St. Peter's Presbyterian church, special music marked the services of both morning and evening. The choir under the leadership of Miss Lenore Vandervoort, with Mr. George Maybee, as organist, rendered a beautiful and joyous program, emphasizing as it did the Christmas message given by the pastor, Rev. T. G. Marshall.

For the morning, the organ prelude was "Autumn Morn" (Frysinger). Ps. 72 followed, "God's mercies I will ever sing", then "Joy to the world, the Lord is come." During the offertory, "Kamennoi Ostrow", by Rubenstein was played. The anthem was "Behold" (Woods), and following the sermon, Miss Vandervoort gave the beautiful solo, "Ave Maria," (Bach). "It came upon the Midnight Clear" was sung as a closing hymn, and the Postlude was "March in C," (Smart).

For the evening service the organ prelude was "Prelude in C Major (Bach). "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" was the first hymn, and a quartette given by Messrs. Burns, Edwards, Foote, and Barton and "Softly and Tenderly." Other hymns sung were "While Shepherds Watched their Flocks by Night" and "Angels from the Realms of Glory". "Holy Night" was given as a duet by Mr. and Mrs. E. Bedford, and the duet, "Lead, Kindly Night," by Mrs. S. Eagleson and Miss Vandervoort. The anthem "Behold I Bring" (Woods) was beautifully sung by the choir. The offertory was "Melody in F" (Rubenstein).

Benediction was followed by "Nunc Dimittis, and the organ postlude. "The Song of God Goes Forth to War," (Whiting).

WARSAW CHURCH

WARSAW, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Christmas service at the United Church on Sunday was well attended, the choir singing two anthems, "Crown Him, Lord of All" and "Hail! Hail! Hail!"

The scriptural lesson was the story of the birth of Christ as told according to the Gospel of St. Matthew. Rev. Mr. Wilkinson spoke to the children, using an apple which he cut in two to show the star, with the points joy, eternal life, salvation, us, service and the whole pointing to "Jesus." He spoke of Christmas as the loveliest of all Christian feasts, as it appeals to the religious nature and to the natural affections.

"We are in a new age and the world needs Christians—Christians who are of service to the community. The world needs people who are happy and true and clean. There can be plenty of good times which are clean. The atmosphere should be one of heaven when a little child comes into the world."

Very strongly did the reverend speaker denounce those who deny the virgin birth of our Saviour. Christ was not like other men. Moses and many others were called servants of God; Jesus was called the Son of God. Christmas is really a great Thanksgiving. "The greatest gift we can give God is ourselves, to present ourselves clean, honest and of good report. Each Christmas should find us better and nearer to the Christ. His work on earth was of service so should ours be."

The members of the United Sunday School contributed about $7 toward relief work, as a Christmas collection.

REV. A. REID READS MEETING ADDRESS

STIRLING, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—William Dermoty, Devotional Vice-President, was the leader of the meeting of St. Andrew's Guild on Monday evening.

After the usual opening exercises, a reading, "Among Bethlehem's Shepherds" was given by Rev. A. N. Reid. This was prepared by Miss L. Smith and was a beautiful interpretation of the setting of Psalm 23.

Among all the modern changes, Palestine and the Shepherd life remain unchanged, since the days of Abraham and the first Christmas. There are three classes of people, the Bedouin, Nomad and Warrior, the Peasant, a farmer and the Monday Class, who live in cities and towns. The peasant shepherd boy is the youngest of the male family. David, who later became psalmist and King, began his career as a shepherd.

The shepherd wears a simple cotton robe with an outer garment to protect him in bad weather. He uses it as a blanket and sleeps with his head pillowed on a stone. The lads as they lead their flocks on the mountain, spin their own wool for their coats. The spinning machine is but a small contrivance of oakwood, to which he gives repeated whirls as he walks, thus changing the material into a coarse yarn. The shoes are remarkably strong and well made. A rod and staff are carried and a sling to be used, to drive off an attacking beast. A reed pipe is also carried.

Mrs. A. Murduff gave a beautiful talk on "The Psalms." The Book of Psalms is a summary of the Old and New Testaments. In the closing psalms the glories of the future are anticipated.

Alex Nathan gave a beautiful and impresive reading, "The Great Guest Comes" interpreting the fact that as we treat the needy who come to our door we are dealing with Christ.

Two numbers were splendidly given by four boys, Lorne Anderson, William Dermoty, Alex Nathan and Robert Williams. "Holy Night" sung as a trio was given, with a chorus, "Follow Us Along." Charles Allan, of Beaver Dam, acted as accompanist for the evening.

and hungry tramp, they were provided with a good meal. The police car was used also to take two of these transient visitors to a home where a man and his wife had offered to provide a dinner.

It is impossible to enumerate the public and private agencies that contribute to the feeding of hundreds of the city's families, for Christmas day. But two of the busiest men in town on Wednesday were City Relief Officer A. Metheral and the Public School Attendance officer, James Abraham, who did yeoman service in checking and re-checking the lists. Up to mid-night on Christmas Eve, it was necessary to check carefully the names that poured in, for, as always, there were just a few who wished to take advantage of kindness and get all the traffic would bear. The major relief agencies checked their lists with Mr. Metherall and Mr. Abraham.

Outside City Limits

Stretching out into territory outside the city limits, baskets went into homes where no one need cavil at the necessity for help. Many of these are dreary and forlorn. In them there are illness and bitter want and many children. And in many—a little gesture to the season—a tiny red wreath or bit of green hung from a tattered curtain or a bit of ragged blind. In a shack near the river are a man and wife and two children. They were remembered, as were the old man who lives alone in a similar tiny place, and family on the Lakefield Road.

One of the nicest pieces of work was the taking of a basket on Christmas morning to a family that, in some way, had been absolutely overlooked. Two women, both ill, were doing a washing and hanging it in a front room because the outdoor line had broken on the first attempt, and the work had to be done over. They were working for a neighbor and the five children faced the prospect of a lean Christmas, until the welcome basket arrived.

Those who contribute so generously to Christmas funds in any quarter, and there were many of them, can rest assured that every cent and every gift was used to the best possible advantage, in homes where the need is greatest.

LAFOINTE IS IMPROVING.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 26.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Canadian Minister of Justice, spent Christmas Day in the hospital here, where he is recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Attaches of the hospital reported that Mr. Lapointe's condition showed steady improvement. They are unable to say when he would be able to leave.

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

How do you feel today? Don't you feel like relaxing after such a strenuous time previous to the holiday? Or maybe you are so keyed up with the excitement that you would like it to continue throughout the holiday season.

• • • • • • •

But since Christmas is a day for merriment, the day after it should not be too much of a slump in good times.

• • • • • • •

In England the 26 of December is as much a holiday as is the 25, but it does not savor of the religious festival of a home celebration. It is a day to enjoy sports and amusements of all kinds.

• • • • • • •

It might be well if we would follow the examples set by England and observe the 26 of December as a holiday. For the benefit of the tired shop girls and trades persons the idea deserves consideration. And for the good times of a family it would be a delight to preserve Christmas Day for the home, and give the following day over to outside festivities.

• • • • • • •

This morning business started up as usual with everyone weary to begin special sales, or to attend them if purchases at first reductions are to be made by prospective buyers.

• • • • • • •

And so the nervous systems craving continued relaxation get frayed by the sudden plunging into routine work again.

• • • • • • •

What a joy it would be if only one more day could be allowed in which to have pleasures, though a lesser degree than those of Christmas Day, and one in which to gather up one's energy for finer and better work.

• • • • • • •

In the home it is well for mothers to consider the 26 of December as a rallying day for little folk.

• • • • • • •

They need to be humored as much today as they did yesterday, and perhaps more.

• • • • • • •

But this time the freedom from discipline can be supplemented by a soothing atmosphere if the mother will only allow herself the pleasure of having the day a continuance of the Christmas Holiday.

• • • • • • •

She can really cater to the family best by so doing, and make home more enjoyable for her family and herself.

Cameras Allowed In Art Galleries

ROME, Dec. 26.—Tourists visiting art galleries and museums in Italy hereafter will be permitted to take whatever photos they wish instead of checking the cameras at the door, as in the past.

The camera operators, however, must be amateur, and the pictures must not be sold. Moving picture cameras are still barred from the galleries and museums.

This is one of several rulings designed to encourage the tourist to visit Italian galleries. Last year the admission to all such places was made free and in July, 1930, there were 341,000 visitors contrasted with 95,762 in July, 1929.

Eviction Act Given To South Australia

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 26.—A new law, known as the Evictions Act, prevents landlords in the State of South Australia from evicting or taking legal proceedings against unemployed tenants. The tenant has only to satisfy a magistrate that, by reason of his unemployment, he is unable to meet his rent and that he is making every reasonable endeavor to obtain employment. Unemployed persons who have fallen into arrears with their mortage payments are protected in the same way.

Severe penalties are imposed upon landlords or mortgagors who disregard the law.

KING ALFONSO GETS LITTLE REST AS TROUBLE BREWS CONSTANTLY

Spanish Monarch Been Target Eight Times Since He Assumed Crown.

By the Associated Press.

Political unrest, manifesting itself in strikes, plots against the Cabinet and attempts to overthrow the monarchy, has been Spain's lot since long before General Primo de Rivera established a dictatorship in 1923.

King Alfonso has been the target for assassins eight times since he assumed the crown, and of recent years there have been innumerable designs against his life.

Republican sentiment, always apparent below the surface in Spain, came solidly into the open in September when 20,000 persons at a mass meeting in Madrid openly demanded that the King abdicate.

The King was reported to have said that it did not matter much what form of government Spain had, if every Spaniard gave his best for his country. Of recent months he is credited with a "death before surrender" attitude.

Troubles Renewed.

The resignation of General Primo de Rivera in January of this year followed growing disturbances and disorders throughout Spain. For a time, when it was thought that the country would revert immediately to constitutional government, republican ardor seemed to cool.

Then, with the country's economic condition steadily growing worse and the peseta dropping in value almost daily, there was renewed trouble. Riots broke out early in February and strikes in various centres gave an indication of the country's seething discontent.

In June, 1930, so serious was the situation that the King, taking advantage of a scheduled trip abroad, conferred at length in Paris with the exiled Spanish Liberal leader, Santiago Alba. The latter refrained from counseling abdication, but urged that the monarchy be re-established on thoroughly democratic lines and that the government be turned over to Liberal statesmen.

Even at the time of the King's interview with Senor Alba, however, there were rumors that an abdication was imminent and the opinion was freely expressed that King Alfonso had left Spain to avoid eventualities. He soon returned, however.

Police Clash With Crowds.

Strikes in various parts of Spain again hinted at trouble in July and again demands for an end of the monarchy were heard. Early in August radical and republican elements were said to be planning a revolution. At Burgos, police charged crowds that were shouting "Death to the King" and "Long live the republic."

On August 22, Spanish revolutionary partisans in Paris announced that a revolutionary committee had been set up in Spain itself and that a united front of anti-monarchists, including Catalonian autonomist leaders, would await the right moment for the proclamation of a republic.

From August on, strikes and disorder became increasingly frequent. The government admitted that they were "republican and revolutionary" in origin, and attributed them to the presence of foreign agitators.

Later in September mass meetings were held and the demand for the King's abdication was voiced openly throughout the country. On October 12, birthday anniversary of Columbus, the government announced that with the arrest of hundreds it had thwarted a workmen's plot for revolt.

Among those arrested at the time was Major Ramon Franco, one of the most popular figures in Spain and the country's premier aviator. He had shortly before announced his adhesion to the republican movement.

Major Franco, who recently escaped, has been reported during the last few days as one of the instigators of last week's revolt at Jaca. Yesterday it was said he was one of the leaders of the rebellion that broke out yesterday morning.

Agitation against the monarchy, allayed by the promise of Premier Damaso Berenguer last March that general elections would be held, flamed out again and a portrait of King Alfonso was publicly burned at Barcelona.

It culminated in the proclamation of a general strike late in November that the government dispelled with the greatest difficulty and during which many were killed and wounded. Barcelona, centre of the Catalonian movement, was one of the points most seriously affected and 200,00 workmen were said to have walked out in the province of Catalonia.

Rioting in Madrid

In Madrid rioting lasted three weeks, and there were clashes with authorities in nearly all the larger industrial centres, in both the North and the South. The government feared a revolution at that time and the Cabinet took extraordinary precautions for its suppression.

Early this month, after Major Franco escaped from prison, fresh rumors of imminent revolution began to circulate. Sporadic strikes again broke out and one such movement, at Valencia, began to assume formidable proportions.

It spread to Cadiz and other cities and police had great difficulty in repressing demonstrations and serious disorders. Hardly had the Cadiz movement begun to die out when the announcement trickled through a strict censorship on December 12 that the garrison at Jaca had revolted.

King Alfonso is one of the few monarchs of history to be born a King, his father having died a few months before his birth, May 17, 1886. He did not assume the throne, however, until 1902, after the Spanish-American War. His mother, Queen Maria Christina, acted for him as Regent.

Many Plots Against His Life.

All his reign has been troubled by plots against the monarchy and against his own life. He was already used to danger, having survived the efforts of three assassins to kill him, when in May, 1906, a few minutes after he had been married to Princess Victoria of Battenburg, a bomb was thrown at the royal carriage. It was deflected by a telegraph wire and the King and Queen escaped injury. Twenty-four spectators, however, were killed and many were injured.

The King was the coolest of those present. He told friends that he was used to attempts on his life, but that so far "Providence has saved me." The next day he drove through Madrid in an open carriage, evoking tremendous enthusiasm.

Personally, King Alfonso has been known as a popular monarch in many respects. He is a keen sportsman, noted for his ability to handle a racing yacht and to wield a polo mallet.

During much of the Primo de Rivera regime the King was declared to be opposed to the policies of his Prime Minister, but refrained from ousting him because he believed such action might hasten civil war.

It was the King's expression of lack of confidence in the dictator, however, that brought about the latter's resignation early this year.

Doctor John

Doctor John practised for thirty years at X..... He usually kept three horses,—rangy bays as I remember them, all pretty well jaded from furious driving over the wretched roads of that district.

Hide would suddenly clatter off—sometimes into the darkness and storm—to reappear, perhaps at the breakfast table, beaming: "I had another baby last night. Ten pounds. Fine boy." The fact that it might be Farmer Mason's seventh child—Mason the most shiftless of all shiftless farmers, whose badly tilled land lay ten miles out on the swamp road, whose children had more than their share of measles, whooping cough and croup, and whose bill had been running for fifteen years without the faintest hope of ever being paid mattered not at all.

Over six feet tall was Doctor John, slightly stooped, tanned a dark brown by sun and wind and storm. Grey bearded, with clear blue eyes behind the steel rimmed glasses, and long restless hands. Physician, surgeon, dentist, lawyer, judge, mediator, advisor and father confessor to all and sundry.

There was another doctor in X..... A young man who never stayed more than a year or so and then left, selling his so-called practise to another on whose diploma the ink had scarcely time to dry. But they didn't count. Nobody thought of consulting them—laugh as they might about old fogies, medieval surgery and obsolete methods. Despite that sort of medical attention, however, few died of anything but old age around X..... and old age in X..... meant anything between ninety and one hundred.

But there were many epidemics of scarlet fever and of grippe, and many cases of pneumonia during the winter season. Then Doctor John was everywhere, on the go from morning to night, often all night,—snatching forty winks on a couch in his office or at the home of an obstetrical patient whose case progressed slowly yet could not be left.

The people of X..... fairly worshipped him. There were a hundred tales of his skill in curing seemingly hopeless cases which had been given up by other physicians, of his successful major operations,—performed under difficulties which would horrify the hospital surgeon of to-day. Many persons told of the serious illnesses they, or those dear to them, had suffered, when Doctor John sat with them through the crisis of the disease—they had no money for trained nursing, even if nurses could be procured—and of the leniency of the bill when it came—if it came at all.

Doctor died—and old man—at sixty but his memory is ever green. His funeral, with its crowds of unrestrainedly weeping men and women, was a sight never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. He did not leave much of this world's goods behind him, not many country doctors do, but to few, I think, was given a greater opportunity of service to his fellow men.

COLLEGE STUDENTS' HONEST CRITICISM

Classmen at Harvard, Radcliffe and Dartmouth Do Not Flatter Selves.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 26—Tests in advanced social psychology given upperclassmen at Harvard, Radcliffe and Dartmouth who were requested to present their versions of the qualities common to the typical stereotyped Harvard, Dartmouth, Yale and Radcliffe student, resulted in a majority opinion that threatened the dignity and peace of all four institutions.

The average Dartmouth student was pictured by Harvard as "a rah-rah, wah-hoo-wah collegian, thinks himself heap big rough fellow' is athletic, alcoholic, crude, uncultivated, extravagant or wealthy, poor scholar, has large physique, wears shorts, green sweater and a fur coat, and likes the outdoors."

Some of the Harvard statements were supported by the young ladies of Radcliffe, in the following observation:

"The typical Dartmouth student is a rah-rah collegian, is drunk, fast, a roughneck, big, brawny, sophisticated or cynical, unintellectual and uncultured, but sociable, and he likes the outdoors."

Perhaps the most uncomplimentary of all the descriptions was Dartmouth's laconic opinion concerning the student body of Harvard, oldest and most dignified university in the United States:

"Harvard men are small, weak, unathletic, affected, polished, studious and effeminate."

Harvard students, although less flattering regarding those in other universities, did not hesitate to enumerate their own shortcomings. "Harvard men," they said, "are indifferent, blase, indolent, conceited, snobbish, independent, individual, intellectual, cultured, sophisticated and cosmopolitan. They speak with accent, wear old clothes, and usually come from old families."

This opinion was shared by the girls of Radcliffe, located near the Harvard campus. Harvardians, said the young women, "are intellectual, conceited, snobbish, indifferent, poseur, quiet, earnest, bespectacled, individualistic, well-mannered and good fun. They usually dress sloppily or wear sport clothes."

The ire of Radcliffe was aroused by thid description from Harvard:

"The typical Radcliffe girl is homely, studious, intellectual, sophisticated, education-conscious, stuck-up, desires to be coed, apes Harvard, and wears horn-rimmed glasses and low heels."

Radcliffe girls were spared the task of describing themselves.

Yale received its share of attention from the other three New England institutions, but the general opinion found him a debonair young social lion, whose worst habit was the use of slikum.

Here is the virile description Dartmouth students gave regarding the typical student at their own university:

"He is a he-man, democratic, athletic, vigorous, rough and ready, highly-sexed and sexed-starved."

RELATIVITY NOW MADE MORE CLEAR

Time is Necessary Fourth Demension in Describing Object Motion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—"Parlor Relativity"—the kind that everyone can understand—is reviving with the visit to the United States of Albert Einstein, noted German physicist. Measuring motion is considered important because nothing anywhere in creation yet has been found to rest. The velocities, range from the unseen wave movement in solid atoms to speeds of hundreds of miles a second of stars in their orbits. The famous fourth dimension is merely adding time to length, breadth and thickness.

If that seems puzzling, try describing an active baby in terms of only three dimensions—length, breadth and thickness. If your description includes his "position in space," as would be necessary were he a moving star, you would be forced to add time as a dimension—in fact, you usually do, with some such remark as: "Well, he was on this spot a moment ago."

Time is an indispensable fourth dimension in common use when an object motion is described. Time is converted into a general mathematical fourth dimension by multiplying it by the square foot of minus one—which is an imaginary number. Some scientists say this makes relativity mostly imaginary. But relativity has three tangible "proofs"

Einstein said it would show light is bent near the sun. Newton said the same thing, but Einstein predicted about twice as much bending due to "curved space" as Newton did due to gravitation. Astronomers in 1919 reported that Einstein was right.

Relativity also predicted that light massive bodies like the sun would be redder than from less massive ones like earth. This "proof," showed us in a startling manner in a tiny star, about four times as big as earth. This star is a companion of the great dog star Sirius, and its light was found unaccountably reddened.

The reason was learned by discovering that the little fellow is incredibly massive—a match box full of his substance weighing about a ton. The massiveness explains the reddened light, according to relativity. The explanation was a scientific sensation and was developed by Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mt. Wilson Observatory.

The third "proof" was clarification of certain irregular motions of the planet Mercury which gravitation failed to explain. Relativity denies existence of a void—that is of "empty space." Is Newton's gravitation the sun's attraction fills all space at a uniformly diminishing rate. Not quite so in relativity. There the sun's gravitation is limited to a "field", or area not clearly defined. The sun has electrical and magnetic "fields" about it also. All these fields are curved

Americans Tie Maroons For Second Place

MAPLE LEAFS SUSTAIN CRUSHING DEFEAT BY DETROIT FALCONS 10-1

AMERKS WIN 2-1.

Cook Brothers Star as Rangers Win 4-1 Victory From Senators.

TORONTO, Dec. 26 (C.P.) — The victory of New York Americans over Montreal Maroons by a 2 to 1 margin has tightened the Canadian group more closely than ever. The defeat prevented Maroons from wresting the lead from their fellow citizens, the Flying Frenchmen, and also enabled the Amerks to tie the Montrealers for second place, one point behind the Canucks and two in the van of the Leafs.

Johnny Sheppard, dusky little left winger, put the A's in front less than six minutes after the start of what proved a more or less listless exhibition. Three minutes later Hooley Smith evened the count by taking Nels Stewart's pass and scoring while their opponents were playing two men short through penalties.

After a dull and scoreless session Bert Hughes notched the winning goal half-way through the last period, following a well-timed thrust with George Massecar and Frank Carson.

Reaction from the terrific battle against Maroons in Montreal on Tuesday may have had something to do with the Leafs' poor showing against a team they had previously beaten quite handily.

Charlie Conacher, hard-shooting "Kid" winger, returned to the game after several weeks lay-off due to a broken wrist. Joe Primeau, centre star, who also suffered a fractured hand, will return to the game in about another week, and the Torontonians will not be playing under such a handicap as they have been.

Two goals in the first minute of play from the sticks of Larry Aurie and Ebbie Goodfellow, not only started the rabid Detroit fans but also shocked the Leafs, who apparently could not recover from this rough Christmas treatment. Goodfellow added another and Herbie Lewis and Georgie Hay each tallied before the opening 20 minutes had expired.

Goodfellow and Hay gave the Falcons a seven goal margin in the middle frame by scoring unassisted, but the Motor City team didn't ease up a bit, and Carson Cooper hammered another goal past the unfortunate Toronto goalkeeper, Benny Grant, before the Leafs rang up their first counter. Irvin Bailey got the goal on a pass from Harvey Jackson. Lewis and Goodfellow added another brace of markers, to compete the routing of Art Duncan's men.

The Cook brothers broke loose on a scoring splurge in the second stanza when Bun Cook registered a brace of goals and Bill got one Bun got another in the last frame and it was not until the halfway mark had been reached that the Senators entered the summary through Bill Touhey's counter.

Good In "Fist" Fights

In a hockey way the Bruins didn't have much difficulty subduing the Quakers, but when the match was turned into a fistic display in the closing minutes, the Philadelphians were not so much outclassed, as Eddie Shore and George Owen will testify.

The trouble started after the home team had piled up an eight goal lead as the result of three markers by Dit Clapper, a pair by Marty Barry, and goals by Harry Oliver, Red Beattie and Cooney Weiland.

Hib Milks, Quaker forward, was checked heavily by Owen and retaliated with his fists Shore dashed to the aid of his team-mate but was intercepted by Allen Shields and they waged a war of their own. Every player on the ice excepting the Quaker goalguardian then joined the fray and a detail of police had to be called to quell the disturbance. Another fight broke out later between Barry and the energetic Quaker, Jerry Lowry, but was quickly smothered.

BILL TERRY BRINGS TITLE TO NEW YORK

Giants' Star Leads National League Batsmen—Herman is Second.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Amid the crash of shattered records, Bill Terry of the New Giants hammered his way last season to the first National League batting championship a New Yorker had won in fifteen years. The official National League averages for 1930, released yesterday, credit Terry with an average of .401, and New York's first title since Larry Doyle won with a .320 mark in 1915.

Terry joined the league's record-smashing array by tying the league mark for the most safe hits in a season, with 254, and led the circuit with 177 singles.

Babe Herman of Brooklyn finished second to Terry in the batting race, with a .393 average, and, following him, came the stellar record-smasher, Chuck Klein of Philadelphia, at .386. Other leaders on the list of players who took part in 75 or more games were: Frank O'Doul, Philadelphia, .383; Fred Lindstrom, New York, .379; Paul Waner, Pittsburg, .368; Riggs Stephenson, Chicago, .367; "Pie" Traynor, Pittsburg, .366; and Gus Mancuso, St. Louis, .365.

GRIDIRON GIRLS PLAY HARD GAME

Guard Halts Play to Powder Nose.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 26.— Clad in a weird colorful assortment of uniforms that included riding habits, Dartmouth "shorts," bathing suits and regulation moleskins, two teams representing the Pi Kappa and Tau Sigma, sororities of Deering High School, met here in the first football game between girls ever played in northern New England.

The girls battled for four 8-minute periods on the frozen gridiron of the Country Day School before a crowd of 1,500. Despite the scanty and unpadded costumes of the bare-legged athletes there were no serious injuries. Bruised shins, scratched faces and several black eyes were not considered by the hardy players to be worth treatment.

Pi Kappa, making skillful and frequent use of forward and lateral passes, defeated Tau Sigma 8 to 6, rallying in the last half to over come a 6-0 lead after a pep talk from the male coach during the intermission.

A penalty of ten yards was imposed on the victors when a substitute came on the field bringing a vanity case to a guard whose nose had become red and shiny in the frosty atmosphere.

The losers played the last two minutes with only ten girls on the field, one of the ends having quit to keep an appointment with her hairdresser.

GENARO DEFENDS TITLE TO-NIGHT

Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia Making Bid For Flyweight Championship.

IN MADISON GARDEN.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Midget Wolgast, scrappy kid from Philadelphia, will have precedent on his side when he steps out tonight to clinch his claims to the flyweight championship in a fifteen round duel with Frankie Genaro, once considered the greatest of the little fellows, in Madison Square Garden.

Wolgast, by reason of his conquest of all rivals in an elimination tournament staged here last summer, is the New York State Athletic Commission nominee for the 112 pound crown. Genaro, a stubby little Italian veteran who lives right here, is recognized almost everywhere but in New York state and Pennsylvania by the National Boxing Association as the flyweight champion of the world. Twice previously inter-commission rulers have met to decide a generally recognized champion and both times the New York state entry won the honors.

Tony Canzoneri, now the lightweight titleholder, once held featherweight recognition here while Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, was named by the N. B. A. as their champion. They met here and Canzoneri punched out a decision. Again Maxey Rosenbloom, local nominee for light heavyweight honors, found his claims disputed by Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, champion in the 26 states controlled by the N. B. A. and once more the New York commission entry proved the better man when they met in Buffalo.

Genaro, busy in foreign and Canadian rings but idle here for the past three years because of his refusal to enter elimination tournaments to decide the flyweight champion, is a far more experienced battler than Young Wolgast. Over a period of ten years he has conquered some of the strongest of the little men and his record boasts a victory over the late Pancho Villa when the little Filipino was the sensation of the midgets.

Wolgast has punched his way to the top in the last two years. He whipped Black Bill, Cuban Negro, in the final of the tourney last summer and has conquered most of the mediocre contemporary flyweight crop, with the exception of Genaro. Wolgast is a busy little fellow, very fast and clever, and strongest over the fifteen round title trail. He is an 8 to 5 favorite.

Springfield Indians Win 12th Straight

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Dec. 26. — Springfield won its twelfth consecutive Canadian-American League hockey game here last night, defeating Providence 4 to 1, to remain undefeated in league games this season.

ARROWS WIN ANOTHER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 26. — The Philadelphia Arrows gained their second consecutive victory over New Haven last night, in a Canadian-American Hockey League match, blanking the Eagles 3 to 0. It was the local team's third defeat of New Haven in the four games played.

Johnson Considered Likely To Recover

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—(CP)—Ban Johnson, former president of the American League apparently won another victory—this time against old man disease.

After 1 weeks in bed the, former Czar of baseball was considered "out of the woods" in his fight against diabetes which aggravated a foot infection and threatened for a time to result in the loss of one leg.

Strong of voice and still vitally interested in baseball, Mr. Johnston was host to several friends yesterday in a hospital here where he is convalescing.

The growth and prosperity of the town are materially aided by the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. The stronger the effort the greater the results. Every business man and woman should become a part of this important organization.

MANY RECORDS ARE BROKEN IN THURSDAY TILTS

Toronto Leafs' Defeat in Detroit One of Major League Downfalls of League.

FREE-FOR-ALL AT BOSTON.

Ebbie Goodfellow Tallies Four Points to Take American Group Lead.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.)—With a crashing and thumping that resounded through the league, records toppled in National Hockey loop fixtures last night. This morning, nothing remains but a lot of debris and many, many sore spots. Among the latter are the 10—1 defeat of Toronto Maple Leafs at the hands of Detroit; the 8—0 licking administered to Philadelphia by Boston, in a game which broke all this year's records for major penalties; the 19 minutes' enforced rest received by Shore of Boston during the latter tussle, and the free-for-all which gave the customers double thrills in the same affray. If there was any Christmas spirit left it was certainly not distributed to some of the teams in the two sections. But Santa Claus did do one thing for which Ebbie Goodfellow of Detroit is thankful. He gave Ebbie a chance to take the lead in scoring for the American section, for Mr. Goodfellow drilled four nice goals past Bennie Grant of the Leafs during their encounter.

A close scrutiny of the team standing reveals the fact that Canadiens are still in front of the Canadian section, with one point more than the Americans and Maroons. Boston is two points ahead of Chicago in the other loop, while Rangers are in third place, and Detroit just one point below that standing.

Goodfellow has now scored 14 goals and 5 assists, to bring his total to 19, while Bun Cook, who didn't do so badly himself, since he scored three goals, is one point below Goodfellow's mark. Brother Bill Cook is one point behind Bun. In the Canadian section, Howie Morenz is still cock of the walk with 16 points, while Bailey of Toronto is in second position with 14.

The penalty leaders are Joliat of Canadiens, who now has 45 minutes recorded in the big black book. But far, far in front is Shore of Boston, for Shore established what may be a world's record for one game last night, when he spent 19 minutes of a 60-minute game in durance vile.

The shut-out record shows no change. Gardiner, Chicago, has 5; so has Worters, of Americans; and so has Toronto Maple Leafs, although in their case the points are distributed between Chabot and Grant.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

PRAIRIE SQUADS WILL HOLD OWN

PORT ARTHUR SQUAD.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 26 (By the Canadian Press)—This is the "rubber season in east-west rivalry for supremacy in Canada's senior amateur hockey. Since Sir Montagu Allan presented the historic Allan cup to Ottawa Cliffsides in 1908, east and west have evenly divided the 22 annual titles that have followed. But the lake-head and the prairies and the coast are out to beat the east to the full dozen championships.

From windswept Thunder Bay to yonder side of the Rockies are dotted a host of hockey squads which promise to yield the west a worthy contender. Critics who have viewed the class of this season's western hockey are confident that the east, bumped by pros' success in collaring simon-pure stars, will be unable to retain the Allan Cup a second year in succession.

In the west-country, the line-up of serious bidders for the title is improving. It runs roughly, like this:

Thunder Bay-Port Arthur, only team ever to win the Allan Cup thrice, seeks a fourth title with a squad rated as good as the one that fought to the finals last season. Fort William's outfit looks stronger than in years.

Manitoba—Last season's champs, Winnipeg Elmwoods, are weakened by pro inroads, but Winnipeg Native Sons are rounding into a powerful combination. Winnipeg has won seven of 22 Allan cup titles and is aching to be in the limelight.

Saskatchwan — Weyburn Beavers, beaten in last season's final by Saskatoon Quakers, are better than ever. But Quakers and Regina Vics have outstanding teams.

Alberta—Imperials of Turner Valley-Okotoks, gathered from far and wide, promise to elbow to the Almerta title—and maybe farther. Edmonton Superior, who lost to Blairmore in the last provincial final, loom as the north's greatest threat.

British Columbia—Finals for the Allan Cup are being boomed for Vancouver, and the coast province wants to see its own team in the battle. Migration-wrecked, Trail Smoke-Eaters are almittedly out of the running after years of struggle. Vancouver amateurs are the early call for the B.C. title, rating as good or better than when they barely lost to the fiery Trailmen nine months ago.

CHICAGO SPORTS LEADERS IN MOURNFUL MOOD TO-DAY

Baseball, Boxing and Hockey Impressarios Sing Blues Instead of Carols.

RIVALS WON'T HELP CUBS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—"There ain't no Santa Claus and this Christmas stuff is just another racket," wailed Chicago's sport chiefs today when they found that none of their Yule tide hopes had been realized. Nate Lewis, matchmaker at Chicago Stadium, Bill Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, Donie Bush, manager of the White Sox, Major McLaughlin, owner of the Black Hawks hockey team, and Tom Shaughnessy, chief of the Shamrocks hockey team, were the leading malcontents, but many lesser known athletic figures also found use for the crying towels.

It was a dismal Christmas and most of the boys had just cause for complaint. Nate Lewis was the noislest of the wailing chorus. His plaints were based on the probability of losing the world heavyweight championship bout which a week ago appeared to be "in the bag" for Chicago next summer.

"I thought we were a cinch to get the bout," said Lewis, "but now this darn Christmas spirit seems likely to beat us out of it. The New York Athletic Commission which appeared determined to drive the bout out of New York suddenly became imbued with 'good will to men'—and has become friendly to Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling. Now it looks as though they'll come to terms with Max and allow Madison Square Garden to retain its heavyweight monopoly."

Rivals Won't Help Cubs

Bill Veeck, after months of hard work in an attempt to secur ea high-class infielder as a Christmas present for Cubs fans, found his stocking still empty this morning. It ruined the day for Veeck, but he refused to remain glum and promised a pennant for Cubs fans before next Christmast.

"We could't get Pinkey Whitney of the Phils or Jim Bottomley to brighten up the holidays," said Veeck. "However, we'll get by with the players we have and give Chicago a championship for 1931 anyway. We were looking for Santa Claus to help up out but it seems that the owners of other clubs thought William Wrigley was Santa. If we'd made deals on their terms it would have been quite a Christmas—for them."

Donie Bush had a like complaint. "I've been trying to put over some deals which would assure the White Sox fans of a team worthy of the support they give us, but the other teams won't listen," said Donie.

"We've got a bunch of young players and plenty of fight. I won't promise a first division club next season, but we'll do better than last year."

Major McLaughlin's grief was caused by the Black Hawk's loss of first place in the National Hockey League, but the promise of his players to regain the lead brighted his day.

"We've got a great team and if Santa Claus had brought us a place to practice regularly it would have been a fine Christmas," he said. "We're in there fighting and if we don't win the championship the team that finishes ahead of us will."

Galt Defeats Preston In Junior O.H.A. 5-0

PRESTON, Dec. 26.—By taking advantage of almost every break, the Galt juniors defeated the Preston Tributaries 5-0 in a game which was enlivened by numerous penalties, 15 in all being handed out. The game was the first of the local season and condition played a great part in the Galt win. Devere was the main cog in the Terrier machine, scoring three of the five goals on neat plays. While the goals scored were either on individual sallies or from scrambles in front of the Preston net, the Galt team played a nice combination throughout the game, although the natural ice surface was soft and not especially adapted to that mode of play.

MANX FOLK FAVOR HERRING INDUSTRY

Many Quaint Customs Such as Appointing of Admiral.

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man.—The Manx herring fleet is all ready for business, with a new admiral. Sir Claude Hill, governor of the Isle of Man, has just appointed Levi Greggor to be admiral of the fleet—an appointment that has been made yearly since there were herring and Manxmen to catch them. The admiral gets ten pounds a year and his chief duty is to lead the fleet to sea. If he is ill there is a vice-admiral, whose salary is five pounds a year.

Many other quaint customs still cling to the herring industry here. For generations it has been a staple of food on the little island, and it holds an honored place in its official life. When the deemsters, the judges of the island, take their oath, they sweat to administer the law as rightly as "the backbone of the herring doth lie in the midst of the fish."

All good Manx people pray for the success of their fishermen. The most famous of Manx bishops, Thomas Wilson, drew up in the 17th century a special herring prayer which is still said in every church on the island.

Herrings do not play as great a part in the islander's diet as once. Up to a few years ago, however, it was the custom of every diligent housewife to buy and pickle several hundred herrings each autumn. Then they were strung on a rod and placed against the sunny side of the house.

Potatoes and herring, boiled together, made the principal meal of the Manx people during the fall and winter. The herring fishermen, incidentally, are among the few Manxmen left who can still talk in their native tongue.

LAUNCH UPSETS THREE MISSING

Ten Are Saved From Death in Richardson's Bay By Ferry.

BLAME OVERCROWDING.

SAUSALITO, Cal., December 26 (C.P.). — Three men were believed to have drowned here late last night when a launch capsized, throwing its thirteen occupants into the cold waters of Richardson's Bay. Ten were rescued by a ferry's lifeboats.

The party was on its way from Sausalito to the yacht Janidore, owned by Isadore Zellerbach, San Francisco capitalist. Sam Bowman, a member of the Janidore's crew, was the host. All members of the party lived in Sausalito. Authorities said the launch was overcrowded.

Search was continued for the missing, Ernest Rogers, a stevedore, A. Van Scoy, a cook, and a man known only as "Bill." Bowman was among the rescued.

NEW PROPOSALS WIN OVER TWO A. A. LEAGUES

Majors Break Draft Deadlock By Direct Appeal to Minors.

INCREASE PRO DRAFT.

End of Controversy in Sight as A. A. and Western Accepts Terms.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—When the major and minor leagues split on the draft question on December 12, the day of the joint meeting at the Roosevelt Hotel, it was generally understood that negotiations were ended. The minor league committees did some handshaking on the agreement to stick together to the finish in the fight against the major league demands and the majors left the impression that the minors could take it, or leave it.

Now it develops that the major leaguers made the next move, sending out a form letter to every club in the minor leagues, including the five non-draft leagues which had been battling the big leagues. These letters went alike to the minor clubs which are controlled by major league clubs and to those of independent ownership each bearing the signatures of John A. Heydler, president of the National League, and Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League.

The major leaguers apparently decided that the Committee of Nine, which represented the non-draft Class AA leagues was too tough. Unable to get this committee to view the matter in their way, and adding the flat refusal to allow Commissioner Landis to make a ruling, as suggested by the Committee of Nine, the big leaguers took up the question by the appeal direct. All the members of the minor league committee represented independent ownership.

Proposal of Majors

The majors proposed to take the Class AA leagues singly if all three were not willing to subscribe to the proposals which had been submitted to the minors and turned down by the committee. One part of the letter to club presidents read as follows:

"In all previous proposals on this subject the adoption of same has been predicated upon the unanimous acceptance of all the Class AA leagues. In this instance, there is no such requirement. Any Class AA league may accept these propositions without out regard to their acceptance or rejection by other Class AA leagues.

"Any Class AA league desiring to accept these proposals may do so in the manner outlined in the open letter to the members of the National Association. However, because of the situation with respect to player relations between the major leagues and the Class AA leagues at the present time, it would probably be advantageous for any Class AA league, which decides to accept these proposals, to notify Commissioner Landis of such action officially. In that event it can probably be arranged for player relations to be re-established immediately without waiting for the preparation and official adoption of these amendments necessary to place these proposals in the rules."

Increase Draft Price

The other letter enclosed the proposals which had been submitted to the minor league committee and turned down. The majors also notified the minor leagues below Class AA of a willingness to increase the draft price for players from these leagues. This was due to the fact that the majors' proposal made the draft from Class AA $7,500 instead of $5,000. It was felt that the scale should be increased all along the line, and the majors were willing.

Already two of the five non-draft leagues have voted to accept the majors' proposals. The American Association and the Western had both fallen into line. So far nothing has been heard from the Pacific Coast League, and President Charles H. Knapp of the International League has not called for a vote of his club owners. It is understood that the International still stands 4 to 4 on the question.

ONE NATIONAL DEFENCE FORCE TO COMBAT CRIME IN ENGLAND

FORCES INDEPENDENT NOW.

LONDON, Dec. 26. (By the Canadian Press)—In connection with the scheme of the Home Office to establish with the least possible delay, a national detective force for Great Britain, experts are now exploring the approximate cost of great efficiency in crime prevention and crime detection. It is agreed among the authorities that local detectives are not good enough and that detection of crime by local forces is far from satisfactory, hence the Home Office move in the matter.

Senior executive officers of larger representative forced have been invited to give their opinions on the national detective scheme and to forward to the Home Office suggestions that may facilitate the working of the proposed new arrangement, says a special correspondent of the News-Chronicle. Among those being consulted are officers of the highest rank in the Criminal Investigation department of Scotland Yard. Criminologists of many years' experience, numerous senior officers, also Lord Brentford, the former Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary in the Baldwin Government, have expressed themselves in favor of a scheme which would give a single body control of the organization for fighting serious crime in any part of the country.

Under the new arrangement highly-trained, efficient and alert detectives, skilled in every branch of their profession would be immediately available in any part of the country to co-ordinate efforts, control and direct investigations, and conduct inquiries into all cases of serious crime. If carried into effect the new scheme will mean the establishment of a specified number of detached headquarters—miniature Scotland Yards—in about half-a-dozen principal provincial towns, each fully staffed and equipped for all kinds of investigations.

The country would be divided into regions, and while each headquarters would be a self-contained unit, and controlled probably by an officer of the rank of chief detective inspector, the whole system would allow of united effort and any concentration of forces necessary at any particular spot at short notice. At these regional headquarters there would be a staff of trained detectives, not only general all-round investigators, but men also with specialist knowledge, particularly useful to the type of investigation of the crime occurring in that specified area.

While the national force would deal with big crime there would still be employment for local detectives on minor inquiries—petty larcenies, embezzlements, and false pretences cases—and to ensure co-operation between these local and national forces liaison officers with the requisite local knowledge would be appointed to the area headquarters.

As the senior officers became acquainted with local conditions the need for liaison officers would not be so imperative. Scotland Yard would remain the General Headquarters, responsible for the general direction of any united effort or drive, the repository of criminal records and finger-print index, the base for the biggest of the mobile squads and the chief station for wireless transmission purposes. All regional stations would be in direct telephonic and possibly wireless communication with Scotland Yard. As the scheme develops transmitting and receiving stations, exclusively for police work, would be established in provincial centres and operated on a secret (and constantly changing— wavelength.

Enormous difficulties not generally recognized militate against success of the forces of the law in the battle against crime under the detective system now in vogue. There are over 240 independent police forces in Great Britain, each with its own detective squad.

Nowadays with the rapid growth of all kinds of transport, criminals know boundaries but operate in any area w... success and sufficient financial rew... are easy to obtain. The time fa... operates in their favor under the pres... method of crime detection. Local fo... jealous of their own reputations and ... of local pride duly investigate cases ... ported to them. Hours elapse—p... sibly days—then perhaps, or perha... not, finger-print clues are forwarded ... London for examination, and a search ... the files is made. Meantime the crim... inals have disposed of their plunder ar... moved away from their usual haunts ... the haul has been a good one. In th... course of days full details of the missin... goods and notes on the robbers' method... are circulated in the police journals fo... information of all forces.

It is said that the present scheme of the Home Office for allowing provincial police forces to seek the aid of Scotland Yard in cases of serious or intricate crime is a failure. Local forces, either through false pride or because it suggests inefficiency, decline to ask for expert assistance until clues have become obliterated and trails grown cold.

Quietly and unobtrusively during the past few months Scotland Yard officers have been visiting the big provincial towns and inspecting, at the request of the Home Office the local crime records and index systems with a view—should the national scheme materialize—to bringing them up a uniform standard. These inquiries are still proceeding.

Meets St. John's Sextet in First Local O. H. A. Junior Game.

The first local Junior O. H. A. game of the season is scheduled for Monday night at Brock St. Rink when the Havelock-Norwood team will clash with St. John's. This should be an interesting start for the local hockey campaign for the two teams put up some great battles last year and the rivalry between the outfits will be carried over into this year's race. They meet tonight at Norwood and whichever wins, the loser will be out there Monday night battling to the last ditch for the honors.

Alex Kempt has corralled the pick of the Norwood and Havelock talent and will send out a lively team of youngsters while the Saints, although short of some of last year's stars have filled the gaps with promising material and expect to give their admirers something to cheer about.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS TEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Poison in the Yuletide cup of cheer killed 10 persons, including a woman, and sent eighth others to hospitals in serious condition. Among those gravely ill is a 16-year-old boy.

Deadly liquor apparently flowed to all sections of the city. Ambulance calls came in rapid succession. The woman, Mrs. Lene Gorman, 55, and homeless, was found dead in a vacant lot. The boy, Thomas Tracy, of the Bronx, was found helpless in a downtown subway station.

FINE PROGRAM BY CHILDREN

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School, Campbellford, Hold Annual Christmas Entertainment.

SANTA CLAUS VISITS

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26.—(Special to The Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The annual concert for Christmas entertainment presented by the sunday school of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, in Cairns was staged on Monday evening when the church hall was filled to capacity to enjoy a good concert and exchange with the children in the spirit of the season.

Commencing with the singing and a prayer by W. A. Newcourt, the chairman, I. A. Anderson spoke a few words of appreciation of Mr. Newcourt and the teachers of the Sunday School for the time and effort they had expended in the training of the children for this event.

The program opened with a chorus, "Glad Christmas is born," which was followed by a song by the beginners class under Mrs. Connor, entitled "God is Love." Then came a recitation by Miss Viola Towns, "I Wonder?" and a drill "The Christmas Wreath" Drill) by the intermediate girls under Mrs. C. Morris.

Another chorus by the school was then sung, "Joy to the World."

A short play entitled "Trapped" was then presented by the senior pupils, under the direction of Mrs. J. Storie. Those taking part were: Edward Cryderman, Annemenia Allan, Jacquelyn McEachern and Miss Leah Blue.

A chorus by the school, "The First Song of Christmas" was next given, followed by a recitation by Gerald Towns, "Happy Christmas." A drill by Miss Grace Blue's class of junior girls was then given under the direction of Mrs. Robert Boyes and Miss Leah Blue, this being followed by another school chorus, "In Manger Bed."

Miss Mildred Towns gave a recitation, "My Dolly" and the school another chorus, "O Come All Ye Faithful," after which a drill by the junior boys entitled "Kinky Kids Parade" was presented under the directions of their teacher, Miss Watson. The program concluded with a short play by the primary class, under Mrs. Hamilton, entitled "Jimmy's Magic Whistle," and the singing of the National Anthem.

Perhaps the best part of the evening's fun for the children was the arrival o Santa Clause, who in generous moodf distributed candies to the young folks and an extra large box to Mr. Newcourt.

Before the evening closed a vote of thanks to Mr. Newcourt and the teachers of the Sunday School was moved by J. D. Cummings, Mr. Anderson seconding this. Accompanists for the evening were the Misses Grace Labrash, and Mary McGregor and Mrs. J. Storie.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JOHNNIE'S TRICK.

Once upon a time Johnnie Bushytail the jolly little squirrel boy, called to his mother as he was scrambling out of the house nest in the hollow tree.

"Mother!" called Johnnie, "I am going down and dig up a big walnut that I hid in the ground before the snow came."

"Oh, have you time to dig up a walnut?" asked Mrs. Bushytail, the lady squirrel. "Won't you be late for school?"

"Oh, no, Mother! I have plenty of time and I'll hurry."

"But do you know where you buried the walnut, so you will not be a long time hunting and digging it up?" asked Mrs. Bushytail. "Remember it isn't as easy to find the things under the snow as you may think. And your brother Billie went to school ten minutes ago."

"I know just where the nut is and I can easily dig it up," went on Johnnie. "Then I'll run fast and catch up to Billie before he gets to school. I'll give him some of my walnut, too, for I don't believe he knows where to dig up any."

"That's good of you," spoke Johnnie's mother. "Well, hurry now, and don't be late. The Lady Mouse Teacher wouldn't like that."

Down Johnnie scrambled out of the hollow tree nest house and soon he was leaping over the snow that covered the ground. It was not a very thick blanket of snow then, for the warm sun had melted much of it away after Uncle Wiggily had built his snow house and played a trick on the Fuzzy Fox.

And, as Johnnie had a very sharp nose, he could easily smell, right through the blanket of snow, the place where, in the fall, he had hidden the big walnut, with the sweet meat inside the hard shell. As for that hard shell Johnnie could easily gnaw it with his sharp teeth.

"Here it is!" chattered the squirrel boy as after a while he smelled the hidden nut quite plainly. "Now to dig it up!"

With his paws, which had sharp claws, though not as sharp as Kittie Kat's, Johnnie dug away the snow until he came to the bare ground beneath. And, by digging a little more, Johnnie uncovered the nut.

"Oh, how good that is going to taste!" chattered the squirrel boy. "But I must not eat all of it! I must have some for Billie."

Johnnie felt so happy and glad at finding the big walnut that he danced around in a ring, frisking his big, bushy tail up and down. And then, all of a sudden, something happened, Johnnie gave a little chatter of surprise and began leaping about in quite a strange way.

Along came Baby Bunty on her way to school. With her were Jingle and Jangle, the twin sister rabbits.

"Oh, look what a funny trick Johnnie is doing!" called Baby Bunty. "He is chasing his tail as Jackie Bow Wow does!"

"No, I'm not chasing my tail!" cried Johnnie. "Something dreadful has happened to me. Oh, help me!"

But Jingle and Baby Bunty were laughing so hard at what they thought was Johnnie's funny trick that they didn't hear him call for help. And then up came skipping Jangle.

"Oh, Johnnie!" called Jangle. "Do your trick over again for me! I didn't see it all!"

"I'm not doing any trick, I tell you!" chattered Johnnie.

"Yes, you are, too!" chuckled Baby Bunty the orphan. "You are chasing your tail and you do it lovely!"

"No, Johnnie isn't chasing his tail!" cried Jingle. "He's juggling a nut on the end of his tail like the circus dog that juggles three balls, tossing them in the air and catching them. Oh, Johnnie, do it some more! Juggle the nut on the end of your tail!"

"I tell you I'm not juggling any nut on my tail!" cried poor Johnnie. "Oh, won't somebody help me?" he begged, twisting around fast.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who came hopping along just then. What are you doing, Johnnie!"

"He's chasing his tail!" cried Baby Bunty.

"He's juggling a nut on the end of his tail!" said Jingle with a laugh. "Oh, what a funny trick!"

"It isn't a trick at all!" chattered Johnnie. "Listen, Uncle Wiggily, just now I dig up a big walnut I had hidden in a hole, I was glad that I frisked about and my tail brushed the nut and got stuck in a crack of the shell. My tail is caught in a pinching crack of the walnut and I can't get off my tail! That's why I'm jumping about. It isn't a trick! I'm not chasing my tail or juggling a nut on the end of it! Please take this pinching nut off, will you?"

"Why, of course, Johnnie," said Uncle Wiggily, trying not to laugh. Then he pressed on the nut to open the crack so Johnnie could pull out his tail, and the surprised rabbit girls hurried on to school. So did Johnnie and he gave his brother Billie half the walnut. But next time he was more careful about frisking his tail.

GOOD PROGRAM BY BAILIEBORO Y.P.S.

Rev. E. Swayne Gives Interesting Address at Society Meeting.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 26.— (Examiner Correspondence). — The regular meeting of the Y.P.S. of the United church was held on Tuesday evening.

The president, Fred Barnard, took charge of the devotional service and led the meeting in a sing-song, when all present joined heartily in singing a number of Christmas carols.

Rev. E. Swayne took charge of the topic and gave a most instructive and inspiring address upon conditions in the country at the time of the birth of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, compared with the conditions of our country and people to-day. The speaker told how much easier it was for us to believe and love our heavenly Father now, than it was when the Saviour came into the world. To-day our rulers are Christian men, but Herod was a very wicked man.

Archie Deyell then gave an excellent talk upon the fourth wise man, by 'Van Dyke.'

"The best Christmas I ever spent" was told by Miss Audrey Barnard and Joe Barnard, while Miss B. Barnard told of how little children in foreign countries believe in the spirit of giving and receiving.

At the close of the meeting the young people spent a social hour and enjoyed to the fullest extent the treat of chocolates and nuts provided for the occasion.

Fireman Badly Hurt At Boston Blaze

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—One fireman was severely injured, several sustained minor injuries and burns, and more than a dozen were overcome during a fire on the outskirts of the leather district early to-day. The origin of the blaze was unknown and the loss could not be determined immediately.

Five alarms were sounded, bringing every available piece of downtown fire apparatus to the scene, before the fire in the 7-storey brick building at 11 Columbia street was brought under control two hours after it was discovered.

Narrow streets, hot air explosions, and dense smoke combined to hamper the firemen in their work.

Scotland Yard Needs Lord Byng's Presence

LONDON, December 26 (C.P.).—"High police officials," says the Daily Herald, "are naturally anxious at the continued absence of Lord Byng, Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, from Scotland Yard — an absence which, the newspaper says, leaves a gap which cannot be filled, and causes inevitable accumulation of arrears of work.

"The public," says The Herald, which is sometimes regarded as the Government organ, "will be most happy to see Lord Byng continue his work at Scotland Yard, but when he returns in the spring, he will have to consider whether his health will allow him to do so."

PRESERVED WOOD RARE DISCOVERY

Buried Near Fort McMurray, Age Estimated Over 15 Million Years.

IN TAR SANDS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.) — The oldest deposit of preserved wood in the world, its age estimated between 15 and 20 million years, has been discovered by Canadian Government engineers at Fort McMurray in Northern Alberta. S. C. Ells, an engineer in the Federal Department of Mines and internationally known as an expert on bitumin deposits, made the find which geologists claim to be one of the most important scientific discoveries in recent years.

Deep in the far-famed Fort McMurray tar sands, the wood has laid for millions of years, sealed tight from the devastating effect of air. When untombed last summer, it was found to be in perfect preservation. The growth-rings could be counted inside the trunks; the wood might be whittled with an ordinary jack-knife; even tiny insects which fed on the leaves and tender shoots of the growing trees, were preserved in the air-tight chamber. The leaves, themselves were unearthed in fair condition.

Dr. I. W. Bailey of Harvard University, who has been conducting a series of microscopic studies of the wood, practically has established the fact that at least one of the preserved trees is of a type that grows to-day in Japan. Geologists look upon this as still another link in the chain of evidence pointing to the establishment of the theory that North America and Asia at one time were parts of one huge continent.

MAKES POLAR TRIP WITH FAMOUS BYRD

Young Newfoundlander Goes as Team Driver to End of World.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Dec. 26 (C.P.)—Selected from sixty thousand applicants for a berth with the Antarctic expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd, Jacob Bursey, 26, native of St. Lunaire, Newfoundland, reached Latitude 81.45 South, most southerly point known to have been attained by a Newfoundlander. The distinction is similar to that of Captain Bob Bartlett, who as a member of Peary's polar expedition, went farther north than any other Newfoundlander has gone.

Bursey was in New York in the summer of 1929 when he heard that Commander Byrd was arranging his expedition. A formal reply that his name had been placed on file was the only response to Bursey's written application for a position with the party. Learning that the flagship, City of New York, would sail for New Zealand within three weeks, he visited the ship, only to be told the complement had been filled. Undeterred he sought an interview with Commander Byrd himself, but was told every berth was taken.

Then, just as Bursey was turning to go, Commander Byrd asked, "Are you a Newfoundlander?"

"Yes, sir," re replied.

"Know how to drive a team of dogs?"

"Yes, sir."

"Got adventure in you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Able to skin seal?"

"Yes, sir."

"You look a likely chap for me," said the Commander, "and if I can I'll take you. I'll let you know in the next two days."

Two days later the young man was ordered to report, underwent a strict medical examination, consented to the immediate removal of his tonsils, and joined the City of New York when she sailed for Dunedin.

In addition to his work as team driver during the fourteen months he spent in the South Polar regions, Bursey acted as seaman and assistant aeronautic mechanic. Stationed at the base in Latitude 81.45, he frequently accompanied the airmen on their preliminary flights when an altitude of 11,000 feet was occasionally reached.

One of the outstanding feats performed by the expedition was the hauling of supplies over a 200-mile trail from Little America to the advance post below the 14,000 foot edge of the Polar plateau.

As a result of his work in the Antarctic, Bursey possesses a testimonial from Rear-Admiral Byrd, who t estified that the young Newfoundlander "is a man that I would be glad and anxious to have with me where there are difficult things to accomplish."

IN POLICE COURT

Christmas passed peacefully judging by the police records. Only two men, both charged with vagrancy, graced the court this morning. According to the chief, one is a professional beggar and when arrested his pockets were full of nickels and quarters showing that he had struck a sympathetic gold mine among local housekeepers. The other was run in when found skulking at 2 o'clock Christmas morning behind some stores. He refused to explain his purposes there.

Both pleaded guilty and were remanded until Monday.

$100,000 Cloak Made of Bird Feathers

HONOLULU—The colorful feather cloak which, because of its historical import and the fact that the birds whose feathers were used in its making are now extinct, is valued at $100,000, was woven for the Hawaiian King, Kamehameha III, who gave it to Commodore Lawrence Kearny, U.S.N., in 1842.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY MADOC OFFICERS

J. W. Barlow of Belleville Has Charge of Lodge Ceremony.

MADOC, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—Madoc A. F. & A. M. held their annual installation of officers of Madoc Lodge No. 48, with a goodly attendance of the brethren of the lodge and many visitors in attendance at the Masonic Lodge, Madoc village. Rt. Wor. Bro. J. W. Barlow, P.D.D.G.M., of Belleville, was installing officer, assisted by Wor. Bros. John Maidens, George Dawkins and Fred Chamberlain, of Belleville, and Wor. Bros. V. Embury, Dr. Fraser, and W. E. Connor, of Madoc Lodge.

The installation ceremony as put on by these brethren drew many complimentary remarks from the members of Madoc Lodge, and on behalf of that organization Wor Bro. V. Embury and Bro. Geo. White presented the installing officer with a slight token of the esteem in which he is held by the brethren of Madoc lodge, to which Rt. Wor. Barlow made a fitting reply.

To Wor. Bro. John Maidens fell the honor of presenting a Past Master's jewel on behalf of Madoc lodge to the Immediate Past Master, Wor. Bro. H. C. Tummon, which he did in his own inimitable way. Bro. Tummon has served Madoc lodge well during the past year and his companions expressed their appreciation very fittingly.

A very dainty lunch was served at the close of the business meeting and a number of the visitors were called upon for a few remarks.

The officers installed for the coming year are: W.M., W. H. McBain; I.P.M., H. C. Tummon; Sr. W., Thos. Rupert; Jr. W., Kenneth Connor; I.G., James Flett; Sr. S., Wilbur Fox; Jr. S., P. Gunn; D. of C., Chas. Whytock; Tyler, Wm. Hill; Treasurer, Dr. Fraser; Organist, Geo. Avery.

District Churches

AT STIRLING.

STIRLING, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Rev. Mr. Rowland preached beautiful Christmas services on Sunday at St. Paul's Church, the evening service being almost entirely a choral one.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Rowland gave a splendid address, saying, "The spirit of Christmas helps us to be better citizens. Goodwill, kindness and generosity are emotions which naturally come to us at this time. We should perpetuate the Spirit of Christ in our lives. We should make room for Christ at our feasts. We are here to improve the world by making ourselves better. Love is greater than hate."

In the evening the church was filed. The Christmas music was very inspiring, Mr. Allen, a former organist, presiding at the organ. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Allen will preside at the organ of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Dec. 28.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No 29 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Over the mad din, Rokoff continued to hurl taunts at his enemy. "You think your wife safe in England!" he cried. "Even now she is in this very jungle." Then he enlarged upon the horrors of the future life of Tarzan's son and intimated what was to be the fate of the boy's mother. His taunts stung the helpless apeman. Suppose, after all, Rokoff's words were true! The frenzied dancers leaped closer to their victim.

Then to Tarzan's memory came a similar scene, when he had rescued d'Arnot from a like predicament at the last moment before the final spear thrust was to end his suffering. Who was there now to rescue him. Not one in all the world could save him from the torture of these human fiends. The ape-man longed for the last savage lunge that would finish his misery.

It would not be long now, he thought. And then, far out in the mazes of the weird jungle, rose a shrill scream. For an instant the dancers paused, and in that silence there rose from the lips of the fast-bound white man an answering shriek, more fearsome and more terrible than that of the jungle beast that had roused it. For several minutes the black hesitated.

Then urged on by their chief and Rokoff, they leaped to finish the dance and their victim. But ere ever another spear touched Tarzan, a tawny streak of green-eyed hate and ferocity bounded from the darkness, and Sheeta, the panther, stood snarling beside his master. The blacks and the whites stood transfixed with terror, and only Tarzan of the Apes saw what else there was emerging from the shadows.

ACKNOWLEDGES AID.

Chief George Gimblett of the Fire Department wishes to thank Art Blade of the Imperial Oil Company, Harry Huffman and J. K. Hughes for the use of their trucks Wednesday in distributing articles to the needy. He also thanks those who donated, and all who helped in any way.

Six large truck loads packed with groceries, clothing and toys were sent out through the afternoon and evening to bring joy to many who might otherwise have spent a dreary Christmas. At least one hundred families have been taken care of for the present.

I wish to thank the Mover and Seconder, Mr. A. E. Stinson and Mr. D. Dunlop, of my Nomination on Nomination Day for City Council. But as I have no desire at the present time to enter Municipal affairs, I therefore did not qualify as a Candidate.

With every good wish to one and all for the New Year.

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

It might have been possible this year to have avoided a municipal election and have filled all the offices by acclamation, but as we are to have an election, and there is to be at least one new member elected for the 1931 Council, I am offering my services again, and respectfully solicit your support.

I have already served six years in the Council, two years recently and four a few years ago. Have acted on all committees, and at different times been chairman of the Board of Works, the Property and the Manufacturers' Committees, which has given me considerable civic experience.

Next year is not only going to be a busy year for your Council, but apparently a very difficult one as well, and if elected I know my previous civic experience, along with my business experience, which has also been considerable, will be a help.

In any case, if elected, I promise to serve you faithfully.

James Hamilton.

MEXICANS ASKED TO STAMP OUT PROTESTANTISM BY ARCHBISHOP

Claims Protestantism Being Implanted By Americans in Order to Absorb Country.

RAPS WASHINGTON.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—(C.P.)—The Christmas message of Archbishop Pascual Diaz of Mexico, which was read in all Catholic churches, appeals to Catholics, "not only for religious motives, but also for patriotic motives," to co-operate in stamping out Protestantism in Mexico. Archbishop Diaz charged Americans were trying to implant Protestantism with the view of gradually absorbing Mexico. He said that, although there was no intentional prejudice on the part of the United States' government, there was an evident intention to turn Mexico from Catholicism. He asserted there were good reasons for believing that American Protestant sects motivated by political aims were trying to aggravate still more the religious unrest in Mexico.

"Whatever may the aims of the American Protestant sects," Archbishop Diaz continued, "experience has shown that Protestantism frankly and openly preached is something hateful to the Mexicans, who immediately perceptive in that propaganda something that is contrary to their religion and to their country."

QUAKE IN ANDES TAKES 33 LIVES

70 ARE INJURED.

SALTA, Argentina, December 26 (C.P.). — Thirty-three dead and more than 70 persons injured were counted to-day as the toll of earthquakes over the holidays which destroyed La Poma, a small Andean village.

A relief expedition arrived in the little mountain town on Christmas Day after a 24-hour march, and found the survivors of Wednesday's quakes, terror-stricken by six new tremors, camped among the debris of their homes.

Survivors aid that the earthquake which on Saturday knocked down the village houses, and caused most of the damage, was accompanied by a sound that commenced like distant thunder from beneath the earth's surface. Its crescendo increased until at one time it sounded like the greatly amplified galloping of many horse..

As the masonry fell and plaster was thrown from ceilings the inhabitants of the little village fled to the open fields where they wandered about until dawn when they returned to their fallen homes, enshrouded with clouds of dust.

Two huge cracks in the earth's surface, which oozed hot water, were left by the quake. A number of persons were said to have fallen into the cracks and disappeared. Neighboring mountains emitted smoke during the tremors.

ITALIAN PLANES READY FOR TRIP

Fleet of Twelve Await Fit Weather Before Starting Across Atlantic.

BOLAMA, Portuguese Guinea, Dec. 26.—A fleet of fourteen Italian seaplanes reposed on the calm Atlantic waters here today ready for their great adventure.

As soon as all preparations are made and weather conditions are right twelve of the planes will strike out across the open ocean for Natal, Brazil, on the first trans-Atlantic flight of such a large air squardron. From Natal they will fly to Rio de Janeiro and possibly to Buenos Aires.

The distance of about 1,800 miles is to be patrolled by a number of Italian destroyers and other naval vessels which will be ready to race for any locality where one of the planes' wireless may indicate the ship is coming down.

The fourteen planes flew here yesterday from Villa Cisneros, Rio de Oro, arriving at 4:30 p.m., local time. The take off for Natal is not expected until next week.

SHOOTING MAY BE FATAL TO TWO.

CALGARY, Alta., Dec. 26.— Miss Maud Law, 25, and Fred Baldwin, 27, are in serious condition in the General Hospital suffering from bullet wounds inflicted in the former's suite.

Baldwin is alleged to have fired the shot which rendered Miss Law in grave condition and then to have turned the automatic on himself. Miss Violet McWilliams, half sister of Miss Law, and co-occupant of the suite, was an eye-witness to the affair.

AUTOS COLLIDE ON ICY STREETS

Several Collisions Were Reported on Christmas Eve on City Streets.

PASSENGER HURT.

Icy roads and heavy traffic conditions combined to cause four accidents Christmas Eve, but Christmas Day escaped without a motor accident being reported.

Mrs. P. Maynard, 188 Aylmer street, had her face cut by flying glass and suffered from shock, when the car in which she was a passenger met in collision with one of the Peterborough Bus Company's busses at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets at 7:30 p.m. The car was driven by Bertram Craig, 188 Edinburgh street, south on Water street, and the bus was turning east off Water onto Simcoe. Another car turned south off Simcoe onto Water street at the same time. Much of the responsibility for the accident is placed on this driver, who failed to report his identity to police.

Louis Yeotes

In the rush of Christmas work, in the preparation of Mr. Yeotes' Christmas Greeting, a cut which had been made 22 years ago was used—giving the impression that time had stood still and Mr. Yeotes was the youthful person whose photo appeared with his greetings. His more mature but just as good natured face is shown above, as it really is today. Again repeating his good wishes to all at this season.

IN MEMORIAM.

McMAHON. — In loving memory of my dear brother, J. McMahon, who departed from this life December 24, 1929.

You were a loving brother,
A brother kind and true;
A better brother never lived,
His equal they are few.

I am left with a heartache,
With only memory sweet;
Silently praying that some day
Dear brother, united in heaven we'll meet.

JOFFRE, HERO OF MARNE, IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Lord Melchett, World Nickel King, is Dead

NOTED FINANCIER DIES IN LONDON; ILL MANY WEEKS

Former Sir Alfred Mond Played Important Part in English Politics.

JEWRY LEADER.

Was Well Known in Canadian Industry—Formed Mond Nickel Co. in 1900.

LONDON, December 27 (C. P.). — Lord Melchett, the former Sir Alfred Mond, one of Britain's leading industrial financiers, died here this afternoon.

He had been ill with phlebitis for several weeks, and recently a relapse caused grave fears that he could not recover. He had been under the constant care of his physicians at his London home for some time.

Lord Melchett, before his elevation to the peerage in 1928, was Sir Alfred Mond, world "Nickel King," and head of the largest chemical manufacturing organization in the British Empire.

Moreover, he was an important figure in English politics and an international leader in Jewry although he and his family were communicants of the Church of England. But like the great Benjamin Disraeli, who became Lord Beaconsfield under Queen Victoria, Lord Melchett was proud of his Jewish ancestry, and gave liberally of his time and money to the cause of the "Jewish National Home" in Palestine.

During his illness, Lady Melchett remained at his side and Sir Russell Wilkinson, Lord Melchett's physician, spent much of his time at the house.

Broke With Lloyd George

Under the Great War premiership of David Lloyd George, Sir Alfred Mond was first Commissioner of Works and later Minister of Health. For years he was a close political confidant and adviser of the dynamic Welshman but the alliance was dissolved early in 1926 when Mond forsook the Liberal Party and became an adherent of the Conservatives because he disagreed with his leaders' land nationalization scheme.

The break caused one of the most vivid political sensations of the post-war era in Great Britain, Lloyd George turning upon his former fo- George turning upon his former fo- caused the London Times to denounced the action of the former Premier as "a gross and unpardonable outrage upon the accepted decencies of public life."

As "Nickel King" Lord Melchett was chairman of the Mond Nickel Company of Great Britain, with allied firms in Canada and the United States. It was said of his metal holdings, that they embraced either directly or indirectly nearly all the nickel mines in existence, constituting so great a proportion of the total output as to give him and his associates an almost world-wide monopoly in a metal that enters into many of the great industries of civilization.

Head of Imperial Chemicals

Second to this enormous business interest was his place as head of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., a $235,000,000 combination formed in October, 1926, and which included Brunner, Mond and Company, the Nobel Industries, Ltd., and the United Alkali Company, Ltd., all of which were Mond concerns. Besides these the British Dyestuffs, a $50,000 000 competitor, was brought into the combination, giving Imperial Chemical Industries a controlling position in that field so far as Britain was concerned.

Lord Melchett also headed several coal companies, which he brought into a combination under the title "Amalgamated Anthracite Collieries, Ltd." He was chief figure in a public utility which supplied most of South

Gold Nuggets in Crops of Turkeys

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 27. — Lakehead turkeys again are producing their crop of gold nuggets, or at least of nuggets in their crops. A few days ago J. C. Fregeau, a railway engineer, purchased a Christmas turkey, and when it was cleaned two gold nuggets, one the size of a pea and the other a little smaller, were found. The bird was purchased from V Kilson, who is trying to trace the shipments of birds which had evidently been grazing on a farm where the gravel is supposed with gold. Little pieces of gold were found a year ago in the crops of several turkeys

OCEAN COMBED FOR LOST VESSEL

Two Gov't Steamers Seek Derelict Doreen Carrying Seven Men.

HAD LITTLE FOOD.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 27.—(C.P.)—North Atlantic waters to-day still held undisclosed the fate of the steel schooner Doren and her crew of seven. No report was received this morning from the Government steamer Lady Laurier, which yesterday sailed in search of the derelict, and to-day another Government steamer, the Stanley, set out to comb the sea for the Doren. The steel schooner has been unreported since Tuesday evening, when the steel cable by which the steamer Constance was towing her to Halifax from St. Pierre parted sixteen miles off Halifax. The Doren, commanded by Captain T. E. Kirk, and with a crew of six, believed to be natives of St. Pierre or Newfoundland, was being brought to Halifax for reconditioning.

When the Constance lost sight of her tow, the Doren's crew had succeeded in raising head sails, but she had been stripped of her engine and much of her rigging before leaving St. Pierre. Off shore winds are believed to have driven the craft far from her position, and the supply of food on board was only sufficient for a day or two.

SUBS PREDICTED TO CARRY GRAIN FROM CHURCHILL

Keep Northern Port Open All Year Sir Hubert Wilkins States.

Reduce Per Bushel Rate.

Noted British Explorer to Tour Arctic in Under-sea Craft Next Summer.

NEW YORK, December 27 (C.P.). — Giant submarines, carrying the grain of the Prairie Provinces across Hudson Bay, under the ice of Hudson Strait, and across the Atlantic, some day will keep Churchill, Canada's sub-Arctic port, open all year around, Sir George Hubert Wilkins ,noted British explorer, believes.

"I think large submersible grain carriers, of say 15,000 tons displacement, are the only thing if that Hudson Strait route is to be used properly," Sir Hubert to-day told the Canadian Press.

Try to Prove Belief.

Sir Hubert, who has flown over the Arctic ice and walked on it, expects to prove next summer that it is far easier to go under it.

In his 170-foot submarine Nautilus, named after the craft in Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," he will attempt to travel 2,100 miles under the ice from Spitzbergen to the Behring Sea. The Nautilus is now outfitting at Philadelphia, Pa. She has been remodelled from an old naval type into what will be the summer home of eighteen men, six scientists and a crew of twelve.

While he has in mind primarily the acquisition of oceanographic and meteorological data, which, among other things, will help weather forecasters, Sir Hubert believes the voyage will be valuable also as a demonstration that submarine operation under ice really practicable. A new scheme of storing air sufficient for two and a half days, he believes, will enable him to show that submersible craft may be navigated for hundreds of miles without being brought to the surfact.

"Of course," he said, "I don't expect to see submarines carrying cargo at once, but I do believe that eventually submersibles will be necessary if Canada is to get the most out of Churchill.

All Year Port

"With submersibles," the explorer continued, "it would be possible to operate all year around, while three or four months a year is the most that can be expected of surface craft. In addition to this the operation of submarines would be cheaper because they would not require ice-breakers

ARSENAL CLUB REGAINS LEAD SOCCER LOOP

Wins Three Victories in Holiday Program in English League.

RECORD GATES.

Everton Holds Top Place In Second Division By Beating Argyle.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (C.P. Cable). — English soccer football clubs wound up their Christmas holiday schedule to-day and many of them played their third game in as many days. It was estimated that over a million and a half people watched soccer games during the holidays. The record gate was that on Christmas Day an Manchester, where Arsenal played the City club before 58,000 people, and started off on a series of three victories which have placed them again on the top of the championship table. The best attendance on Boxing Day was at Birmingham, where Aston Villa were hosts to Chelsea. Over 56,000 passed through the turnstiles.

All kinds of weather prevailed for the holiday matches, from fierce snowstorms in the north to a deluge of warm rain in the south. Many of the fields were ankle deep in slush or snow.

Arsenal came through at Highbury to-day with a terrific victory, crumpling up Blackpool by seven goals to one. In the Second Division, Everton held their lead with a big win over Plymouth Argyle, scoring nine goals to their opponents' one.

English Peer Dead

LORD MELCHETT,

Formerly Sir Alfred Mond, 'World Nicke King' and important figure in English politics, who is dead in London following a short illness.

TWO ESCAPED PRISONERS TRAPPED.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Dec. 27.—Two of four convicts who escaped from Attica prison camp Christmas eve, were captured by police here, one last night and one this morning. Kenneth Mahewson 24, of Oswego, was the first taken.

OTTAWA CHURCH RAZED BY FIRE $450,000 LOSS

DEDICATED IN 1892.

Flames Start as Little Boy Worshipper Upsets Candles Into Christmas Crib.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 27 (C. P.). — St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, a $450,000 structure, was consumed here to-day by flames started by a little boy worshipper overturning a tray of lighted candles into the Christmas crib. The boy was lighting a candle in memory of a loved one when the tragic accident ocurred.

Only Walls Stand.

The fire broke out at 10 o'clock this morning and raged so fiercely that an hour and a half later only the high stone walls were left standing. Even they were crumbling, piecemeal, as the flames continued to consume the wooden interior of the edifice.

The beautiful structure, of the Rennaisance type of architecture, was dedicated for worship in 1892. It was built of limestone. It served one of the capital's largest Roman Catholic parishes and had pews for 1,500 persons.

Insurance on the structure amounts to $200,000.

The church stands on the corner of Wilbrod and Cumberland Streets, a thickly populated section of the capital and in which are located many fine homes. Ottawa University grounds border on Cumberland Street, across the thoroughfare from the church.

Sacred Vessels Saved.

So rapid was the rush of the flames that priests who were on the scene within a few minutes of the outbreak, were only able to rescue sacred vessels at the risk of their lives. In carrying the sacred host out of the church, Rev. Father J. Tuck was forced to dodge along an aisle of flames and his flowing soutan was slightly scorched.

Five Physicians Have Been Called Into Consultation

Marshall Joffre, Famous Warrior, and Hero of the Marne, is Seriously Ill and is Suffering From Inflamation of the Arteries in the Legs.

CONDITION SUDDENLY BECOMES AGGRAVATED AND SILENCE WHICH WAS MAINTAINED BROKEN

Famous Warrior Will Be 79 Years Old on January 12 and Has Served Successfully and Led Campaigns in Asia, Africa and Europe.

LOUVECIENNES, France, December 27 (C.P.). — Marshal Joffre, Grand Old Man of the Army of France, is fighting the greatest battle of his life—not against an invading army this time, but against death.

All France was shocked this morning when it learned from an official bulletin that the great soldier who turned back the German Army in the First Battle of the Marne, was dangerously ill at his home here in the Department of Seine-et-lee.

His countrymen had suspected that the Marshal of France was ill because he was late in starting on his usual winter vacation in the south. Their fears were lulled by denials from the General's family, but this morning the old hero's doctors announced that his condition was grave.

Arteritles is the name the doctors give the Marshal's illness. This case takes the form of a swelling of the aterial membrance and it is centered in the legs. Five medical experts, two of whom are professors, signed the bulletin which confirmed rumors of the Marshal's illness.

It was so serious, the bulletin disclosed, that a surgical operation was performed last night by Professor Leciche and the right leg amputated.

The doctors issued the following bulletin:

"Marshal Joffre for several months has suffered an inflammation of the arteries in the legs. This condition suddenly became aggravated and necessitated an urgent intervention, which was carried out by Professor Lericme who has attended the Marshal for some time. He was aided by Professor Labbe and Dr. Boulin.

Momentary Improvement.

"After a momentary improvement which permitted everybody to become hopeful the condition of the Marshal has now become disquieting. In fulfillment of his expressed wish, complete silence has been maintained up to now concerning the illness."

The communique was signed by Professor J. L. Faure, Professor Labbe, Dr. Boulin, and Dr. Fontaine.

Marshal Joffre, whose full name is Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre, will be 79 years old January 12 next. In the course of his extended military career he has successfully led campaigns in Asia, Africa and Europe.

He was born in 1852 at Rivesaltes, at the edge of the Eastern Pyrenees, of Spanish lineage and was one of eleven children. The Franco-German war interrupted his studies as a youth and he took part in the defense of Paris in 1870.

After loss of his first wife, he applied for a transfer to Indo-China and

PLAN UNDER WAY FOR FARM RELIEF

Believed Bennett at Cabinet Meeting To-day Will Complete His Scheme.

PROVIDE SEED GRAIN.

OTTAWA, Dec. 27.—Cabinet has been called for today, and it is believed that at that meeting the Prime Minister will complete his plan for western farm relief. It is expected that some form of relief commission will be established to care for needy cases in the west arising directly and particularly from the wheat-market collapse.

The plan of relief will probably include provision of food and clothing and also seed grain to farmers actually in distress. Next Tuesday night, on his way to Calgary, where he will spend New Year's, Premier Bennett will speak in Regina and will, it is understood, make known his plan for direct farm relief, and also for assisting in the orderly marketing of the last crop of grain. Only a brief announcement followed his meeting here with the bankers early this week, and it is believed he will elaborate on it at Regina.

Bulldog Holidays; Master Stays Home

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Danger, a pet bulldog whose owner established a trust fund for him at a local bank, was on his way to Hot Springs, Ark., for a winter vacation to-day, on the profits of some of the securities placed with the banking institution in his behalf. He went alone in a crate. His owner, a Chicago business man who couldn't arrange his own affairs for a Winter vacation, stayed at home.

Joker, Testing Fire Official's Racer, Plays Tag With Whole Chicago Force

CHICAGO, December 27 (C.P.). — A big shiny red eight-cylinder automobile was standing in front of the City Hall yesterday at 1 06 p.m., when George B. Warner, an elevated railway guard, off duty, happened along.

George had nothing in particular to do, so he hopped in and stepped on the gas. Out of the loop he roared at a speed estimated by police at 60 miles an hour. Brakes on other cars in the crowded district shrieked to give him room.

Then he bore down a little more on the gas and shot the car to Grant Park at sixty-five. George then took to the Lake Shore, increasing his speed as he went along, finally getting up to 86 miles an hour, police said, missing pedestrians by inches. All the while he kept the auto horn going.

By 6.30 p.m., practically the whole Chicago police force was looking for him, but he was always miles ahead of where he was last reported. Finally, on his fourth stop for gas, the police closed in on him.

"You are wanted," they said, "for breaking all the traffic laws there are, for stealing that car, for smashing somebody's running board, for being a maniac, and for impersonating the Fire Department of the City of Chicago. Do you happen to know that you have been burning up the pavement with the personal car of Assistant Fire Marshal Michael Bu chief?"

George smiled.

"It's a nice car," he said. "If the Chief had kept it in better shape, I'd have stepped it up to ninety-five."

NEW NOVA SCOTIA POLICE FORCE PROVING ITS WORTH TO PROVINCE

USE MOUNTED IDEALS.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 27 (C.P.). — Policing districts of Nova Scotia, never previously under regular surveillance, a force of one hundred men, organized by a veteran member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and imbued with the ideals of that famous body, is enforcing throughout the Province the Criminal Code of Canada and Dominion and Provincial statutes. This comparatively new force, the Nova Scotia Police, is now in the fifth month of its operation, and with the figures available to refute any contrary opinion, the general consensus is that the organization already has justified its existence. Before the advent of the Nova Scotia Police, law enforcement in rural districts lay chiefly in the hands of Provincial constables whose remuneration was on the basis of a straight fee.

Cover Whole Province.

Under the new system the Province is divided into seven districts, and the

ESCAPED PRISONER TRAPPED

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 26 (C.P.)— The last of four men who escaped in a spectacular jail break from the Sandwich County Jail Christmas morning was captured this morning at Amherstburg by Provincial Police as he waited a boat to take him to the United States. He was Willard Mellish, Monroe, Mich., awaiting trial on charges of conspiracy to kidnap.

Poison Liquor Claims Four At Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y., December 27 (C.P.). —Four men who celebrated at a Christmas party at Brockport, 20 miles west of here with a concoction, police said contained poisoned alcohol, died early to-day after they had been stricken so severely yesterday that they were unable to leave their home for assistance.

They were: Anthony Grondine, 33, Lowell, Mass.; George Moran, 45, Gasport, N.Y.; Charles Miller, 25, of Brockport; and Harry Taylor, 45, Alleghany, N.Y.

Late last night a passerby investigated groans coming from the house and found the quartette in convulsions. He summoned deputy sheriffs, who found that all four were blind.

With a small, but representative membership the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce accomplished wonderful results in the past. A larger membership is required. The Association must be adequately financed if it is to function to the credit of the city.

The future success of Peterborough depends upon the whole-hearted support which the citizens give and the definite program of work outlined by the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the trains carried the body, which had been brought from his home near here, to the family estate where burial will take place. Priests held special services at all stations enroute.

King Carol, whose ascension to the throne was made despite Bratianu's opposition, sent his widow a telegram of condolence saying that the deceased man was always "an example of energy and labor."

SEARCH PLANE HALTED IN FOG

Party of Five Ready to Seek Bodies of Lost Fliers Cannon and Lizotte.

TAKE INDIAN GUIDES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 27. — Tick weather has delayed the start of the big monoplane scheduled to leave Cartierville airport here this morning for Roberval on Lake St. John, the first leg on the flight to Lake Chicocpiach to bring out the bodies of W. H. 'Bill' Cannon and Leonce Lizotte, his mechanic, swallowed up by the north over fifteen months ago.

Piloted by Pete Vachon, French-Canadian pilot, the big plane is expected to leave here by noon for the long flight into the wilds of northeastern Quebec. Donat Vachon, his brother, will go along as mechanic. W. S. Lighthall, former president of the company, Curtiss-Reid Airways, will be the third member of the crew. The father of Pilot Cannon and an insurance adjuster will complete the party.

The plane will pick up the two Indians who found the bodies in the wreckage of the plane and proceed at once from Roberval northwards into the bush. The Indians, in an affidavit, told the finding of the bodies in the wreckage on a hillside near a lake 75 miles from St. Felicien near Roberval.

BORDER - CROSSING PRIVILEGES ARE SUBJECT OF CANADA'S PROTEST

Hume Wrong Presents Note From Ottawa to Secretary Stimson.

NO AGREEMENT MADE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 27 (C.P.)—The Canadian Government has moved to protect the border-crossing privileges of residents of Windsor and other border communities, Hume Wrong, Counsellor and Charge d'Affaires of the Canadian Legation, called upon Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, and it is understood presented a note from Ottawa. Mr. Wrong was closeted with the Secretary for some time.

The assumption here is that the Canadian Government has drawn the attention of the Department of State to agitation created on the border by the restrictive activities of authorities in actual if not technical violation of the understanding reached in 1927 after the issue of the Labor Department's order 86.

There is, in fact, no international agreement which would prevent the United States from rescinding Order 86, and preventing all border crossing. Of course, there is no indication that anything like this is contemplated.

As seen from Washington, the case of the Canadian Government is that in ruthlessly debarring border crossers sometimes on "fine technicalities" the United States Government is interfering with long-established and friendly custom.

It is assumed, therefore, that Ottawa has drawn the attention of the State Department to the hardship and uncertainty entering the lives of thousands of residents of Canada who have in good faith qualified under Order 86 as immigrants to the United States with the possible result of ill feeling over the border.

All Saints' Choir Boys Presented With Medals

Two choir boys of All Saints' Anglican Church, Wilton Hillier and Bryan Roberts, were presented with medals as a special mark of their faithful record of attendance to services and practices. The presentations were made by Rev. D. G. Paterson at the Sunday evening service. For nine months the two boys did not miss a service or practice and during the summer time they were absent only twice.

BANDIT'S BULLET GLANCES ON BELL

Night Watchman Has Close Call As He Disturbes Robber Entering Store.

SHOT FIRED POINT BLANK.

ST. CATHARINES, December 27 (C.P.). — Frank Reid, 65 years old, night watchman at Beattie Brothers' dry goods store, owes his life to a small dinner bell perhaps five inches high. A bullet fired by a gunman struck the bell as it sped toward Reid's head. The little brass bell was carried about 50 feet to the front of the store.

Yesterday morning, as Reid was going his rounds in the basement, he noticed the reflection of what seemed to him a flashlight. He cautiously ascended the open stairway near the centre of the store, and, peeping over a shelf on the side facing the rear of the store, he espied a large man halfway through the back window. The man, he noticed, wore white gloves and in one hand held a revolver.

The robber was looking to see if there was anybody in the store. Then he discovered Reid crouching on the stairs and took a drop aim firing point blank. The bullet struck the brass bell with a startling clang. Reid's head was a fair target, for just over it was a large lamp. Reid seized the chain hanging beside the post and put out the light, also its neighbor across the stairway, bringing the store into darkness. "I was not going to let him have the advantage of me being in he light if it was going to be a shooting match," said Reid. He then darted down the stairs to the telephone and called up police headquarters.

MONACO PRINCE HALTS OUTBREAK

Dissolves Both Legislative Bodies and Sets Up Temporary Gov't.

MOVE SURPRISES PEOPLE.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Dec. 27—Prince Louis of Monaco has taken things into his own hands, dissolved both the legislative bodies of the principality, established a temporary Government which is tantamount to a dictatorship, and put an end for the time being at least to the political squabblings which have torn Monaco for months.

His move came as a surprise to the people, who have assailed him bitterly for what they call his neglect of the affairs of State.

His decree dissolving both the National and Muncipal Councils—the only Legislative and executive bodies Monaco has—came on the heels of a riot two days ago, in which the country's 100-man army was hard put to it to win even a moral victory.

The Prince, on his last visit to Paris, conferred more than once with members of the French Foreign Ministry, and it was generally believed that he was acting on advice from Paris.

LABOR PREMIER WASTING TIME

Lloyd George Turns His Artillery Upon Ramsay MacDonald.

SCORES NAVAL CONFERENCE

LONDON, Dec. 27.— (C.P.)— Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, has turned his verbal artillery once more against the Labor governments, charging that Ramsay MacDonald spent altogether too much time in the negotiations of the London Naval Conference which might well have been left to some other member of the Ministry.

His latest onslaught, which set political observers to asking themselves how much longer the Labor-Liberal combination can last, was in the form of a statement to the press in connection with a controversy between Lloyd George and Vernon Hartshorn, Lord Privy Seal, some of whose statistics in connection with government unemployment relief the Liberal head has challenged.

'The Prime Minister,' said Mr. Llyod George, "spent the first half of his term of office negotiating the naval agreement which could well have been left, like its more far-reaching predecesssor, the Washington naval agreement, to the Foreign Secretary or the First Lord of the Admiralty.

"Neither the task nor its results have justified his practical abandonment for nine months of control of the principal item in the program upon which his party was elected."

This last was interpreted as a reference to the unemployment problem.

VALUABLE MAPS ARE RECOVERED

Documents Stolen From Ontario Archives Found After Arrest of Toronto Man.

LIBRARIES ARE VICTIMS.

TORONTO, Dec. 27. (CP)—Maps and documents stolen from the Ontario archives, the Legislative library, the University of Toronto library and the Toronto reference library, have been recovered following the arrest of Israel A. Gordon of Classic Avenue, Inspector E. D. L. Hammond of the Provincial Police announced last night.

A number of the books, police say, were found in possession of eager collectors, to whom Gordon is alleged to have sold them.

Several valuable volumes reported missing from the four leading libraries of the Province are still unrecovered. A thorough check is now being made in all the libraries.

Most valuable of all the historic treasures which Gordon is charged with stealing was the official archives copy of the great map of David Thompson, which has figured so largely in international boundary disputes with the United States. The map itself is closely guarded, but the copy which was stolen is a prize for any collector's library. The map gives in detail the explorations of the man who has been credited as the greatest Canadian explorer of his age.

Individual volumes missing were valued as high as $100, the police state. The history of Leeds and Grenville, one of the rarest of Ontario County works, and selling for from $17 to $20, was one of the books missing from the archives.

Even at price quoted, many of the books are almost impossible to secure from dealers.

ONTARIO TO TRY CIDER FORMULA

Famous English Recipe Expected to Bring New Source of Profit to Farmers.

HANDLED BY GOV'T.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27.—Cider from Ontario apples made from the formula which made English cider famous, will be introduced to the public next April or may, it was learned from officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

About 5,000 gallons of this cider is now being made under the supervision of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the finished product will be sold in a bottle bearing the Dominion Government label.

When the first batch is completed and properly aged, it will be sold in co-operation with the Provincial Government, probably through the liquor stores. It is expected to retail as cheaply as ginger ale, officials stated.

The venture into cider production is expected to provide a market for Ontario farmers. Windfallen apples which now bring the grower no more than 25 cents a barrel when they can be sold at all, will, it is expected, be a source of profit.

Another development from the report of Mr. Davis was the decision of the Federal Government to establish a small number of laboratories where the use of apples may be studied. One of these will be in Ontario with the site still under consideration.

Exports from the United States to the Orient are again increasing.

Transformer Blown By Short Circuit

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). —What might have developed into a serious fire late yesterday afternoon at Campbellford was stopped by the quick work of the emergency squad, when two of the high tension wires on Victoria Street touched, causing a short circuit and blowing out a transformer.

The cause of the incident was the blasting operation which was going on in connection with the town's laying of mains for the relief of the unemployed. Bags that were used to prevent fragments of earth from flying when the charge was fired, blew up, linking the two wires together and causing them to touch. Residents of the locality were given a fine display of fireworks for a few minutes, but on the arrival of the squad the power was soon shut off and the damage repaired.

LOWERING COST OF PRODUCTION NEEDED IN WEST

United Farm President Answers Sir John Aird Regarding Interest Charges.

WANTS NO FALSE HOPES.

WINNIPEG, December 27 (C.P.). —Lower cost of production is the urgent need of the farmers of Western Canada, declared W. J. Ward, president of the United Farmers of Manitoba, commenting on the statement of Premier R. B. Bennett that arrangements had been concluded to "ensure the orderly marketing of the 1930 wheat crop."

"My hope is that Mr. Bennett will recognise the true cause of the western farmer's trouble as being one of cost of production and that in his pronouncement he will give us some ray of light in the direction of the low cost of production" Mr. Ward stated. He added that he was entirely opposed to "any palliative measures that have for their effect the stimulating of a false hope that in the end will leave us in a worse position than we are at present."

Mr. Ward referred to the statement made by Sir John Aird, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in which he challenged remarks made by Mr. Ward regarding the interest rates charged by Canadian banks. The U.F.M. president challenged the banking head to name the points in western Canada day where farmers have in the past been able to borrow money at less than eight percent., plus discount charges compounded every three months, which in the aggregate, Mr. Ward said, will amount to at least nine per cent.

You're Not Experimenting In Voting For Denne

Sometimes the electors have to make a stab in the dark in trying to select a Mayor when the choice is limited to a couple of aspirants without previous experience.

In this election there is no such difficulty.

Mayor Denne has had three successful years at the head of the city's affairs.

His record of achievement is an open book to the citizens; his ability to fill the position with advantage to the whole community has been thoroughly tested and completely proved; his desire to get things done is known to everybody.

In voting for Denne you are not experimenting, not taking a chance; you are voting for a continuance of the same aggressive policy that has seen Peterborough's industrial circle enlarged and the city improved in a dozen ways.

In voting for Denne you are voting for enthusiasm and a spirit of advance and progress at the City Hall, for an administration based on a firm belief that this city is destined to take an ever more important place among the industrial centres of the Dominion, for a policy that aims at making this a fine city in which to live.

In voting for Denne you are voting for a Mayor whose love for, and pride in everything that is Peterborough is known and recognized far beyond the city's boundaries.

FROM the Workshop of John Plane I am bringing some Chips and Shavings of a kind entirely different from any I have ever brought before. I hope my offering may prove interesting to a large number of my friends. If any are disappointed because they deem so much the lack religious background I crave their indulgence. It may be that our ideas of what constitutes such a background are at fault. A little wider vision might help most of us to see that a really religious person ought to be interested in more than a creed or the Shorter Catechism.

I would like to be able to please everybody—but I am not so foolish as to make the attempt. Even God cannot please us all. So why should I be so crazy as to attempt the impossible? Some of my friends and neighbors don't spend enough time in bed now—but the man or woman who will not go to bed till everybody is pleased will have to set up a great many nights! "Many men, many minds; many women, many whims; and so if we please one we are sure to set another grumbling."

JOHN PLOUGHMAN'S PICTURES.

John Plane has a friend in the country by the name of John Ploughman who is quite an original sort of an artist. Most of his pictures might be called word pictures. He says:

"If we dance to every fiddle we shall soon be lame in both legs. Good nature may be a great misfortune if we do not mix prudence with it. . . He who hopes to please all should first fit the moon with a suit of clothes, or fill a bottomless barrel with buckets with their hoops off. To live upon the praises of others is to feed on the air; for what is praise but the breath of men's nostrils? That's poor stuff to make a dinner of.

"If a man pleases God he may let the world wag its own way, and frown or flatter, as the maggot bites. What is there, after all, to frighten a man in a fool's grin, or in the frown of a poor mortal like yourself? . . . .

"The way of pleasing men is hard, but blessed are they who please God. He is not a free man who is afraid to think for himself, for if his thoughts are in bonds the man is not free. A man of God is a manly man. A true man does what he thinks to be right, whether the pigs grunt or the dogs howl."

WITH PERMISSION.

From John Plane I have received a bundle of papers which have been sent to him by his nephew who is attending the University of Toronto. We hear so many strange things about the younger set that I thought it might be interesting to some of my friends to see how that "set" expresses itself on some of the more serious phases of our modern civilization. The paper to which I refer is known as "The Varsity." It is the undergraduate newspaper. From one or two of its numbers I cull from certain editorials. On November 11 the following appeared under the title of ARMISTICE.

Twelve years ago the guns stopped. Twelve years ago the last shot was fired in the war to end wars. The world had been made safe for democracy. Might was no longer right. The day of bloodshed and inhumanity was over. The weak and the oppressed were freed from their bondage. The nations entered a new era of peace and good-will, where reason reigned supreme over primitive passions, and war was an unthinkable thing.

The interim has been filled with voices, ... voices of statesmen telling one another, within easy reach of the ear of the all-powerful press, that a new spirit was abroad—the spirit of arbitration—the spirit of Locarno. Beside the lake of Geneva, with beautiful optimism, learned councillors have sought to erect a world-structure of international brotherhood upon a foundation of nationalism and suspicion. Delegates from the great powers have sat in the capitals singing anthems of armament reduction to the accompaniment of jingling spurs and rattling swords in the lobbies.

The spirit of Locarno will seem a puny and ridiculous thing on that bitter dawn when the inevitable harvest of the spirit of Versailles must be reaped.

"CANADA FIRST."

In our own country to-day we thrill to a vigorous catch-phrase: "Canada first—the Empire second—and the rest of the world after that!" The attitude embodied in this fine slogan, we are told, is based upon the laws of nature. It is based upon the instinct of self-preservation, first of all; the instinct of self-perpetuation and the family idea, secondly; and the tribal instinct, thirdly. The "rest of the world" is thrown in to show how far our civilization has advanced.

Murder is based upon the laws of nature, too, but there are few to-day who are willing to defend murder as an institution.

The spirit of Versailles is the only possible political expression of an economic organization which enshrines the competitive system because it is based upon the laws of nature. Our militarists are not to be held ultimately responsible for the suave and plausable nationalism which prevails to-day. These gentlemen are merely suffering from the display complex. But we shudder to think what sentence would be passed upon our practical economists if they were called to the bar of the world's unnumbered dead who perished in a war to end war.

"PIOUS PLATITUDES."

We may indulge in all the pious platitudes we like, during our observance of Armistice Day. We may even let fall a few tears during our moments of silence. But we only fool ourselves if we believe that the spirit which exists among the nations to-day is the spirit of world brotherhood, of peace and good-will.

Even the Christian Church—in most of its branches, at least—having in the last great hour of need betrayed its Lord and its message, will do it again in favor of the existing order. Brought into rational alignment with the latest biological trend, and made safe for the service of God, this powerful organization will once more stand by while its Christ is crucified upon a hill of hate.

Carven upon the very stones about us as we commemorate the sacrifice of those who died that the world might enter its new era, are expressions of the passions which prevailed when the dogs of war were unleashed.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe," is an everlasting reminder in our own memorial arch, that men have died in vain and that the spirit we thought had prevailed is nothing more than a foolish dream, in the face of existing conditions.

In our Great Hall of Hart House are displayed the crests of all the great universities of the world—save those of the Central Powers . . . . and these are omitted as a memorial to our fallen brave. A delicate and fitting memorial indeed, to the men who laid their good lives down that the nations might enter their era of eternal peace and brotherhood!

Let us celebrate our Armistice if we will . . . . but let us not talk of Peace while the voice of the world about us is pitched on a note which tells us that our Peace is an empty mockery and a sham.

• • •

In this undergraduate newspaper there is a section, written in a lighter vein, which throws an interesting sidelight on the attitude of "the younger set" to existing conditions. A recent issue has the following:

"CHAMPUS CAT."

This is a serious Cat.

And also a cat that is full of dirty truths.

During the past two weeks eight men have been sentenced in Ontario courts to 123 years in gaol (not counting concurrent sentences), and 185 lashes; all for stealing a total of $32,000, and a few rings.

During the same period eight other men have been sentenced in Ontario courts to 25 years in gaol (not counting concurrent sentences), and no lashes; all for stealing an estimated total of $20,000,000.00.

The difference, of course, is that the first group used guns even though no one was actually hurt by their weapons; while the second group merely broke up business firms, foreclosed mortgages, and brought several hundred thousand men and women the spectre of unemployment and poverty. Their weapons were short selling, demands for increased marginal payments, and clever manipulation of valueless stocks.

This is called British Justice.

There is not, and so far as we know, never has been, a Jewish professor on the staff of the University of Toronto.

This is called British Tolerance.

It is possible to hire girls in Toronto for five dollars a week plus their board. A dozen restaurants in town do so. Their owners are good business men who belong to the respectable churches, lodges and political associations. If the girls leave such jobs to take up less honorable pursuits they are fools and unworthy to touch the hem of a good man's robe.

This is called British Fair Play.

Truly the world is full of contradictions.

But what of it? Nothing matters so long as the comfortable man is given a joke to amuse him.

• • •

I have been greatly interested to read the account of a Hart House debate on the motion, That this House considers all expenditures on national defence by the Dominion of Canada unjustifiable. In commenting editorially upon this debate the "Varsity says:

DUTY BOUND.

"A small expenditure to maintain national defence does not mean a defence of militarism, and we are duty bound to protect right."

This is the sort of statement which can be made at an open debate in Canada's largest university, twelve years after the close of the most concentrated and most futile period of slaughter in the history of the world.

We can only hope that the speaker was moved by the necessities of debate and not by the promptings of his own intelligence.

One of this country's leading soldiers, speaking at the same function, declared that war was an economic inevitability, and that, as Canada advanced in the world of commerce, the need for armed defence would become increasingly necessary. This is facing the issue a bit more honestly. In a world where open competition is the practical religion, there is no doubt that the time is coming—possibly within the next fifteen years—when the gods that sit in the high places will summon Canada's youth to present their bodies a bloody sacrifice on the altar of the nation's right to a place in the economic sun.

We are duty bound to protect the right of our manufacturers of potted meat and tin trays to unrestricted competition in the markets of the world.

I am glad that John Plane has afforded me this opportunity of setting before my friends a few samples of what "the younger set" at one of our universities are thinking and saying. You are not asked to agree with it! All that is asked is, "Make sure that you understand it before you pass judgment of any kind upon it."

Along with John Plane, I extend to all our friends the compliments of the season and best wishes for a Happy New Year.

Allan Fairbairn.

The Hour Of Prayer

THOU art my sun, O Lord, but not my sun alone. Thou art also my shade on my right hand. I bless Thee that in the year that is gone no sorrow has come upon me but was haloed with joy, no joy has stood alone unhampered by some pain. Beauty and ashes, the oil of joy and mourning, the garment of praise and the spirit of heaviness—these all have been mine in Thy providence, and will be in the days to come, wherefore, I beseech Thee, prepare my soul for the succession. Make me thankful for a little light, a little comfort, a few friends, the stars, the bird, a baby's smile, and a happy heart. Grant that in my luxury I may not fail to be kind, and that in my misfortunes I may not fail to find good. So may I live the coming year to the glory of God, and daily ascend on high by leading captivity captive. Amen.

On Being Great

GREATNESS lies not in being strong, but in the right using of strength; and strength is not used rightly when it only serves to carry a man above his fellows for his own solitary glory. He is greatest whose strength carries up the most hearts by the attraction of his own.

THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR.

The conference held by the Federal and Provincial Ministers of Agriculture with Alex. Westewelt, manager of the Royal Winter Fair, indicates that plans for the new buildings to be constructed this year and in the cost of which the Dominion and Ontario Governments and the city of Toronto will share, are making progress.

The decision to add to the facilities already provided for the Royal Winter Fair is generally popular, for the value of this great agricultural exposition is recognized on all sides, and particularly by farmers, who realize that the Winter Fair is of more practical benefit to agriculture than is the Canadian National Exhibition, which divides its activities into a good many different departments, whereas the Royal Winter Fair is predominately agricultural in its program.

The new buildings will materially increase the accommodation at the Winter Fair and thus guarantee a greater show than ever, while at the same time the construction program agreed upon will provide work for a good many unemployed men at a time when they are most in need of assistance.

The rapid carrying out of the proposed work will therefore confer a double benefit and is doubly welcome on that account.

The Royal Winter Fair is a rapidly growing institution, and Ontario people in general are proud of the development that has taken place in a few short years.

THE C.N.R. DIRECTORS.

The fact that Sir Henry Thornton has been retained as chairman and that Gerard Ruel the legal vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, V. I. Smart, the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and Tom Moore, the president of the Trades and Labor Council, remain as members of the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways, is probably more important than the personnel of the remainder of the board.

The new members announced are representative Conservative business and professional men, who will probably give as good service, and no more, than the eleven Liberals of the same type whose places they have taken.

In fact, the man on the street, learning that each of these directors receives a salary of $2,000 a year and free transportation, will be inclined to come to the conclusion that a board half the size now authorized would probably do better work at a considerable saving.

Unfortunately, the tendency seems to be to increase rather than cut down the size of the directorate, for it is intimated by Hon. Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, that the present limitation of fifteen members prevents giving representation to all the Provinces of the Dominion, and that it is proposed to bring down legislation at the coming session to permit of each Province to be represented, which can be interpreted only as meaning that the board is to be enlarged.

THE FUND REMAINS OPEN.

The thought that every worker who took part in The Examiner's distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families in this community brought back was, "How are some of these families to be fed in a week from now?"

There may have been a little overlapping in the Christmas eve parcels, but that matters little when it is realized that in the case of a large family a basket of groceries vanishes almost by magic.

A few people getting too much at Christmas is a trivial thing alongside the stark reality that a lot of people are going to have too little a week from Christmas unless the generosity of those in a position to help continues to act.

The Examiner proposes to keep its fund open until the proposed community relief organization is completed and begins to function, because to do anything else now would be to leave many families close to starvation in a few days.

That is not said with any desire to be sensational, but is a simple statement of fact, known to anybody who has been brought closely into touch with the situation in the past few days.

There are stories of people who are trying to impose upon relief funds—but they can be forgotten in the face of the very obvious truth that there are families in this community who had little or nothing to eat before the Christmas hampers arrived the other day, and will have little or nothing to eat when the contents of those hampers are gone.

For the moment the organization of a relief committee has been halted, and in the interval scores of families will be in distress unless a helping hand is extended by somebody.

The Examiner proposes to stand by until a committee can take over the responsibility, and while the task takes up the full time of some of the staff and we have not the accommodation or facilities necessary for systematic relief work, this paper will continue to take care of as many needy families as possible.

Your donation, whether in cash form or in groceries and vegetables, will be gladly received and put to the best advantage.

The need is great and the help of all is necessary if suffering is to be averted.

CRAZY PRICES FOR EGGS.

Each day we read about prices for eggs in Chicago, taken from the cold storage plants there. Right now it is possible to purchase them for December delivery for 14¾ cents per dozen wholesale, and for delivery in January at 13¾ cents.

Then, reading on, we find that old traders say they cannot recall anything like it in the last fifty years, and they speak also in terms of bearish news causing the further declines.

Bearish news, bah!

It is a form of present-day insanity seeking expression.

Years ago all the bearish news in the world could not drive the price of eggs down to between 13 and 14 cents a dozen at this time of year.

Folk used to go around and gather eggs from hidden nests in the straw stack and from the nests in the chicken coop. Then they took them into market, knowing they would get a fair price for them. This bearish news nonsense is a product of our present-day efficiency.

Eggs from cold storage are worth more than 13 to 14 cents per dozen in food value, and more than that has been paid for the eggs put into storage. Some person is taking a decided loss on this transaction.

We are inclined to believe that the old plan of buying eggs from the people who keeps the hens has its advantages. You may pay a good deal more, but you are helping some person make an honest living when you do it.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

FIERY STUFF.

Communists in Canada, despite paucity of numbers, have in the last year or two been making a lot of noise. But this much may be said, they have not been able to make much of an impression among Canadian workers. In the mayoralty election recently held at Sudbury out of something well over 2,000 votes cast the Communist nominee received a mere 66 votes. And that despite the lurid nature of the Red literature which was broadcast throughout the city. Here was the flaming appeal:

"Workers! Comrades! You, whose working day has been lengthened; you, whom capitalism has driven to starvation; you, against whom the Fascist bourgeoisie has enacted oppressive laws; you, who instead of bread get blows from police batons from a municipal government representing the interests of Inco; you, who have nothing to lose but the whole world to win—it is you that the Communist party appeals to in connection with these municipal elections, urging you to commence struggle for your interests and the interests of the entire working classes. Abandon the lead of the bourgeois and the church. Rally to support the program of the Communist party. Make it known among all workers in Sudbury.

"Down with police terror!

"Down with capitalism!

"Long live the Soviet Union and the fraternal relations between the toilers of Canada and the workers of the Soviet Union!

"Fight against unemployment and starvation!

"Fight for Soviet Canada!

"Vote for the candidates of the Communist party!"

Rot, drivel and all the rest of it! What is a Fascist bourgeoisie? We know John Jones who punches a clock in a local factory, draws wages from the earned increment which comes from capital put in the industry in which he works, and he owns his own home and has a fine family coming along, from whom great things are expected. His job is no white collar one, either. However, according to common interpretation, John Jones would be a Fascist bourgeois, because he is a capitalist to the extent of owning his own house and lot. If he objected to state interference or ukases passed by the central committee he would run the risk of being shot in Russia or taken to Siberia.

The passing of such literature as that which was issued at Sudbury is an insult to robust Canadianhood. This paper has always advocated ridicule for these poor fools, but no serious objection could possibly be taken if, on the spur of the moment, the ring-leaders were taken out and ducked into the lake.—St. Catharines Standard.

WHAT IS SUCCESS.

The average person would scarcely consider that a man who had reached his seventieth year, and who had worked all his life for a wage which never exceeded $22.50 a week, could have been a successful man. Yet a London newspaper the other day published an interview with a miner who had that record, and the title of the interview was, "How I made a success of life."

Judging by the material standard of making money, there was not much of success in this man's life. He probably had a hard struggle to make ends meet, to keep the wolf from the door at times. He could never have been able to save very much, nor could he have had much time nor money with which to enjoy the recreations and the cultured things of life. Yet he was satisfied that he had made a success of life.

Probably he was right. One can never know by what standard he measured success, but it is certain that he must have been one of those wise mortals who judge not their success or failure by the number of dollars they have in the bank. The man who has modest means can in his service to his fellow-men, in his cheerful and optimistic outlook on life, by the influence of a cheerful personality that radiates sunshine wherever he goes, makes his life more of a success, in a way that really counts, than the man who has made millions, but who has, by his very wealth, isolated himself from his fellows, and has cut himself off from knowing the joys of daily effort performed with satisfaction.

Success does not lie in the size of a man's bank account. Rather does it lie in a life of good deeds, a life which considers others as well as self, a life which has in it that unselfish spirit which pours itself out in service, and finds joy in the giving, not of money in abundance, but of that sacrificial spirit which makes heroes of the most humble of men.—Oshawa Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner Relief Fund is still open, and your donations will be needed even more urgently than before Christmas.

There were 180 violent deaths in the United States on Christmas Day with the motor car and poison liquor the two most fruitful contributory causes.

Despatches from all over the country testify to a general desire to help the unfortunate—a fine tribute to the potency of the Christmas magic.

News of Our Own Village

Citizens the battle is joined, Rollie Denne and Mal. McIntyre has been signed up to fight for the mayoralty steaks, same to take place here on New Year's Day.

New Years, your scribe hastens to point out, will be celebrated on the 1st day of January, this being an old village custom.

This paper having been accused of not doing justice to Mal McIntyre, all we got to say about the mayoralty race taking place in our midst is, may the best man win.

It is too late for this year, but your scribe would like to suggest to Sir Hank Drayton that he furnish his patrons next year with some of them "Do not open until Christmas seals."

The lads from here what has been attending college brought good appetites home for their Christmas dinner but none of them has been seen wearing a coon coat, indicating the stock market crash aint been forgotten, as yet.

Voting in the village elections next week takes place in the schools and some of the old-timers, if they act the way they used to, will get there too late to get their ballots in.

Jack Crane has been re-elected to the village utilities commission without a scrap so them that has been counting on a few free cigars will hafta roll their own.

Doc Holloway was nominated to run for mayor of this fair village last Tues., but said he did not choose to run in 1931. Doc didn't tell the assembled villagers how the Hall of Wisdom vote would go, neither.

The Red Cross is going to give away a lot of military clothes and Sandy MacTavish has put in an order for a kilt. Here's hoping you get it, Sandy, say we.

This paper published a list of homes of citizens what was lit up during Christmas week the other nite, making an interesting souvenir of this here festival occasion. Did you get your copy. Advt.

What To-day Means To You

"CAPRICORN."

If December 27th is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., and from 3 p.m to 6 p.m. The adverse period is from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The astrological indications on December 27th point to a day of negative results and a depressed condition of mind. It is advisable to keep to routine work and not attempt to branch out in any fresh field of endeavor. After sunset, optimism will replace pessimism and the outlook will be cheerful.

Children born on this December 27th will be of affectionate natures, and, as they grow into adulthood, they will acquire ambition, and an earnest desire to accomplish something worth while. They will not be successes at school, but promise to attain much in after years.

You were born under favorable auspices. Endowed with more than average intelligence, gifted with quick perception, and surrounded by a good environment, you had it in you to accomplish much. The fact that you to-day are still only on the threshold of success is attributable to indecision of character. You dally with all issues, and blow hot and cold. Anything you have done has been through circumstances beyond your control, and not of your own election.

Your disposition is a good one. You are cheerful, and, withal, modest. You never claim to be anything other than what you are, and, realizing your limitations, you never attempt to widen your horizon. Your habits—and you are largely a creature of habit—are regular. Your thoughts are all inspired by a desire to be generous and tolerant. You speculate very much on the mysteries of life—without, of course, solving any of their problems—and, after all your meditation, you cannot make up your mind to believe or disbelieve.

You are very straightforward, and a kindly candor characterizes your utterances and consideration for others marks your actions. In the life of the home you will never be the leader. You, probably, will be led, as Time will accustom you to having your mind made up for you.

"CAPRICORN."

If December 28th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

The astroligical influences of Dec. 28th are too active for the anticipation of a perfect "day of rest." An important decision, which will have to be made in the near future, will cause you to worry—let your conscience decide the issue.

Children born on this December 28th will have considerable self-assurance and "nerve," and will force themselves to the top in any endeavour which they may attempt. They will have considerable common sense, and although they will play a hard game, they will play a fair one.

Those born on December 28th will succeed in their travels through life because of their persistent, industrious and persevering efforts. You never jump to conclusions, but only make a move after careful and deliberate thought or patient preparation. You are willing to wait for results, and in the game of life, you move with the precision, the vision, and the slowness of an expert chess player. You have an independent character, possessing a quiet self-reliance, which keeps you from accepting, or asking for help from others. You build, when others are still dreaming of their work.

Despondency is a thing against which you must fight, and most of your ill health will arise from "nerves," brought on by needless mental worry and depression. The best counteracting medicine for you is cheerful society, and a change of scenery and surroundings. You are a little inclined to let work drive you, instead of you being its master. You have never really known how to play, and you often wish you could join others when they are romping and rollicking.

Your horoscope reveals that you will meet with more than one reversal in your fortunes, but you will always be able to stage a come-back. You will be grieved and injured through the disloyalty of friends, or relatives, and you will grow suspicious and mistrustful. Do not forget your many reliable and good friends, and keep "sweet."

Lakefield

CANADA CEMENT PLANT

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—The second annual Christmas tree and entertainment was given by the employees of the Canada Cement Company on Tuesday evening in the Town Hall, which was filled to capacity. Everyone was happy and for a very good reason, for there was work and regular wages at a time when this combination is not general in the world and when the daily paper is appealing to its readers to "help the hungry." Tuesday evening was a pleasing contrast to this cry, and the happy faces were a source of inspiration to those who had the affair in charge.

Following last year's splendid example, the entertainment was arranged in sections, each being run off strictly to time and with a fine sense of proportion.

The entertainment opened with the children's choral class, directed by Mrs. G. Craig Bell, who trained the children and directed the program, and also acted as accompaniment.

The first item was a chorus by the Choral Class of about forty children and the program continued as follows: Recitation, Frances Young; Recitation, Gladys Allen; Recitation, Olive Riel; Chorus, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas"; Piano Solo, Merle Harvey; Duet, "The Keys of Heaven," by Madeline Abrams and Colleen Junkin; Recitation, Muriel Miles; Recitation, Betty Brown; Duet, "Silent Night," Dorothy Ruttle and Frances Nolan; Dialogue, Eleanor Edwards, Doris Chittick, Veronica McFadden; Chorus, "Sleigh Bells"; Recitation, Isabel Brown; Duet, Belle Hamblin and Mildred Miles; Chorus, "The Maple Leaf," "The Red, White and Blue" and "Rule Britannia."

As the children filed off the stage one had an opportunity to see what a number of them there were; all happy and good to look at.

The stage was very prettily arranged, a new set of scenery was made and with a gaily lit Christmas tree and a very realistic fireplace with candle on the mantel and Japanese lanterns used in a most attractive scheme of decoration. The decorations, which transformed the dingy stage into a most delightful setting for a happy party, were made and put up by the electrical department under the direction of E. S. Kelsey.

Santa Arrives

The jingle of sleigh bells announced the coming of Santa Claus. As all the children of ten years and under of this huge family were remembered on the tree, Santa needed help, which was capably rendered by T. J. Grentzner and Howard Miles. After all the children had been remembered with gifts, Santa waved a reluctant good-bye and departed amid a gale of applause from the delighted children, who hailed his advent with glee and viewed his departure with regret.

For the first part of the evening's entertainment, J. R. Hill, the safety engineer, occupied the chair, filling the position in his usual efficient manner.

Glee Club Introduced

When part three on the program began E. W. Bailey, plant superintendent, took charge, expressing his pleasure at the full house and welcomed all on behalf of himself and fellow employees of the plant. This is the second annual event of this character and all get a big kick out of it. He introduced the Canadian Cement Glee Club, which was under the efficient direction of Mrs. G. Craig Bell, who also acted as accompanist for nearly all the numbers.

Among the Glee Club were Westhall Adamson, H. J. Brown, George Jackman, H. T. Armstrong, W. Bell, Norman Abrams, Mark Allen, Ernest Robertshaw, Bruce Garbutt, E. Hill, Oscar Culberry, W. H. Wingett and Stephen Alford.

The chorus opened with that perennial favorite, "Polly, Wolly Doodle." Mr. Ed. Hill followed with "Killarney" as a solo, which was very much appreciated; Miss Etta Garbutt acted as accompanist.

William Bell sang with telling effect, "Keep Right On to the End of the Road," with the club joining in the chorus. Mr. Bailey suggested very aptly that it be adopted as a slogan for the year, and it might well be by all who heard it. This number which touched the heart and brought a note of hope to the tired and worn, was one of the highest spots in an evening full of high spots. Mr. Robertson delighted his audience with a solo suggestive of South America, with a strong Spanish flavor, and was compelled to respond to an encore, which told of the adventures of a Russian of the Czar's army and a Turk. Mr. Robertshaw sang without accompaniment.

Mr. Bell sang an amusing solo about the sorrows of the poor married man, which brought down the house.

Cheerio Club Entertains

The next section of this varied and delightful program was in charge of the "Cheerio Club" of Peterborough, directed by Frank Clarke. This part of the program was popular as was evidenced by the applause, which was hearty and spontaneous. Those taking part were Frank Clarke, William James (banjos), Herbert McCannan (mouth organ), Walter Fitzgerald and Max Peters (violins).

There were two violins, two banjos and a mouth organ, and they played a number of popular selections, which never lose their charm. Mr. Peters gave two readings which were amusing and delighted the audience. A medley of songs played by the quintette included "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Sidewlaks of New York," "Sweet Rosy O'Grady," "My Wild Irish Rose," "Good Old Summer Time," and others.

Mr. Fitzgerald contributed a very clever buck and wing dance, which so delighted the audience that the artist kindly gave an encore performance.

Messrs. James and Clarke contributed a very fine banjo duet.

This part of the program was brought to a close by a number in which everybody took part, everyone who could sing, and who cannot on a happy occasion like this.

The orchestra played some of the choruses popular for years, and the Canada Cement Glee Club led the audience and the result was hearty and worth while. Among these were "Pack All Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," "The Long, Long Trail" and "My Bonnie."

Receive Bonuses

Mr. Bailey reminded the audience that the best was yet to come and explained that while 1930 had not been as good a year as 1929, still it had been a success, and the company realizes that the employees had just as much to do with making it a success as last year, so it had been decided to give the bonuses to the men as in the two past years. The industrial situation to-day needs no comment, and the employees of the Canada Cement Company would go a long way to better themselves as they receive good wages paid regularly. Mr. Bailey, assisted by H. R. Wagar and Stanley Darling, proceeded to give the bonus cheques, which are the equivalent of two weeks' pay to the employees. Nearly two hundred men received their cheques, which are doubly welcome at the Christmas season. It was an inspiring sight in these days, when stories of unemployment and want fill the pages of the daily papers, to see the procession of men filing up to receive their cheques, not their wages, but the Christmas gift of the company. It is no wonder one speaks of the "Canada Cement family.

Expresses Thanks

As a fitting conclusion, Harry Armstrong came forward, and with a few words on behalf of his fellow employees, he expressed to Mr. Bailey the thanks of the men for his personal interest in their welfare and his untiring zeal on their behalf and his faithful service to the company, and he made a presentation to Mr. Bailey, plant superintendent, as a memento of the occasion and the pleasant associations. Mr. Bailey replied fittingly, and the program closed with the National Anthem.

The presentation to Mr. Bailey was an expression of their sympathy with him at this time, when he has had added to his responsibilities the anxiety occasioned by his wife's serious illness. He has never failed, however, to give his best efforts for the welfare of Plant 7 and its employees.

District Churches

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 27 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Christmas Day was celebrated in Christ Church, Campbellford, by two services, an early celebration of the Holy Communion, and a choral service at eleven o'clock, at which a very large number of Anglicans and friends were present. Special Christmas music was rendered by the choir under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, W. Pearson, A.L.C.M.

The rector, Rev. N. Clark Wallace, preached a Christmas sermon, taking for his theme Luke 2, 15: "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem." He explained that in a study of the Gospels Matthew was the one that contained continuity, Mark was known for its fact, John for its spiritual mysticism, but Luke was the human Gospel, the one that was turned to when a person was weary and depressed, for it contained the beautiful stories, told in a beautiful way, because they were beautiful and lovely. Luke was the only Gospel to tell the story of the shepherds and their vision of the angels and the message given them, which resulted in that statement contained in the text, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem."

Mr. Wallace pointed out the simplicity the appeal that it had and has for the human race. The shepherds found a manger and a babe, and because of that fact half the world to-day ceases work at this time of the year and turns their eyes toward Bethlehem.

Every Christian kindness we practice at this season of the year and through the whole year was due to this little Child that lay in the manger at Bethlehem, the preacher pointed out. The shepherds were told of the Child, and went to see Him. We have heard also of the Child of Bethlehem, and not only have we to go, but we have to follow in the footsteps of that Child. The world needs the memory of that Child as much to-day as it did then, Mr. Wallace declared, so "let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see those things which have come to pass."

LIGHT DECLINE IN BASE METALS

While Gold Section Continues to Show Small Advances on Standard.

DULL SESSION TO-DAY.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27. (CP)—The gold section continued to show small advances on the mining market in another dull session to-day. Base metal issues were irregularly lower in trend, but oils displayed a few strong spots.

Teck Hughes was well taken with the price up 10 at $5.90. Lake Shore advanced a quarter to $23. Dome 10 to $8.90, Hollinger 5 to $6.15, Howey a couple to 22 and Kirkland Lake gold and Sicoe a point each to 49 and 37, respectively.

Ajax oil was still under accumulation, price adding another 14 to recent gains to close at $1.62. Nordon and Acme Gas recovered a couple apiece to 37 and 22, respectively, but Chemical Research eased 10 to $2.40. Other oils were holding.

International Nickel and Noranda in small-lot trade, were off a half each from last night, and Base Metals sold down 5 at $1.05. Abana was a point higher at 14 and the Lindsleys firm.

BOMB DAMAGES CHICAGO FACTORY

Second Explosion in Same Night Directed Against Restaurant.

BLAST HEARD 10 MILES.

CHICAGO, December 27 (C.P.).—Two bombs exploded almost simultaneously on the north side last night one of them being the fourth directed against "big business" within recent weeks.

One bomb blew in the steel door of an apron factory owned by Carson, Pirie, Scott & Company, and damaged brick masonry, broke windows, and shattered plastering in an apartment across an alley. Three persons in the apartment were slightly injured.

Police and firemen formed lines to hold back the gathering crowds. The explosion was heard in Evanston, more than ten miles away.

Another bomb damaged a Chinese restaurant. Ten occupants were not injured, but four of them, in a card game, were knocked off their chairs. The proprietor said he had no trouble or warnings.

Last Wednesday night the Merchandise Mart, the largest building in the world, was bombed. The Furniture Mart, second largest building, and the main plant of Sears Roebuck and Company, were bombed recently at the same hour and in similar manner.

OTTAWA CHURCH

fell, the flimsy crib and then one of the Christmas trees standing at its side immediately burst into flames. Three women engaged in devotions at the time rushed to the door leading from the church to the rectory and called the priests. Three alarms summoned every piece of fire-fighting apparatus to the scene, but it was apparent early that the edifice was doomed, and the work of the firemen was turned to saving the rectory, only recently constructed at a cost of $75,000, and also to other nearby buildings. So great was the headway made by the flames that a part of the roof had collapsed into the body of the church 15 minutes after the fire broke out.

Firemen Have Close Calls

Firemen had a number of close calls. Smoke explosions occurred, but did not result in any injuries. A massive chandelier which hung from the centre of the roof crashed close by a group of firemen playing a hose on the inside of the church and as it shattered into a thousand pieces, particles of glass were sprayed widespread. Only minor cuts were suffered.

The Christmas crib from which the flames spread was unveiled on Christmas Eve and was a beautiful piece of workmanship. Such cribs are to be found in all Roman Catholic churches at this season of the year. They take the form of a reproduction of the Biblical stable in Bethlehem and depict the Nativity of Christ.

NO CHANGE ON TORONTO CURB

Holiday Week and Saturday Combine to Make Another Dull Session.

LEADERS DOWN SLIGHTLY.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27.—(CP)—Holiday week and Saturday combined to make for another dull session today on the Toronto stock exchange. Activity was at an extreme low ebb and showed little or no improvement over the preceding day, while price changes were practically all fractional and on the side of the decline.

Leaders such as International Nickel, Brazilian Traction, Ford of Canada, Massey-Harris, etc., were down small fractions only. Bell Telephone, C. P. R. Deforest-Crosley and Service Stations managed to close with small gains.

The oils for the most part were higher but again price changes were of a fractional variety. McColl issues failed to improve with the others in this group and closed lower.

CHINESE ABACUS IS USED BY BANK

Sits Side By Side With Modern Adding Machine in Toronto Institution.

FOR CHECKING FIGURES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27. (CP)—Side by side in a local bank, both showing marks of frequent use, are the oldest and newest computation machines in the world. One is a modern adding machine, the other a Chinese abacus.

The adding machine is, of course, in constant use by the employees of the bank; the abacus is reserved for the use of Chinese customers who wished to check over the figures, and incidentally, one accustomed to the abacus can use it almost as quickly as an expert adding machine operator can use the latest machine.

"We have many Chinese customers" the teller mentioned casually "and the way the can 'click' those marbles is amazing."

The abacus is a wire frame on which many beads are strung. One 'column' is for units, another tens, another hundreds and so on. It has been used for hundreds of years in China.

LEADERS SUFFER LIGHT LOSSES

Few Firm Spots on New York Market During To-day's Trading.

AVERAGE TRADING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (C.P.).—The stock market continued its downward drift in fairly active trading in today's short week-end session.

Losses of a point or two in leading shares were numerous and a few penetrated new minimum prices, including General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse Electric, International Telephone, and brokers said belated tax selling was still coming into the market, and ascribed its continued heaviness to disappointment over yesterday's action of the list. Sales aggregated about 1,350,000 shares. The closing tone was heavy.

There were a few firm spots. The local tractions were buoyant, on rumors of an early announcement of a unification plan, and Atchison, Union Pacific, American Power and Light, and American Tobacco "B" gained a point or so.

THIEVES RANSACK SINGER'S ROOMS

Police Seeking Gold Medal, a Gift From President Woodrow Wilson.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—A gold medal from President Woodrow Wilson and a scarf pin from the former Crown Prince of Germany were being sought by police today as part of $4,000 in jewelry stolen from the the apartment of Paul Reimers, concert singer several days ago.

Mr. Reimers received the medal in recognition of his singing at a White House reception for members of the United States Supreme Court. Other articles stolen were a set of cuff links presented by the Duke of Connaught and a tie pin from the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland.

Police reported that the singer returned to his apartment after several hours absence and found that the door had been jimmied and the place ransacked.

Mistake In Advertisement Of Eaton's Groceteria

Will Not Be Open New Year's Eve. As Stated.

A mistake was made in Eaton's Groceteria advertisement which appeared in The Examiner on Friday night when it stated that the Store would be open on New Year's Eve until 9.30 o'clock. This paragraph inadvertently appeared, as there was no intention of keeping the Groceteria or any other department of the business open contrary to the by-law in this respect.

NEW NOVA SCOTIA POLICE FORCE

police in their motor transports cover all of Nova Scotia from the headquarters of twenty-eight detachments. It has become a usual thing when an offence is committed, even in a town with local police, for someone to call the nearest "Novy" policeman.

After provision was made for the establishment of the force in conjunction with the Nova Scotia Liquor Act, Sergeant F. A. Blake, equipped with an experience of eighteen years in the mounted police, was loaned to organize the constabulary. Fruits of the intensive training Commissioner Blake gave his men are apparent in the record of their activities during the first four months' work, when 2,908 cases were investigated, 1,282 prosecutions entered, and 985 convictions obtained. Last month the percentage of convictions to cases prosecuted was 87.2.

Maintained by revenue derived from Government control of liquor, the Nova Scotia police force in towns and municipalities pays chief attention to enforcement of the Liquor Act, but the large majority of work lies in country sections, where all laws are enforced by the N.S.P. The various detachments operate similarly to those of the Mounted Police in other Provinces. Twelve former Mounted Policemen are included in the complement of 100.

One Fatality

One fatality has resulted from law enforcement by the N.S.P. Officers involved in the death of a negro who refused admittance to his dwelling near Kentville were tried and acquitted on the grounds of self-defence.

Activities of thep olice in Cape Breton have been particularly interesting due to the extent of labor employed in collieries and industrial undertakings in that section of the Province. The opinion of Commissioner Blake is that the crime situation in Cape Breton has been unduly emphasized. Last month the number of convictions obtained for Cape Breton was 29.6 percent of those for the Province as a whole, not a disproportionate figure considering the size of the island, the number of foreign-born workers there and the nature of their labors.

NOTED FINANCIER

Staffordshire with gas, a financial investment corporation and Westminster Bank, as well as owner of the big London Daily newspaper, the Westminster Gazette, until that publication was merged with The Daily News in 1928.

Two Generations of Effort

All this was the fruit of two generations of effort, starting with the foresight of his father, Ludwig Mond, who came from a poor Jewish family in Cassel, Germany. This founder of the English Monds, went to England in 1862, and five years later became a naturalized English subject. While a worker in a chemical factory he met John Tomlinson Brunner. The two formed Brunner, Mond and Company, a partnership which eventually dominated the English chemical industry.

Alfred Mond was the younger son of Ludwig and was born October 23, 1868 at Farnworth, near Widnes, in Lancashire. He was educated at Cheltenham College, studied later at St. John's College, Cambridge, and at Edinburgh University.

First destined for the Law, he was admitted as a barrister of the Inner Temple in 1934, but quickly turned his talents to the more lucrative field of business organization and promotion.

When Ludwig Mond died, in 1909, the elder son, Robert Ludwig Mond, carried on his father's chemical researches. Alfred, however, took up the administrative side of the business and branched out into nickel mining, metal manufacture, coal mining and gas manufacture.

One of England's Richest Men

Lord Melchett was one of England's richest men and had given large sums of money in connection with the establishment of the Jewish homeland in Palestine. He was chairman of the Imperial Chemical Industries, the largest chemical concern in Great Britain with a capital of £76,000,000 (approximately $380,000,000) and was a director and officer in a dozen other financial institutions.

He was long a force in British politics and was Minister of Health in the Lloyd George War Cabinet. Later, he bolted the Liberals and joined the Conservative party. But for his death he probably would have been appointed to a high post if the Conservatives gained power in the next elections.

Right up to the time of his last illness Lord Melchett was active in his long campaign for a system of Empire reciprocal tariff preferences. Many months before he had conducted a campaign throughout South Africa and had formed a unit there of the Empire body pledged to secure such a system.

Backed Bennett's Scheme

Only a few weeks ago Lord Melchett came into renewed prominence by his strong support of the tariff proposals of Premier R. B. Bennett at the Imperial Conference. When these proposals were rejected and when Premier Bennett made a statement concerning the attitude of the British Labor Government, Lord Melchett was most outspoken in his denunciation of the Labor Government's inability to approve these proposals.

As chairman of the Mond Nickel Company and later as head of the great combine known as Imperial Chemical Industries, Lord Melchett was well known in Canada, and he made a number of visits to the Dominion.

Well Known in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27.—Lord Melchett first became actively interested in Canadian industry in 1900, when he came to Canada and formed the Mond Nickel Company. The first smelter was built at the old Worthington Mine, near Sudbury, Ont. Later the company abandoned the Worthington smelter and built another one at Coniston. In conjunction with the Canadian Smelters, the company operated refineries in Wales.

In 1928, the Mond Nickel Company was amalgamated with the International Nickel Company, and in the finacial arrangements Lord Melchett; then Sir Alfred Mond, was credited in Canadian financial circles with becoming the largest shareholder of International Nickel with a total of one million shares, at that time worth about $70.00 each.

As head of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Limited, Lord Melchett also had extensive Canadian interests. Imperial Chemical Industries controls Canadian Industries Limited, the latter in turn controlling Canadian Explosives, Canadian Salt, Canadian Ammonia and several other organizations, as well as holding a large interest in General Motors and Dunlop Rubber.

Rev. and Mrs. Roberts Honored at Home of Wesley Woods.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 27.—On Monday evening, a very happy gathering took place at the home of Wesley Wood, Church Warden of Trinity Church, to do honour to the Rev. and Mrs. Roberts who are leaving the parish of Cavan at the end of this year.

In a very fitting address Mr. Wood referred to the work Mr. Roberts has done during the past couple of years and expressed his own regret at his clergyman's leaving, which regret he said he knew was felt keenly by all who were present.

Sidney Powers, the other warden, then read the following letter of appreciation from the congregation:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Roberts:—We have gathered here to-night to try to express to you our appreciation of your all too short ministry of the past two years. It was with sincere regret that we learned that you are to leave us. You have taught us to appreciate more than ever the beauty of our priceless liturgy by the gentle and devotional way in which you have conducted our services.

In you we felt we had a friend and appreciated your presence at the meetings of our various organizations. Your interest in our welfare was evidenced in the way in which you visited us in our homes, in sorrow and joy alike.

May we ask you to accept this clock and with it goes the hope that it may be a constant reminder of your friends at Trinity Church, The Marsh. May God bestow His blessing upon you both in your new field of labour."

The clock is a very handsome electric model in a case of inlaid walnut, and Mr. Roberts said he would always consider it one of his greatest treasures. Its unfailing regularity would keep him in mind of the members of the Church, who had been loyal in their devotion through two very trying years.

Mrs. Roberts was also presented with a remebrance of her visits to their branch of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The evening concluded most happily with music, and a dainty lunch served the hostess, the Misses Effie and Mary Wood.

The Grand Old Man Of Nova Scotia

Richard Evans, of Zionville, N.S., who celebrated his one hundred and fourth birthday on December 19th last, is still hale and hearty, and manages to do seven hours work every day. "Uncle Dick" as he is affectionately known to thousands of Nova Scotians, was born in Ireland in 1826, and came to Canada at the age of thirteen. On the way over to this country, Mr. Evans' party was shipwrecked and had to turn back in life-boats during a terrific storm. He claims that 'King George' was the reason he left Ireland, but does not say which king it was.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Most houses have some redecoration or refurnishing to be done after Christmas passes.

• • • • • • •

What a joy this work is, or it should be. It signifies that a gift, or perhaps many, for the home has been the homemaker's good fortune to receive.

• • • • • • •

There are problems to solve whenever new pieces of furniture have to be fitted in with old ones. The problem may have to do with the difference in types of decoration, the new reflecting the modern spirit, perhaps, among an array of earlier period styles.

• • • • • • •

Or perhaps the question is one of space and redistribution of articles in other rooms to give place for the new things.

• • • • • • •

There have been few times when new furniture was more difficult to merge pleasingly with old than this season. Modern furniture has a distinct atmosphere of its own. One piece or two requires the most careful management lest it appear amusingly incongruous.

• • • • • • •

Either the decoration in the room must be given a modernistic slant by introducing more of like kind, or a new style must be quelled so that it appears to take on the quality of the things with which it is put.

• • • • • • •

Difficulties are present in each instance, for the first takes money since more new things have to be introduced. The second takes the deft handling of an expert or a person who is skilled in decorative treatments though not a decorator necessarily.

• • • • • • •

Without considering the first, a costly phase, namely that of actual redecorating to modern type, let us consider the assimilation of new with older types of furnishings.

• • • • • • •

The hard and severe angles of modernistic pieces have to appear softened to go with curves of previous periods. This can be helped by placing the furniture where the harsh lines are not accented by the light they get, or else by shading this light with furniture in the foreground.

• • • • • • •

Another method is to assemble the things most closely allied with the modernistic and use grouping to help in the assimilation. Pick out the articles that reflect somewhat the same general characteristics and arrange them so that the eye is led in pleasant paths to the new type.

• • • • • • •

There are ways of handling each situation of this sort although to be frank it is regrettable when new furniture has to suffer its peculiar isolation by having to be combined with old.

• • • • • • •

If an article seems to be ill at ease in its new surroundings, try to change it, if you can, for another that naturally harmonizes with what you already own.

FASHION SERVICE

The growing girl looks best in a simple one-piece frock like this. The belt is removable and may be placed high or low or worn at the natural waistline as is most becoming to its little wearer.

Inverted insets at each side of the front of the dress, topped by pockets, provide the necessary fulness to the hem.

You can carry it out in any of the new supple woolens. Wool jersey in dark green made the original. Light jersey trim made it strikingly smart and individual. The belt of self-fabric matched the metal buckle to the trim.

Style No. 2884 is designed for the miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Rust red covert cloth with pockets and the front tab closing of the bodice of self-fabric with white pique collar and cuffs is so attractive.

Plain or patterned wool crepe, tweed mixtures, rayon novelties and tweed-like cottons are excellent materials for this model.

Steady Demand Made On Dressed Poultry

Liberal offers of choice farm and dairy produce graced the benches in the market today, the large sales immediately previous to Christmas having apparently made little inroads on the supply. TWO HULL LADS HAVE CLOSE CALL Rowboat Upsets at Foot of Chaudiere Falls, Hurling Lads Into Whirlpool.

CLING TO BOAT AND ROCKS.

HULL Que., Dec. 27. — Two Hull youths involuntarily spent a frigid half hour in the rushing waters at the foot of Chaudiere Falls yesterday and, to the astonishment of all who know the treacherous nature of those waters, came out of it alive.

Cone shaped eddies, wide whirlpools and a mighty under current mark the spot where a large breaker capsized the rowboat from which Emmanuel Dupius and Emile Rocher, both 17, were plucking driftwood from the Ottawa river. That they made such a miraculous escape is due to the fact that one of them bobbed up in the churning water near a submerged boulder while the other had the good fortune to emerge close by the upturned boat.

Employees of a nearby paper mill reached Dupius in a row boat. Young Rocher clung to the capsized shell until it drifted into a placid part of the river and then managed to swim to shore after spending close to an hour in the water.

To-day the boys were back at their work, none the worse for their close encounter with death.

CUT IN BUS TAX DRAWS PROTEST

Niagara, St. Catheraines, Toronto Railway Employees Given Shorter Hours.

MORE COMPETITION.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 27.—Employees of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway have forwarded a protest to Premier George S. Henry, regarding the recently-announced fifty per cent reduction in the Provincial tax on buses. Employees of the system have found themselves reduced in number and placed on shorter time because of the competition which has developed from motor buses.

President Richards of the local branch, Canadian Electric Railway Employees Mutual Benefit Association, to-day sent the following telegram to the Premier:

"Referring to your letter of the 22nd, on behalf of the 1,839 employees and dependents of the N., St. C., and T. Railway, we desire to protest against the reduction in bus taxes, thereby encouraging further competition with railways."

Mr. Richards said the Association had protested to the Department of Highways previously regarding bus and truck competition, and while consideration had been promised, the answer has "come in the form of an announcement in the press of a fifty per cent cut in the seat tax now being collected."

The matter, he declared, would be "seriously discussed at the next meeting of the employees of the railway."

That Body of Yours

ANY KIND OF LIVER MAKES NEW BLOOD CELLS.

When Drs. Minot and Murphy were able to prove that the eating of calf's liver was a cure for that formerly incurable ailment, pernicious anæmia, immediately all over the world the use of calf's liver became so enormous that the supply was not equal to the demand.

Accordingly, the price went up from ten or fifteen cents to as high as a dollar a pound. Unfortunately, it was many months before investigators discovered that cow's, pig's, and lamb's liver was just as effective. And to complete matters and make it possible to get the benefit of liver anywhere, anytime, extracts of liver are now manufactured which give the same results as fresh liver.

Now, why is live or liver extract so effective in pernicious anæmia?

This ailment is due to the fact that the red corpuscles of the blood which carry nourishment to every part, are not only lessened in number, but the amount of food material — hæmoglobin — in each little cell is lessened in amount.

Thus the individual becomes pale and thin, and wastes away in a few months or within one or two years at most. Blood from another person injected into his blood vessels might help him for a few months, but practically every case formerly was fatal.

However, Drs. Minot and Murphy, realizing that the liver contains substances which help the bone marrow to manufacture fresh, strong, red corpuscles when many of those in the blood are worn out, broken down, or lost by bleeding, believed that if some extra liver substance were supplied to a thin-blooded individual it would likewise make the red marrow in the bones manufacture more red blood corpuscles.

And their belief was rewarded by seeing this simple method save many valuable lives throughout the whole world.

The latest thought is that pernicious anæmia is due to some organic defect in the bone marrow which causes it to manufacture corpuscles that are not perfect in structure. The liver seems to have the power to control the amount and kind of corpuscles manufactured. Hence the value of extra liver in the diet.

Thomas Receives "Order of the Egg"

These young men intended to use an ostrich eggs, their spokesman said, but the one they brought from home hatched on the way to England and they were obliged to substitute the eggs of South African hens.

80 REBELS SLAIN IN BURMA RIOTS

British Light Infantry and Artillery Rushed to Disturbed Areas.

Too Little Clothing For Needy Families

TORONTO, Ont., December 27 (C.P.). — Returns from agencies and welfare organizations throughout the country show requirements for four or five times as much clothing as the Government could possibly spare, said Dr. J. Biggar, Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross.

He was commenting on the recent passage of an Order-in-Council authorizing the donation by the Department of National Defence of $250,000 worth of clothing for needy families. "There is a great need for the clothing all over Canada," said Dr. Biggar, "and the biggest difficulty in distributing the goods will be in distributing them fairly. We will try to work out an equitable coast-to-coast plan of distribution. Probably the province in the severest plight is Saskatchewan."

Glasgow will build 12,000 new houses.

CHURCH GRANTS BANNED BY GOV'T

Quebec Federal Authorities States No Relief Monies to Go to Presbyteries.

UP TO TASCHEREAU.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27 (C.P.).—News came to-day from Quebec that the Federal Government, through Hon. Gideon Robertson, has refused to allow unemployment relief grants to be devoted to churches or presbyteries, and the next word is now awaited from Premier Taschereau, who reported to the Legislature that such expenditures had been approved in principle and who based on that approval a special clause in the Provincial Enabling Bill linked with the Ottawa grants.

The Fabrique of St. Romuald applied to the Quebec Unemployment Commission for $12,000 to be applied to church and presbytery work. The Provincial Unemployment Commission approved the application and sent it on to Ottawa, whose action has now killed the loan.

In the debate on the Legislative Assembly at Quebec on December 8, this question of spending relief monies on churches, presbyteries and schools caused a debate, the Liberal Government holding that in some rural areas no public works could be undertaken to aid the jobless unless through work of the nature described. The Quebec bill, then before the House, was amended to permit the Province to contribute its 25 per cent. under the Federal unemployment scheme, to be added to 25 per cent. contributed from Federal funds, plus 50 per cent. from the municipality concerned. Provision was made that the money contributed by the municipality must be refunded.

BATTERED BOAT BARES TRAGEDY

No Trace Found of Lighthouse Keeper or Young Assistant Lost Since October.

CRAFT ON LONE ISLE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 27 (C.P.).—On an uninhabited island, where it had been cast weeks ago, the small 18-foot boat in which Ingi Thordarson, lighthouse keeper of Georges Island, Lake Winnipeg, and his young assistant, Franklin Johnson, disappeared early in October, has been found.

Battered and upturned, the boat was found on the north shore of Burton Island, 4 miles south of the Georges Island lighthouse. A fisherman made the discovery, but there was no trace of the bodies.

Tied to the painter, was a tattered piece of sacking, mute testimony of a futile attempt to improve a "sea anchor" to hold the little craft's bow into the wind and prevent capsizing.

MARITIME FISHERMEN TAKE HOPE AS NEW UNION ACHIEVES RESULTS

Distinctive House Flag, Trade Mark and Journal About to Appear.

6 MONTHS OF SUCCESS.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 27 (C.P.). — A new houseflag is about to fly over Maritime waters, a new trademark will shortly appear on an old product of the Eastern Provinces, and within the next few weeks a new journal will be coursing the channels of His Majesty's mail. All are projects of the United Maritime Fishermen, the first thorough-going union of its kind, which consummated its organization just six months ago yesterday.

Half Year of Success

Materially, that half year has been marked by heavier pockets through collective bargaining in at least one fishing locality, by successful trial sales of sea products on the co-operative plan; and by the chartering of the first fish collection boat ever taken over directly by the fishermen themselves. But these developments, in the opinion of Dr. Richard Hamer, central secretary of the organization, are more important as indicators of a trend than as single achievements. In that six months, and growing out of the preliminary work done by Dr. M. M. Coady, the organizer, a new feeling has come to life in the 20,000 men who fish from the shores of these provinces. The idea of standing together, of buying and selling co-operatively, of learning to reach for markets through an improved product, has taken hold and is here to stay.

Some time in the new year a bi-weekly journal, probably to be called "The Fishermen" will be issued by the Central Board of the Union. It will be devoted to the needs, and aspirations, and the education of the Maritime fishermen, and to some extent will be bi-lingual. In its columns will be recorded the results of a competition for fishermen's wives and children, who will vie with each other in designing a crest to go upon the Union's flag. Another aim of the organization is a distinctive trademark to identify in the world's markets the products of its adherents.

The Union was organized on June 25 and 26 of this year, when delegates representing 3,300 fishermen met at Halifax. Since that time a number of locals have come in.

Obtained Increase

Cape Breton locals have been prominent in subsequent developments. In July the North Sydney fishermen ceased work in a demand for higher prices, and after seven weeks obtained increases of one quarter cent a pound on steak cod and haddock, bringing these rates to the level then prevailing at Canso. Market cod, making up the bulk of the catch, remained at the old price, and again in November the fishermen ceased to fish claiming that by reason of gas line prices and othed expenses it was actually more profitable to be idle. After three weeks of negotiations the price of market cod was raised to one and three-quarter cents a pound, and the boats left for the banks. Coincident with the first North Sydney tie-up, Dr. Hamer, a physics professor who deserted the laboratory for the field of labor diplomacy, first came into the picture.

The good offices of the Maritime Trade Commissioner in Ontario have been obtained in the fishermens' drive to make Canada fish conscious. Advertising campaigns are in the offing. A few days ago Dr. Hamer found a market for 155 cases of lobster paste that seemed destined for the waste heap. A trial shipment of seventeen hundred pounds of dried cod, cured by a new method, has been sent to New York from the Magdalen Islands at a net return thirty percent greater than the local price.

A sea-bourne supremacy that went down with the wooden ships may yet return to the Maritime breed from waters nearer home. Again the eyes of the Eastern Provinces are turned to the watchword on which their first greatness rests: E. marimerces.

ALTAR CROSS AND LIGHTS DEDICATED AT MILLBROOK

Rev. Dr. Blagrave Has Charge of Impressive Ceremony in St. Thomas' Church.

SPLENDID SERMON.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 27.—A service of special significance to members of the Church of England was held at Millbrook, on Sunday evening, December 21st, St. Thomas' Day, St. Thomas being the patron saint of the Millbrook Church. This service was for the purpose of dedicating the beautiful memorial Altar Cross and lights which have recently been given in memory of different members of this congregation who have passed on.

The dedication ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Blagrave of St. John's Church, Peterborough, in accordance with the beautiful ritual of the Church of England Prayer Book, Mr. Roberts reading the inscriptions and the names of those whom these gifts are commemorating, viz, on the base of the cross

"To the Glory of God and in loving memory of Alexander Andrew Smith, Churchwarden to this congregation for 25 years, and who ended his labour December 16th 1929.

"This cross is donated by members of his family."

"To the Glory of God and as an aid to His Worship in this House of Prayer these six lanterns and the Chancel Lights have been installed in memory of the following: A. G. E. Westmacott, 1921; Annie Kells, 1925; Mary Elizabeth Kells, 1927; Thomas and Anne Jane Grandy; David Fallis 1918; Ida Fair Allen 1914; Henry and Charlotte Turner.

The following prayers were then read by Dr. Blagrave during the course of the dedication ceremony:

"O Lord Jesus Christ who didst hang upon the cross stretching forth Thy loving arms and Whose pierced hands and side convinced the doubting apostle, accept we pray Thee this Memorial Cross at our hands and may it be to all who worship here a Symbol of reverence, an incitement to sacrifice and a challenge to faith; Who liveth and reigneth with the Father and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end, Amen."

"O Lord God Who at the beginning didst create Light that life might spring forth upon the earth; and Who also didst send the light of the Eternal Word to lighten every man coming into the world, grant we beseech Thee, that these lights which we now dedicate to Thy Honour and Glory and to aid us as we worship in this Thy House, may be symbolical as well of the radiance of Thy Word in our hearts, that we and all who worship here may in the end attain to the fullness of Thy Eternal Glory, through Jesus Christ Our Lord, Amen."

In the sermon which followed, Dr. Blagrave expressed his deep gratification and pleasure at being given the privilege of taking a leading part in such an impressive ceremony and voiced his deep regret that the Parish of Cavan was to lose the services of such an able and Christian leader as Mr. Roberts, speaking highly of the good work which Mr. Roberts has done in his two years of ministry in this parish.

The combined choirs of St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, and Christ Church, Bailieboro, under the very able direction of the Rev. Mr. Roberts, furnished special music which was greatly appreciated by the large congregation assmbled there.

Belleville Institution Students Give Concert

STIRLING, Dec. 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Miss Lillian McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Linn and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland were guests of C. B. McGuire, bursar of the Ontario School for the Deaf on Thursday last, when the pupils of the school gave a concert.

Dancing by the deaf pupils was indeed a novelty. More than three hundred pupils took part. They observe vibrations from the floor on which the piano is placed. A few dramatic sketches were staged, "The House That Jack Built", "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Mother Goose's Birthday."

The Rhythm Band, a group of boys and girls in costume, played on instruments thus indicating how rhythm could be taught through vibrations from piano to floor and hence to brain.

Santa Claus Visits Havelock Children

HAVELOCK, Dec. 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Santa Claus made his first official visit to Havelock on Tuesday evening, December 23rd, arriving by special C.P.R. train, accompanied by two elephants, an ass a swan, and a number of jolly clowns. He also brought an orchestra and a set of musical chimes. The train steamed into the station promptly at 7.15 p.m., where every child in Havelock, and a number from the surrounding district were waiting to give good Old St. Nick a royal welcome. Reeve Sanderson and some of the other members of the council, were a reception committee on behalf of the ratepayers, and handed Santa Claus the keys to the village.

The youngsters fell into line behind Santa Claus, and a car in which were the reeve and Mr. Crawford, president of the Recreation Club proceeded the float on which Santa and his retainers were, and led the procession through the main streets of the village. It ended up at the large community Christmas tree, gaily decorated, and illuminated by numerous colored lights at the corner of George and Oak streets.

Here the members of all the church choirs were assembled, and hundreds of citizens gathered, and after singing a number of the Christmas Carols by the choirs, Santa proceeded to distribute a large number of packages from his huge pack. On Wednesday every poor family in Havelock received a basket of Christmas cheer and clothing, through the generosity of the Recreation Club, co-operating with some of the church organizations, which were asked to hand in names of families or individuals who might otherwise have a sorry time at Christmas. All the clothing given was new, and purchased for the individual who received it.

DR. GEORGE A. HAY IS LAID TO REST

Prominent Citizen of Campbellford Buried Under Masonic Auspices on Friday.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27.— With the town of Campbellford and the surrounding county mourning the passing of a friend and pioneer, Dr. George A. Hay was laid to rest on Friday afternoon in Mount Pleasant cemetery after a service at the house which was conducted by the Rev. A. C. Reeves of Norwood, assisted by the Rev. Dr. D. A. Thompson of Hastings, Rev. Donald A. McKenzie of Burnbrae and Rev. N. Clark Wallace of Campbellford.

The Golden Rule Lodge, A. F. and A. M. were responsible for the arrangements and conducted the service at the graveside. The pall bearers were all members of the Masonic Order, being: H. S. Neale, G. A. Kingston, C. H. Davidson, John Wallace, N. A. MacColl and G. A. Ironside, and the flower bearers were the members of Seymour Township council, Reeve G. Van Volkinburg, Deputy Reeve R. Innes, Councillors W. J. Duncan, W. S. Miln and H. T. Rutherford and J. M. Ferris, J. Dickson and Gerald West.

With the passing of Dr. Hay on December 24, after a short stay in a Peterborough Hospital where he underwent an operation from which he did not rally, Campbellford and the United Counties loses one of their most prominent public men. Born in Seymour Township 72 years ago, the deceased was a man who was known and respected throughout this part of the country. For one term Reeve of Seymour township, he was mayor of Campbellford in 1919 and 1920, was for many years clerk of the Divisional Court and the township of Seymour and for nearly twently years was secretary for the Seymour Agricultural Society.

By profession a veterinary surgeon, he had also been an auctioneer. He was extremely interested in horses and cattle and on many occasions had acted as judge in different parts of the county. By religious persuasion a Presbyterian, he was also a prominent Mason, being a member of Golden Rule Lodge and of the Ionic Chapter, Royal Arch, Masons.

The funeral, which was largely attended, testified to the esteem and respect in which Dr. Hay was held by the community.

Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth, one son, Lewis of Campbellford; three daughters, Mable of Toronto, Winnifred of Niagara Falls, and Lillian at home, and two brothers, Alfred and Harry, both of Campbellford.

AT MADOC.

MADOC, Dec. 26 (Examiner Correspondence). — Christmas Day services were held at St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, at half-past ten o'clock, with a fair attendance, with Holy Communion and sermon by Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds, rector, on Christmas Day, from the text, St. Luke 2:15 and 20, "Let us now go, even unto Bethlehem: and the shepherds returned glorifying and praising God."

The processional hymn used was "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and "O, Come, All Ye Faithful" was also sung, while the pre-communion hymn was "Jesu, Gentlest Saviour," while the recessional was "Nune Dimittis."

During the service, Prof. Harold acted as assistant, and during the offertory, beautiful Christmas numbers were given by Miss Hart, organist, and also in prelude and postlude numbers.

The church was beautifully and lovingly decorated with evergreens, and the altar decorations were of symbolic white and red, intertwined with evergreen.

to keep channels open for them," he declared.

Sir Hubert remarked that the Dominion Government, in building the Hudson Bay Railway, had expected a saving of one and a half to two cents a bushel in the shipping cost of grain to European ports. He thought that the eventual placing of submersible grain carriers on the northern route would bring about a slightly greater reduction in the per bushel rate besides offering a total saving in shipping cost three or four times greater than would be possible were Churchill kept open for only a few months each season.

aided in the occupation of Formosa in 1885, remaining three years at Hanoi as Chief of Engineers. In 1892 he was sent to Senegal and in 1893 led a column on Timbuctoo, entering the town on February 12, 1894, after marching nearly six hundred miles.

He became a General of Brigade in 1900, and a General of Division in 1905, and was called to the Superior War Council in 1910. In 1911 becoming Chief of Staff and Vice-President of the Council. He took up the post of Commander-in-Chief of the French Army on August 5, 1914, two days after Germany declared war on France, and thereafter for two years the history of his life was the history of the war in the West itself.

His greatest victory, perhaps, was on September 6, when he threw the Germans back on the Aisne in the memorable battle of the Marne.

With replacement of M. Millerand as Minister of War on October 30, 1915, after development of the Western front deadlock, by General Gallieni, Military Governor of Paris, General Joffre received the Supreme Command of all French Armies. A campaign against his leadership developed and after the indecisive result of the great Allied battle on the Somme he was made technical adviser to the government in matters concerning the direction of the war.

Although he continued to hold the title of Commander-in-Chief of the French armies, General Nivelle received the command of the North and Northeast, and was allowed to continue the operations of the war temporarily without interference by Joffre.

Late in December, 1916, his now office was suppressed as being in conflict with the power of the Minister of War, but as compensation he was created a Marshal of France.

WOMAN'S DEATH STARTS INQUIRY

Body of Aged Widow Found Badly Battered By Visiting Nephew.

SISTER UNABLE TO GET AID.

POTSDAM, N.Y., Dec. 27 (C.P.) — The death of Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, 82, a widow, whose body was cut and bruised in her home at North Lawrence, where she lived with a partly crippled sister, Miss Rose Ann O'Donnell 80, to-day was under investigation of county authorities.

The body was found by a nephew Anthony O'Donnell, of Lawrenceville, yesterday when he went to the house to extend Christmas greetings.

Coroner S. H. Brown, of Potsdam, said the woman had been dead at least 24 hours and possibly for two days. A bruise extended the length of her face, one eye was injured. The mouth cut and there were many bruises on the chest and abdomen.

Miss O'Donnell said she was awakened during the night—she was uncertain whether it was Tuesday or Wednesday night—by the pressure of something lying across her body. When she investigated, she said, she found her sister's body. Miss O'Donnell is partly paralyzed and was unable to secure aid.

BAND IN MARMORA CONDUCTS SERVICE

MARMORA, Dec. 27 (Examiner Correspondence.)—In their exemplification of the spirit of good will, Marmora Community Band on Christmas Day created a local precedent. The band under Bandmaster G. Woodhouse assembled at the Town Hall at 9.30 a.m. and paraded down Madoc and Forsyth streets to the Memorial Hall. After playing a selection of sacred music, Rev. A. B. Caldwell was called upon to give a short address. The angels message at the first Christmas, 'Peace on earth, good will towards men," formed the basis of his remarks. Following the playing of "O Canada" and "The Maple Leaf," Rev. F. H. Howard offered appropriate prayer at this juncture. Rev. Father J. J. Keeley, who was returning from a sick call, halted to give a very inspiring address in course of which he touched upon Christ's first coming in mercy and His second coming in justice. Before the gathering dispersed, Bandmaster Woodhouse extended felicitations from the band and thanks to the clergy for their kindness in participating. Though the air was somewhat cool, a goodly number assembled for this unique service.

Runaway Car is Slightly Damaged

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27. — Running backward down the church hill on Bridge street, Campbellford yesterday afternoon, a car crossed the side walk and turned into the school grounds, coming to rest at the corner of the old Public School, smashing in the rear end of it and breaking a bumper.

The car, which was owned by Frank DeCarrol, was parked opposite St. Mary's church, while Mr. DeCarrol went into the church. The car however did not seem to like its location, for it started to move backward, gaining speed as it went. Crossing straight across the top of the hill it lifted itself over the sidewalk and came to rest on the corner of the school. The road at this point is an incline and it is understood that the brake had been thrown on. What started the car in motion is hard to determine, but the day was very wet and the roads slippery, and this fact might have been the cause. C. Nadeo, who was ascending the hill in his car at the time, had a narrow escape from being run into.

St. John's and Norwood Combine in Scoreless Draw

JUNIOR O. H. A. TEAMS FAIL TO SCORE AFTER 10 MINUTES OVERTIME

Poor Ice Conditions Unfavorable to Playing of Good Hockey.

LITTLE COMBINATION.

Shannon and McLaughlin Outstanding Players on Combines Defense.

St. John's and Havelock hung up a scoreless tie at Norwood last night in a junior game which pried the lid off the local hockey season.

Both teams shaped up as smart sextets, but they had little opportunity to show their real form in last night's engagement. Perhaps ice conditions will be more favorable for the continuation of their struggle at the Brock street arena on Monday evening. Anxiety to get the schedule underway caused the Combines to swing the teams into action, when ice conditions warranted a postponement. The ice was spongey beneath a thin shimmer of water even at the start and as the game progressed it became even worse.

Good hockey or anything approaching it was out of the question. Nothing daunted, however, the players waded into the fray with a will.

Both teams indicated that they have the legs because even with the mucking they at times displayed speed. St. John's at the start endeavored to play combination, but so gave it up in disgust since the rubber refused to skid.

Both teams played clean hockey despite the heavy going. The goalies had little to do because it was seldom that the puck was worked near the goal mouth and when it was it was always being dragged along.

For four fifteen-minute periods the teams milled around with few even dangerous approaches on the nets. Two five-minute overtime periods failed to give either any scoring opportunities and the players dragged themselves off the sheet more than satisfied to let it stand until they face off here on Monday.

The Combines have two husky rushing defence men in Shannon and McLaughlin. While the Saints are strong in the same positions with Howe and Ellis, both of whom have added much weight.

With decent ice the teams will furnish a merry battle.

The teams:

Peterborough St. John's

Goal, Wesley; defence, Howe and Ellis; center, Calladine; wings, Cuthbertson and Gardner; alternates, Burke, Merrett and Wilshaw.

Havelock Combines

Goal, Beavis; defence, Shannon and McLaughlin; center, Thompson; wings, Vyer and Kempt; alternates, Bond, Rothwell, Shearer and Tedford.

DIANA ELLIS DIES IN INDIA ON HONEYMOON

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27—Diane Ellis, 20, deid at Madras, India, while on her honeymoon with Stephen C. Millet, New York broker. Cause of death was not stated in a cable to her parents here.

Miss Ellis, who had appeared in "Laughter" (Par.), was scheduled to renew her film work upon her return to the States, with Par planning to take up its option held on the actress for a second picture.

Before her Par work, Miss Ellis did some work for Pathe, getting her start in films through Colleen Moore.

GENARO-WOLCAST BOUT UNSETTLED

FLYWEIGHT TITLE CONTENDERS BATTLE 15 DISPIRITED ROUNDS

Result Would Have Crowned Winner King of the "Midgets."

FANS BOO FIGHTERS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. — Without settling a single issue—failing even to prove themselves title contenders—"Midget" Wolgast and Frankie Genaro boxed 15 dispirited rounds to a draw last night in an engagement that was scheduled to crown one or the other the undisputed king of the flyweights.

So half-hearted and clumsy was the exhibition that no two of the three ring officials could decide upon a similar verdict, leaving the midget from Philadelphia still the 112-pound ruler in the realm of the New York State Athletic Commission and Genaro still king in the 26 States of the National Boxing Association. Before the eyes of the 6,000 of the faithful who booed the lackluster performance most of the way neither appeared to be a champion of anything, anywhere.

After ten rounds of hopeless milling, with neither boxing anywhere near to their previous form, Referee Patsy Haley, who finally called the engagement a draw, warned them both that they must battle harder or be tossed right off the premises. The warning brought action in the closing grounds, but the uprising was not enough to provide the judges with sufficient material to get together upon a winner. Harold Barnes, one of the judges, voted for Genaro and Tommy Sheridan, the other arbiter, gave his decision to Wolgast and then went home in disgust.

GRIBBON SINGS.

Harry Gribbon, for his short, "Hollywood Theme Song" (Pathe), explains that he actually did the vocalizing, though admitting that it looked artificial.

This is explained by Pathe's desire not to transport an orchestra out to the woods on location, compromising by having Gribbon making a wax record in a studio and then "canning" his own recording to synchronize on actual location. The lapses in perfect synchronization made it appear phoney.

ONE CANADIAN BATTLE SLATED FOR TO-NIGHT

Flying Frenchmen and Senators Meet For Third Time This Season.

CONACHER BACK.

Leafs Will Tangle With Chicago Blackhawks in the Windy City.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27 (C.P.) — Four of the five teams in the Canadian group of the National Hockey League will endeavor to improve their standings in the last week-end games of 1930.

Only one contest is classed for decision to-night. It brings together Ottawa Senators and the group leaders, Montreal Canadiens, at the Forum and, unless the Ottawans show a decided reversal over their recent display, they will go down to their seventh straight defeat.

The teams have met twice before with the Flying Frenchmen winning the first tilt in Montreal by a decisive margin. In the return tilt at Ottawa, it was a different story, however, and only a brilliant goal by Howie Morenz, Canadian section scoring ace, enabled the Canucks to win after overtime.

Sunday night two international tusales and an all-American match will be played. Toronto Maple Leafs, more or less "burning up" over their Christmas night crash at Detroit, where they lost by the largest margin of the season, encounter Chicago's fast skating Hawks in the Windy City.

The Leafs are one point behind the second place New York Americans and Montreal Maroons and a victory besides improving their position in the race will also take some of the sting away from the Falcon landslide.

In a recent game at Toronto the Leafs downed the Hawks, 3 to 1, and with "Chuck" Conacher, hard-shooting "Kid" winger back in the lineup, may repeat the dose.

Dick Irvin's team has not been going so well and he has recalled two of his farmhands from London Tecumsehs of the International League. This pair, Earl Miller and Stewart Adams, are capable forwards, and will give the Hawks a big advantage in manpower over the Leafs, who are still minus their "Kid" centre ice star, Joe Primeau.

Montreal's steady playing Maroon squad will set about starting another lengthy winning streak when they clash with the Falcons, who are one point behind New York Rangers in the struggle for third place in the American division.

The Maroons have already beaten the Detroiters by a close margin at Montreal, but it will be no easy task to make it two in a row over Jack Adams' collection of fast skaters and hard checkers. Previous to their defeat on Christmas at the hands of the Americans the Maroons had compiled an enviable record in their previous ten matches. None of their victories were decisive, excepting over the lowly Philadelphia Quakers, yet the Maroons seemed to possess the uncanny faculty of letting the other team do all the pressing, and then stepping out when an opening occurred, to score the goal which gave them victory.

This style of play does not suit the Falcons as both Maroons and Americans, who play a similar style, have trounced them.

Rangers, who have been playing dazzling hockey in their last few games, entertain the American group cellar occupants at New York. The Gothamites have never had any trouble beating the weakest team in the league in their last three clashes and do not expect much in this tussle. A victory for the Rangers and a defeat for Chicago, will place Lester Patrick's men within a point of the second place Hawks.

THEATRE NEWS

PICTURE STARS COLD AUDIENCE

Evening Dress Chills Film Colony at Social Affairs.

CHILLY ATMOSPHERE.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27.—Picture people are the world's most thorough sophisticates when they're in evening dress. In business suits they are a pushover audience, but let them get into the white shirt fronts and nothing could ruffle their fixed stares.

Witness the latest affair staged by the Mayfair club. This organization is the height of social scaling in picturedom. Only those that are can enter its portals.

At the latest gathering, Lowell Sherman, Roscoe Ails, Bert Wheeler and Dorothy Lee were called on for a bit of entertaining. The Mayfairites refused to laugh or show receptiveness. James Rolph, Governor-elect, was the honored guest and had to be introduced twice before he got a hand.

But Ladies Interested.

The only thing that stirred their blood was the presence of Knute Rockne and two members of his football team. All the ladies wanted to dance with the pigskin tossers. Some were successful.

The same mob in one of the Hollywood cellar joints would fall from chairs at a mediocre imitation of Sophie Tucker.

The gentlemen who sit back with frozen mugs at social affairs are the same guys who go for horseplays on the set when cameras are being loaded.

Any time they appear in public as society addicts they leave the sense of humor at home with the wife. But if anyone told them they have no sense of humor they'd suggest swords for two.

The only time they'll laugh in a dress suit is when the boss does his clowning. To that extent, Hollywood is lousy with straight men.

Table Comics.

Every local restaurant has its quota of table comics who panic the lay-offs and moochers. Most of these comics go sour in front of a camera, but when carrying their own audience they're riots.

Nothing but sour faces at a Hollywood opening. They have to be on the square for their public (held back by ropes). Nothing frivolous about the big shots then.

When the big he men and comics stalk up the carpeted sidewalks to chant into a microphone (20 stations hookup), they wear full regalia. That's what makes them late for the openings, spending the early part of the evening mastering expression No. 7.

HINT TO RUTH CHATTERTON

A story about Ruth Chatterton and pictures says that when Miss Chatterton first made Paramount talkers, she wasn't so hot. Her playing seemed all right but the public couldn't warm up to her. The studio boys knew there was something wrong but couldn't put a finger on it.

Deciding to have a talk with the legit actress, the studio bunch met the girl, finding her amiable, speaking to them naturally and there was some good natured kidding. Then the Par boys looked at each other. They had discovered the reason. On a nod, one became the spokesman. He said:

"Miss Chatterton, we think if you will be as natural in your poise and speech before the camera as you are with us now, there will be quite a difference in your national reception."

Miss Chatterton is said to have accepted the hint dropped her screen pose and discarded her English accent.

STORY WITH NO MORAL.

Two years ago a kid, graduating from a California university, was stuck without funds but a yearning for an art education in Paris. He decided to go into the bootlegging business in Hollywood on a grand scale.

His polished ways afforded entree to the picture mob and he later branched out as a class 'legger, guaranteeing all stuff imported. He never delivered less than case lots, and refusing to cut, he got the fanciest prices on the Coast. In the two years he made $70,000 and wasn't pinched once.

Last week he retired, took a boat for the Orient for a layoff and will go to Paris in the spring to take up his art courses.

SONG WRITERS' SPIFF

There is some feeling between E. B. Marks and Donaldson, Douglas & Gumble over a claimed resemblance between the Marks' song, "Song of the Islands", and Donaldson's latest, "You're Driving Me Crazy."

Marks admitted claiming resemblance between the two songs. The Marks' tune, "Song of the Islands", is not owned by Marks. Song was composed by Charles King, of Honolul, with Marks' acting as American representative for the song.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Charles Farrell will be opposite Janet Gaynor in "Merely Mary Ann" (Fox).

Aileen Pringle, former Metro star, has been pencilled in as Buck Jones' lead in his next western for Columbia.

Maureen O'Sullivan will get a four weeks' leave of absence from the Fox lot to visit her home in Ireland.

Will Rogers wears a cowboy outfit instead of tights in "Connecticut Yankee."

Boys are now playing backgammon for real dough with plenty kibitizing.

"Dazzy" Vance, the Brooklyn hurler, has purchased a hotel in Florida.

"The Birth of a Nation" is enjoying a revival, with a synchronized music score and sound effects.

After Charles Chaplin makes personal appearances at the openings of "City Lights" here, east and in London, he'll probably return to indulge in his admitted desire to direct a talking picture. Local opening (Hollywood) of "Lights" may be delayed to Feb. 1 because the Los Angeles theatre isn't being completed on schedule.

New York State Fair next year will eliminate the afternoon vaudeville show as grandstand entertainment between the Grand Circuit races in favor of a rodeo. Frank Wirth will be in charge.

Mary Nolan, too ill for many months to work, may be back on the U lot shortly after New Year's for a new picture. Showing improvement from her rundown condition, the U star dropped in at the studio last week. Miss Nolan has done nothing since "Outside the Law," made early last summer.

Chester Morris' asking price per picture these days is said to be $65,000, although the young actor doesn't actually do the asking. It's Roland West, the director, for whom Morris clicked in "Alibi," who established the farming-out figure.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" at the Globe, featuring George Sidney and Charlie Murray in another of their series of comedies. Faced with a shortage of ivory, the two business men undertake to hunt their own elephant tusks in the Dark Continent. Frank Davis appears as a medicine show operator, Lloyd Whitlock as a sheik and Nick Cogley as the guide.

"Passion Flower," based on the story of frustrated love and modern marriage problems by Kathleen Norris numbers in its cast Kay Francis, Charles Bickford, Kay Johnson, Lewis Stone and Zasu Pitts.

Greta Garbo broke her customary silence long enough the other day to declare, in response to questions, that she never has considered retiring from the screen or taking up a stage career.

"But, when my contract arrangements permit, I may return to Europe and make a few pictures there," she said.

Miss Garbo is at present finishing work in her latest talking picture, "Inspiration." Present indications are that this film will be followed by an adaptation of David Graham Phillip's novel, "Susan Lenox" to be directed by King Vidor.

"The Royal Family of Broadway", the screen transcription of the play, "The Royal Family," in the cast of this satirical comedy about an American theatrical clan are Ina Claire, Frederic March, Mary Brian, Henrietta Crossman and Charles Starrett.

"Hook, Line and Sinker," a new comedy featuring the team of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey is a story of love, murder and rival gangsters. Dorothy Lee, Jobyna Howland, Natalie Moorhead, George Marion, Sr., and Stanley Fields are also in the cast.

"New Moon," the picturization of the colorful stage operetta, had its premiere Tuesday evening at the Astor (New York). Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore head the cast, which also includes Adolphe Menjou and Roland Young. The book and lyrics are by Oscar Hammerstein 2d. Frank Mandell and Lawrence Schwab and music is by Sigmund Romberg. Jack Conway directed the film.

"The Princess and the Plumber," featuring Charles Farrell and Maureen O'Sullivan in a Graustarkian romance. The story is by Alice Duer Miller and the supporting cast includes H. B. Warner and Joseph Cawthorn.

"The Devil to Pay" features Ronald Colman in a story written for the screen by Frederick Lonsdale. The tale is that of a prodigal son of an old English family returning from a two-year exile in East Africa to struggle with the problems of an advantageous but distasteful marriage.

$77,500 FOR THE OTTAWA SENATORS

With the purchase of King Clancy by the Toronto Maple Leafs from the Ottawa Senators for $50,000 in cash and players, the idea that United States will control the National Hockey League financially received a severe set-back. This deal marked the final touch of several successful sales and trades on the part of the Ottawa Senators. In the last two seasons the Senators have realized about $77,500 on sales of some of their stars. When Hooley Smith went to the Montreal Maroons for $22,500 and the player Broadbent, people gasped at what was considered an extremely high price. Eleven years ago the entire club and franchise of the old Quebec team was sold to Hamilton for $7,000, today one player is worth five times that amount, namely King Clancy of the Toronto Leafs. Since the deal with the Ottawa Senators, Clancy has become a box office attraction which is considered by many to be as good and asset as his playing ability.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Owing to Thurs., which is usually the day on which this collection of literary hooey is prepared for the benefit of the customers, being Christmas Day, the weakly letter has got to be wrote earlier in the week than usual, so the readers, if any, will haifta be lenient if the gossip seems a little bit old-fashioned by the time it gets into the paper. Not a great deal has happened since my last, Mac, except the Maple Leaves has turned in a great win over the Chicago Black Hawks. The Hawks outnumbered Mister Smythe's herelings 2 to 1, but the Leaves outscored the boys from Big Bill Thompson's parliewick 3 to 1, with our own Mister Irvin helping himself to 1 of the markers. Mister Bailey thereby climbed up to 2nd place among the Canadian section riflemen, and the former Petes' right wing looks to be away for a real good season. Mister Bailey has something more to play for this year, owing to Sandy Claws leaving a baby girl at the Bailey house a few days ago, so that Newsy, as the boys round here still call him, will have to net an extra goal or 2 for the benefit of the little lassie. By the way, Mister Bailey has been up there leading the Toronto marksmen every season since he joined them, which is a consistent record that he ain't got ½ enough credit for.

The local hockey season was due to open this Fri., Mac, witch a intermediate battle, and next Mon. nite, the first junior game of the season is on the cards with St. John's meeting the Havelock-Norwood combines. The Saints has lost a bunch of players since last season, and the combines, which gave the local lads plenty of opposition a year ago, is confident they can come through this time and put St. John's into the discard. Anyway the Mon. nite affair should be quite a battle, Mac, quite a battle.

This being wrote for the last Sat. of the old year, Mac, a glance at the doings of the year in the local sport arena is in order. All in all, it ain't been a bad year. Starting out we didn't do a great deal in the hockey world beyond winning a group, but the baseball season seen 1 championship copped by the bantam team and a couple other aggregations come pretty close to landing silverware, so they wasn't a great deal to complain of there. As for rugby, our Collegiate lads grabbed off the central interscholastic title and give Hamilton Delta, provincial winners, about the hardest battle they had all fall, so that was all right. In other sports they ain't much to delight. Despite the best efforts of local golfers, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Georgia, won the chief honors of the season, while we didn't win the Wrigley marathon or qualify a player for the international badminton games. And that's that.

Hoping for a better sporting year all round, and wishing you and the customers a happy, busy and prosperous new year, I'm

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

GRID STARS RECEIVE TOO MUCH PRAISE, SAYS QUEEN'S PRINCIPAL

Finds, However, That the Players Are Not Unduly Affected.

APPROVES ATHLETICS.

(Special To The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Dec. 27. (By J. G. Elliott).—"Athletics certainly have their place in a modern university, the object of which should be to promote the all-round development of its students."

I was anxious to get the viewpoint of Principal W. Hamilton Fyfe of Queen's University on this much vexed question. The Principal was keen in his assertions about sports and had evidently followed the trend in Universities of the world for after making the introductory statement, he went on to say: "I studied last year the report of the Carnegie Foundation on American College Athletics and was pleased to read there that in Canada and Great Britain Universities had not suffered in any marked degree from the commercialism and professionalization which, so it is there alleged, have made the influence of athletes definitely harmful to the interest of education. Neither in England nor in Canada have I seen any evidence of such obvious evils as bribing boy-athletes to come to a University or lowering for athletes the standards of examination. And, although in both countries, inter-University games now draw large crowds of spectators, there is no sign that the gate in any way effects the game."

"I am sure then" I said, "that you believe athletics have a place in a University in these times?"

"I certainly do" and he added, "Athletics certainly have their place in a modern University, the object of which should be to promote the all-round development of its students. Physical development is of primary importance and to assure the best use of the knowledge, it disseminates a University must aid its students to develop their physique and conserve their health. This is the justification of Directors of Physical Training and Board of Athletic Control. Their function is to assist through athletic exercises the health physical development of the students, an end which cannot be served except by securing that so, far as possible, all students, male and female have the opportunity of taking part in all athletic exercises and are obliged to take part in some."

Too Much Praise

"Since your coming to Canada and to Kingston and having observed the interest the people take in Intercollegiate sport, what has struck you as decidedly characteristic as football is carried out here" I ventured to enquire.

"The interest which the press has aroused in University athletes, the wearifui reiteration of their names and photographs and the anxious description of their exploits" he quickly declared, "tends to deviate interest from this proper function and to centre it on the single teams which in each branch of athletics represent the University in competition with its rivals. The effect of this tendency is bad if it deprives the ordinary student of his opportunity of athletic exercise and if it generates in athletic champions unduly swollen heads.

"But here at Queen's I do not find these effects. The members of the football squad come in for a ludicrous amount of notice in the newspapers and form for some six weeks, the chief topic of campus conversation. In some degree it may be bad for some of them. One would certainly suppose so. But it is not obvious. They seem modest, are certainly ornamental and many are good students. From their membership of the team, they gain a fine physical discipline, which may well serve also moral ends and a sense of corporate achievement which will warm their memory as long as they live.

"And in noisily sharing their fortunes from the bleachers or the grandstand, the rest of us have increased our fellowship and unity. And on the other hand, I find that with interfaculty games with hockey, basketball, boxing, fencing, wrestling and swimming there is plenty of athletic opportunity for those who have neither are obliged to undergo a minimum of physical training."

"Then you think Canada is in line with Britain in its administration of sports?"

"The association of athletic exercises with the other proper functions of an educational establishment" the principal exclaimed, "is the best British tradition and, so long as it does not interfere with intellectual or moral development, it should in my opinion be encouraged and preserved."

FOUR PLAYERS MAY JOIN PROS

Injections of Junior Blood Fails to Supply Lost Vitality of Champions.

SOME REGULARS OUT.

WINNIPEG, Man. Dec. 27.—(C.P.)—Hockey squads in the Manitoba-Lake-head area today feel they are falling again under control of a habit of long standing—the Allan Cup urge. Ten times since the trophy was set up 22 years ago as emblem of Canadian supremacy in senior amateur hockey, the title has been lodged in the sector between Lake Superior and the Saskatchewan boundary.

This season, promising teams from Manitoba and the Lake-head have an even chance of reaching the Dominion final, in which they have been competitors annually since 1924. If one of the outfits does progress to the last stage, it will be fortified with recollection of three Port Arthur cup victories and one for Winnipeg in the last seven finals.

Last summer it was deemed almost certain that Port Arthur would plough through to the finals again with the same team that lost to Montreal amateurs in the title-clash. And it was regarded as a good omen that stars had not been picked off by the pros, as Lake-head teams were wrecked before. But "Hawk" Hacquoil died and "Red" Cross crippled an arm in an auto smash—and hopes of a top-notch defence went skyhigh.

Beside old "Phat" Wilson on defence will be some youngster—maybe Brooks Dafoe, converted forward. In goal, Gordon Hacquoil or his capable sub, Alfie Dupuis. And available for forward duty, all last year's men except Bobby McCranor, who has signed with Fort William. "Mickey" Brennan of Trail, B. C., and Norm McQuade of Winnipeg are additions. The ports look better than Fort William or Fort Frances in the three-team circuit.

Threaten Millionaires

Professional inroads threaten to wreck Elmwood Millionaires the Winnipeg team that won the last Manitoba title and barely bowed to Port Arthur in the playdowns. Four men are known to be dickering with the moneyed moguls. Besides flashy 'Red' Jackson has stepped over to Native Sons, and injections of junior blood have failed to supply the lost vitality.

Coached by Cliff O'Meara, Native sons promise to cut a wide swath in the three-team Winnipeg circuit, Jackson at center is flanked by Connie Josephs and Dick Davis making up a sturdy trio on attack. Dynamite duty on the next line is done by Alber and Tony Lemay and Bun Stephenson. The strong defense — "Water" Creasy and Pete Speirs is ably backed by Jerry O'Brien, as good a goalie as there is in town.

Jack Hughes, veteran of many an Allan cup final with the old Selkirks, is boss of the Winnipegs in the same loop. He has round up a crew—including Ken Moore, ex-Regina Pat; Vic Lindquist, Kenora boy; and Netman Bill Cockburn—that offers the greatest threat to title hopes of the Native sons.

No Trace Is Found Of Helpless Vessel

HALIFAX, December 27 (C.P.).—Fog and rain along the coast added to the difficulty of locating the almost helpless steel schooner Doren and her complement of seven men, who have been at the mercy of sea and wind since the line by which the vessel was being towed by thee steamer Constance from St. Pierre to Halifax broke on Tuesday when the craft had reached a point 16 miles off Halifax Harbor. Having sailed with supplies ordinarily sufficient to have lasted only until last Wednesday, Captain Thomas E. Kirk of Halifax and his crew of six were believed to be facing starvation. The schooner, with her power confined to a set of head sails, was thought to be driven far from her original position. She was to have been reconditioned here.

COMBINES WILL PLAY SAINTS ON MONDAY NIGHT

First O. H. A. Game of Season is Scheduled For Brock Street Rink.

SAINTS' NEW MEN.

Local Team Will Introduce a Bunch of Rookie Players to Fans Monday.

St. John's players and supporters are hopeful that the thermometer will take a drop in time to provide good ice conditions for Monday night, when the Havelock-Norwood combines will be here to meet the Saints in the first local game of the season. The two teams met at Norwood last night, and after battling into overtime without a goal being scored on ice that made good hockey almost an impossibility, had to be satisfied with a bloodless draw.

With good ice, the Havelock-Norwood boys and the St. John's outfit ought to provide a real lively tilt. Every game played between the two last year was an argument until the last bell, and apparently they are starting in where they left off.

St. John's, in their game at Norwood last night, introduced a bunch of new players. In goal they had "Red" Wesley, a product of the Ottawa Valley League, while on the defence with Howe, one of last year's rearguards, was Jimmy Ellis. This youngster, who formerly played on the forward line, has added a lot of weight, and he has plenty of speed as well. Up in front the first line is composed of Norm. Calladine and Jack Gardner, the two "kids" of last year's attacking squad, and "Gordie" Cuthbertson, who is attending Varsity, but has elected to play with his home team. The second line, consisting of Willshaw, Merrett and Burke, the latter a brother of Leo Burke, a member of the Saints for the past two seasons, shows considerable [illegible]. The Combines have most [illegible] year's players still available, and [illegible] good ice they will be tough to beat.

Monday's game is called for 8.15 o'clock.

LONDON FACES DIFFICULT TASK

Tangle With Bisons To-night After Playing Overtime Game With Bulldogs.

PLAYERS RECALLED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27 (C.P.)—After playing a hard overtime struggle with Windsor Bulldogs at the Border City last night, London Tecumsehs come right back at the league-leading Buffalo Bisons at Fort Erie to-night, in one of the four International Hockey League fixtures scheduled this week-end.

The Londoners have not beaten the Bisons yet this season and with Chicago of the National League recalling Earl Miller and Stewart Adams, their chances do not appear bright for a precedent to be established.

Tied for fourth place with Detroit, Roy Brothers' team can climb right into the thick of the struggle for possession of second or third place with a win over the Buffalonians, as Cleveland Indians are only two points in the van.

The Olympics are faced with a difficult task when they travel to Cleveland for their third game of the season with the Indians, present league champions. The latter, after a poor start, have passed both the Tecumsehs and Olympics and are now in third place, three points behind the Windsor Bulldogs, who are idle.

Holders of last place honors since the current schedule commenced, Syracuse Stars clash with their nearest opponents in the standing, Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, in the Smoky City. Despite the fact these teams are entrenched in the last two places, they are attracting good attendances in their home rinks, for they are almost on a par with other teams of the circuit, losing most of their games by narrow margins.

Buffalo and Syracuse clash in the only Sunday game carded. A double triumph for the Bisons will give Mickey Roach's squad a commanding lead of eight points, as they are now four up on the Bulldogs.

SOUTH AFRICA BEATS ENGLAND

CRICKET TEST MATCH.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Dec. 27 (C.P. Cable).—South Africa to-day beat England in a cricket test match by the narrow margin of 28 runs.

England was in dire straits in the first cricket test match with South Africa to-day. Set the task of making 240 to win, England had lost three of their best bats for only 44 runs at the lunch interval. The South African second innings ended after twenty minutes play this morning and produced 306. They made 125 in their first innings to which England replied with 193.

The wickets of Wyatt, Leyland and Hendren of the English side were obtained cheaply and Hammond and Turnbull were struggling to pull the game around when the lunch interval arrived. Scores:

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN

The session of the Junior Institutes at the 29th annual convention of the Institutes of Central Ontario had many phases that compare very favorably with reports from the Senior groups.

It was gay with the spirit of youth. The 260 girls who were prize winners in the judging contests in the various counties were the guests of the Department of Agriculture at the Winter Fair and attended the Institute Convention in a body, and added greatly to its interest.

The Junior reports were varied and showed originality in programs and in treatment. When they announce debates or speeches on subjects like the following they are sure to arouse interest: "Why girls do not leave home," "Cultivate the happiness habit"; "Ninety-nine reasons for joining the Junior Women's Institute"; "The Cultivation of Friendship," and "First Aid."

The value of the Roll Call, answered by naming a Canadian industry and its location, a quotation from a favorite author, and other useful pieces of information, was pointed out.

Two especially good subjects were mentioned for debating: "Resolved That reading magazines and newspapers is better than reading books." "Resolved, That the modern freedom is good for a girl."

Great benefit was claimed for the contests in Home Gardening and in Home Garden Planning.

The girls' plans for money-making were greeted with intense interest, and good suggestions were offered.

The value of school fairs is being recognized and reckoned with, and it is recommended that notwithstanding her general ability, mother should be kept as far from the Fair as possible.

The great banquet given by the Province was the high spot of the Convention. The Senior Institute members and the girls gathered almost a thousand strong to enjoy the hospitality extended.

This event and the reception and tea given in their honor by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross at Government House, are never-to-be-forgotten joys of this epoch-making convention, which establishes the Junior Institute as a real force, valuable beyond compare.

The superintendent, James Keene, in his address, spoke of the unusual brevity of the program, owing to the absence of several through illness.

A chorus by the whole school, "Star of Wonder" was followed by "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" after which the primary class sang "Sowing Sowing." A delightful instrumental number was given by Mrs. Ludbrook and her daughters, Helen and Kathleen, which was followed by little Miss Sadie Tumelty, which was loudly encored, to which she charming responded by singing, "There Was a Little Girl and She Had a Cute Little Curl."

The boys' class presented "Upside Down" to the hilarious delight of at least the younger portion of the audience. A vocal solo, "Jingle Bells", by Buddie Kellar, was followed by a brief address of welcome by Rev. Mr. Rivers.

After this the feature of the evening was beautifully presented by members of the different departments of the Sunday school. This was a cantata, entitled "Santa Finds a Way." Several groups were well represented, as Madam Flue and her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Santa, doctors, nurses, neighbours, fairies, brownies, snowflakes, stars, Jack Frost, and the sandman.

SPRINGVILLE

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—A last minute S.O.S. wireless was sent to Santa Claus asking him to come to Springville and unload the Christmas tree for the children at their concert held on Monday evening.

The grown ups at Springville had decided on a "White Gift Christmas" hence the neglected message.

Generous response was given to Rev. Mr. Moyer's request that supplies be given in order that eleven families living in the township of North Monaghan might have a cheerful happy Christmas. The basement of the church served as a store-house and gifts were brought in during Monday and the evening of that day. When stock was taken, at the close of the evening Mr. Moyer was able to assure the audience that each family would have chicken or a roast of pork, beef or lamb, a 90-pound bag of potatoes, butter, generous supply of apples, turnips, carrots and onions, a large bag of rolled oats for porridge, a sealer of fruit, Christmas cake, cookies, pudding, groceries, candies, toys, quilts and clothing. Three car loads were taken to Mr. Henry who will distribute the gifts.

The greater part of the Christmas entertainment was put on by the pupils of Elmdale school under the instruction of their teacher, Miss Falls. Fraserville and Brailey's schools were also represented, pupils from these three schools making up the Springville Sunday School.

Rev. S. H. Moyer, pastor of the church, occupied the chair. The program was as follows: opening chorus by school; chairman's address; Welcome Song, several of the school children accompanied by Miss Margaret Falls on the piano; recitation, Mary Dunford; recitation, Velma Staples; dialogue, 1st act, "Christmas with Ruggles"; instrumental, Margaret Falls; 2nd act, "Christmas with Ruggles"; darky song, Clifford Strain and Donald Wilson; recitation, Arleigh Murray; tableau, "Christmas with Mother Goose," Shirley Bothwell; duet, Nora Staples and Raymond Kelk; recitation, Nora Staples; chorus, "The Bethlehem Babe"; recitation, Dorothy Cathcart; recitation, Ralph Tully; recitation, Mamie Cathcart; play, "The Key of Jack Canuck's Treasure House"; Good Night Chorus.

Before concluding the program a presentation of a beautiful "Rose Bowl," was made to Mrs. Gordon MacIntosh as a slight token of the appreciation shown by the pupils of the class of boys and girls who studied the course of Sientific Temperance under her able instruction. The address was read by Mary Staples while the presentation was made by Opal Johnston. Mrs. MacIntosh, although taken completely by surprise made a suitable reply.

Melville Johnston, on behalf of the superintendent and scholars of the Sunday school, extended appreciation and thanks to Miss Falls for providing such a splendid program.

Santa received his wireless call and came just in time to unload the Christmas tree and help distribute the presents to the boys and girls each one receiving a bag of candy and other gifts.

Factory Open Sunday Is No Breach Of Act

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—No violation of the Lord's Day Act takes place when Jewish employers operate their factories on Sunday but do not transact any business on that day and close their plants on Saturday, Recorder Semple of Montreal has ruled in a test case.

An action was brought against a prominent firm of clothing manufacturers, it being charged that 70 men and 15 women were at work cutting, sewing and pressing clothes in the factory of a Sunday of last month. The factory was closed each week from 5 p.m. on Friday until 8 a.m. on Sunday.

CHRISTMAS TOLL CLAIMS 5 IN WEST

Girl Falls Down Well at Calgary Delivering Presents to Neighbor's.

AUTOS KILL THREE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 27 (C.P.).—A holiday toll of five deaths yesterday had added a touch of sadness to the festivities of Christmas in the west. Two accident fatalities were recorded in Winnipeg, and others near Moose Jaw, at Calgary and at Vancouver.

Thirteen-year-old Mary Podludny fell to death in an uncovered well at Calgary as she hurried to a neighbor's to deliver presents Christmas eve.

Miss Allison Candlish was struck dead on a Vancouver street by a motor car whose driver sped away, and her sister, Mrs. H. Connell, was gravely hurt. One of Mrs. Connell's legs was torn off by the rushing car and the other was so mangled that amputation was necessary.

Strangled to death as his head was pinned beneath his overturned motor-truck, Colin C. Johnston, 25, was found on a road near Moose Jaw. The car had skidded and rolled over.

Miss Grace Tyler, 33, was killed when she fell from a fourth-floor window in the Winnipeg hotel where she was employed.

Ludwig Gruber, 42, received fatal injuries when struck by a motor car on a Winnipeg street.

FOUR SUFFOCATE IN MONSTER VAN

Burning Oil Lamps Used Oxygen Inside Vehicle, Proving Fatal to Negroes.

ALARM SENT OUT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—Entombed four days in what is advertised as the largest motor van in the world, the bodies of four negroes, who apparently died from suffocation, were found at a parking place last night.

Reconstructing the tragedy, police said the men shut themselves in the truck to sleep after a trip from Philadelphia last Sunday and lit three oil lamps. These exhausted the oxygen from the interior, they said, and killed the men in their sleep.

The bodies were discovered as the result of a general alarm sent out by the owners of the van in Philadelphia. The dead were Elgin Jackson, 32; Harvey Thompson, 40, and Waymound Woodward, 33, all truckers, and an unidentified man who presumably had been picked up on the road.

ACCIDENT CLAIMS SECOND VICTIM.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 27 (C.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Connell, second victim of the unknown death-car driver whose automobile killed Miss Allison Candlish, Christmas Eve, died last night in hospital. The victims were sisters.

Police announced they had been unable to find any trace of the driver of the car which struck the two women as they were crossing a downtown street. According to eyewitnesses, the car sped away after the accident.

Suspects Committed For Trial In Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 27 (C.P.)—Jack Geller, alias "Babe" "Two-Gun" O'Brien, and "Sunny" Jim Lass, recently arrested in New York as they were about to sail for Europe, who were brought here to face a charge of robbery while armed, appeared in police court here to-day and were committed for trial.

O'Brien and Lass were brought from New York recently by three local police officers, who used every means to prevent them from escaping as both made dashes for liberty while detained in New York. After facing a charge in connection with a payroll hold-up here, the two will be taken to Orillia, Ont., where they are wanted on a shopbreaking charge.

Crape Replaces Holly In 22 Dixie Families

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 27.—Twenty-two Dixie families Christmas night had replaced holly wreaths of Yuletide happiness for crepe, symbol of sadness.

Untold other families had their hope of a joyful Christmas dashed by fireworks accidents, and under the wheels of automobiles, as reports were received here of numerous injuries to persons residing in the south.

Autos took a toll of 19 of the 21 persons killed Christmas; fire was responsible for one death, and an accidental discharge of a shotgun the other fatality.

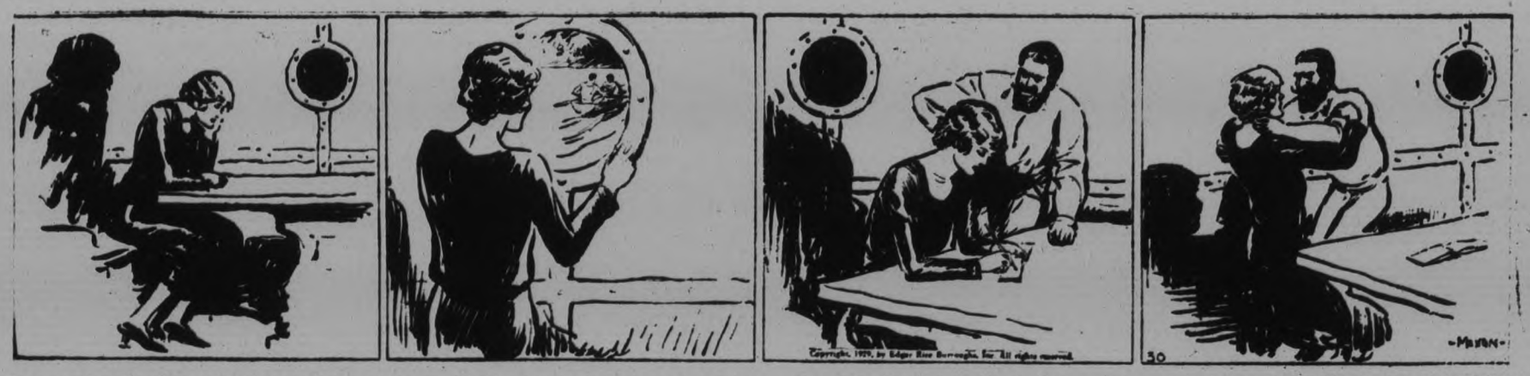
THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 30 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs



For several weeks, June Clayton had been kept a prisoner aboard the 'Kincaid.' That fateful night when, alone, she had gone to the ship, hoping to find her baby and her husband, seemed years ago to her. Instead, she had found herself locked by Nikolas Rokoff in a cabin. In spite of her tearful entreaties she was still held captive and could learn nothing of her loved ones.

During this time the Swede cook had brought her food, but he, too, remained deaf to all her questions. Then one morning from her cabin port she saw her husband being rowed to the shore and the ship once more proceeded upon its way. Three days from the spot where Tarzan had been marooned the 'Kincaid' came to anchor in the mouth of a great river, and presently Rokoff came to Jane's cabin.

After telling her what they had done with Tarzan, he demanded her personal check for a large sum. This he said, would guarantee her safety and return to England. "If you refuse," he added, "remember I have your son." And the end of it was that Lady Greystoke wrote out the check and handed it to Nikolas Rokoff who received it with a grin of satisfaction upon his evil face.

But he was thoroughly angered at his failure to reduce the girl to terror. As Jane turned wearily away he stepped close to her. Suddenly his face convulsed with rage and desire. Like a wild beast he sprang upon her, with his fingers at her throat. At the same instant the door of the cabin opened noisily, and a man clothed in dirty white stepped into the room.

SIGNING OF LETTERS.

The Examiner has received several letters from its readers about the municipal campaign in which the writers want to have their letters go under pen names. The policy of The Examiner has been, and which it intends to live up to in the present campaign, is that all letters must be signed by the writer when appearing in print. Any other course would result in this office being flooded with letters to appear under pen names.

SERVICE STATION FIRE.

A small fire at 210 Hunter street, a service station, brought out the Fire Department at 2.40 this morning. The blaze was quickly extinguished with little damage resulting.

HIGH CHAIR NEEDED

Has anyone a high chair for a baby of about eighteen months of age? She is a healthly little thing, with lots of pep and vim, but she would like a chair to sit in occasionally, and grown-up chairs don't just suit her. She lives in a home where high chairs are quite a luxury and are not to be thought of. Food and warmth are the main considerations, and there isn't any too much of either of these.

Only For the Boxes Christmas Would Have Been Very Barren Affair.

NEED IS STILL GREAT.

The following is one of the letters that have been received in this office from a home in the city:

"Mr. Glover and Examiner Staff: Words fail to express our gratitude to your staff and to the Firemen and Chief Gimblett for the boxes of cheer we received for Christmas, also the gentlemen that delivered them. They were so kind in doing so. I just wish you could have seen in our house on Christmas Day and see how happy we were, and only for your boxes of cheer, we would not have been so. I know there were many more homes like ours that were made happy and I hope you will print this, so as to let the public know really how very happy you made hundreds this year. We are very grateful also to whoever was kind enough to send our name in and I hope you and all who helped will have a happy and prosperous year and many to come.

"I also received the milk and bread tickets which was a godsend to my sick little girl, as we can't afford to give her the nourishment she should have."

Those who contributed to the Christmas Cheer Fund of any organization in the city or to The Examiner Fund, will be glad to read such a letter as the above. It is concrete evidence of the good that may be accomplished by such work.

But the need continues. The central bureau has not yet been established and may not be for a week or so. We have ahead of us the hardest three months of the winter. The weather up to now has been exceptionally easy on the coal bin, but it may not last, and when the frost creeps into poverty-stricken homes, they are helpless against the ravages of illness and under-nourishment. The need for food continues at all times. If you are inclined to help those in want, and to give a hand in helping this city free from the curse of terrible need among very poor people, send in your donations to the fund. We are glad to accept anything in the way of money or food, vegetables, fuel or clothing. Let us know and we will call for them. Telephone 1600.

We would also like to have three or four stoves, either cook stoves or heaters, for homes where warmth is needed for sick people.

YOUNGSTER HAS CLOSE ESCAPE

Gerald Brady Narrowly Escapes Drowning When He Falls Through Ice of Canal.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27 (Special to The Examiner).—Gerald Brady, 8-year-old son of John Brady, Campbellford, narrowly escaped drowning here yesterday afternoon and was only saved through the heroic efforts of John Schrader. The lad with other boys was playing tag along the banks of the canal near the black bridge. He was chased along the wall and, in dodging, slipped. He fell off the wall and through the thin sheet of ice.

Efforts of his young friends to drag him out proved unavailing. Their shouts attracted Mrs. C. V. Beattie, who also strove to pull him from the icy water.

The lad was being propelled along by the swift current and his efforts to drag himself onto thin ice were growing perceptibly weaker. The frenzied calls of the woman and boys brought John Schrader, who lives close by. Schrader ran to the bank, observed the boy's plight, and then without a moment's hesitation leaped into the water. He reached the boy as he seemed to be sinking for the last time and dragged him to the bank.

To-day the boy was well and eagerly seeking his rescuer to thank him.

The water at the place of the near-tragedy is six feet deep.

Next Governor-General Will Not Be Canadian

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The Gazette to-day published the following despatch from Ottawa.

With the departure of Lord Willingdon now a matter of two or three months away, political speculators are busy with conjectures as to the identity of his successor as Governor-General of Canada. It is learned from reliable quarters that the Government has no one definitely in view, but it can be said positively that the next occupant of the Vice-Regal office will not be a native Canadian.

Greeting Cables Sent 16 Countries

Peterborough people exchanged Christmas greetings by cablegram with sixteen other different countries, states the local agency of the Canadian National Telegraphs, while greetings were also received here from several other cities throughout the world.

Such a fact is remarkable evidence of the extensive travelling, which is the vogue nowadays, and is also proof of the untold advantages bestowed by science, in so much as international communication is rendered so swift and easy of accomplishment.

The countries between which Peterborough was in communication, via C.N.R. Telegraphs and cables were as follows: Alaska, England, France, Sweden, India, Island of Jamaica, Spain, Island of New Guinea, Phillipine Islands, Germany, Norway, Siam, Ireland, Scotland, Mexico and Brazil.

Through the medium of the radio programs Peterborough was also in communication with Tokio, Japan, the Phillipine Islands, Hawaiian Islands, Germany, England and other countries, on Christmas Day, a feat that was absolutely out of question but a few years ago, and which serves to demonstrate that Peterborough is not so isolated after all.

To the Electors

At the present time there is an unusual large number of British and United States Manufacturing concerns who are considering establishing branch factories in Canada.

Here is Peterborough's great opportunity.

Your council must get into touch with these firms and exert every pressure to see that this city gets its share of the great new industries that are sure to locate in Canada in the near future.

In a campaign for more factories I feel that my past municipal and manufacturing training will be of material help in inducing the executives of these prospective industries to come to Peterborough.

That training and a desire to do what I can to help this city in any way possible, I place at the service of the electors, at the same time assuring them whether elected or not my policy will always be to do everything possible to get in touch with new industries and to pursuade them to locate in Peterborough.

Economy with Good Judgment
I am strongly in favor of having all city work done by local labor. In view of the financial situation and the unemployment in the city, it is very important that the electors see to it that a Chief Magistrate is elected for 1931 who will look after the city's interests and that of every resident as well. If elected, I intend to see to it that all money spent on civic improvements, will go to city contractors and labor, and will not stand for bringing in outside contractors when tenders are at all equal. My policy is to keep the tax rate as low as possible, and see to it that the debenture debt is not increased.

HOTEL BURNED - MANY LIVES LOST

All Hope Abandoned For Joffre

HERO OF MARNE LOSING HIS FIGHT SINKS INTO COMA

Doctors Hold Little Hope That Marshal Could Live Through Day.

SCIENCE REACHES LIMIT.

Crowd Thronging About Hospital Speak in Whispers of Beloved Warrior.

PARIS, December 29 (C. P.). — Marshal Joffre, fighting a losing battle with death, sank into a state of extreme weakness to-day and his physicians issued a bulletin at three o'clock describing his condition as most grave.

A few minutes before the bulletin was issued General Isaie, Chief of Staff under the Marshal, visited his old leader, and reported that the Hero of the Marne was sinking slowly.

May Not Live Day.

His five doctors, all of whom have been at the patient's side day and night since Saturday, held out little hope that the Marshal could live through the day.

"Marshal Joffre has reached a state of extreme weakness," the medical bulletin read. "His condition is most grave."

Dr. Fontaine, one of the five doctors, added his own comment:

"The Marshal has reached a point where science is powerless to help him. Only his indomitable courage can work a miracle now."

Half an hour later the Marshal sank into a coma and it was feared that he would never regain consciousness.

News Spreads to Crowd.

The gloomy news spread quickly among the great crowd gathered about the Hospital of St. Jean-de-Dieu, and these people, who love "Papa" Joffre, spoke in hushed whispers of his agony.

As twilight fell, the hospital was closed to the public, and an extra police guard placed about the doors.

MYSTERY TRENCH ON WHITE ISLAND

Trench Resembling Grave Discovered Near Old Farm Building.

STRANGERS NOTICED.

HARWOOD, Ont., December 29 (Special to The Examiner). — Gloomy White Island at the north end of Rice Lake is being investigated by district police as the scene of a mystery which has several elements of potential horror. A long trench, grave width but longer, lifts its crown of fresh earth near the back door of an abandoned farm building, and inside that ruinous structure whose rotten floors echo above a cellar dug in pioneer times, a ghastly stench drives away would-be investigators.

On Tuesday High Constable William Robinson, of Alnwick Township, will investigate that cellar with a certain suspicion, for the giant's grave outside has more earth piled above it than could have come from the other occasion. He believes that the cellar may show the reason.

Two men, a woman, strangers in this district, were observed digging on the island about November 10th.

Percy Parker, who pastures his cattle on the island, rowed over later and found the trench. The story got about and three adventurous young men decided to see what they could find. When about half way down in their excavated hole they came across evidence that reminded them that finding of a body or bodies was a matter for judicial procedure. They reported to Constable Robins.

On this past Saturday Constable Robins completed the work begun by the young men but nothing was found. Many believe that something had been removed in the meantime.

Non committal on the matter Mr. Robins has decided to search the ruined house.

INDIAN PARLEY MAKING HEADWAY DESPITE DISPUTE

Responsible Gov't With Safeguards Indicated as Probable Outcome.

Moslems, Hindus Deadlocked.

Would Have Federal Gov't Responsible to Legislature Except on Five Subjects.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Responsible government for India, with safeguards, was to-day indicated as the probable outcome of the Indian Round-Table Conference.

The Hindu-Moslem deadlock remains unbroken. But as the delegates again gathered to continue their task, there was a distinct feeling that the age-long differences between the Hindu and Moslem should not be permitted to impede the main work of the conference.

Override Dispute

The Hindu-Moslem dispute, it was observed, need not necessarily frustrate the work of laying down the general principles of a new constitution for India. But failure to reach a settlement of the communal differences would likely mean modifications in the general scheme, in order that adequate protection for the minorities might be assured.

At present the Government of British India is not responsible to the Legislature of British India. The

EDSON L. PEASE DIES IN FRANCE

Noted Canadian Banker Succumbs at Nice After Long Illness.

HEADED MANY COMPANIES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 29. (CP)—Death at Nice France, to-day claimed one of Canada's most prominent bankers in the person of Edson L. Pease, vice-president of the Royal Bank of Canada, and director of many important Canadian companies. His death was reported in a cablegram to the bank's offices here. Mr. Pease, who never fully recovered from a stroke he suffered several years ago, was wintering in the French city.

Edson L. Pearse was born at Coteau Landing, Que., Sept. 2, 1856. In 1874 he began his banking career with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He joined the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, the name of which was later changed to the Royal Bank of Canada, in 1883. He was removed to Montreal in 1887 and became successively Branch Manager, joint-General Manager, General Manager, Director and Vice-President.

MOHAMMEDANS BUTCHER 30,000 IN INLAND CHINA

Followers of Islam Sever All Lines of Communcation and Censor Mail.

FEW DETAILS KNOWN.

Fugitive Claims if Troops Not Sent Every Chinese in Kansu Will Be Slain.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29 (A.P.) — The Government looked apprehensively toward Kansu Province to-day, awaiting greater details of the reported slaughter of 30,000 Chinese by Mohammedan armies.

Reports were meagre, but with communications into Kansu virtually non-existent, it was considered possible such wholesale slayings might have been committed without the outside world immediately learning of it.

All Lines Severed

Lanchow dispatches said the roving followers of Islan severed what communication lines existed and censored all mail, plunging into greater isolation a region known as one of the most detached in the world.

News of the massacre first reached the outside world yesterday when a resident reported to have escaped from Liangchow, arrived at Lanchow, capital of the Province.

Lanchow dispatches received here appealed to the government asking that troops be sent to oppose the Mohammedans, adding, "otherwise every living Chinese of Northwestern Kansu, where Mohammedan authority now reigns supreme, will be slain."

Activities of the Mohammedans, who were believed to be seeking to start a revolution against the Nanking government, were said to have extended over a period of two months. Several towns were reported to have been destroyed by them in their reckless orgy of killing and looting.

Whole Town Burned.

Dispatches described horrible scenes. On one occasion an army of Mohammedans "entered a town of 20,000 inhabitants looted everything and then killed every person before burning the town, with its streets piled high with corpses."

"The Mohammedans entered another village," dispatches continued, "lined up 4,000 men, shot them all, then left, taking the women as prisoners. The children were abandoned, destined to freeze or starve to death."

Strife is not new to Kansu, to the north and west of which lie the wilds of Tibet and Mongolia. For more than half a century the Mohammedans have battled against the Chinese, their hated overlords. Ill-feeling often flares into sporadic fighting which more than once has developed into serious rebellion.

Kansu is sparsely populated, about one-third of its inhabitants being Mohammedans. What the Mohammedans lack in numbers, however, they make up in ferocity and fanaticism.

Three Kingston Men Missing Six Days Found Marooned on Main Ducks Island

KINGSTON, Ont., December 29 (C.P.). — Missing since December 23, when they started from Bath for Oswego, N.Y., in a 12-cylinder power craft, Captain William Sheridan and two companions have been found marooned on the Main Ducks Island, about 22 miles from here. Captain Sheridan made for the Ducks shortly after the start of his journey when the engine began misfiring.

Noticing a black smudge on the island during an aerial search, Pilot Harry Free, of the Kingston Flying Club, returned to Kingston, whence a speed boat started for the islands on Sunday afternoon in charge of Cecil Phillips, of Kingston. The three men were found safe and sound, and will be brought back shortly.

JOHN HUNTER OF PETERBOROUGH CHOSEN MINISTER OF EDUCATION AT OPENING OF TENTH PARLIAMENT

Rev. W. A. Cameron, Acting Governor-General, Reads Speech From Throne.

J. LAUMAN IS PREMIER.

Under New Finance Bill Members Will Organize Campaign to Raise $13,000.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29—(CP)—The four day session of the Tenth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament was officially opened with a formal ceremony, patterned after that of the Provincial Legislature, last night. More than 120 youths representing all parts of the province, are in session.

The house was opened by Rev. W. A. Cameron Toronto, acting Governor General, who read the speech from the throne. Arthur Kerr, of Tweed was elected speaker.

Regular rules of procedure were suspended following the opening, so that Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, and Bill Genne, Philadelphia, fraternal delegate from the United States, could be given the privilege of the floor.

Sir William Speaks

Sir William spoke of the benefit of general mental training, in addition to specialized education. It played an important part in determining what rung one shall reach, he said. "It is the lot of man to eat bread in the sweat of his face; to daily struggle to provide for today and tomorrow," he declared. "Every one engaged in the struggle of life stands in danger of his life proving a failure."

"I venture the opinion that next to religion, a taste acquired in youth when the mind is impressionable for general reading mental culture, wholesome literature, are the most helpful safeguards, and to the end education should have regard to the whole span of human life."

The Speech from the Throne welcomed the two visitors, remarked on the year of progress just completed, and outlined the program proposed for the ensuing session. Included in the list of bills to be introduced by the Government was the Finance Bill under which the members will organize a campaign for raising $13,000 by the sale of bonds. A partial redistribution of representation was also suggested in the announcement of the Parliamentary Bill.

Waterloo Youth is Premier

John Lauman, Waterloo, was elected Premier, while Donald Buchanan, Toronto, will be Leader of the Opposition. The Cabinet for the forthcoming session will be: John Hunter, Peterborough, Minister of Education; Joseph Palmer, Perth, Minister of Camp Tuxis; John Houston, Sarnia, Minister of Finance; Lors Carlson, Haileybury, Minister of Personal Relations; Jack Abbott, Erin, Provincial Secretary; Art Kerr, Tweed, Speaker and Minister of Trail Rangers; Gordon Neff, Port Colborne, Minister of Co-operation; Paul Moore, Norwich, Minister of Organization; Don Caldwell, Ottawa, Minister of Interdenominationalism; Melvin Shepley, Chatham; Ted Leonard, Wakefield, Chairmen of the House; Wilbur Howard, Toronto, the "New Citizen."

RETURN SANTA'S MAIL BOX COPIES.

The large number of copies of Santa's Mail Box, which were sent in during the contest, have been on exhibition in The Examiner window for the past week, and are now ready to be returned to any contestant who wishes to have the copy on which they did so much creditable work, for themselves. These will be kept for 10 days, and if not called for in that time, will be destroyed.

LABOR SOLUTION SEEN IN WOMEN

Soviet Organ Claims There Are 6,000,000 Housewives Who Could Be Recruited.

BAN ECONOMIC INEQUALITY.

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., Dec. 29 (C.P.).—Pravda, official organ of the Communist Party, to-day urged the recruiting of women as one means of solving the Soviet Union's growing labor shortage problem, the paper declaring that more than 2,000,000 additional workers were needed in 1931 to carry out the huge projects of the five-year plan.

That women are available, the editorial says, is shown by the fact that there are more than 6,000,000 wives, daughters and mothers in the cities alone who are engaged exclusively in household duties. "Attraction of women into production and training them in various specialties with a solution of the public feeding problem, establishment of additional nurseries and kindergarten for children, etc., would be a large step forward in solving the labor problem," the paper says.

"Finally, abolition of all elements of economic inequality between men and women which still exists as a heritage of the past should be sought," Pravda concludes.

The paper also argues that an increase of collectivization and introduction of machinery and better technique into agriculture should create a powerful reserve of peasant labor to help fill the shortage.

WIDOW LOSES $3,300 IN "RUBBER BOAT.'

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29 (C.P.).—Oscar Dolejol, self-styled promoter of "Industrial Enterprises," took Mrs. Olive Baxter for a figurative sail in a rubber boat which he had invented. The "ride" cost Mrs. Baxter $3,300. When she received nothing from the money she had invested, Mrs Baxter objected strenuously. Dolejol is held on $5,000 bail.

Shelter For Homeless Men In Cochrane Is Destroyed; At Least 10 Died In Fire

One of First to Arrive on the Scene Saw a Number of Men Trapped in Burning Building and Could Plainly Hear Their Shouting and Screaming.

PROPRIETOR ESCAPED IN HIS PYJAMAS ALONG WITH FOUR GIRL EMPLOYEES AND ONE OF HIS SONS

Only One Body Has Been Recovered From Ruins— Doubtful if Any Remains Found in Ruins Can Be Identified.

COCHRANE, Ont., Dec. 29.—(CP)—At least 10 persons, and possibly more, lost their lives when fire destroyed the old Queen's hotel here today.

Only one body had been taken from the smouldering ruins by noon, that of Baptiste Desardni, former blacksmith at the Sylvanite mine, Kirkland Lake.

..It was definitely established that the remains of Charles Palangion, his wife, the former Jennie Thorkelson, and their four children were in the ruins. Three other men, who had been seen at windows of the building in the height of the blaze, their clothing aflame, were given up for lost.

It was also believed that other persons had been trapped in the blazing hotel.

Outside of the seven known victims, it is doubtful whether any more remains if found in the building, could be identified.

The hotel had lately been used as a shelter for homeless men. Most of the persons sleeping in the hotel were of foreign birth and known to few people, if any. The hotel register was destroyed.

One of the first persons to arrive on the scene early to-day as the flames shot up to the skies was Charles Reeve, railway brakeman. He insisted a number of men were to be seen trapped in the building.

"I heard them shouting and screaming," said Reeves. "Then a sheet of flame and smoke billowed up from the floor beneath them and the shouting suddenly stopped."

James Palangio, Sr., hotel proprietor, who escaped in his pyjamas along with four girl employes and one of his sons, James Palangio, Jr., had to be taken away almost by force from the scene, frantic for the safety of his other son and daughter-in-law with their children.

Later, with tears streaming down his face, surrounded by his remaining sons, the hotel proprietor cried, "I don't care if they will only save Charley." The younger Palangio however was beyond hope. The floor of the apartment he occupied with his family had fallen through into the blazing inferno of the interior hours before.

PARALLELS IN THE HISTORY OF TWO COUNTIES

F. E. Kerr Discusses Various Aspects of the Story of the United States and Canada.

INTERESTING PAPER.

Speaker Shows That in Many Important Instances History is Duplicated.

Various aspects of America and Canadian history furnished F. E. Kerr with a most interesting theme for an instructive address at the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day, the speaker tracing many parallels in the history of the two counties.

Introduced by Rotarian Rev. Dr. McLean, Mr. Kerr began by discussing immigration, pointing out that most people migrated from one country to another for one of two reasons,—either to better their lot or to accomplish an ideal. The original settlers of the United States, he pointed out, came there seeking freedom to worship as they wished, while Canada had a parallel in the fact that the first settlers in Ontario were United Empire Loyalists, who moved into this country to maintain their allegiance to the British flag.

Mr. Kerr showed that in their early troubles with the Indians, the two countries had a somewhat similar position, while in the development of their domains both the United States and Canada had enlarged their country by purchase; the United States buying Florida, Louisiana and other States, while Canada had purchased part of the Northwest from the Hudson Bay Company.

The form of government in the two countries was described by the speaker, who remarked that the constitution of Canada had been adopted many years later than that of the United States and she had, therefore, been able to profit by the mistakes made by her neighbor.

The President of the United States, Mr. Kerr remarked, had more power than the Governor-General of Canada, the Prime Minister of Canada, or the King himself.

In conclusion, the speaker quoted some most interesting figures contrasting the development of Canada during the first quarter of the present century as compared with the progress made by the United States in the first fifty years of last century, a comparison that indicated Canada's present rate of development was more rapid than that of the republic.

Rotarian Dr. Bannister, Principal of the Normal School, voiced the appreciation of the Rotary Club to the speaker, and President Abbott also expressed his thanks.

Captured Rum Boat Has $100,000 Cargo

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 29.—Having been shelled by the coast guard the Canadian rum boat Eleanor Jean, with a crew of ten and liquor valued at $100,000 was towed to New York today.

The vessel was brought down with a one-pound shell when she attempted to enter Greenport, L.I. A coast guard patrol boat, in command of Boatswain T. G. Losch, signalled her to halt for search and raked her amidships when the order was ignored.

Twenty-eight hundred sacks of whiskey and champagne were confiscated and the crew arrested.

Mail Plane Crippled At Kingston Airport

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 29.—Attempting to land to get a weather report, the Toronto to Montreal air mail plane had an accident at the Kingston Airport this morning, but beyond the tearing off the undercarriage, little damage was done.

The plane was in charge of pilot Martin of the Canadian Airways, and was able to land and taxi along the ground. In the plane were two passengers, whose names were not divulged, but beyond a slight shaking up, no injury was sustained by the pilot or the passengers.

The mail and passengers were transferred to the train at noon today.

The viewpoint of the business and professional man becomes broader through his contact with other members in work for the upbuilding of the city through the medium of Chamber of Commerce.

ENGLISH SPEED LIMIT ABOLISHED, NEW INSURANCE RULING IN FORCE

Rate of Income Tax Goes Up 2½ Per Cent. on More Substantial Incomes.

Barber Shops Shut Sunday.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Whatever New Year resolutions the English citizen may make, he will find himself facing a varied collection of new legal enactments.

The standard rate of income tax goes up another 2½ per cent on the more substantial incomes, though there is a reduction of the tax on incomes of the lowest categories.

The motorist encounters a sheaf of new requirements under the Road Traffic Act, most important from a personal viewpoint being the compulsory insurance against third party risks. The speed limit is abolished for private cars and motorcycles. Hospitals will be entitled to charge up to $125 for expenses incurred in treating accident victims.

Irish Propose Bill

Hairdressers' and barbers' shops will close compulsorily on Sundays. Jewish barbers may operate Sundays if they close on Saturdays. The Irish Free State incidentally is promoting a bill to make barbering a closed profession, to be followed only by legally recognized operators. In the Irish rural districts, it is understood, the frugal housewife frequently performs

Gas Tax for 1930 Jumps $2,259,000

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29. (CP) Tax on gasoline brought the Province of Ontario $10,756,000 for the year ending Oct. 31, last, the Ontario Department of Highways figures show.

This is the largest figure so far collected by the Ontario Government since the gasoline tax came into force and exceeds the 1929 figure by $2,259,000.

There are approximately 540,000 motor vehicles in the Province. In the present fiscal year the Department expects a revenue of at least $11,000,000 from gasoline tax. The rate of tax was increased from three to five cents a gallon in March 1929.

The Weather

The weather we have been favored with lately is unseasonable. While a continuous mild spell for the last week of the old year is not unknown, the occasion is rare. The usual thing is a pronounced cold dip with from 15 to 30 below zero, and with good sleighing and snow from 10 to 25 inches deep. At the present moment no really cold weather is in evidence anywhere.—W.P.

J. A. O'Brien acted for Walsh, while V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Fierce Scrap Rages In Burmese Jungle

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 29. — (C.P.)—The thunder of gunfire roared over a thirty-mile area in the Tharawaddy district to-day as British troops engaged in a fierce battle with natives who have terrorized the countryside for a week.

Part of the jungle was ablaze and the tangled undergrowth was clouded with powder smoke, hindering the advance of the troops in the first major engagement since the marauders became active.

$20,000 IS ASKED BY INDIAN GUIDES TO REVEAL PLANE

Finally Agree on $700, All Cannon's and Lizotte's Families Will Pay.

RESTING PLACE REVEALED.

Search Plane Forced Back By Snowstorm After Sixty Miles Covered.

ROBERVAL, Que., Dec. 29— The two Montagnard Indians, Pierre Begin and Antoine Mantogoganett, who came to the town Christmas day with proof that they had found the wrecked plane and bodies of the two aviators, W. H. Cannon and Leonce Lizotte, missing in the Chibougamau region since a year ago last October, demanded $20,000 in payment for exact information as to the location of the bodies.

This demand met the aerial party from Montreal which arrived here in a big cabin monoplane yesterday to bring out the bodies of the dead airmen. After hours of parley the Indian trappers agreed to divulge their information for $700 which was the highest amount the relatives and friends of the missing men would pay. An effort to reach the spot was made yesterday but a thick snowstorm, similar to that which sent Cannon and Lizotte to their death, October 9, 1929, caused the rescue plane to return after a flight of 60 miles.

The Indians revealed that the bodies were lying on a hillside, five miles southwest of Lake Chibougamau, near the Boisvert River, close to Lac du Coteau, in the northeast corner of Dollier County. An airplane could land on Lac du Coteau, the Indians said, and the walk from there would be about two miles.

MARSHAL JOFFRE SLOWLY SINKING

Gallant Soldier Lapses Into Coma and Staff Abandon Hope.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The life of Marshal Joffre, who hurled back the German advance in 1914, was ebbing slowly early today, but he held on with vitality that surprised every one.

Two of his physicians, Professor Leriche and Dr. Boulin, left the hospital of St. Jean-de-Dieu at 11:30 o'clock last night and said they would not return until sometime this morning, unless specially summoned. "There is nothing new," they said, "the Marshal is dozing peacefully."

The 78-year-old gallant soldier lapsed into a coma last evening, said a member of his staff, who declared all hope of recovery has virtually been abandoned.

Slowly Weakening

At 7:30 p.m. Doctors Lerice and Boulin declared his condition remained 'stationary', but an official communique a few hours earlier said the patient was slowly weakening. In their usual guarded manner they admitted a slight improvement that had set in this morning had not been maintained.

General Weygand and Alexander Millerand, former President of France and Mme. Millerand were admitted to the bedside yesterday morning, and said on leaving that Marshal Joffre had recognized them.

Colonel Jean Fabry, who was Joffre's Aide-de-Camp for the first three years of the war, spoke with him for a few moments during the morning. "His alert mind is still functioning admirably," he said.

The Marshal was surrounded by his wife and daughter until four yesterday afternoon, when Mme. Lafilet was asked by the doctors to leave her mother alone with the patient. On emerging Mme. Lafilet was in tears and said: "We fear another crisis, which may be fatal."

POLICE UNCOVER CACHE OF LOOT AT CLARKSBURG

Merchandise Taken From Toronto Departmental Stores During Past 5 Years.

THREE SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Haul Valued at Thousands of Dollars Packed on Both Floors of Frame House.

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 29.—Startling developments which, police believe, will result in the uncovering of a gang which has been systematically robbing Toronto department stores, Neil Bell, 65, and his daughter, Mrs. Percy Lavers, were arrested yesterday at Clarksburg, near here, and a few hours later Capt. Percy Lavers was taken into custody at Simcoe.

Thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise stolen, police suspect, during the past four or five years, was recovered yesterday by Provincial Police and Toronto Detectives McIlrath and Hicks when they searched a house at Clarksburg. Similar caches of goods in other parts of the province are expected to be disclosed.

A search of the small, unpretentious frame Bell home at Clarksburg by Provincial Constables L. A. Denton of Owen Sound and S. H. Cook of Meaford disclosed stores of goods packed into every available space on both floors of the house. An examination revealed that the greater portion of it had come from Toronto department stores. It was then decided to place the occupants of the house under arrest.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Payne Have Enjoyed Fifty Years of Married Life.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Dec. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Payne are today celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, both being in excellent health.

Mrs. Payne, who before her marriage, was Mary Ann Russel, was a sister of the late George Russel of Douro and was born in Peterborough. Mr. Payne was born in the log house which still stands on the farm now owned by Henry Batten. His father was the late George Payne and the property was settled by the Payne family. This land passed out of the hands of the Payne family about four years ago.

Mr. Payne delights in recalling stories of early adventure, one of which is about his father being chased by a wolf when going home after visiting his bethrothed. He lighted a torch, but the wolf followed so close it was almost at his heels as he jumped the fence and sought refuge at his home.

Mr. Payne was formerly a member of the Methodist Church and is now a member of the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne were married at George Russel's home on Dec. 29, 1880, by a Presbyterian Minister. Nathan Payne, a brother was groomsman and Miss Quinn, a neighbor and friend of the bride, acted as bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne farmed until about three years ago when they went to Burleigh to live with their only daughter, Mrs. William Miller. Besides this daughter, six sons were born to them, Cephas, who lives on the homestead where his father and mother lived and where the family was born; Arthur, living at Lakefield; Luther at Harwood; John in Warsaw; Roland in Warsaw and Eddie in Peterborough. There are thirty-two grandchildren.

LAKEFIELD COUPLE 51 YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stone Observe Wedding Anniversary at Burleigh.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stone celebrated the fifty-first anniversary of their marriage on Sunday, December 14th, at their home in Burleigh. The anniversary was quietly celebrated this year, and only a few were present: Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson (nee Vera Stone) and their daughter Ione of Lakefield, and their son, Melville Stone, and his wife and four children of Burleigh, and Mrs. Stone's youngest sister, Mrs. Archie Tedford, with her husband, Miss Olive Tedford and Mr. Charles Bollin, Jr., of Douro.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone have resided in Burleigh since their marriage, and have played a prominent part in the life of their community. Mr. Stone was church warden of Holy Trinity Church, Haultain, for years, and Mrs. Stone is a former organist of the church. Quietly and happily the day was spent, and another milestone was marked in a long life together.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

December 27th, 1930.

To My Fellow Citizens,
Everywhere in Canada.

Ring Out the Old, Ring in the New!

Another few days and 1930, with whatever it has brought us of success or of failure, will have passed into history, and our thoughts will be centred on a new year, and on the better times we sincerely hope it has in store for us.

While the opportunites of the past are gone beyond recall, the future is ours to make of it what we will. And we can make it a far brighter, a far more prosperous future, for ourselves individually and for Canada as a whole, if we all resolve to profit by the lessons our experience has taught us.

Among those lessons, surely we have learned how dependent each of us is for his own opportunities and his own advancement upon the well-being of Canadian producers as a class, and how much better it would be for every one of us if in our daily buying we were all to favour Canadian products.

If you believe that "Produced-in-Canada" doctrine is sound common sense, that it points the logical way not only to relieve unemployment but to lay broader and deeper the foundations of our national prosperity, why not make the practice of it one of your foremost resolutions for 1931?

Celebrate the new year by ringing out old habits of carelessness in buying, and ringing in the new resolve henceforth to be studiously careful. For 1931 let this be your creed:

"I believe in Canada.

"I love her as my home. I honour her institutions. I rejoice in the abundance of her resources.

"I glory in the record of her achievements. I have unbounded confidence in the ability of her people to excel in whatsoever they undertake. I cherish exalted ideals of her destiny as a leader among world nations.

"To her I pledge my loyalty. To the promotion of her best interests I pledge my support. To her products I pledge my patronage. And to the cause of her producers I pledge my devotion."

If you are willing to embrace this creed, a copy of same artistically executed in colours, and on heavy stock suitable for use as a wall hanger or for framing, is yours for the asking. 100 Per Cent. MAYOR

Mayor Denne's candidature has the wholehearted support of all sections of the city, because the people know that he has been a 100 per cent full-time mayor.

His three years of office have been distinguished by faithful attention to the city's business, even when it meant that his own interest suffered; he has never hesitated when there was municipal work to be done.

It is no exaggeration to say that Mayor Denne has every detail of civic business at his finger tips, because as the head of municipal affairs he has made it his business to keep in touch with every municipal service and development.

He has given the kind of service that were he an executive of a big business firm the shareholders would laugh at the suggestion that he should be dismissed.

This week's election represents the annual meeting of the shareholders of the big business of municipal governmnt.

The electors who in this case are the shareholders know the work Mayor Denne has accomplished as their chief executive, they appreciate the time he has given to the city's business and the energy and enthusiasm he has displayed in furthering the interests of the community.

On New Year's Day they intend to recognize three years of successful, unselfish and intelligent public service.

They will put on record a vote of confidence in their civic leader by voting for on the strength of a long service as Alderman, with a well-known record of always favoring economy. My policy is

Economy with Good Judgment

I am strongly in favor of having all city work done by local labor. In view of the financial situation and the unemployment in the city, it is very important that the electors see to it that a Chief Magistrate is elected for 1931 who will look after the city's interests and that of every resident as well. If elected, I intend to see to it that all money spent on civic improvements, will go to city contractors and labor, and will not stand for bringing in outside contractors when tenders are at all equal. My policy is to keep the tax rate as low as possible, and see to it that the debenture debt is not increased.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

First of all I want to thank you one and all who sent such lovely Christmas greeting cards and good wishes to me.

• • • • • • •

This year I think I appreciated cards just as much as the many gifts which I received, for when someone sends you a greeting you know kind thoughts must have prompted the sending.

• • • • • • •

They are not like gifts—for some gifts we feel we must buy, because maybe last year they sent us a little remembrance—and so let me again say thank you for your lovely greetings.

• • • • • • •

Before us lies the New Year holiday and with it comes the necessary entertaining. You've all played 'Garbled Greetings' haven't you? That would be a good game for after dinner when everyone is too full to move very far!

• • • • • • •

When everyone is seated in a circle, the hostess asks each to whisper a New Year greeting into the ear of the person at his left and each player in turn whispers what he hears into the ear at his left until it comes around to the person extending the original greeting.

• • • • • • •

She repeats out loud what she heard and what she originally said—and you can imagine the difference.

• • • • • • •

If a player repeats a greeting previously given, he must drop out of the game. Variations in the wording can be slight but the identical phrasing is not permitted. A book or a game is suggested as a prize.

• • • • • • •

Another interesting one is Father Time's Fortune Clock. The clock can be made from cardboard cut any size and punch a hole in the exact centre and mark numbers from 1 to 12 near the edge as in the face of a clock.

• • • • • • •

For the hands cut two arrow strips a little longer than the diameter of the clock and through a hole punched a little distance from the feather end push a length of stout wire.

• • • • • • •

Glue the two arrow portions together with the wire extending between nearly to the tip of the arrowhead. Run the end of wire sticking out through a hole in a small spool, such as darning silk comes on, and then through the hole in the face of the clock and through another spool at the back.

• • • • • • •

Fastens the wire firmly about the spool. The hands will be positioned and turn easily around the face when placed flat on a table.

• • • • • • •

Each player is asked to make a wish and the clock will tell during which month of the year it will come true. To play the game the person making the wish must quickly whirl the hand around the face of the clock and at whichever numeral the hand stops that will be the month when the wish comes true.

• • • • • • •

A simpler clock can be made by putting a face of a clock on a sheet which is hung on the wall. The players are provided with small red paper arrows with pins in each and after being blindfolded he is turned around a number of times and left facing the clock.

• • • • • • •

He holds the arrow before him and walks toward the clock and when it's hand hits the wall or the clock he pins the arrow on the clock at that place.

• • • • • • •

If the arrow is placed on the face the numeral nearest it indicates in what month the wish comes true. If it is on the plain cloth outside the face the wish will not be fulfilled until 1932.

Claim Prince Leads Rebels in Burma

RANGOON, Burma, December 29 (C.P.). — The dashing leader of the Burmese rebels in the Tharawaddy district is still a figure of mystery, but one report current here now is that he is a Shan Prince whom a fortune-teller predicted would be King of Burma, and who now is making a bold effort to achieve that object.

Government forces, rushed to the region affected by his band's depredations, about 70 miles north of Rangoon, are reported to have him and his wild men hemmed in.

STOVES NEEDED IN RELIEF WORK

Money is Greatly Needed in Carrying on Relief Work in Peterborough.

EXAMINER HAS FUND.

The Fund for Relief work is still open and donations of any type would be welcome. There are several families lacking stoves and these would be very welcome. A woman who is expert at needlework would like to get a sewing machine and is without means to buy it, and there are also calls for small articles of household furniture. Two chairs would help to make one home liveable, where the family of five were sleeping up to a short time back, on the bare boards.

Money is needed to carry on the work of helping these needy ones over the coming difficult months. In half a dozen of the homes, babies will arrive very shortly, and there is little to welcome them. Baby clothes could be used to advantage, also layettes, if these could be had.

The following is one of the letters received from a family where the numbers are augmented by a crippled member. It says:

"We have been hard hit with illness and cares this last year or so. I can go out only at times, myself, with sickness following an operation last January, so you can imagine what I have to pay to the drug-store, not the doctors, as I have been able to give them only a little. I have a little girl home since before the holidays with a bad eye. She really should be taken to an eye doctor, but we simply haven't the means with me sick and a crippled member of the family to take care of, without any help from anyone.

"So you can see, only for you, what our Christmas would have been. And I do hope the Lord will double your riches this day. That's all a poor woman can say."

C.W.L. Christmas Fund Activities

The Catholic Women's League submits a report of its Christmas activities, as follows:

"Sixty-five generously filled baskets were delivered, ranging in price from three to five dollars, according to the size of the family. Fowl and other delicacies were sent to homes where there was illness. These baskets were carefully delivered to all parts of the city.

"The following donations were gratefully received: The Examiner, $50, also groceries and clothing; Alderman J. Fitzpatrick, on behalf of the Lawn Bowling Club, $100; Eaton Company, box of toys; Girl Guides, dolls and toys; Boy Scouts, toys; E. Johnson, bag of turnips; Mr. Bell of North Monaghan, 2 bags turnips; Miss Finn of Norwood, 2 geese; Miss McNamara, fruit and nuts; individual donations from friends, $8.50; Mrs. Collins, cereal; Mrs. Lynch, fruit; a Friend, canned goods; a Friend, fruit; Mrs. McDonald, bag of apples; a Friend, tea; Mr. Merrill, 3 boys' shirts, 3 pairs boys' pants, 6 boys' reefers; Mrs. Cameron, toys, vegetables, fruit, money; a Friend, fruit and cakes.

'Several bundles of clothing were also received and will be re-mmodelled and distributed where most needed. Immediately after the holidays, the League will organize a sewing circle and many willing hands will be required to supply the demand, especially for children's clothing."

'SANTA CLAUS' INJURED AT FIRE

BURLINGTON, Ia., Dec. 29.—Harvey C. Jaeger, Commissioner of Public Safety, was probably fatally burned and scores of men, women and children injured last night in a stampede caused by a blaze of unknown origin at Eagles' Hall, where more than 1,200 had gathered for the annual Christmas party. Jaeger was playing the part of Santa Claus.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

USING JUST A SMALL DOSE OF THE ANAESTHETIC.

During a boxing match one night, one of the contestants swung so hard at his opponent that he threw his right shoulder out of joint.

I attempted to put it back in the usual way by turning palm up, throwing arm outward and then upward across his face, but without success. I then had a chap administer ether as an anaesthetic, but although I used up the contents of the bottle in my emergency bag it had no effect. In fact, he calmly stated that the last time his shoulder had been dislocated the hospital doctor had got tired trying to get him under an anaesthetic and, with the help of two other doctors, a couple of nurses and a policeman he had finally got it back into place.

I took the hint, used a couple of strong men, including a policeman, to pull on his shoulder and I worked the bones back into place.

Now why do I relate this?

Because some individuals can absorb a great amount of ether or other anaesthetic without it affecting them very much. Similarly with other drugs.

Just how much ether or other anaesthetic the patient needs to put him under, and yet keep his condition satisfactory, cannot be estimated although an expert anaesthetist gives thousands of anaesthetics without accident.

It is very gratifying then to learn of the method of Dr. Willard Bartlett, St. Louis, by means of which very little of the anaesthetic is necessary for the operation as the patient is given a drug-phenobarbital — by mouth, three hours before the operation. He is thus 'half' under or partially anaesthetized by the time the nitrous oxide, ether, or other anaesthetic is administered.

By this method the patient is quiet previous to the operation, is not nervous or excited; there is no nausea or vomiting, and he sleeps for a number of hours after the operation.

Just how much of this drug should be used on any particular case is learned by the effect of a very small dose or doses some time previous to the operation.

Now, none of us want to undergo an operation, but as operations mean relief from pain and the saving of life, they sometimes become necessary.

It is gratifying to know that this method greatly reduces the amount of anaesthetic necessary, and renders the patient more comfortable before and after the operation.

POLICE ARREST HIT-RUN DRIVER

Vancouver Officers Search Days For Man Responsible For Three Deaths.

WOMAN DIES IN COLLISION.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29. (CP) Motorists who struck pedestrians and sped away have taken three lives in Vancouver since Christmas eve. A fourth life was lost in an auto-collision.

A few hours after police had arrested Charles Lessard yesterday on a Fraser Valley ranch, near Chilliwack, as the driver of a car that ran down and killed Miss Allison Candlish and her sister, Mrs. Herbert Connell, on Dec. 24, a third victim, Mrs. M. Hall, was almost instantly killed while returning home from church. Major Stanley Hill, of Vancouver, is alleged to be the driver of the car that killed Mrs. Hall. Major Hill, who had summoned medical aid for Mrs. Hall, was arrested on a technical charge and released on $5,000 bail.

Lessard's arrest followed an intensive search by city police for the owner of a car found in flames shortly after Miss Candlish and her sister had been struck down. Police stated Lessard had identified the burned automobile as his own.

Miss Candlish was dead when picked up after the tragedy. Mrs. Connell died two days later. One leg had been amputated by the speeding car and the other so badly mangled immediate amputation was necessary.

In an automobile collision last night Mrs. Herbert S. Wood, wife of a prominent Vancouver barrister and daughter of Prof. Knight of Queen's University, was almost instantly killed. The car she was driving and a taxi collided. Mrs. Wood died a few minutes after being admitted to hospital.

The taxi driver was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter and released on $5,000 bail.

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY.

The Examiner hopes that every organization in the city that is interested in relief work is considering the question of a community relief organization, and is prepared to co-operate in launching this general organization designed to ensure a systematized plan of assistance.

A public meeting will be called immediately after the municipal election for the purpose of discussing this most important community organization, under whose direction it is hoped to link up the efforts of all the existing social service agencies and put an end to overlapping and waste motion in the distribution of the assistance so badly needed.

Many other communities have already organized on these lines, and wherever a central committee has gone to work there are reports that the general situation has quickly shown a marked improvement.

In fact, no other result could be expected, for without system generosity and good-will cannot be converted into effective action.

The Examiner, from its experience with relief work and its investigation into conditions into scores of homes, is satisfied that without some sort of organization, such as it has proposed, the situation cannot be satisfactorily dealt with.

KEEP THE GOOD WORK GOING.

As announced on Saturday, The Examiner Relief Fund remains open for the purpose of aiding scores of local families until the responsibility of administering community relief can be turned over to the proposed citizens' relief committee.

The Examiner vouches for the need and guarantees that donations, whether of cash or food or clothing, will be utilized to the best advantage in relieving the most urgent cases of distress.

Those who have taken an active part in The Examiner's relief work have had a first-hand opportunity of seeing the actual conditions, and they bring back the sobering report that while practically every needy family was well taken care of at Christmas that many households have only the food that was contained in the Christmas hampers, and that by this time there is need of replenishing the larder, while a return of colder weather will materially aggravate the situation.

It will be necessary therefore to maintain a sustained effort, possibly for months, to provide food and warmth for these victims of an unusual economic situation, and The Examiner therefore feels it to be its duty to appeal to the more fortunate citizens to continue their bounty until the conditions are improved by the substitution of a well organization relief committee for the more or less catch-as-catch-can methods that have at present to be relied upon.

Send in cash or food or clothing or bedding—all can be used and all will be needed.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE ELECTORS.

Although there is to be no election for the Utilities Commission or for the Board of Education, the fact that there is a spirited contest for the mayoralty and for five places on the Board of Aldermen should add spice to the municipal campaign and induce a large proportion of the electorate to do its duty as citizens.

It seems strange that it should be necessary for newspapers all over the country to issue an appeal at this time for the electors to awaken to a sense of their responsibility and to take an interest in the selection of their civic government.

Somehow or other many people seem unable to visualize the fact that it is their money the men that are going to be elected on Thursday will spend during 1931.

If the funds needed to carry on the city's business were available from some mysterious treasure-trove, the indifference of many electors in regard to municipal problems could be more easily understood.

There is, however, no mystery about civic financing; the money can only come from one place, the pockets of the taxpayers, and surely that should be incentive enough to induce the people who pay the bills to show some concern about the calibre of the men who are to be entrusted with the responsibility of incurring the expenditures.

It is surely a matter of moment as to which of the two mayoralty candidates shall be at the head of municipal affairs during next year, and as to which five of the nine candidates for the Council offer the best qualifications and the most promise of successful and efficient service.

WAR SYMBOLS UNCLAIMED.

With the Great War rapidly moving backward into history, it is surprising to learn that a large number of medals indicative of service at the front still remains undistributed, and that in many cases the Department of National Defense has been unable to locate the men entitled to these recognitions.

The total number of Canadians who earned the right to possess the Victory Medals was 340,245, and of this number the Ottawa authorities have found it impossible to trace 33,224.

It is an interesting situation that more Canadian soldiers than made up the first Canadian contingent have shown so little interest in war medals as to neglect to apply for them.

With regard to the British war medals issued for distribution among Canadian soldiers, similar conditions prevail, for it is officially stated that out of a total of 415,645 of these medals 55,932 still remain undistributed, while 1,660 men who might be in possession of the 1914-15 Stars, showing that they reached the front in the early stages of the war, are still without this official recognition.

Memorial plaques and scrolls given by His Majesty the King to the next of kin to commemorate the service of those who fell in the Great War or who died later from causes attributable to service, are also available.

If there are any Peterborough citizens who are entitled to these symbols who have not yet received them, it is suggested that they write the records branch of the Department of National Defense at Ottawa.

IMPORTS OF COAL.

In a year of falling markets everywhere it is an interesting fact that importations of coal from Scotland and Wales into Canada have shown a substantial increase. During the season of navigation at Montreal there were unloaded from the British Isles 740,803 tons of anthracite, which was 57,000 tons more than the previous record, 239,000 tons more than a year ago, and in striking comparison with the total of 5,000 tons as recently as 1921. British bituminous imports also were higher, having increased from 26,000 in 1929 to 45,000 tons in the present year.

Russian coal, which made its first appearance on the Canadian market in 1928, also increased notably this year, having advanced by 141 per cent. to 200,000 tons. It was brought in from Southern Russia through the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, and twenty-eight full cargoes were landed before an embargo was placed on this product by the present Federal Government. Two ships with German anthracite reached Montreal in November, carrying 12,857 tons. The Germans and Dutch, shipped 70,000 tons in 1926, when British mines were tied up by the great strike, but they did not pursue the opening and have sent few shiploads to Canada since that time.

From all sources of trans-Atlantic production anthracite imports at Montreal for 1930 exceeded the figures for 1929 by more than 400,000 tons, and shipping men point out that the total in all probability would have been higher if the grain export business had been such as to take a greater number of tramp steamers to that port. In other words, if the United Kingdom will buy more wheat from Canada we shall be in a position to buy more coal from British mines. There is a basis here for a great and growing trade of mutual profit and advantage.—Ottawa Journal.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

Now that the Hon. George S. Henry has become Prime Minister it will be necessary for his successor in the Department of Highways to deal, if possible, in a more effective manner than has been done in the past with reckless drivers. A typical example of the menace which this class of driver is to public safety is illustrated in a recent event near Bowmanville. Albert Hutchison and his eldest son, who were driving a one-ton truck, crashed into another truck on the highway, as the result of neglect to obey a stop signal. The consequence was that both trucks were badly demolished and the elder Hutchison was killed, while his son was taken to the hospital in a seriously injured condition. Hutchison was rounding a curve when he crashed into the other truck, which was almost at a standstill. Just before this it is said that he had struck a boy on the highway, breaking his leg and leaving him without aid.

What is to be done with this class of driver? How can such recklessness be stopped, and the highways made safe for drivers who exercise reasonable caution? It begins to look as though greater care will have to be taken in issuing drivers' licenses. Without controversy there are many drivers in every community who are not entitled to operate cars. It may be necessary to have a commission in every municipality to scrutinize the list of applicants for drivers' licenses, and to pronounce upon their fitness in regard to character, skill and courtesy. These reckless drivers are a constant menace to careful motorists, and those who are driving continually realize that they are becoming not only a nuisance, but a great danger on the highways. It takes considerable skill, as well as trustworthiness, to drive cars on the highway, and only those who can show that they are efficient and responsible should be given licenses.—Brantford Expositor.

TRYING TOO MUCH.

The Hon. G. S. Henry is now Prime Minister of the Province of Ontario. Last week he stepped into the position vacated by the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, new High Commissioner for Canada at London, and in doing so he inherited responsibilities of some magnitude. For Mr. Henry, in addition to being Prime Minister of Ontario, is also Minister of Highways and Minister of Education. Each of these departments is by itself sufficient to provide a full day's work every day for any man, so it is somewhat hard to understand why Mr. Henry should shoulder all three of them on himself.

In fact, it is not fair to the people of Ontario, nor to the members of the Conservative party in the Legislature, that Mr. Henry should hold three portfolios, all of a major character. He cannot be expected to give to each the attention which it deserves. Why, for the last few years he has found the Department of Highways alone sufficient load, without adding the other two departments to it. For the reasons of human limitations, the people of Ontario cannot expect the best of service when one man is saddled with a responsibility which is normally carried by three men. It just cannot be done.

This arrangement, too, is unfair to the Conservative members of the Legislature. Surely this decision is not tantamount to an admission that there are not to be found, in the seventy or so Conservative members outside the Cabinet, two men capable of handling the Highways and Education Departments. The Conservatives themselves surely cannot believe that, for it would be a sorry admission if they did.

On the face of it, Mr. Henry should not hold these three portfolios a moment longer than he can help. For his own sake, and for the sake of the Province as well, the Cabinet re-organization should be broad enough to provide for new men to take over the Departments of Highways and Education, so that they can be given the full-time attention which they require. — Oshawa Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Christmas spirit must be carried over into the new year if many Peterborough families are not to suffer. Remember The Examiner Relief Fund.

A Chicago joker ran away with the fire marshal's automobile, which is after all a good deal more harmless prank than blazing away with a machine gun.

That story of Churchill being made an all-year port through the use of submarines goes a little deep for most people.

To-morrow night the West will have the opportunity of deciding whether Premier Bennett is a Santa Claus or a Scrooge.

Ontario sparkling cider is to be put on the market next year. There will probably be a kick about that.

As a coiner of phrases Lloyd George is still at the top of the pile. His accusation that the British Government suffers from "fatuous complacency" is an example.

The trouble with so many people who hold the world owes them a living is that they are such poor collectors.—Kitchener Record.

OUTLINE PLATFORMS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

For the benefit of the voting public, it would be an excellent move for each candidate who is seeking election to the City Council if he would fully define his platform through your paper, in order that the voters might know before they reach the polls both what and who they want to cast their votes for.

This would be much better than to call their neighbors who are in the same position. This would be just as helpful to the candidate as it would be to the voter. Don't you think so?

CITIZEN.

Mrs. Mack

No one at X..... was ever ill very long before Mrs. Mack came around to see if she could be of use,—and she usually could. Doctor John averred that many a patient's life had been saved by her careful nursing, and it was common knowledge that she could prescribe for the small ailments of childhood quite as well as he. Mrs. Mack, bustling cheerily in, could raise the drooping spirits of the most pessimistic patient.

At the period of which I write she was the mother of fourteen children, all pretty well grown up. Three capable daughters in the home left her with leisure to devote to the nursing which she loved. She seemed rarely ever to be found at her home in these days. In fact I remember being asked to tea once in honor of a "visit home." Mrs. Mack was the life of that little party, her Irish wit bubbling incessantly,her round sweet face with the kindly blue eyes and the merry smile, white hair smoothed back from a high brow, her plump hands pressing upon me another cup of tea, another taste of the pound cake, or—better yet—another hot biscuit. Those delicious biscuits made with cream from the brown crock in the cool dairy. Even before we had finished the little Ryan boy came running: his mother had sent for Doctor John, and would Mrs. Mack come, right away please! Mrs. Mack rose, smiling. She would, at once,—taking the child's impatient hand and catching up her sunbonnet on the way out.

Besides patients of this sort—which were the most common in X..... she usually had one or two invalids whom she visited almost daily, often taking a basket of dainties along. Mrs. Mack thought nothing of walking three or four miles on those occasions, cutting swiftly across country, often arriving in less time than a horse would make his way around the winding road.

She, in common with the other wives and mothers of X....., led a busy life. They carded and spun—walking patiently to and fro beside the wheel—the wool from which they later made blankets stockings and clothing for their families. and that clothing was like the "Alice blue gown in that "it wore and it wore." It seemed to me as a child, that only the big boys and girls had anything new! I know of fulleloth "best" coat which came down step by step to the littlest of ten.

Nowadays when I hear a city housewife bewailing her hard lot in a house with all modern conveniences, I see again those sturdy mothers of my youth, ever helpful, uncomplaining in the face of so many difficulties.

In families, too, in those days was to be found the revered grandmother—often approaching the century mark—in her white cap, knitting peacefully by the fire. They, too, have disappeared.

A child born on this December 29th will be popular at school, and the adulation, that it will receive will not spoil, but inspire it. No brilliant achievement can be prognosticated, but it will go through life enjoying the affectionate regard of its fellows.

You, if born on December 29th, possess great ambition, as well as the ability and perseverance to gratify it, if you do not allow yourself to be diverted by pleasure-loving proclivities to neglect it. You are endowed with more than ordinary intelligence. You have vision. You are as keen as mustard, and with it all, your personality, although compelling, is pleasing. You always secure your ends by diplomacy and persuasion never by forceful measures. Your smile wins, when a frown would lose.

You find it hard at times to tread "the straight and narrow." Of a congenial disposition, you experience difficulty in resisting the blandishments of those who would entice you from your self-chosen field of endeavor. As a rule, your common sense—of which you possess an inexhaustible fund—comes to your rescue. Each time you succeed in avoiding making a fool of yourself, developes the power of resistance.

Life holds many prizes in store for you, and all those that you win you will have earned. Emotional, without being sentimental, your passions are strong. Your love, when it finally centres on one, will be lasting and constant. When you do make a home, it will be a Haven of Rest and Comfort for its occupants.

In his assessment enquiry at Millbrook Judge O'Connor of Cobourg was assisted by John J. Clarke, assessor, and J. Eakins and W. T. Wood. The procedure was the same as at previous sessions.

The first sale on the list before Judge O'Connor was from Henry E. Ellis to H. J. Armstrong, two lots on the north side of King Street for $1,000.

"This is another of them retired farmers that got about $1,500 more for his farm than it is worth" was Mr. Clarke's comment. He valued it at $2,000. Mr. Eakins named the same amount, but Mr. Wood expressed the opinion that $2,000 was too high at present values. His estimate of its value was $1,500. The assessment is $1,000.

Norman P. Lamb sold to Thomas Wilson east George street properties for $1,800. This place is opposite the hotel. Assessed at $800.

Bought a Church.

W. G. Russell sold to Robert E. Stanton a King street property for $3,100.

Mr. Clarke said: "That is a man who came down from the city and had a house made out of a church. I think he bought it pretty nearly at city prices myself." It is assessed for $1,000.

Olive Rehill sold to John Davidson lot 20, north side of Ann street, for $1,100. Mr. Eakins said $800 would be good value for it. Assessment is $350.

John A. V. Preston, executor, sold to John E. Allen a house on King street for $1,600. It was said to be especially suitable to Mr. Allen because it was the only place he could buy near his father's farm where he works. The actual value was placed at $1,400. Assessment is $900.

William Guillett sold to Frederick Scott a furniture store for $2,500. Mr. Eakins said $2,000 would be big value for it.

Judge O'Connor concluded his enquiry with a reference to some of the assessments after his list of sales ran out. One of them was Mrs. Wm. Archer's property on King street. Mr. Clark estimated its value at $1,800 to $1,900. The assessors had appraised it at $2,200. The assessment is $1,300.

The valuators had estimated Fred Hendry's house at $1,700. Mr. Wood agreed with that amount. Assessment is $1,100.

Reeve Percy Stinson's home was valued at $3,000 by Col. Johnston and his two associates. It is assessed for $2,000.

Mr. Wood—I wouldn't like to say the house wasn't worth $3,000.

Thos. Harkness' house valued at $2,000 by the three valuators is assessed for $1,000. Mr. Eakins thought $1,500 a good price for it.

Judge O'Connor— Is there much vacant property in your village ,or any condition that should be inquired into, that isn't localized in one little spot?

Mr. Clarke— Nearly all the sales made the last few years were to retired farmers and they were able and willing to pay for them.

Judge O'Connor—That is a condition that exists here that you should appreciate.

Take a vacant lot, Mr. George Beatty.

Mr. Clarke—He paid $100.

Judge O'Connor—You value at $200. Are there many vacant lotss?

Mr. Clarke—Quite a few.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 29.—Sharp rally from the early sess' record low marks brought wheat substantially higher in Winnipeg Grain Exchange trading on Saturday. At the close, gains ranged from 1¾ to 2¼ cents a bushel, as compared with Friday.

After recording a new all-time low mark at 50 cents a bushel, December futures advanced rapidly to close at 52⅞ cents. Other futures followed suit.

Lack of offerings in the pit and substantial buying orders accounted for the advance. Most of the purchases were in the nature of investment buying and were credited to houses with Southern connections. "Shorts" also operated late in the day. The early decline was brought about by lower quotations at Buenos Aires.

Trade in cash wheat and coarse grains was slow, but the price trend was in line with the futures market.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Corn jumped Saturday, but only after all grain had touched fresh low-record quotations, with wheat once more outdoing all bottom marks since 1896. A rise of nearly 2 cents per bushel for corn above the days' minimum was ascribed chiefly to new regulations of the United States Department of Agriculture that may increase the outlet for corn possibly 100,000,000 bushels a year. Helping to rescue wheat and other cereals from the effect of an early wave of stop-loss selling was word from Winnipeg that a virtual guaranteed price for wheat in Canada had been established.

Corn Rises 1c to 1⅝c

Corn closed unsettled 1c to 1⅝c per bushel higher than Friday; wheat, irregular, ¼c net lower to ½c advance; oats, ¼c off to ¼c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 37c.

BRISK DEMAND IN GOLD GROUP

Bulk of Movements Upward in Standard Exchange Session To-day.

BASE METALS QUIET.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29 (C.P.)—The Mining Market opened the week with the improved feeling of the latter part of last week still in evidence. Turnover was not particularly brisk but demand for some of the golds and oils was good and bulk of movements were upward.

Teck Hughes was apparently under accumulation and advanced a quarter to $6.20, highest point reached in some time. Lake Shore sold up ¾ at $23.50. Wright-Hargreaves gained 10 to $1.85, and McIntyre 15 to $19.15. Howey Gold was unusually strong, price moving up 4 to 26, and Kirkland Lake Gold, Siscoe and Sylvanite were up a cent or so apiece. Hollinger off to $6.10, showed the only weakness.

Base Metal stocks were quiet and practically unchanged. Sherritt Gordon advanced a couple to 71, but Ventures dropped to 33 and balance of the Lindsleys were holding.

Ajax Oil continued the advance in oils, adding another 3 to recent gains at $1.65 at noon after selling higher in early trade. Acme Gas was a point stronger at 23, and Chemical Research recovered 20 to $2.60.

MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS WIN RIGHT TO RESTRAIN MERGER OF INTERESTS

Minority stockholders One of Bitterest Legal Fights Ever Fought in Corporate History.

STRUGGLE OF MILLIONS.

Decision of the U. S. Court Based on Merger Negotiations.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., December 29 (C.P.). — The proposed billion-dolar merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, was denied by Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins to-day when he granted minority stockholders an injunction restraining the combination.

The decision was based on the merger negotiations and the subsequent meeting on March 12 of the Sheet and Tube directors. Considering these proceedings illegal, the Judge saw no reason for going into the numerous controversial points involved in Sheet and Tube stockholders meeting on April 18 where the merger was ratified.

Judge Jenkins handed down his decision six months from the inception of one of the bitterest legal fights in corporate history, a struggle of millions that was carried out first with proxies and then with lawsuits. Forces marshalled by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, went into court with charges of fraud after a spectacular battle for proxies.

Judge Jenkins said that the court was without sufficient supported facts clearly to pass a judgment on the price involved in the merger. Also, he said, the Sheet and Tube directors and shareholders as well were without "any such basis for forming such judgment.

Refuses to Comment

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, refused to comment to-day when informed of the decision denying the proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Asked if he would make a statement, the financier who has led the fight against the merger, said: "Nothing to say. Thank you very kindly."

Officers Elected For Peterborough Ski Club

The newly formed Peterborough Ski Club met on Saturday evening in the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of organizing more completely and of electing officers. There was a good turnout and the following were elected to their various offices: Hon. President, W. A. Richardson; Hon. Vice-President, C. H. Rogers; President, D. Hall; Vice-Presidents, O. Laderach and R. White; Secretary-Treasurer, T. Hall; Directors, W. Collins, "Dode" McFadden, J. Wilson, H. Hayward, J. Langley.

The club decided to meet again at 7 p.m. on Tuesday to receive the report of the committee on constitutional by-laws, and to arrange fees and other details.

Much enthusiasm is being shown, and it is hoped that suitable grounds for runs and jumps will be secured shortly.

PETERBOROUGH WAS NOT ONLY CITY ABLE TO MEET NEEDS OF OVALTINE

C. J. Glaspell States Reasons Why Ovaltine Company Came to City.

WENT TO MANY POINTS.

The following letter has been received by The Examiner from A. Wander Limited who have just recently opened up a new factory in Peterborough and in reply to certain statements made at the nomination meeting concerning the coming to Peterborough of the company.

Dec. 29th, 1930.

Editor The Examiner,
Peterborough,
Ontario.

Dear Sir:—

A statement has been made, that the only reason the "Ovaltine" factory located in Peterborough, was that we found water in sufficient quantity to meet our needs.

While this is true, it is really only a small portion of the story. We had been looking for a location for a Canadian plant for some months. I had personally covered every city and town from Kingston on the east to London on the west; as far north as Orillia, and throughout the Niagara Peninsula. The requirements in connection with our location were somewhat peculiar, and I will admit that few muncipalities were able to show us that they could meet all the conditions. However, Peterborough was not by any means the only one.

Upon our first visit to Peterborough, we were most favourably impressed with your city. We secured an option on property on the east side of the Smith street bridge. We spent eleven hundred dollars drilling for water on this site, and only secured a very small quantity. Needless to say that after this experience, we were ready to look for a location elsewhere. It was absolutely impossible, however, to get away from Mayor Denne. He stuck with us until we finally decided to purchase the property where we are now located, having found water on this site.

I am a new arrival in Peterborough, and have no desire to mix in local politics in any way. I do wish, however, to see that credit is given to the person deserving of it. In seeking a location for our factory, I visited probably thirty five or forty cities and towns in Ontario. Many of these municipalities employ Industrial Commissioners whose business is to secure industries for that city and they receive a good salary for doing so. However, I did not find any place where the authorities paid or otherwise, were able to promote their city as capably as Mayor Denne did the city of Peterborough to us. If he had not done so, we would undoubtedly now be located in some other municipality.

My only reason for writing this letter is to give Mayor Denne credit for the great amount of trouble and time which he spent to hold our industry for the city of Peterborough.

Yours very truly,
C. J. Glaspel, Manager, A. Wander Limited.

TURK OUTBREAK IS SHORT LIVED

Over 500 Arrested After Revolt at Menemen, Near Smyrna.

REBELS WANTED COLIPH.

ISTANBUL, Dec. 29 (C.P.).—Stern measures were invoked by the Turkish Government to-day to stamp out once and for all widespread sentiment favoring restoration of the caliphate.

More than 500 persons have been arrested in an aftermath to the revolt at Menemen, near Smyrna, last Wednesday, and it is understood that the Chekas, or tribunals of independence, which in 1925 broke the back of the Sheik Said Rebellion, may be re-established to meet the situation.

Six military and civic officials of the Government were arrested at Menemen, charged with participation in religious re-action. Twenty-six persons were arrested in Istanbul and all travellers arriving here from Smyrna are being subjected to police questioning.

FIRE LOSSES DROP

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ending December 23, 1930, were estimated by the Monetary Times at $436,300, as compared with $1,415,075 for the previous week and with $222,300 for the corresponding week of last year. From January 1, 1929, to Dec. 24, 1929, fire losses totalled $29,349,000 and from January 1, 1930, to Dec. 23, 1930, they were $28,330,715. Adjustment of $700,000 for over-estimated fire loss included in this total. Fire was at Quebec, December 13.

Price Changes Involve Small Fraction in Limited Turnovers.

TONE MUCH FIRMER.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(CP)—Stocks fluctuated within a narrow range on Toronto Stock Exchange today. The price changes were meaningless, involving only small fractions made on a limited turnover. On the whole, the list at midday was slightly above wherewhere it had left off last week.

International Nickel sold up to 14½ just above Saturday's final. Brazilian was up ¼ point and C. P. R. up one at 39. Massey-Harris was unchanged at its old low of 10, Canadian Dredge at 25½ also unchanged, Walkers at 6 unchanged, Ford of Canada up nearly one points at 21¼.

Oils made small headway, the three leaders each up ¼ point, B. A. Oil sold at 13½, Imperial at 16½ and International Petroleum at 13½.

INDIAN PARLEY

idea is that in the proposed all-India Federation the Federal Government will be responsible to the Federal Legislature except on five subjects, which will be reserved to the Imperial authority. The five subjects are:

1, Defense; 2, Finance; 3, Foreign Relations; 4, Relations with the Native States; 5, Political charges.

And in these five subjects probable working arrangements between the British and Indian Governments are suggested. Under the heading of Defence, the maintenance of law and order may, it is suggested, be left to the Indian Government.

But it is not felt that in the present circumstances the maintenance of the frontiers could be safely taken from the Imperial authority.

Finances Main Obstacle.

In the conference discussions still to come the control of finances is likely to be the main bone of contention. The Indians want finance defined as an Indian subject under the control of the Indian Legislature. Opposition to such a course is apparently based on the ground that it might lead to repudiation of debts. One plan suggested is to give India control of finances within limitations which would establish safeguards against repudiation and provide through the establishment of a reserve bank, means to prevent deliberate inflation of currency.

Foreign relations, it is suggested, should remain a matter for the Imperial Government, associated with the Indian Government.

Relations between British India and the Native States, the fourth subject would be a matter of bargaining with the ruling princes. The princes now have treaties with the Crown which the Crown cannot repudiate.

The political charges would chiefly concern the tribal tracts which, while nominally within the frontier of British India, are outside its administrative area.

The conference special committee on the north-west frontier gathered to-day. In that old area of trouble, where they are in the majority, the Moslems want a new province created.

SHELTER FOR HOMELESS MEN IN COCHRANE IS DESTROYED

from the start. The building had been almost totally destroyed in 1911 and again in 1916, and each time had been rebuilt.

Reeves told a dramatic story of the attempts of the victims to escape. The alarm had been sounded by the engine whistles in the nearby yards of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. He reached the hotel in time to see dozens of homeless men fleeing from the flames which had turned their shelter into a death-trap.

They poured out like rats from a hole" he said. "They were shouting and dragging their clothing behind them. I don't think there was one man left in the basement.

"I thought at once of Palangio's four children and ran around the building hoping to find them at some window and help them out. I ran two or three times but could not see them anywhere.

"In the front I saw one man trying to get out of a window. He had broken the glass and was halfway out, but could not free himself. His clothes were in flames and his head seemed on fire. The rope fire-escape he threw out was burning. At last he fell back into the room, and I could see his feet sticking up at the window.

"Another man broke a window with pillows, but he was overcome."

Stayed in Hotel Basement.

The unemployed men had been regularly taking shelter in the hotel basement. They were more fortunate than the occupants of the upper floors. Reeves heard screams from a hallway of the hotel over a corner drug store. He helped some to the ground but he thought more were caught by the flames. "You think some men were unable to escape from over the drug store?" he was asked. "I know it," Reeves replied solemnly.

One occupant of the hotel threw his clothes from a second storey window and was able to jump on them without being hurt. Another man, a Norwegian, jumped and split all the toes on one foot.

Several others who escaped received injuries, mostly fractured ankles. A Mrs. Reuben was saved badly burned, and taken to hospital.

Few of those who escaped were able to tell a coherent story. Constable Stewart, who was on night duty, declared the fire apparently started in the front office of the hotel. Who discovered it was not ascertained. The front door was opened and the flames immediately swept up the stairway of the hotel and through the halls of the second floor. Within only five minutes the place, divided by dry wooden partitions, was an inferno.

There was only the one stairway in the building and the flames cut off escape by that means. One guest who escaped declared that when he heard the shouting he opened his door to find the hallway a mass of flames.

Died Saving Family.

Charles Palangio apparently died in a heroic effort to save his wife and children. He carried out a man who had been overcome and dashed back into the flames to get his family. The flames, however, were quicker than he was. His wife is believed to have started for the stairway with the little ones. But the man who stated this belief said he "thought she knew the best way out" and he was deterred from going to her aid.

Damage Is $75,000

The damage to the hotel was estimated at about $75,000 of which approximately $12,000 was covered by insurance.

"When we of the volunteer fire department reached the hotel it was a raging inferno," said Fire Chief Carswell. "Charlie Palangio had already broken his way back inside trying to save his family. We could do nothing for him or the building. Not only the hotel but the adjoining drug store was enveloped in flames."

Besides James Palangio Jr., two other brothers of Charles Palangio, Mike and Carman, escaped. Another brother, Pete Palangio, well-known hockey player, is at present with the Syracuse team of the International Hockey League.

Coroner Dr. E. R. Tucker ordered an inquest after the identification of the victims. The night clerk on duty at the time, named Dugan, who helped to spread the alarm, will probably be one of the most important witnesses.

The hotels wiring system had been pronounced in good order 10 days ago and the origin of the fatal blaze has not yet been determined.

JAPAN TIMES PRINTS SPECIAL FOR CANADIAN TRADE MEETING

Edition Shows How Japanese Think Regarding Commerce With Our Country.

WELCOME CHAMBER.

A copy of "The Japan Times" special edition of welcome to the members of the Canadian trade mission to that country has just been received. The paper is composed of 28 pages, and its language and the appearance of Japanese and English symbols side by side, point to the close relations between the two countries.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce mission, headed by J. M. Imrie, Vice-President of the Chamber and Managing Director of the Edmonton Journal, arrived at Yokohama on the Empress of Russia, on Monday, October 27, at daybreak. Japan's first greeting was the snow-capped peak of Fukiyama with the city at its base. Members of the welcome committee left from the pier at 6.10 a.m. to proceed to the ship at quarantine. As soon as the quarantine flag was lowered, they boarded the ship. The welcome was made by J. M. Imrie, and other members of the welcoming party—Dr H. Keenleyside, first Secretary of the Legation, J. A. Langley, Commercial attache, D. E. Ross, President of the Canadian Association of Japan, and Takashi Isaka, President of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce.

Purpose of Visit.

In return, Mr. Imrie stated his mission as follows: "It is a desire for closer and more intimate contacts with the business interests of Japan that has brought this delegation across the Pacific from Canada. Our coming is prompted by friendliness and goodwill and the hope of mutual benefit.

"While lacking your rich history and maturity, Canada has lately displayed in common with Japan, a capacity for vigorous growth and economic expansion. In our case, as in yours, this has found expression in a rapidly widening foreign trade.

"Since 1913 our exports have increased three-fold and our imports have been doubled.

"To-day Canada stands fifth among the nations of the world alike in export, import and aggregate trade.

"Japan is Canada's third largest customer and Canada's purchases in return are increasingly substantial. This delegation has come in a spirit of friendly enquiry to study the trade conditions and trade requirements of Japan. Our inquiries will cover both export and import trade. Our products are in the main complementary to rather than competetive with those of Japan.

"Our delegation has come under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce of which I have the honor to be Vice-President. That body comprises the Chambers of Commerce of 205 individual cities and towns in Canada and represents an underlying membership of 300,000.

Members of Party.

The party included the following- in addition to J. M. Imrie; Secretary W. M Clarke of Montreal, R. H. Baird of Vancouver, Supervisor of Royal Bank, F. J. Burd, also of Vancouver and Director of the Canadian Press, A. B. Calder from Montreal, special representative of the C.P.R., J. O. Cameron of Victoria, lumber magnate S. H. Carsley M.Sc., Montreal Chemical engineer, H. V. Haight, engineer of Canadian Ingersoll Rand Co., Sherbrooke M. D. Hamilton, Supervisor Canadian Bank of Commerce, Vancouver; G. Johnston, Montreal financier; R. S. Kelsch, A. Lambert of Montreal and J. L. Lawson, J. E. Lebrecque, W. Lewis, F. Locker, R. E. Thorne also of this city, H. J. Oldaker and N. C. Sawers of Vancouver, M Steinkopf of Winnipeg, and many wives of the above.

Keishiro Ochiai, vice-governor of Kanagawa Prefecture, representing Governor Yamagata who is in Kobe attending the Grand Naval Review, Shigeo Nagahashi, Director of the Department of Commerce and Industry of Kanawaga-ken, and other members of the Reception Committee, went on board the Empress as she docked at the pier at 8.35 a.m. From the pier the party motored to Yokohama Station where they took the morning train to Tokyo, arriving at the capital at 10.30 a.m.

Interesting Program.

The three weeks program proved a busy time for the Canadian delegates. The following were included in the activities: a sightseeing tour of Tokyo and Meiji Shrine; Asakusa Shrine and shops nearby; the chrysanthemum show at Kokugikan; viewing the Mikimoto film showing pearl culture; a trip to Nikko and business meetings there; a tour of Yokohama; a visit to Fujiyama; trips to Kamakura, Odawara, Hakone, Miyanoshita, Kozu, Nagoya, Kyoto to shoot the Hozu rapids, Nara, Kobe, Osaka; and finally leave Kobe for Shanghai, thus making a complete tour of Japan.

The special edition of the "Japan Times" is very interesting and complimentary to Canada to say the least. A long editorial, "Canada looms on the Horizon," praises Canada and Canadian trade to such an extent that the Japanese editor is evidently happy to know that our country is "looming."

Messages of Welcome.

Messages of welcome are included from Premier Y Hamaguchi, Baron S. Goh, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Japan and the Tokyo Chamber, Baron Y. Sakatami, President of the Japanese Canadian Association, S. Tamura, Member of the House of Peers; and letters from acting Prime Minister Sir G. Perley, and from Hon. H. Marler, first minister to Japan.

Canadian Material.

Several news headings are interesting: Hon. R. B. Bennett, vigorous new Premier, amazes Canada in brief period by tackling great issues"; 'Both Bennet and King bachelors"; 'Task of Canadian minister in Japan"; 'Energetic work of Hon. H. Marler" told by Yoshio Nitobe, the editor; 'Life in Japan forty years ago" and a directory of all Canadians in Japan.

Articles relating to our country and her industries are as follows: "Silk Exports to Canada:" Canadian Pulp and Paper Industry" (full page); "Canada's Travel System;" "Canada's Government;" "Canada's Position in World Trade;" 'Labor Conditions in Canada;" "Friendly Invitation to Tourists;" 'One of World's Great Wheat Producing Areas;" and "Canada's Mineral Production."

Photos are lavished throughout the paper. There are six pictures of the members of the Canadian mission, Ripley's "Believe it or not," a full page arrangement of Premier Bennett beside the Canadian Coat of Arms on the left and Premier Hamaguchi, with the Jap. Coat of Arms beneath and around which photos was another of Hon. Marler and the crests of the provinces of Canada, pictures of Montreal harbor in 1830 and 1930, Baron S. Goh and Y. Sakatami, giant trees in B.C. forest, I. Tokugawa, Japanese minister to Canada, a Canadian pulp and paper mill, a photo portraying wheat cutting in Saskatchewan, views of grain elevators in Port Arthur, an aerial photo of Ottawa and Hull showing Parliament Buildings. A group of illustrations portray the progress of Canadian industry: Interior of Gatineau Hydro-Electric, aerial view of Vancouver, Cape Trinity on Saguenay River, Dominion Iron and Steel Co., Sidney, N.S., Niagara Falls, Montreal harbor, "Lemoyne"—world's second grain carrier, Laurentide Pulp and Paper Co., New Brunswick sardine cannery.

On the whole the newspaper is a wonderful piece of work, considering that it was done by Japanese workers. It should promote a far better feeling between Canada and Japan, and thereby furnish the first step in the purpose of the visit of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to that country of great trade possibilities.

STRIKE LOOMING IN SOUTH WALES

A. J. Cook Claims Menace Comes From Mine Owners' Insistence on Spread-over.

MAY HIT SCOTLAND.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The danger of there being a stoppage of work in the coal fields of South Wales was emphasized to-day by A. W. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, in an interview with Reuters News Agency.

"Owing to the attitude of the mine owners in South Wales and Scotland in insisting on a spread-over which was not intended by Parliament, there will be serious troubles in the two fields," said Mr. Cook, who thought the mere immediate danger lay in South Wales.

Emanuel Shinwell, Parliamentary Secretary for Mines, is to-morrow meeting the owners and miners again in an effort to secure an amicable settlement.

FISHERMEN SAVE 100 ON ICE FLOE

Men nad Boys Swept Out Into Sandusky Bay as Giant Men and Boys Swept Out Into

SHOUTS BRING BOATS.

SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 29 (C.P.).—One hundred men and boys swept out in Sandusky Bay on a large section of floating ice yesterday were rescued within two hours.

Fishermen in boats removed most of those trapped, and the others escaped the peril of floating out into the lake when the ice touched the shore near the Sandusky business section.

The men and boys were fishing on the ice, and some had built shanties, when suddenly it cracked and broke loose from the mainland. The situation was dangerous.

Although two feet thick, the ice was "soft," and the occupants feared it would break into smaller pieces momentarily. It moved quickly away from the shore and was floating in water 20 feet deep. Rapidly gaining speed, the huge cake, nearly three miles long, started moving toward the lake at the rate of 5 miles an hour. Had it reached the lake, its immediate destruction would have been certain.

Shouts from the men and boys brought the fishermen's boats to the rescue.

Toronto Reds Clash With Police Force

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29.— Police and Communists clashed here on Saturday night at two different municipal election campaign meetings being held on street corners. Three of the leading lights among the orators were arrested in the course of dispersing the crowds police claimed were obstructing traffic.

Those arrested were: Oscar Ryan, Thomas Ewan and James Toalster, the first two charged with obstructing police and the latter with assault. Ewan claims to have been ill-treated when taken to the station and last night exhibited a black eye. Police stated he suffered from nose bleed after being put in a cell and was taken to hospital for treatment. They denied allegations of abuse.

The future success of Peterborough depends upon the whole-hearted support which the citizens give and the definite program of work outlined by the Chamber of Commerce.

CLASS HONORS ALEX. STEWART

Has Taught Men's Bible Class in George Street For 19 Years.

IS GIVEN BIBLE.

Alex Stewart, member of George Street United Church Sunday School, and teacher of the Men's Bible Class for the past nineteen years, was at the close of yesterday afternoon's Sunday school, the recipient of an address, accompanied by the gift of a Bible together with a commentary, from the members of his class, to mark his retirement as Sunday school teacher.

The address which was signed by John Elliott, president and Charles E. Wiley, secretary of the Men's Bible Class, on behalf of the entire membership was couched in the following terms: "The members of the class for so many years in your care, learn with regret that your connection with the class as teacher will be severed at the end of this church year. For nearly a score of years you have zealously and most faithfully met the requirements of your important position, and have unfailingly during the long years given studious and careful attention and application to the preparation of the lessons assigned for each Sabbath; opening to the membership much valuable information which has been the object of the weekly meetings."

"There is no accessible record to date of the number of earnest, studious and interested men who have passed through the class membership, and benefited thereby. Many of those prominent in the class have passed on, and are numbered among those whom the class deeply valued, for personal association and companionship."

"The members of your class constantly found in you a teacher well versed in explanation of the Bible truths. We shall remember with pride and satisfaction that the most cordial relationship existed and prevailed at all times between teacher and class."

"For nineteen years you have earnestly met the responsibilities of your important position, and so earned the gratitude of all whom attended the class on each Sabbath. Each has carried away with him recollections of your earnest endeavour that all should be informed and benefited. Such will remain with those who enjoyed the fellowship, as a green and pleasant memory."

"The class has pleasure in asking your acceptance of the gift accompanying this expression of thanks and appreciation. Please accept this with good wishes and a continuation of our personal relations, and while we shall not, now, consider you the teacher of the class we hope to find you with us as often as possible."

The above address was read by Mr. Wiley, while the presentation was made by Colonel J. W. Miller, who made a short and suitable address. Mr. Stewart made a fitting response.

It is interesting to note that of the seventeen men present in class on Sunday afternoon, three of them, namely Messrs. Burns, Howland and Wiley, were numbered among the original class of nineteen years ago, whose total membership was six or seven men. Mr. Wiley has incidentally been a member of the Men's Bible class for a period of twenty-six years, during which time he has held the offices of president and secretary. He is secretary at the present time, and succeeded to that position formerly held by the late S. A. Oke.

R. C. Heard is to succeed Mr. Stewart as teacher of the Men's Bible Class, and will enter his duties next Sunday.

WHY FAT MEN STAY FAT

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 out of every 100 men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds, until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fill you with vigor and tireless energy.

As a result, instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water to-morrow morning and every morning—be careful of the foods you eat—take regular moderate exercise—then watch the pounds slide off.

So Sick She Was Unable To Move

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Brought Relief

"I once had Lumbago so badly that I could not move in bed," writes Mrs. A. W. McCoy, MacLennan, Ont. "I decided that I would try Dodd's Kidney Pills so my husband drove six miles one Sunday evening for a box and, the next day I could almost raise up in bed. Before the box was half finished I was able to be around. I therefore say that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best kidney remedy of any kind that I have ever used."

The reason Dodd's Kidney Pills have come to occupy such a prominent place in the home is that so many ordinary everyday ills come from sick kidneys. 226

LEAFS WIN FROM HAWKS FOR SECOND TIME

CHABOT GIVES FINE DISPLAY IN THE NETS

Blair, Bailey and Cotton Get Markers for the Toronto Squad.

ROUGH CONTEST.

Weakened Senators Lose to the Habitants By 8-5 Count.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29.—(By the Canadian Press)—The Canadian section of the National Hockey League race was tightened up as a result of the four games played over the week-end, two of which were intersectional affairs and the other two between clubs battling in the same division.

The Toronto Maple Leafs, reinforced by Joe Primeau at the pivot position in the second string line, successfully invaded Chicago and took a three to two decision from faltering Black Hawks who seem unable to overcome the Leafs jinx.

Harold Cotton was the big noise in the Leaf victory, scoring one goal on his own and providing Blair and Bailey with the passes that accounted for the other two goals. Gottselig and Miller and Cook and Adams respectively combined for the Hawks' two counters.

Toronto jumped into a two goal lead in the first period, holding the Hawks scoreless. Cotton went through on his own to score when sixteen minutes of the third period had gone and twelve seconds later Cook notched the final counter of the game on Adams' pass. The game was rough and Chabot had to stop a flock of rubber in the final minutes.

The heavy hitting Montreal Maroons invaded Detroit and emerged with a tie after the Falcons had twice held a goal margin. Seibert's goal half way through the third period sending the game into overtime. The tie gave Maroons possession of second place over the idle Americans who are now tied with Toronto for third place, three points away from the League leaders.

Ebbie Goodfellow, sensational centre for Detroit, sent his team into the lead with the game barely under way. Detroit held their slim margin until a few seconds from the end of the second period when Ward and Trottier combined for the equalizer. Early in the third period Cooper and Sorrell successfully penetrated the Maroon defence, Cooper notching the goal. Seibert flashed a light for the tying goal when he secured from a face-off and sent the puck past Dolsin as he fell.

Canadiens lengthened their lead in the Canadian section by winning a free-scoring Saturday night game from the hapless Senators of Ottawa, 8 to 3, the latter stretching their losing streak to seven straight games and losing their third game of the season to the Habitants.

Ottawa scored first through Touhey, but it only took Canadiens two minutes to go into the lead on successive goals by Leduc and George Mantha, who took Leduc's pass for the second counter to end the scoring for the first period. Ottawa had Billy Beveridge in goal in place of the brilliant Alexander Connell, who was on the sick list.

In the second period Mantha, who was playing for Joliat, out through a suspension, scored his second goal on a pass from Morenz, the latter also furnishing Mondou with an assist to fatten his average as leading goal-scorer. Lepine added further to the count on Mondou's pass, while Danny Cox and Lamb countered for Ottawa, the former on a pass from Grosvenor.

The Canadiens outscored their opponents in the last period three to two on goals by Gagnon, Morenz, and Wasnie, while Touhey and Gagne scored for the Senators, Lamb and Grosvenor getting assists. Mantha helped Gagnon notch his counter to finish a fine performance on the left patrol.

In the all-American contest the hapless Philadelphia Quakers again fell before the New York Rangers, 4 to 2, enabling the latter to draw up within one point of the second place Chicago Black Hawks and ease another point from the pussuing Falcons of Detroit.

All the scoring was done in the first two periods, Keeling aided by Thompson and Boucher unassisted scoring for Rangers in the first. Bun Cook and Brother Bill brewed a pair of goals in the second period on assists by Jerwa and Boucher respectively, while Cally McCalmon was helping himself to two counters with the help of Lowrey and Lyons who figured in both goals. The third period was scoreless.

CAMERON VANCE IS AWARDED HONORS

Wins Norman Allen Scolarship at Millbrook Continuation School.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29. (Examiner Correspondence).—The Norman Allen Scholarship, for the year just closing, has been awarded to Cameron Vance, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Vance, as the boy with the best all-round record in the Continuation School during the year 1930.

Public presentation of the framed certificate will be made to Cameron when suitable occasion presents itself, the cheque for fifty dollars, which represents the value of the scholarship, having been mailed by the secretary-treasurer of the school board, following the meeting at which the decision of the winner for the year was arrived at. Recommendation by the teaching staff determines the board's action.

The scholarship was given by Mrs. (Dr.) Norman Allen, of Toronto, in memory of her husband, who in his boyhood days, was a pupil at the Millbrook public school. Dr. Allen was a son of the late Venerable Archdeacon Allen, and one of a family of eight boys all of which received a part of their education at the local school.

HERD UNABLE TO WIN DOUBLE OVER WEEK-END

Shutout London Tecumsehs 4 to 0 in Saturday Night's Game.

SYRACUSE GAME ROUGH.

Lauder, Klein and Palangio Are Successful Marksmen For Stars.

TORONTO, Ont., December 29 (C.P.). — The surprising win of the last place Syracuse Stars over the Buffalo Bisons, league leaders, by a three to one count featured the week-end games in the International Hockey League.

Te Bisons turned back te London Tecumsehs for the third successive time, 4 to 0, on Saturday night at Fort Erie, but failed in the iron man stunt and travelled to Syracuse for Sunday night's game, only to lose to the lowly Stars. It was the latter's first victory over Buffalo this season.

It was the second game for the Stars on successive nights also, for on Saturday they were the victims of a 3 to 2 defeat at the hands of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets on the latter's home stand. In the only other game played the Cleveland Indians trounced Detroit 4 to 0.

Against the Tecumsehs, Cahill took Huard's pass to open the scoring in the second period and Bogardis and Martin combined to make it two for the Bisons. Gross and Voss added two more in the third period to make the score 4 to 0, the sixth shut-out of the season for Bill Taugher.

The game at Syracuse was a wild and rough one. Lauder netted in the first period to give the Stars the lead which they held through the second period. The Bisons tried a five-man offensive in the third period and the Stars took advantage to slip in two more counters through Palangio and Klein. Gross saved Buffalo from a shutout.

Penalties played an important part in the game between the Yellow Jackets and Syracuse on Saturday. The Stars scored through Brown and Markle while the Pittsburgh team was short-handed. Pittsburgh took advantage of Star penalties to notch one goal, Fraser scoring and the Stars led two to one at the end of the first period.

Oulette and Tex White, in the second and third periods respectively scored the goals that gave the Yellow Jackets their margin of victory while the Stars were unable to beat Cox.

A spectacular scoring spree in the third period gave the Cleveland Indians a clean cut victory over Detroit. After two scoreless periods goals from the sticks of Dunning, Gray, Young, and Williams followed in quick succession when the half-way mark had been reached in the final period. Brophy furnished two assists, and Gray and Doraty one each in the scoring bee.

FUR FROM RUSSIA

England, are re-exporting them to this country at a price with which the Canadian trade cannot compete.

Would Destroy Industry

"There is a definite design on the part of the Soviets to destroy the fur industry throughout the world," F. H. Burkholder, President of the Guild, said to-day. "It is an established fact that in the London and European markets the Soviets are offering raw furs at a price considerably lower than that of Canadian furs, while at the same time they are selling manufactured and semi-manufactured articles at a price that is even lower than the raw material.

"This is an impossible situation. In Russia, the fur trade like all other industries, is nationalized, while we in Canada have to provide for the trapper, the collector, and all the other agencies necessary to the maintenance of the industry. In Russia the furs are in the first place the property of the Government; they are secured under conditions of virtual slavery; the collectors simply go through the country gathering them in, initial costs being practically nothing.

"The Soviets have established factories which copy European and North American stayles, and they are seeking to control not only the market for pelts but that also for manufactured goods. The competition is not fair competition, and it is against that we are protesting."

An Investment in Opportunity for Your Children

... A University Bond

UNIVERSITY training is becoming increasingly important. Chances of success in business and in the professions depend more and more upon the preliminary training received. For these reasons many parents make great sacrifices in order that their boys and girls may go to university.

But it is no longer necessary either to sacrifice yourself to give your son or daughter an education, or forego your dreams of a university degree for them. The Dominion Life University Bond will provide the needful funds.

This money is guaranteed to be there when needed, whether you live, die, or become totally disabled. The moment you make your first deposit on a Dominion Life University Bond, your child's education is assured. Should you die, all deposits cease, but the bond is still payable at maturity. The proceeds of this bond can be made payable in instalments, at the beginning of each month of each college term for three, four or five years, as desired.

RELIABLE STATISTICS prove that income depends largely on training. Those with university education receive a larger average income than those of high school training who, in turn, have a higher average income than those whose schooling ceased with public school.

Is it not worth while then, in view of these considerations, to give your boy or girl a better chance to succeed in life? With the aid of a Dominion Life University Bond, the provision of a university course requires little effort and no serious sacrifice. It is practically a savings account, with this vital improvement:—That whatever happens to you, your plans will be carried out. We will gladly send you full information. Just mail the coupon today.

FORMER LEAF GOALIE STARS AS BOSTON DEFEATS TIGERS

Scores Shut-out in His First Start With a Minor Team.

BY 1-0 COUNT.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 29.—Boston Tigers, greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Benny Grant, erstwhile Toronto goalkeeper, turned savagely on the Providence Reds here Saturday night and defeated them, 1-0, in a slam-bang hocky game. It was the first victory the Bengals scored over the Reds in more than a year.

The Tigers had to wait almost 44 minutes before "Yank" Boyd caged on a pass from Eddie Burke. The Reds then put on a furious five-man attack, but it stalled when Roger Cormier was sent off to serve a major penalty. The victory enabled the Tigers to overtake the Philadelphia Arrows and move out of the Canadian-American League cellar.

DAZZY VANCE LEADS HURLERS

Far in Advance in Earned Run Ratings of National League.

ASH LEADS OTHERS.

NEW YORK, December 29. — If the report is true that Dazzy Vance was waiting for the release of the National League pitching averages before talking over the terms of his 1931 contract, the big Brooklyn hurler now has something to work on. The official figures, released on Saturday, show the Dazzler far ahead of any other pitcher in the earned run ratings.

Vance also shared the lead with Charley Root of Chicago in shutouts, each registering four, and gave Bill Hallahan of St. Louis a close race for strike-out honors. Dazzy fanned 173, and Hallahan 177.

Vance Takes Big Lead.

Vance, pitching 259 innings in 35 games, won a rating of 2.61 earned runs per nine-inning game. Carl Hubbell of New York finished second in the list of regular hurlers, who pitched ten or more complete games, with a 3.87 rating. His teammate, Bill Walker, came in third with a 3.93 mark, and Pat Malone of Chicago finished close behind at 3.94.

Only Malone of the first four in the earned run ratings could finish well up in the record of games won and lost. With twenty victories and nine defeats, for a .690 percentage, Malone took second place. Fred Fitzsimmons of New York turned in 19 victories and seven defeats to lead in this respect with .711. Hubbell placed thirteenth on the list with 17 games won and 12 lost. Vance and Walker each won 17 games and lost 15 to tie for fifteenth place.

Ash Leads Others.

Among the hurlers who took part in more than 10 contests, but failed to complete that many games, Ken Ash of Cincinnati had a perfect record with two victories to his credit and no defeats. Hollis Thurston led this group in the earned run ratings with a 3.40 mark.

Harold (Ace) Elliot of Philadelphia won the distinction of pitching in the greatest number of games last season. He appeared on the mound 48 times. Malone and Ervin Brame of Pittsburg hurled 22 complete games apiece. Malone and Remy Kremer of Pittsburg turned in 20 victories apiece to share the lead. Kremer, pitching 276 innings, the league's biggest total, allowed the most hits, 336, and the most runs, 181.

Hallahan Wild Man.

Wild Bill Hallahan, the strike-out king, lived up to his name by walking 126 batsmen for an unthreatened lead. Guy Bush of Chicago made 12 wild pitches and set a new league record by allowing 165 earned runs. Ray Benge of Philadelphia made the previous mark of 139 in 1929.

Grover Clexeland Alexander appeared in nine early season games for the Phillies before he dropped out of the league. Although he failed to win one, Old Pete recorded his twentieth National League season and piled up a lifetime mark of 696 games. This, with the total of 373 victories, gave him a pair of league records.

AT THE REGENT

"AFRICA SPEAKS"

Imagine an inland lake with encompassing walls of living rock, two hundred and fifty feet high, its placid waters, their source a mystery, covered with thousands of pale pink flamingoes, their feathers tipped with red. Here, in the waters that are their cradle and finally become their grave, they live, breed and die.

Imagine a race of tiny people, averaging about four feet in height, the pygmies of the African jungles, dressed mainly in "sunshine" as the missionaries so tactfully phrase it, practising companionate marriage and doing the jazz dances that are so popular in civilized regions. These are skilful archers and their arrows find the mark with unerring aim. They dip their iron tips in poison and then blame the deaths of victims on the man who makes the poison. Sophistry dwells in the jungle of Africa, as well, apparently.

Imagine beasts that fly — literally and truthfully. They are like fairy-tale animals, these bounding impalla antelopes of the African veldt springing into the air like rubber balls.

It is an intriguing picture, this presentation of the life and manners of darkest Africa—the challenger, as it is termed. It shows in reality the strange animals of that far-off continent. And the faithful camera even records the pulsating heat waves of the terrific heat belts and hearse cough of the prowling lion.

The plague of locusts that fell upon the recalcitrant dwellers of ancient Biblical days here has its modern reincarnation. Millions of the strange insects fly across the screen in an onrush that kills every living thing in range. They beat like hail on the canvas top of the tent where the men crouch and they spread death and devastation over the land. The camera records the flight of the wildebeete herd before them. The animals must gallop madly for fifty miles before they can escape that ravaging horde, and they must make their way instinctively in a route that cuts at right angles to the falling insects.

Then there are the duck-billed woman, with their distended, horrible upper lips, considered so admirable by their male companions. And there are the Masai or lion-hunters, screened as they make their kill, after the lion has destroyed one of their band. But they mourn for the king of beasts, even though they destroy him, and they sing their queer song of the lion as they sorrowfully surround the form of the fallen king of the veldt.

It is a picture that will not be seen again in a lifetime, probably, as it delineates the results of a remarkable trip by intrepid cameramen who must have risked their lives again and again to get these presentations of the life of Africa. It will be here for four days, until Wednesday night, and affords a rare opportunity for nature-lovers and the seekers after thrills.

Shamrocks Leading

ST. PAUL, Minn. Dec. 29.—Chicago Shamrocks took undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League by defeating Buffalo here Sunday afternoon, 1 to 0, Birdie Brydson, clever Chicago centre, picked up a pass from his fleet left winger, Bob Burns, midway through the third period to score the game's only goal.

It was Buffalo's home game, the Buffs using St. Paul as a temporary home.

LOCAL SEASON WILL GET UNDER WAY TO-NIGHT

Havelock - Norwood Combines Will Clash at Brock St. Rink.

WILL BE A BATTLE.

Two Outfits Look to be Very Evenly Matched and Game Will Be Close.

The new hockey season will be ushered in here to-night, when the Havelock-Norwood Combines will meet St. John's in a Junior O.H.A. battle that should get the long campaign away to a flying start. The change to slightly colder weather has given the ice-making squad at Brock Street Rink a chance to improve the cushion and the ice should be in much better shape than it was when the two teams met at Norwood on Friday.

The Saints and Combines clashed four times last season and every game was a real argument. Judging by Friday's scoreless tussle they are still evenly matched and the game to-night will probably be won and lost by a small margin.

Both outfits have made many changes since last season, but the Combines have more of last year's outfit left than have the Saints, and they will be just that much harder to take.

The game is called for 8.15 o'clock, and with popular prices there should be a real crowd out to see the lid taken off the new season.

31 PRIVATE CAR LICENSES ISSUED

This Year's Plates Are of Black Letters on Yellow Background.

The 1931 licenses and license plates are being issued in Peterborough at the present. The plates are heavier, and have a yellow background bearing plainly visible black letter and figures. Ontario maintains her status as being the only consistency in America using the system of five-character license plates. The idea is borrowed from Great Britain, and it is therefore another little bond of unity between the two countries.

J. Gillespie, president of the Peterborough Automobile Club obtained the first license issued in this city, DZ 501. The next three were assigned to E. G. Patterson, W. H. Bradburn and H. I. Bradburn.

No truck or commercial license have been received to date, though they are expected to arrive any day now. 31 private licenses have been given so far.

Springfield Wins 13th Straight Tilt

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 29. — Showing that they can hold their own at rough hockey, the Springfield Indians ran their string of victories to 13 here Saturday night, when they defeated the Philadelphia Arrows 4 to 1.

The Arrows left the ice with a 1 to 0 lead at the end of the first period by reason of Buckles's assisted goal, but in the following sessions the superiority of the Carroll men asserted itself. The second line of Benson, Maracle and Saunders played a prominent part in the latest win of the tribe.

By winning, the Indians matched the unbeaten streak of the Providence Reds, champions in 1929-30, who put together 11 triumphs and two ties before succumbing.

One Killed, 3 Injured In Crash

Mrs. Richard L. Walsh of Hamilton, Ont., died from a broken back, her husband lost one arm, and three other persons were seriously injured when a light sedan driven by John Murphy, Toronto, skidded at high speed and crashed into an oncoming street car. The force of the impact is graphically illustrated by the photograph of the wrecked car reproduced above.

Of course!

WHEN you want to get down-town in a hurry, you don't sprint ten or twenty blocks in order to be there on time. You take an automobile or a street car, of course.

When you want to ask a question of a friend who lives a mile or so away, you don't walk to his house to find out what you want to know. You call him on the telephone, of course.

And so it goes—in all the affairs of your daily life. You take the easy, intelligent means of accomplishment every time.

When you want to buy a refrigerator or a car or a piano, you don't need to look all over town to discover the kind you want. You read the advertisements in your newspaper. They bring you all the facts necessary to decide just which refrigerator or car or piano will give you the most satisfaction, how much to pay, where to buy it.

You buy through the advertisements because they save you time and effort. Because they enable you to command certain values. Because they assure you of getting reliable and economical products every time.

It pays to read the advertisements

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

ST. JOHN'S S.S., LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Monday evening [illegible] held a [illegible] Christmas [illegible] some [illegible] a very [illegible] and good [illegible] the [illegible] Rev. [illegible] Smith, Mr. Wallace Payne and Fred Hannah [illegible] and on [illegible] program opened by a chorus [illegible] singing "Silent Night, Holy [illegible] the girls being Elizabeth [illegible] Denise Hill, Alice Chappell, Patricia Earnshaw, Marjorie Creighton, Patricia Wannamaker and Jean Blewett. Then followed a number of recitations by Joe Kendall, Elsie Chappell, Elizabeth Twist and Denise Hill.

Then a little play entitled "The Prickly Prince" was very cleverly put on by a number of children, with Jean Blewett as the queen, John Creighton in royal scarlet robes and cloak as the King; Gordon Hampton as the prince, whom nothing did amuse him. Patricia Earnshaw was the fairy godmother apparently, with her magic wand who was given the task of amusing the prince or being relegated to the scullery. Two attendants were Marjorie Creighton and Dennis Remnant, who helped the godmother solve the problem. Bobbie Brown, Ralph Mason, Alice Chappell, Johnny Hampton, Nellie Stenner, Jack Chappell and Marion Twist were the story book children, who succeeded in amusing the prickly prince. Patricia Earnshaw made a real hit in a very difficult role, but all did splendidly, showing talent. Patricia Wannamaker and Kenneth Remnant then contributed recitations and Herrick Brown gave a piano solo which was much appreciated.

A recitation and drill, "Five Little Soldiers (Gordon Hill, Joe Kendall, Clifford Charlton, Charlie Earnshaw and Kenneth Remnant), made a real hit and did excellently well.

Patricia Earnshaw recited, also Helen Hill (the youngest performer). A pretty chorus by a quintet of girls, Jean Blewett, Patricia Earnshaw, Alice Chappell, Marjorie Creighton and Patricia Wannamaker, followed.

A series of recitation by Alice Chappell, Gordon Hill, Margaret Mason, Vivian Charlton, Johnny Hampton, followed in quick succession. Jean Blewett and Patricia Wannamaker sang a duet very sewetly and Herrick Brown played another piano solo. A dialogue with three boys, who each told of their favorite tree, made a hit; Joe Blewett gave his reasons for preferring the apple tree, while Jack Woodhouse liked the walnut tree, but Alan Mason's preference for the Christmas tree had the approval of the audience, at least the juvenile section.

"The Teacher's Pet" is a scene in a backwoods school of pioneer days, reminiscent of "Glengarry School Days," was a short one-act play by eight boys; George Chappell as the teacher and Jack Woodhouse, Joe Blewett, Jack Smith, Ralph Hampton, Tom Junkin, Douglas Dench and Ralph Mason. It was very laughable and concluded the program and at the opportune moment, Santa, the busy old patron saint of children, appeared; a magnificent figure in scarlet coat and cap and white beard, just like the pictures, and presents, candy and oranges were distributed to the children of the school. After the distribution of gifts the entertainment closed in the usual manner.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL, LAKEFIELD

On Monday evening the Sunday School Christmas entertainment of the Baptist Church was held, beginning at 6.30 when scholars, parents and friends sat down to a splendid supper provided by the ladies. Afterwards a good program was rendered by the scholars, consisting of songs, recitations and short speeches and enjoyed very much by the well-filled schoolroom. Santa arrived in the usual way and received a great welcome from all; gifts from a well-loaded tree were then handed around including a packet for the pastor and his wife which, on opening, disclosed a generous number of bills ($5, $2 and $1) to which Rev. J. B. McCormack spoke in words of deep appreciation for the kind way the members of the church remembers both Mrs. McCormack and himself each Christmas time. After the singing of the National Anthem, all expressed satisfaction with the evening's entertainment.

In the packet, given Rev. Mr. McCormack there was an address with the money, which expressed on behalf of the members of the Lakefield Baptist Church, their appreciation of the efforts made by the pastor and his good wife in the interests of the congregation, and in helping them to a higher plane of love for one another and the spiritual uplift of the community. The gift is but a tangible recognition of the esteem and affection in which both Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McCormack are held. The address was signed by Mrs. S. Hunter, the superintendent of the Sunday School, and W. Macdonald, honorary deacon.

A recitation was given by Violet Akey, "Christmas." Margaret Sangster), which was followed by a Christmas acrostic by the little folks of the Sunday school.

A dialogue followed, with Leila Lee as Grandma, and Margaret Lee, Billy Aylesworth, Ewart Reynolds, and Betty Elvin as Grandchildren, in which the true Legend of the Christmas Rose was told, and incidently a bouquet of Christmas roses left as a gift to little orphans.

A very dainty and prettily executed dance was given by Lorraine Avery and Jean Phillips, and was followed by a recitation by Olive Storring. A pretty fairy solo and chorus was given by Jean Nickle and a circle of smaller children, after which a dialogue, "Father Christmas Comes to Supper," with Bobby Aylesworth as Santa, Jean Phillips as Governess, Lorraine and Edgar Avery, and Mary Smith as the children entertaining Santa, and Ewart Reynolds as Santa's secretary. Annie gave a Christmas recitation, and a dialogue, "Christmas in Other Lands," was given by ten children dressed in the costumes of Turkey, Japan, Africa, China, Burma, and the lands of the far north, to visit Canadian children and to see the Canadian Christmas tree. The program was brought to a close by a merry chorus of "Jingle Bells," after which the prizes for the different classes in the Sunday school were awarded by Rev. P. A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FLAPPY CURTAIN.

"Don't you want to come to the movies with us to-night, Wiggy?" asked his wife after supper. "Nurse Jane and I are going to take all the children."

"All of them?" asked Mr. Longears, sort of putting his paw in the pocket where he kept his money when he had any to keep. "Did you say all the children, my dear?"

"Yes. Why not?" asked Mrs. Longears. "None of them want to stay at home. We'll take them all. Don't you want to come?"

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggily, who, much as he loved his little bunny boys and girls, felt a bit queer when he thought of taking al forty sixteen of them at once, "thank you, but I'll stay at home. I am expecting Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman, over to play checkers."

"All right, then, Nurse Jane and I will take the children and we'll have a good time. There is quite a wonderful talkie at the theater to-night," went on the rabbit lady. "It's about a carrot that went to live all alone on a desert island."

"Bless my pink nose! Whatever did it do that for?" asked Mr. Longears.

"You'll have to come to the movies to find out," his wife answered with a laugh.

"No, thank you. I'll stay home. I guess the carrot went to live on a desert island because it was tired of being in the soup all the while," said Uncle Wiggily. "Hop along, my dear, with Nurse Jane and the children. Here's the money. I suppose you'll have to take nearly all the seats in the theater to get room for our bunch!" and he laughed for he did have a great many bunnies.

"Oh, we'll find room," said Mrs. Longears. "Come on, Nurse Jane! Come on, children!"

Left all alone in the bungalow, Uncle Wiggily went about pulling down the window shade curtains, for it was now night though inside the bungalow it was light. Many lightning bugs in milk bottles made lanterns that gave a fine glow.

"I don't want any of the Bad Chaps peering in at me when Mr. Twistytail and I are playing checkers," murmured Uncle Wiggily, pulling down the last curtain at the window near where he was going to sit. But as he pulled the curtain down, all of a sudden it rolled up again with a flippity flap and the stick on the bottom banged the rabbit gentleman on his nose.

"Oh, what a flappy curtain!" cried Uncle Wiggily, gently rubbing his nose.

"Rolling itself up that way as soon as I touch it. I must pull it down again."

Once more he pulled down the shade to darken the window, but all of a sudden the curtain rolled up again, and, once more, the stick hit the bunny gentleman on his nose.

"I guess I'll have to hold that curtain down a bit until it gets to sleep. Then maybe it will stay down," thought Mr. Longears. He got a chair to stand on, as he had done before, for the shade had rolled all the way up to the top.

The next time he pulled the shade down part way, held it there a while and let go. The curtain did not flap up.

"I guess it's going to sleep!" whispered the bunny. "And I'll open the window a little to give it fresh air. It will also make the room cooler when Twisty and I play checkers."

Uncle Wiggily raised the window part way, pulling the shade down all the way and held it there. Slowly and carefully he took his hand off, half expecting the shade to flap up again, but it stayed down.

"I guess it's asleep now and won't wake up and flap any more," said the bunny gentleman. Then in came Mr. Twistytail and the two old animal gentlemen began to play checkers. All of a sudden there was a noise at the open window behind the pig.

"What's that?" he grunted.

"Only a flappy curtain," said Uncle Wiggily. "I hope it isn't going to roll up again and make me pull it down." But that's what the shade did. With a clatter and bang it rolled up fast and then there came a howl of pain and Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail saw why.

The Wolf, prowling around the bungalow in the night, had seen the bunny's open window from the outside and decided to come in. But no sooner did the Wolf touch the sill than the flappy curtain awakened, if it ever was asleep, and up it rolled with a clatter and a bang. The stick hit the Wolf on his nose and he howled "Ouch!" jumped down and ran away. The bunny and pig saw him go.

"Well, there are worse things than flappy curtains," said Mr. Longears as he got a hammer and tacks and fastened the shade down. "This flappy curtain scared away the Wolf and saved me from being nibbled."

Then the checker game went on until the children came back from the movies and all was well.

"WHOOPEE" GROSSING BIG

"Whoopee," with Eddie Cantor, the United Artists picture, is landing in the big money. Its gross is figured at least, $2,500,000 with a good percentage of this from the foreign sales. Despite's Cantor's fame unknown in Europe, the picture pulled heavily, with Al Litchman, the U.A. general sales manager, forcing "Whoopee" into popularity through demanding extended playing dates on the splits. This brought them in after the opening and accounts for considerable of the huge gross for these days.

LANG IS MAKING SLOW RECOVERY

Hooey Case is Adjourned in Police Court Until January 26.

NON-SUPPORT CASE.

Slow recovery by James Lang, 135 Dublin street, from injuries received in a motor accident, made necessary this morning in police court a further delay in the hearing of Frank Hooey's case, charged with reckless driving. Lang was severely injured in the accident at the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets on November 18, when he was thrown out of a car and against a Hydro pole. He did not leave hospital until December 24 and was unable to appear in court this morning to testify. The case was remanded until January 26, Hooey being free on bail.

"We all know that he had been taking a wee drop too many," Chief Newhall said of a local man who pleaded guilty to reckless driving. Defence maintained that slippery pavements had caused the collision on Charlotte on December 11, but the Chief stated that the man had been drunk. Because the other parties to the accident refused to be "mixed up in it" the charge of drunk in charge of a car, had to be reduced to reckless driving. The man was fined $25 and costs, and promised to pay for all repairs to the other car.

Pleading guilty to speeding on Hunter street on December 20, another local man was fined $25. Too keen an interest in inventions caused a local man to appear charged with non-support of his child. Police claim the man has been wasting his time working out schemes to build folding wagons, collapsible wheel barrows, etc., while his child starved. He was remanded and will likely be charged with insanity.

Leadership is essential in any community and the Chamber of Commerce develops leadership.

CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 29 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A very large audience was present on Friday evening in the Salvation Army Temple, Campbellford, to witness the annual Christmas entertainment staged by the young folks and assisted by the adults. The chairman for the evening was Mayor C. H. Davidson, who in a few brief remarks expressed his pleasure at being present and wished all the compliments of the season.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of prizes to the children for the most regular attendance, and the arrival of Santa Claus with candies, which he distributed among the children.

The program was a very interesting one, the children performing their parts with the assurance of good training. The evening opened with the singing of a hymn and prayer and scripture reading by the officers of the local corps.

The program was as follows: Chairman's remarks; "Welcome," Joe Bennett; "Christmas Day," the School; "Christmas Weather," Harold Cochrane; "Christmas Lullaby," three tots; "Long Distance," Murray Thomas; "Brown's Memory," Mr. Bateman; "Mother's Gift," Bernice Pickering; instrumental quartet; "Christmas Stocking," Doreen Cochrane; "Neighbors," two ladies; "Seen but not Heard," Albert Melvin; "Bethlehem, Manger," Thomas children; "Daddy's Present," Beatrice Pickering; "Joy to the World," 14 children; "A Prayer for Others," Lily Pickering; "Jack Frost and Tom Ruddy," Douglas Pickering and Jim Clark; "Christmas Part," Harry Bessinger; "Christmas Cake," Sand Leavy; "A Greeting," Isabel Cochrane; "Christmas Message," Alice Thomas, and "How Grandma Caught the Christmas Spirit," seven adults.

Every man ought to have an interest outside of his business and the biggest and the best interest he can have is the improvement of the city in which his business is located. This is the view of the Chamber of Commerce.

Cyclist Is Injured When Struck By Car

In the only accident reported to the police over the week-end, Wilfred Boddy, 582 Bolivar street, escaped injuries when he was thrown from his bicycle by contact with a car driven by Joseph Sucee, 169 Hunter street. The accident took place at the corner of Hunter and Mark streets at 5.20 p.m. The motorist was proceeding east on Hunter and was making a left hand turn into Mark street when Boddy, who was riding west on Hunter, was struck.

The Chamber of Commerce, having close affiliation with Provincial, National and International Chambers of Commerce is the only body so constituted that it can quickly develop the opinions of business and professional men and logically present their views to Government.

ELECT JIM ELLIS

AS

Alderman

FOR 1931.

He will bring a life-long business training to assist in the transaction of the City's affairs on a sound, economical basis.

I regret that it was necessary to hold an election, when acclamation would have given the Council a lot more money to help the needy.

I would urge Council to induce the Dominion Government to assume all old age pensions, relieving City taxpayers of about $14,000.00.

That single jobless men should be provided with a place to sleep and eat, as some are now sleeping in barns and being driven to crime in desperation at their extreme need. With an abundance of wheat and meat in the country, wood rotting in the bush and swamp because people are unable to buy it, there never was so much want.

The City might buy a block of wood land, giving employment to many in cutting and hauling it to the city wood yard, helping out relief in several ways.

Widows with one child ought to be included in the widows' allowance.

That suburban roads ought to be maintained by the Province, which gets all the revenue, or else give the City its share of the gas tax sufficient to pay our portion of the upkeep.

I am in favor of a city paving plant, employing only City labor to pave our streets.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 31 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Rokoff leaped to his feet and turning, faced the Swede cook. "Get out of here!" roared the Russian. For answer, the cook's great hand slid to the handle of a long, slim knife beneath his greasy apron. Rokoff saw the move—and stopped short. Then in French he said to Lady Greystoke: "Tomorrow you shall answer. You will come to me willingly or I'll kill the child before your very eyes!"

With these ominous words Rokoff banged out of the cabin. After a moment of silence the Swede spoke. The idiotic look that had masked his thoughts fell away, giving place to one of craft and cunning. "He think I'm fool," he whispered. "I savvy French. You bane good to me. He treat me like dirty dog. I help you lady. You yust valt. I help you escape." Jane could hardly believe her ears. Was escape possible?

Later when he brought her frugal dinner, he whispered very low: "Leave on your clothes an' roll your blankets. I come back after you purty soon." He would have slipped from the room at once, but Jane laid her hand upon his sleeve. "My baby?" she asked. "I cannot go without him." He made no answer. When he had gone, Tarzan's wife sank into utter bewilderment. Suspicion as to the intentions of this Swede swarmed through her brain.

Yet, she reasoned, she could be no worse off in his company than with Nikolas Rokoff and his gang. And so she obeyed the Swede's instructions. At midnight came a soft tap at her door. Cautiously she unbolted it to admit the muffled figure of the cook. He came quite close to her. Extending one of the bundles he carried, he thrust it into her arms. "Do not make some noise," he said, "It ban your kid."

When YouVote

Remember that Ald. McNabb firmly opposed, in Council and in the Press, approximately 11,804 square yards of asphalt street paving being done by out-of-town contractors without tendering for same. Jack's policy is, "No public work that the city cannot do should be undertaken without first calling for tenders.

Had this paving of Parkhill and Armour Roads been laid in concrete by day labor the city would have saved in the neighborhood of $11,000.

NORTH DAKOTA'S STATE CAPITAL RAZED BY FIRE

Mysterious Explosion Blamed—Monetary Loss Estimated at $1,000,000.

STATE SECRETARY INJURED.

Value of Documents Destroyed Claimed to be Incalculable —Many Not Replacable.

BISMARCK, N.D., December 29 (C.P.). — Fire destroyed North Dakota's capital yesterday, with a monetary loss of about $1,000,000, and a loss in state documents said to have been "incalculable."

The fire was believed to have been started by an explosion, the cause of which was not determined.

The building was constructed in three sections in 1885, 1894, and 1904, when the state was united with South Dakota as a Governmental unit under the title of Dakota Territory. It was of brick and frame construction.

Robert Byrne, Secretary of State, was the only person injured. He climbed a ladder, broke the windows of his office, and saved the original copy of the State Constitution. His hand was badly cut by falling glass. Workers in many state offices had time to move out some office furniture and valuable records which were not stored in vaults.

Plans were under way to-day to house State offices and the Legislature in city and public buildings and private offices. It is expected that all state offices will resume business within a few days.

The Legislature will meet on January 16 in a new World War memorial building which is now nearing completion.

Practically all of the official records, files, and historical documents of the state were consumed by the flames.

Cause Great Confusion

"Loss of the records will result in the greatest confusion in the State's history and years will elapse before it is untangled," Governor Shafer said.

Records destroyed or damaged were said by state officials, after a hasty check, to include:

State Land Department—records of $55,000,000 state investments.

State Treasurer's Office—Records of investments aggregating over $40,000,000.

State Highway Department—Profiles and plans for work which, it is estimated, will cost between $200,000 and $300,000 to duplicate.

State Railroad Board — Records which cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to compile.

State Auditor's Office — Records and documents of value undetermined, but "worth a great deal," according to State Auditor John Steen.

Board of Administration—Records and accounts of all State institutions which officials said cannot be replaced.

Governor's Office—Loss of all files and records.

State Hall, bonding and tornado insurance department — Records of millions of dollars of expenditures and collections.

State Tax Commissioner's Office—Records and data destroyed.

State Engineer's Office—Data which required years of work and nearly $100,000 expenditure to accumulate.

State Department of Agriculture and Labor—Records of many years, including those of the dairy department.

State Industrial Commission—Records destroyed.

Before the fire, Governor Shafer had included in his message to the Legislature a recommendation that funds be appropriated for the construction of a new Capitol.

RELIEF WORK IS BEING CARRIED ON

Some Thirty Families Have Been Given Relief Since Christmas.

The members of the Fire Department have expressed their willingness to carry on their "Firemen's Relief Fund" until the community is served by a special committee for handling the problem. Apart from about forty families aided before Christmas, some thirty have been given relief since, thus showing the necessity of carrying on the former work, minus the toy department. The food supplied for the Christmas dinners will soon be exausted, and more must be obtained.

For this reason the work will continue, and all donations will be gratefully received both by the firemen and the unfortunate families served. Special calls are coming in for children's clothing, for two or three more stoves, and furniture of any kind.

Quaker Oats Closes In Memory Of Douglas

As a token of reverence and respect to the memory of James H. Douglas, director of the Quaker Oats Company, Limited, who passed away suddenly at his residence Lake Forest, Illinois, on Saturday morning, and whose remains are being interred this afternoon, the Peterborough plant closed at noon to-day, and the windows in the offices were sheathed in their blinds.

The late Mr. Douglas was known to several friends in this district, his parents having lived in Warkworth.

WEDDINGS

HAYES—HEALEY

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 29.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday in the Church of the Annunciation when Miss Margaret L. Healey, daughter of the late Mortimer J. Healey and Mrs. Healey of Norwood became the bride of Joseph P. Hayes son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes of Windsor. Rev. Father Stapleton officiated. The bride was attired in guardsman blue chiffon, trimmed with lace, hat and shoes matching, carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with maidenhair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn C. Healey, sister of the bride, wore golden flat crepe and carried yellow roses and heather. The bride travelled in a costume of hunting green, with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left for Toronto and points east. On their return they will reside in Windsor.

OBITUARY

MISS A. JEAN COLLISON

LINDSAY, Dec. 29.—After a brief illness the death occurred at St. John's Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday, of Alba Jean, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Giles Collison, Lindsay, Ont., in her 19th year. She was educated at Lindsay Collegiate, and at St. Hilda's College, Toronto, and was in her third year at the latter institution. She took a keen interest in church affairs and was popular in social circles in Toronto and Lindsay. Besides her parents, one brother, Giles, survives.

Re-Elect NAGLE PHELAN Alderman

He solicits your Vote and Influence on his record of 11 years energetic service in the interests of the WHOLE Community.

Experience in municipal affairs will count more next year than ever. Re-elect an experienced Alderman

To the Electors

On the eve of an election is an excellent time for you to give some thought to the city's financial problems.

There are of course, essential services that cannot be curtailed.

The work of the City must go on. The streets must be kept up and properly cleaned. The garbage must be collected, the Fire and Police Departments maintained, and the hundred and one other civic services carried on as usual, but any capital expenditures, during the next year or two must be carefully considered, and if possible the tax rate must be reduced.

The Old Age Pension and the Mothers' Allowance are good acts and must be supported, and we all want Provincial Highways, but I would like to see the Province pay the whole cost of these expenditures, and relieve the City from the large percentage they have to contribute yearly towards them and thus reduce the tax rate.

If elected I will urge your Council to endeavor to have the Ontario Government assume 100% of this expenditure, and also I will endeavor in all other ways possible, to keep down civic expenditures.

I am quite a large tax payer myself, the property I am interested in, being assessed to contribute approximately 4000.00 yearly to the City's coffers, so naturally I want to see the tax rate just as low as it is possible to have it.

Last Official Function to be Levee in Senate Chamber New Year's Day.

SHORT STAY IN ENGLAND.

No Information Available as to New Governor General or His Arrival.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 30 (C.P.). — Announcement that the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon will leave Canada for England, and subsequently for their new post in India, on January 16, was made at Government House this morning. Their Excellencies will leave Ottawa by special train at noon on Wednesday, January 14, for St. John, N.B., there to board the steamer Montclair for England

The journey to St. John will be broken at Quebec, where Their Excellencies spent several summers, and where they may attend a reception. While in Quebec the party will remain on the special train

Accompanying Their Exellencies will be E. C. Mieville, Governor General's Secretary, and Mrs. Mieville, Captain R. J. Streatfield, and Lieut. D. H. Fuller, R.N. Mr. and Mrs. Mieville will go to India with Their Excellencies.

Last Function New Year's Day.

As a consequence of his early departure for England, the last official function of the Governor-General in Ottawa will be the levee to be held in the Senate Chamber of the Parliament Buildings at noon on New Year's Day. From St. John His Excellency and Lady Willingdon will proceed to London for a short time prior to sailing for India. Lord Willingdon will take up his duties as Viceroy and Governor-General of India about the middle of April.

At Government House no information is obtainable as to Lord Willingdon's successor here. It was announced definitely this morning that no intimation has been received there as to who will succeed the present Governor-General. Apparently there will be an interval between the departure of Lord Willingdon and the appointment of his successor during which period an administrator will act. Chief Justice Anglin, of the Supreme Court of Canada, or, if he should be absent, Mr. Justice Duff, will fill this important post until Canada's new Governor-General arrives to take up his duties at Ottawa.

Cancels Western Trip.

His Excellency had hoped to make a hurried trip through the Prairie Provinces to the Pacific Coast before leaving Canada, but it was stated at Government House that this had been found impossible in view of his very early departure. With regret.

BURMESE REBELS BATTLE BRAVELY

Savages Forced to Retreat Into Tharawaddy Jungle Before British Fire.

OVER 50 CASUALTIES.

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 30. (AP) Savage rebels of the rice swamps and jungle met British soldiers in a fierce battle through the Tharawaddy forest to-day, melting into the woods under a withering machine-gun fire, but fighting on in the crazed bravery of desperation. Framentary reports from the fastnesses where the men of the jungle, clad in picturesque uniforms which look like blue pajamas, had barricaded themselves indicated that the insurgents had lost between 50 and 100 men, with many more wounded. No casualties were reported by the Government forces.

The British were said to have surrounded the rebels in a wild, hilly region where there is little food and less water. Presumably the enemy was making its last stand under the mysterious "master mind" who is believed to have directed the raids which have terrorized the countryside for two weeks.

As though to show that their spirit was still unconquered despite their increasingly precarious position, the native forces accomplished a brilliant sortie last night, burning down one village on the edge of the jungle after its inhabitants had fled in

Nabs Petty Bandit After "Hot" Chase

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—Speed and courage learned years ago on the lacrosse field at Campbellford, served Martin McCann, now proprietor of Martin's restaurant, Yonge Street, in good stead last night when a thief grabbed $257 from the hands of a girl cashier in his restaurant. McCann dashed after the fleeing robber and caught him after a thrilling two-block race through dense traffic. When cornered in a doorway the thief gave his name as William Buttery. On him was found $215. He had dropped $42 of his loot in his hasty get-away.

An official statement to-day does not appear likely, but one will be issued, it is stated, within a few days.

Sir George Perley presided at the meeting of the Cabinet. No announcement was made at the close of the morning sitting.

AUTO INSURANCE RATES TOO HIGH HODGINS STATES

Methods Employed By Underwriters in Setting Increase Termed Unreasonable.

ACTION NOT JUSTIFIED.

Claims Owners of Private Autos Were Overcharged $654,318 in 1929.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 30.—Drastic findings against the increased rates fixed by the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' Association in 1929, and against the method employed by the Association in establishing the same, are revealed by Justice Hon. Frank E. Hodgins, in the final report of his two-year Royal Commission inquiry into Ontario's automobile insurance premium rates.

The Report

This report, which was released yesterday on instructions from Attorney-General William H. Price, sets forth these finds (in part) as follows:

"I find that the automobile insurance premium rates fixed by the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' Association, the 'Bureau,' effective Feb. 1, 1929, were unreasonably high, and were not properly deduced from the experience which the companies then had, and are not justified by the later and detailed experience of the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, submitted to me since this inquiry began.

"I find that the basis of the 1929 Bureau rates was the rates fixed in 1928, which, in turn, were founded on those of 1927. I further find that the 1927 rates were not properly deduced from the experience which the Bureau companies then had, but were purposely kept lower than was justified by that experience for the purpose of competing with other companies and driving them out of business. I also find that, with a view of strengthening the Bureau organization and securing the adherence of outside companies, the rates for 1928 were left largely unchanged so as to induce those companies to become members, a policy which succeeded early in 1928, when upward of 35 additional companies accepted membership in the Bureau."

For private passenger cars alone in 1929 the rates fixed by the association were excessive, the report finds, to the extent of $654,318.

Fire Destroys Ottawa Church

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cnurch, one of the largest religious edifices in the Canadian Capital, fell prey to fire over the week-end, and is now a mass of ruins. It is estimated that the building was worth $350,000, while insurance carried on the structure amounts to $160,000. The above picture shows the disastrous conflagration which is reported to have been started by a small boy who knocked over some candles.

INDIAN WOMEN DEMAND VOTE

Point is Gained When Proposals Go to Expert Committee For Study.

FRANCHISE LIMITED NOW.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Indian women want the vote in the new India. Under the present property qualifications women in British India may vote, on a limited franchise. In six of the nine provinces, however, the women voters number only 250,000 against 6,500,000 male voters.

In a sub-committee of the Indian Round Table Conference today the two Indian women delegates, Mrs. Subbarayan and the Begum Shah Nawaz, proposed to even up the figures by giving the vote to every wife and widow of a voter where the woman is 21 years of age or over.

The resulting private debate was described as reminiscent of the British pre-war battles over women's suffrage. The plea of the objectors to the proposal was that it would have the effect of doubling the Indian husband's voting strength.

But, in principle, the Indian women gained their point. Their proposal goes to an expert committee for further examination. And some married members of the committee were not quite so sure that the Indian wife would necessarily vote with her husband. They thought it quite likely the husband would take the road of conversion to Damascus.

Girl Weds Choice, Friend is Jailed

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 30. (CP) For impersonating the father of a young girl who had refused to consent to his daughter's marriage, Lucien Boucher was sentenced to seven months imprisonment, when he pleaded guilty in recorder's court today.

When the father of the girl, who is a miner, refused to sanction his daughter's marriage, Baucher volunteered to represent the parents, signing the papers at the parish church, and carrying out all the other functions necessary to the ceremony, thus permitting the young girl to marry the man of her choice.

PARTY SEEKING FLIERS' REMAINS

Giant Plane Carrying Six With Indian Guide Heads Into Northern Quebec.

START FROM ROBERVAL.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30 (C.P.).—The aeroplane relief expedition to bring the bodies of W. H. Cannon, Montreal pilot, and Leonce Lizotte, his mechanic, out to civilization from the scene of their lonely crash on a hillside near Lake Chibougamau fifteen months ago, took off from the ice at Roberval on Lake St. John today, Curtiss-Reid Airways told the Canadian Press over the long distance telephone to-day. Held to the ground by falling snow yesterday, after being turned back from the 120-mile flight by a blizzard on Sunday, the relief plane piloted by Pete Vachon was scheduled to start at dawn today. The weather was not clear enough to take off at that time, however, and the flyers had to wait several hours.

Six With Guide.

Donat Vachon went with his brother as mechanic. Captain W. S. Lighthall, former president of the Curtiss-Reid Airways, which employed Cannon and Lizotte, lost while flying freight into the mining fields at Chibougamai a year ago last October, is in command of the expedition. Stanley Cannon and Louis Lizotte, brothers of the two dead airmen, also had seats in the plane, together with J. A. McCulloch, insurance adjustor, and Pierre Begin, the Indian who is to direct the pilot to the scene of the crash. Those waiting at the airport at Roberval expect the relief plane back about five o'clock this afternoon with the bodies of the airmen.

Cannon and Lizotte were lost in a blinding snowstorm, and apparently crashed to instant death looking for a place to land their seaplane. The Indian trapper found them sitting dead in the wreckage of the plane which had crashed through a thicket of balsams to plunge its engine deep into the ground. The balsam boughs closed over the plane after it passed through, rendering it invisible from the air. A number of planes spent weeks combing the district from the air in search of Cannon and Lizotte.

WALKOUT LOOMS NEW YEAR'S DAY IN WELSH MINES

Miners Reject Owners Terms For Temporary Working Agreement.

NEITHER LIKELY TO YIELD.

Strike Would Affect 180,000 Men—Object to Wage Cut.

CARDIFF, Wales, Dec. 30 (A.P.)—Miners' delegates this afternoon rejected the owners' terms for extension of a temporary wage and working schedule agreement and a strike in the South Wales fields appeared inevitable.

Such a walkout, affecting nearly 180,000 miners probably would begin on New Year's Day, observers expected. The miners appeared in no mood to yield to the owners' demands, and the owners gave no indication that they would withdraw from their position.

The Differences

The difference between the board's recommendations and the owners' terms upon which the existing temporary agreement is based is briefly that the board establishes the principle of twelve working days, including both Saturday's, in a 90-hour fortnight while the temporary agreement, which the owners wish continued over January, provides for no work on the last Saturday of the fortnight and a total of 87 hours instead of the 90 allowed by the provision for spreadover in the Coal Mines Act.

The miners have asked for a 7¾ hour day for five days week, and 6¼ hours on Saturday so that the board's report also differs from the miners' request. The miners contend as there is only work on eleven shifts in a fortnight under the temporary agreement there is a reduction in earnings.

Half a million men work in the South Wales mines, which are by far the most important in the United Kingdom. Their disagreement with the owners really began months ago and a general dispute in the coal industry early this month brought about a brief strike of 80,000 men in the Scottish mines.

Since the big strike of 1926 the mines were operated on an eight-hour day which was shortened to seven and a half hours.

Moloney Cuts Visit To Hasten Back Home

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 30 (C.P. Cable via Reuter's).—According to the Canberra representative of the Sydney Sun to-day, Hon. Parker Moloney, Australian Minister of Markets, has curtailed his present visit to Canada and will rush back here to attend the party meetings before the opening of the new Parliamentary session.

The session will probably be by far the most important in the history of the Labor administration of Prime Minister James Scullin. Premier Scullin is expected back in Canberra after his visit to England and Europe within two weeks, when he and his supporters will face strong attacks from the left-wing section of the party.

19-Year-Old Girl Dies In Hospital Driver Arrested

Returning From Chemong Late Last Night Car Driven By Allan Lewis Overturns in Ditch Throwing Girl Out Through Roof and Fracturing Her Skull.

DRIVER COMES OFF WITH ONLY A FEW SCRATCHES OTHER PASSENGER, ETHEL GAMBLE HURT INTERNALLY

Party of Eight Had Spent a Few Hours in Cottage at Chemong Park—Lewis Appears in Police Court Charged With Criminal Negligence— Inquest to be Held.

Irene Stewart, 19, daughter of Joseph Stewart, 200 Stewart Street, died in Nicholls' Hospital early this morning, as a result of injuries sustained a little more than an hour previously, when an automobile in which she was a passenger, catapulted into the ditch near the intersection of the Chemong Road and Lindsay Highway.

The driver, Allan Lewis, 19, son of James Lewis, 568 Aylmer street, suffered a badly lacerated face from flying glass. He was held by Provincial Constable D. Sylvester and faced a charge of criminal negligence in police court this morning. R. R. Hall, K. C. appeared for him and no plea or election was taken. He will be detained in custody pending the finding of coroner's jury which will hold an inquest into Miss Stewart's death tomorrow evening.

Internally Injured

The other passenger in the car, Ethel Gamble, received internal injuries and this morning was in a state of nervous exhaustion.

Telling his story of the accident, Allan Lewis said that he in company with seven other young men and women had been out to his father's cottage at Chemong Park. The party consisted of the dead girl, Miss Gamble and himself in one car; and William Ott, of Montreal; Louis Foot, of Fort Hope; Gwen Williams, 363 Engleburn Avenue; a girl employed at the La Mona Beauty Parlors, whose name Lewis did not know; and an unknown youth who accompanied Ott from Montreal.

About 11 o'clock, Lewis said, the party left for Chemong. After spending about an hour in the cottage, the party entered the two cars for the return to Peterborough.

Difficulty In Starting

"Ott had difficulty in getting his car started, so I got away a little ahead of him," stated Lewis. "When I came to the Lindsay Highway, I stopped, then slipped the car into second gear and proceeded. The car began to edge toward the left, still in second. I couldn't seem to stop it; it must have been the steering gear that stuck or a flat tire. When it hit the ditch line, I applied the brakes. The rear swerved into the ditch. We turned right around. That's all I remember. They tell me I was packed up off the hood."

Constable Sylvester investigated the accident. He said Lewis' car tracks showed that he veered over to the east side of the highway, and travelled along for close to 100 feet with his left wheels in the ditch. Careening along, the car smashed into a sign post. Further on it somersaulted completely over, standing on its four wheels turned around facing Chemong.

The car, a coupe, purchased yesterday, was demolished, and it is thought that Miss Stewart was thrown through the roof. Fatally injured, she was picked up 16 feet away from the rear of the car. Rushed to hospital, she died an hour later. Dr. A. G. Howson revealed the death was due to a fractured skull.

Lewis and Miss Gamble were also thrown from the car. Miss Gamble's injuries may prove serious.

Miss Stewart was an employe of the La Mona Beauty Parlors, Kresge Buildings.

Highway Patrol Officer Ted Hornick left this morning for Port Hope to bring back William Ott, Louis Foot, and the unknown man, who Lewis said are staying in Port Hope for a few days.

FIND THIRD BODY IN HOTEL RUINS

Plans of Rooms in Cochrane Death Trap Being Reconstructed to Aid Identification.

SIX IN HOSPITAL.

COCHRANE, Ont., December 30 (C.P.). — Another body was recovered to-day from the ruins of the Queen's Hotel, destroyed by fire yesterday with the loss of 10 or more lives. The removal of the body today brought the number of complete bodies recovered to three, while parts of two others have been found. The latest recovered was evidently that of an occupant of one of the back rooms on the second floor.

Provincial Police were conducting thorough inquiries to-day in an effort to correctly check the number of victims. Charles Palangio, his wife and four children, and Baptiste Zarde of Kirkland Lake are known victims. Three others are known to have been in the midst of the flames. Plans of the upper rooms have been made and where possible the names of occupants have been written in the plans.

The occupant of one room, a permanent resident of the hotel, probably owes his life to the fact that he was arrested on Sunday night for being drunk and disorderly.

James Palangio, Jr., son of the proprietor, is one of the half-dozen persons still in hospital. He has burns on the head and neck. Other hospital cases are Mrs. Rubin, leg burns; George Cole, burns; John Bredeau, broken collarbone; Henry Maki, broken leg; and Carl Anderson, cut legs.

GOV'T PLANS ON WHEAT QUESTION TO BE GIVEN IN REGINA TO-NIGHT

Premier Bennett to Outline Schemes at Large Public Meeting.

EAGERLY AWAITED.

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 30 (By Frank Flaherty, C.P. Staff Writer).—To-night the farmers of Western Canada will learn what the Dominion Government is going to do in connection with the wheat question. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, arrived here to-day and will announce his Government's plans to a large public meeting. It will be Mr. Bennett's first public speech since his return from the Imperial Conference a month ago, and because of the position of Western agriculture, arising out of the low price of wheat, it will rank as one of the most important pronouncements he has made isnce assuming office last August.

The Prime Minister was met at the station this morning by Hon. J. T. M. Anderson, Premier of Saskatchewan, and F. W. Turnbull, Member of Parliament for Regina, together with a group of local Conservatives. He spent the morning talking with Mr. Anderson and Mr. Turnbull and working in his private car, and at noon attended a luncheon tendered by a local Conservative Association.

Toronto Man Is Fined $100 In Cobourg Court

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 30.—Samuel Handelman, Augusta avenue, Toronto, was found guilty on a charge of causing grievous bodily injury and fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Floyd at Cobourg. Handelman was the driver of a car which last summer struck Mrs. Sarah Gillespie, 62-year-old Grafton widow. Mrs. Gillespie is still suffering from injuries.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET GIVEN E. G. PATTERSON OF THE C.G.E.

Manufacturers Make Presentation to City's Foremost Industrial Leader.

SUCCESSOR INTRODUCED.

A complimentary dinner was tendered Edward George Patterson, works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, at the Peterborough Club last evening by members of the Peterborough Manufacturers' Association, prior to his departure for the South for the winter.

At the close of a sumptuous seven-course dinner, the chairman, J. R. Marshall, general manager Canadian Nashua Paper Co., proposed the toast to the King. Following this he briefly introduced the proposer of the toast to "Our Guest," and referred to Mr. Patterson's forty-one years' successful career with the C.G.E. and his public spiritedness in anything pertaining to the welfare of the city.

W. R. Breyfogle, manager of the De Laval Co., in giving the toast to the guest of honor, stated his pleasure in being asked to take this important part. He termed Mr. Patterson "The Dean of Manufacturers" in Peterborough. The loss of such a man from business would make a great gap in the ranks of the Manufacturers' Association. Mr. Patterson is entitled to the deepest respect of the community because of his public activities: he played an important part on the Board of Education of this city; he was instrumental in the rehabilitation of the Chamber of Commerce as a result of a round-table talk about fire prevention in the Fire Hall some years ago, from which evolved the present Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, which deals with industrial and commercial problems. Mr. Patterson was also a personal worker—thousands of young men have passed through his hands in the General Electric, very many of whom have benefitted by his interest and counsel.

In replying to the toast, Mr. Patterson thanked everyone for their kindness toward him in giving him such a splendid banquet.

The chairman, in making the presentation, referred to Mr. Patterson as "The Past Master of Industrial Control," and pronounced him an honorary member of the Peterborough

Rugged Old Soldier Clinging to Life

PARIS, France, Dec. 30. (AP) Death walked close beside Marshal Joffre to-day but the rugged old soldier clung to life with a tenacity which amazed his doctors.

Their morning bulletin said he had taken some nourishment during the night—the first in many hours—but that his lungs were congested, his breathing irregular, and his chances for recovery virtually lacking.

TERRIBLE BURNS FATAL TO BABY

Stratford Girl of Three Plays With Lamp, Clothes Take Fire.

HAD BEEN LEFT IN BED.

STRATFORD, Ont., Dec. 30.— Believed to have been playing with the lamp when she was going to bed last night Ruby Becker, aged 3 and a half years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Becker, lot 17, concession 7, Ellice Township, sustained burns and died this morning in the General Hospital here. The child along with her brother, Lorne, aged five years, had been put to bed and in some manner as yet unknown her clothing caught fire and the parents were unaware that anything was wrong until they heard a commotion upstairs.

The mother and father rushed to the bedroom and found their infant daughter covered by flames. As quickly as possible they wrapped a great blanket around her to smother the flames. She was then rushed to the General Hospital, but the doctors were unable to save her life.

RAILROADS IN U.S. TO CONSOLIDATE

Hoover Announces Agreement of Eastern Roads on Four Dependent Systems.

ABANDON WABASH LINE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP) — Agreement of eastern railroads of the United States on consolidation into four dependent systems was announced to-day by President Hoover.

The President had asked the railroad presidents to map out the consolidation.

Only one minor point remains to be worked out in the gigantic consolidation scheme. It has been left to arbitration.

The railroads are the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Nickel Plate systems.

The Wabash-Seaboard system, provided for under the inter-State Commerce Commission's plan issued last December, would be abandoned.

President Hoover understands the plan provides for the protection of employees and of local communities and fulfills the intent of Congress as expressed in the Transportation Act of 1920.

CAMPBELLFORD'S MAYOR RETIRES AND WILL CONTEST VACANT SEAT ON WATER AND LIGHT COMMISSION

Thirty-six Names Were Placed in Nomination For Campbellford's Council.

SCHOOL BOARD RE-ELECTED.

Retiring Mayor Has Served Town For Twenty-six Years.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — With thirty-six candidates nominated for the municipal offices for the year 1931, a battle royal is anticipated in the town of Campbellford at the annual municipal election next Monday. With the retirement of C. H. Davidson from the mayor's chair much shuffeling has taken place in this year's council, although all its members have been nominated for offices and with the exception of the mayor will run. Mayor Davidson's particular sphere for 1931 will be commissioner on the Water and Light Board and on this ticket he declared himself.

The three retiring members of the School Board, Dr. H. O. Richardson, Dr. H. B. Longmore and Dr. O. C. Watson were the only nominees for that sphere of municipal activity with the result that they were elected by acclamation and the board stays as it is at present.

There will be a straight fight for mayor and reeve, but there are five nominated for deputy reeve, two of whom have signified their intentions of running. In the list of councillors there are fourteen, one having expressed his withdrawal and three their intentions of remaining in the field.

The nominations are as follows:

Mayor

Major J. M. Bygott, C. H. Davidson, W. S. Wiggins.

Reeve

J. N. Stone, Major J. M. Bygott, G. A. Kingston.

Deputy-Reeve

W. J. Abernethy, J. O'Sullivan, R. H. Cole, J. M. Stone, N. A. MacColl, G. A. Kingston, Alex MacDonald.

Councillors

H. N. Carr, J. R. Battisby, W. J. Abernethy, Ernest McKeel, R. H. Cole, A. N. MacColl, A. D. Bennett, J. O'Sullivan, N. H. Thompson, Frank Long, John S. Wallace, John Gay, Dr. L. O'Hara, Elie Brunelle, Nelson Lloyd, James Dickson, Wilbert Wood.

Water and Light Commission.—A. J. Meyers, James Blue, C. H. Davidson.

School Board.—Dr. H. O. Richardson, Dr. O. C. Watson, Dr. H. B. Longmore.

For the meeting following the nominations the Clerk, J. F. Macgregor occupied the chair. C. H. Davidson, as present Mayor, was the first to speak. He outlined the work of the council for the past year. Drawing attention to the present grant of $7,000 that was given by the government for the relief of unemployment in the town and the work that had been done with the money, of which a little over $2,000 was left for the new council to use. He stated that he had served the town now for twenty-six years in different capacities, the last two years of which he had been Mayor, declaring that he was not going to run on that ticket this year, but that he asked the support of the people for the place on the Water and Light Commission. He also drew attention to the by-law for the paying of the council which had caused some talk in the town, but which had passed the council without opposition, taking the responsibility for it himself, as he said that he had been the father of the resolution.

Contest Mayoralty

J. M. Bygott declared his intention of running for mayor. He stated that he had been reeve for the past three years, twice being elected by acclamation. As chairman of the Police Committee he reported for that body, stating that the cost of the upkeep of that department for the year had been $1,800. He praised the government relief grant that had given work to so many in the town at a time when is was needed. He also spoke of a grant that was being given to the Public School by the Counties

Mayor Retires

MISS CLARA DELANY RUNNING FOR REEVE

Candidate For Office is President of Women's Liberal Association in Cobourg.

COBOURG, December 30 (Special to The Examiner). — That Cobourg will not lose its distinction of having the only woman Reeve in Canada, an office filled during 1930 by Mrs. Edith Kerr Macdonald, who recently retired from municipal politics, is the ambition of Miss Clara DeLany, B.A., president of the Women's Liberal Association in Cobourg.

Miss DeLany, who is a graduate of Victoria College of the University of Toronto, was nominated on Monday evening. Her platform, as announced, is Town Council support of W. A. Fraser, M.P., Northumberland, who won the riding from the Conservative column in the recent Federal election. She believes that politics of a certain kind have been played in an effort to thwart Mr Fraser's efforts to bring important industries to Cobourg. In support of which may be cited the giving of the death blow to the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce shortly after Mr Fraser offered to act as the town's volunteer industrial commissioner or in any other capacity whereby he might act officially for the local Trade Board.

Miss DeLany pointed out that if she stands for the office of Reeve it will not be with any idea of perpetuating feminine representation in civic politics.

Mss DeLany is considered one of the most efficient organizers in the Liberal Party's ranks. She is a forceful speaker, but is noted for her laconic habits of speech except in cases of emergency.

FOUR NOMINATED FOR REEVESHIP OF TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH MONAGHAN

Ten Names Placed in Nomination for the Four Seats on Council Board.

ELECTION ASSURED

CENTREVILLE, Dec. 30 (Examiner Staff Reporter).—Present indications point to a stiff fight in South Monaghan township, where at the meeting of the ratepayers held here yesterday afternoon, four were nominated to contest the reeveship, while ten were slated for the four seats on the township council.

Wilbert Wood, retiring reeve, reenters the lists, while David Moncrief and Fred Waterman, two of the retiring councillors, are slated both for the reeveship and for councillors, along with John S. Perrin, who has also been nominated for reeve.

Of the ten men nominated for councillors, all were very non-committal in their addresses to the ratepayers, with the exception of the junior member of the 1930 Council, Roy Whittington, who stated his intention of letting his nomination stand, and Fred Smithson, who withdrew. This actually leaves seven newcomers in the fight, although the situation at nine o'clock to-night, the time limit for qualifying, may take on a different complexion.

O. B. Johnson, clerk and treasurer to the township council, declared the following nominations, after which the meeting was thrown open for dis-

OTONABEE COUNCIL IS RETURNED BY ACCLAMATION AT NOMINATIONS

No Elections in Dummer and Douro--Harvey Township Honors Reeve Harry Parker by Not Opposing Him--Long Session at Westwood.

OTONABEE RATEPAYER S CROWD KEENE HALL

Otonabee Council was re-elected by acclamation at the township nominations at Keene yesterday, but that thrifty compliment reflects nothing of George Fife's serio-comic contribution to the long afternoon's discussion of the municipality's affairs.

The members of the Council for 1931 are Reeve Fred. D. McIntyre, Deputy-Reeve Alex. Huston and Councillors Percy Davidson, Augustus Bolin and Joseph Burns.

Other nominees who retired from the field were: For reeve, Fred. A. Eason, Michael Walsh, Harry Reid, George Fife and John T. O'Connell; for deputy-reeve, Percy Davidson, and for Council, M. O'Keefe, F. A. Eason, M. Pimmett, Jas. Wilson and James Richardson.

Reeve McIntyre was nominated twice, by J. T. O'Connell and Robt. A. Wilson, and by Robt. Plunkett and John Robertson.

Deputy-Reeve Huston was nominated by W. F. Tully and Roy Spiers, and the councillors were nominated as follows: Joseph Burns by Roy Spiers and R. A. Wilson; Percy Davidson by Sam O'Brien and Henry Weir, and Augustus Bolin by Wm. Renwick and J. F. Comrie.

A Capacity Crowd.

The town hall at Keene was crowded with ratepayers when the clerk, J. J. Moore, assumed the duty of chairman for the customary post-nomination meeting. Standing room only was left for the late-comers, and the whole company manifested by many enquiries a live interest in the business of Otonabee Township in particular and the county in general.

George Fife supplied most of the humor, combining wit and evident exaggeration in large and colorful measure, and with an effect that only his friends could determine where his seriousness began and levity ended.

Reeve McIntyre prefaced his review of the Council's 1930 stewardship by congratulating the ratepayers upon the large attendance, indicating their concern for the management of the municipality's business.

"It is an honor to be reeve of Otonabee," said Mr. McIntyre. "It is the best township in the county."

"There's no more honor in it than long ago in the time of slavery," was George Fife's first comment, an allusion that was later explained in part by his remark that the Council was becoming a group of slave-drivers and the farmers were being reduced to slaves. Mr. Fife's broadsides lose most of their humorous note in cold print, but they kept the audience in laughter without detracting from the weighty questions of municipal expenditures and economies.

Reeve's Review.

"I'd like to tell you how much your Council was able to save this year," Reeve McIntyre continued. "There never was a time in the history of farming when a careful administration was more needed than right now. I think you will all bear me out in that. As your reeve, I started out to cut expenditures, for I believe that taxes can come down, although you all know that there are many expenses that we have no control over.

"On roads and bridges we spent in 1929 the total of $17,582.33 and this year $13,231.03. That was a saving there of $4,315.30. Then our municipal expenditure in 1929 was $3,656.17, and this year $2,796.19. That meant a saving of $859.98. In those two items we saved the township $5,-211.28."

Mr. Fife—In a couple of years we oughtn't to have any taxes to pay. But Ted Mulcahy used to say they could put anything on paper.

Mr. McIntyre — Our receipts for 1930 were $76,206.66 and for 1929 they were $73,304.47. We started the year with an overdraft, but it has been pretty near wiped out.

Mr. Fife interrupted with the remark that the County Council had failed to get all the other County Councils together and demand of the Ontario Government that the farmers be relieved of the cost of provincial highways. Mr. McIntyre quoted a resolution by the County Council of Wentworth proposing a memorial to tht Government for that release, and Peterborough County had indorsed it. This agitation had been going on as long as Mr McIntyre was a member of the County Council, he stated.

No Politics In It.

Mr. Fife said there was no question of politics about this proposal

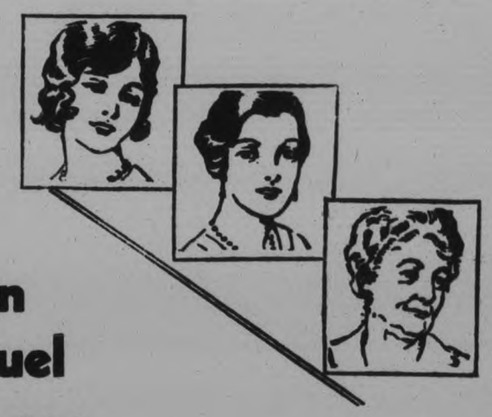
HAMILTON BY-PRODUCT COKE



3 Reasons Why Women Prefer This Fuel

Hamilton By-Product Coke is finding wide-spread and increasing patronage among home managers and housekeepers throughout Ontario. They choose this fuel, particularly this year, for three sound reasons:—

1. ECONOMY—each ton costs one-third less than ordinary fuels.
2. IT IS ALL CANADIAN—each ton represents the industry of Canadian workmen.
3. CONVENIENCE—it eliminates dust and soot, is lighter to use, and reduces ash to the minimum.

When you are ordering fuel, try a few tons of Hamilton By-Product Coke, and you will be delighted with the results.

Impossible To Get Away from Mayor Denne

"I did not find any place where the authorities paid or otherwise were able to promote their city as capably as Mayor Denne did the city of Peterborough to us," says head of Ovaltine Company.

It is generally agreed that there will be spirited competition next year for many American and British industries that are planning to locate in Canada.

Peterborough wants her share of those industries and her best chance to succeed lies in the re-election of Mayor Denne whose aggressive and determined salesmanship has givn this city her latest factories.

That statement is based on the strongest possible foundation, the testimony of the heads of those industries themselves.

Could there be any more convincing endorsation of Mayor Denne's strength as a salesman of Peterborough to industrial executives seeking a location than the statements made by C. J. Glaspel of A. Wander, Limited, manufacturers of Ovaltine, and Hugh M. Campbell, of the Canadian Johnston Motor Company, Limited?

"IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET AWAY from Mayor Denne", writes Mr. Glaspel, telling the story of his company's final decision to establish its Canadian branch in Peterborough. "He stuck with us until we finally decided to purchase the property where we are now located."

"I am a new arrival in Peterborough, and have no desire to mix in local politics in any way. I do wish, however, to see that credit is given to the person deserving of it. In seeking a location for our factory, I visited probably thirty-five or forty cities and towns in Ontario. Many of these municipalities employ Industrial Commissioners whose business is to secure industries for that city and they receive a good salary for doing so. However, I DID NOT FIND ANY PLACE WHERE THE AUTHORITIES PAID OR OTHERWISE, WERE ABLE TO PROMOTE THEIR CITY AS CAPABLY AS MAYOR DENNE DID THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH TO US. IF HE HAD NOT DONE SO, WE WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY NOW BE LOCATED IN SOME OTHER MUNICIPALITY."

"My only reason for writing this letter is to give Mayor Denne credit for the great amount of trouble and time which he spent to hold our industry for the City of Peterborough."

"PETERBOROUGH'S HARD-HITTING SALESMAN"

"Mayor Denne was in touch with us continually", declares Hugh M. Campbell of the Canadian Johnston Motor Company, telling of his experience in negotiating with Peterborough.

"MAYOR DENNE AND NO ONE ELSE is directly responsible for our company finally deciding upon Peterborough as our Canadian headquarters."

"I have had the pleasure of seeing the Mayor use his salesmanship on various representatives of American concerns considering Canadian locations. He has always made an excellent impression on such representatives."

"I again wish to say, credit should be given where credit is deserved and my hat is off to Peterborough's enthusiastic and hard-hitting salesman, Mayor Roland Denne."

No Mayor ever went back to his constituents with a finer tribute to his qualities as the representative of his community before outside interests than the executives of Peterborough's two newest industries have thus given Mayor Denne.

In the race for new industries that is coming, Peterborough cannot afford to lose the services of a chief magistrate, who has shown himself so thoroughly capable of selling the city to industrial leaders.

DENNE FOR MAYOR

Malcolm McIntyre

Candidate for

MAYOR

on the strength of a long service as Alderman, with a well-known record of always favoring economy. My policy is

WHERE ARE WE HEADING FOR?

Our Debentures are rapidly increasing.
Our Tax Rate is jumping every year.
Our Assessment always going up.
Property Value greatly decreased.

Are we satisfied with leadership that has put us in this condition? Surely a good 100 per cent. leader is one that knows when to stop. Vote for Malcolm McIntyre, who has shown in his years of service on the Aldermanic board, his ability to save the citizens money, and if elected to the Mayor's chair is well fitted to so guide the city's affairs that a much better showing than the above can be made, which is what every citizen wants.

BITTER BATTLE IS PROMISED BETWEEN NINE CONTESTANTS FOR FIVE MARMORA VACANCIES

Acclamations Given to Both Rowden and Deloro Township Councils.

LAYCOCK MAY RETIRE

C. B. Ayrhart Will Seek Re-election as Reeve for Village of Marmora.

MARMORA, Dec. 30 — (Examiner Correspondence) — While acclamations were given to both Rowden and Deloro Township Councils in the nominations held yesterday afternoon, a fight is promised for the five vacant seats in the Marmora Township Council. Four were nominated for reeve of Marmora Township and nine for the four councillors.

T. E. Laycock, reeve last year, was nominated but may retire. W. D. Nichol was nominated also but illness may take him out of the contest. This would leave L. E. Neal and W. Billings, of the four nominees in the field. It is thought that both will qualify since each has sought the office before.

Listed among the nine nominated for council are: Irving McCoy, John Downard, Orville Leonard, T. Nobes and W. Billings, who have all served on the council before and will most probably seek re-election. The others are: J. Villeneff, W. Hamilton, C. Kelly and James McAvoy. All the nominees have qualities that recommend them to the ratepayers and if they qualify an exciting election is assured.

The Council of Rowden Township which was further endorsed by the ratepayers by an acclamation, consists of Reeve Ernest Brown, Deputy-reeve W. S. Stiles and Councillors G. E. Thompson, W. J. Bateman and C. E. Clancy.

Those returned to the Deloro Council by acclamation were: Reeve S. B. Wright, who has been reeve since the incorporation of the village; Councillors S. A. Baptie, R. A. Elliott, J. Hemphill and H. A. McNally.

Those nominated to be trustees of the Deloro Public School for 1931 and 1932 are: H. R. Haache, W. R. Reynolds and W. N. Regan. Those who have one more year to serve as school trustees are: C. H. Buskard, W. Mundy and F. B. Yates.

Marmora—G. B. Ayrhart, a former reeve for eight year who retired last year and an ex-warden of Hastings county will seek re-election for the village of Marmora. F. N. Marret will oppose him. For council four members of last year's body are in the field, F. S. Johnston, A. Sweet, Dr. D. L. Curtis and W. R. Linn. Others nominated, Dr. H. Crawford, D. E. Bell, G. Wellman, R. E. Bouter, A. Burridge.

The Public school board was returned by acclamation, W. A. Sanderson, Dr. Lumsden and P. Sopha. Dr. Lumsden is a newcomer to the trustee board. Two were nomianted for the Hydro Commission, one to be appointed, B. C. Hubbell and F. R. Wells.

CAMPBELLFORD'S MAYOR RETIRES

Council, this being figured on the average daily attendance, and told the audience that in connection with the Paper Board Company, it was likely that a by-law would be presented to them in the near future asking that the town purchase the power plant now in their possession, as it was possible that an arrangement would be made with the town to buy the power plant on the condition that the Paper Board Company open up their plant and buy power from the town at a stated rate and so provide work for more than fifty more men of the town.

J. N. Stone came out as candidate for the position of reeve. He had served the town since 1919 and had serve five terms as deputy reeve. In giving a brief report of the work done he paid tribuet to the town assessor, R. Wowry, who had increased the town's taxes by the assessment of the Quinee Power Plant, with the result that taxes collected this year for the year amounted to $76,000.

N. A. McColl made his stand on the deputy reeve ticket, emphasizing the fact that he would not canvas for votes, but that the people would have to elect him on his merits. As chairman of the finance committee he gave the report for the year, pointing out that although taxes were higher this year $16,000 had been paid off the debt, and that the town was $26,000 better off this year than last.

John O'Sullivan also came out as a contestant for deputy reeve, going to the people on the work that had been done during the past year. As chairman of the road and bridge committee, he gave his report which showed that he had kept well within the limit of the $5,000 alloted to him. He deplored the high taxes, but stressed the point that debts must be paid and advised that excess expenditures should be cut out. He also paid tribute to the town engineer, R. Scott, who had given his services free for the sewerage work and so reduced the town of extra expenditure.

S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission, gave his report for the year, explaining the many improvements that had been made to the power plant during his ten years of office, and the increase in the revenue. He has retired from the commission, so was not in the field.

Dr. H. O. Richardson gave a very interesting report as chairman of the school board, deploring the fact that the town schools were unable through lack of finances to include in the curriculum, manual training, household science and agriculture, three very important subjects in his opinion. The reports for the High and Public schools were given and showed excellent progress with good financial standings, the one dark spot being the decreased attendance at the High School through the alteration in the train schedule.

W. S. Wiggins came out as candidate for the office of mayor. He stated that he realized the responsibility of the position but felt his business training qualified for the job. He reported for the fire committee, outlining the expenditures of that department which amounted to $3,000.

He also declared that if he was elected he would submit a program that would alter the condition of expenditures which would bring the 52 mill tax rate down below 50 mills without an injury to finances.

J. R. Battisby came out as prospective councillor on the grounds that he thought that there was unfinished work that should be completed. In his opinion things would be back to normal by the end of 1931. As chairman of the Charity Committee he reported for that body.

H. N. Carr also signified his intention of running for councillor for the coming year. He also felt that work had been unfinished and like Councillor Battisby desired to see the tasks completed. As chairman of the Industrial and Inquiry Committee he reported to the effect that despite the fact that every effort had been made to get concerns to locate in Campbellford, it had been a bad year for business expansion.

G. A. Kingston, the new nominee for the reeveship, declared himself for the office, stating that if elected he was going to look into the financial system of the Counties Council. He felt that the opportunity had come to him where he could serve the town in the Counties Council. He had been on the school board for fifteen years. Two years he had been councillor and three years mayor of Campbellford.

E. McKeel declared his intention of running for councillor. He outlined his platform as comprising a keen control of finances, getting businesses interested in Campbellford as a good location, and selling to the world what Campbellford has to sell, cheap power good locations and easy access.

A. D. Bennett declared his intention of not letting his name stand for the office of councillor.

Millbrook

Dr. H. A. Turner initiated the movement, locally, of having a beautifully-trimmed and lighted Christmas tree on the verandah of his residence for the Christmas season, J. Albert Brown being the only other resident to follow this delightful custom, his home on Tupper street having also a prettily trimmed and lighted tree as part of its verandah 'furnishings' for the past three or four evenings.

Mrs. J. C. Kells, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Sims, Barrie, for some weeks past, was joined by her daughter, Miss Anna, and Miss Christie, for the Christmas holday.

Mrs. Herbert Ball entertained the family gathering on Christmas day, the guests including: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. and Miss Thelma Ball, Millbrook; Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, with their daughter, Miss Florence, and two sons, Arnold and Marshal; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garnett of Port Hope.

Allie Payne of Toronto spent Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Albert Payne, and his aunt, Mrs. W. Archer.

Miss Mamie Fisher, who spent the summer travelling in Europe, was home for a brief visit last week, leaving again to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Matheson, Stratford.

W Burnham, and daughter, Dorothy, Peterborough; Miss Pearl Burnham, and Ernest L. Burnham, the son of the house, who is home from the University for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins and Mrs. E. J. Whyte were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson on Christmas Day.

Rev. P. W. A. and Mrs. Roberts, and Mrs. Bedward, were guests for dinner on Christmas Day of Mrs. A. A. Smith, and her daughters Miss Muriel and Mrs. H. W. Hall of Essex, who is spending the Christmas week with her mother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Brown were host and hostess for the family party on Christmas Day, their guests including: Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Brock and family of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crown and two small children of Raeboro; Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Strong, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sidey of Bewdley; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brock and son, Oliver; Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin Brown, Millbrook; Miss Alberta Brock, Peterborough, and Miss Jennie Brock, Millbrook.

HAVELOCK COUNCIL RE-ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION FOR 2ND TIME

While Four Nominated For Vacancies on School Board Only Three Will Qualify.

CONTEST IN BELMONT.

HAVELOCK, December 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — There will be no election in Havelock this year, for the Council, as all the old members have been returned by acclamation. Not a single man was nominated to oppose the old members, which is thought to be a precedent in this village. It is also the second time the same Council has been elected by acclamation. Last year others were nominated, but did not qualify. The Hydro Commissioner, F. J. Squires, was also acclaimed. Four were nominated for the three vacancies on the School Board, but it is definitely known that only three will qualify. Messrs. William Martin, Bernard Smith, Alexander Leeson and James Ketchen were nominated If the three first qualify, Mr. Ketchen will not do so. If any of the others do not qualify, Mr. Ketchen will Not one of the three retiring members of the School Board put in an appearance at the hall.

Contest in Belmont

Belmont Township hall was crowded to its utmost capacity on the occasion of the nominations being held yesterday afternoon.

Practically every ratepayer in the township was present, and while it was expected there would be some fireworks, everything was very orderly. Many questions were asked and answered and in general everyone was satisfied with the outcome.

T. P. Lancaster was present and in a brief address gave a comprehensive outline of what the Government can and will do, towards building good roads, and the assistance that will beg iven by the Government in caring for the poor and unemployed. Since it is not a city no grants can be given towards buildings in the interest of unemployment, but heads of families are at present being employed, in cutting brush from the right of way of the roads throughout the county.

All the members of the retiring council will be again in the field for municipal honors, with the exception of Councillor Whitney.

Those nominated for the Reeveship are: Reeve Griffiths, Ernest Spencer, Frank Breckenridge, the former a past Councillor, and the latter a former reeve and Warden of the township. Only one of the latter will qualify, but at present it is not known which one will do so. J. W. Russell was also nominated for the office of Reeve, but immediately declined the honor.

The following were nominated for councillors:

Steenburg, Vansickle, McNeeley, all last year's council and George Saunders, Isaac Anderson, and Limerick McGown.

Saunders, Vansickle and McNeeley have all duly qualified. The others have until to-morrow night at nine o'clock to qualify.

Egg prices were from one to three cents a dozen lower. Ontario fresh extras, in carlots, declined two cents at 40 cents, and firsts and pullets were unchanged at 35 and 33 cents a dozen. Seconds were one cent lower at 29 cents a dozen. New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots were 85 cents per 90 pounds, bulk, and to retailers, 95 cents per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. — Prohibition received blame in some quarters yesterday as being largely responsible for a fresh collapse that carried grain values down to new low records. July wheat fell to 61½c a bushel, a bottom level, heretofore unreached in thirty-four years. There was a simultaneous all-around drop in corn to the lowest point since 1921. With the price breaks were reports that persistent downward swings of grain values were traceable to prohibition having shut off a large amount of business with Europe, and having forced European countries to increase production of foodstuffs, with consequent lessened demand for American products.

Wheat and Corn Lower

Wheat closed irregular, 1¾c a bushel lower than Saturday to ¼c advance; corn, 1⅝c to 1⅞c down; oats, 1¼c to ⅞c off; and provisions from 15c setback to a rise of 20c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 30. — In a post-holiday wheat market, devoid of feature, Winnipeg grain values dropped almost two cents, and final quotations showed net losses of 1⅛ to ½ cent on the grain exchange here yesterday.

Offerings were light at the opening, and small gains were registered, but the buying support thinned down, and later prices eased off, with the cash month heading the decline.

Operations in the pit were not particularly noteworthy, and there was little foreign interest.

Trading in cash grains was negligible and spreads were unchanged. Coarse grain trading was without feature, with prices following for the most part the action of wheat.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS CAMPBELL OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Happy Couple Married in Campbellford on December 27, 1905.

BORN IN OLD COUNTRY

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — Saturday, December 27, marked the twenty-fifth milestone in the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Campbell of Campbellford, and many friends took advantage of the occasion to congratulate them on their silver wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were married at Campbellford on December 27, 1905, by the Rev. J. P. McLennon, then Baptist minister in residence. Mrs. Campbell, who before her marriage was Miss Nellie Rosebush, is 42 years of age and was born in England. Coming to this county at an early age, she came to Campbellford when seven years old, after a short stay at Stirling.

"WHERE ECONOMY RULES"

In expressing a Happy New Year wish to the housewives of Ontario, the management of this company desires to convey its sincere appreciation of your custom throughout 1930.

At this time of the year we review the past twelve months, not so much in the spirit of satisfaction for what has been accomplished, but rather in a spirit of self-criticism. We realize that there is always room for improvement and that only as we continue to progress in true service can we hope to progress as a company. Certainly no company can grow greater than the ideals it serves.

Thus, inspired by a spirit of service, constantly asking ourselves how we can GIVE more, rather than how we can get more, the A & P Company faces the New Year with confidence and optimism.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1930

PETERBOROUGH'S CABINET MINISTER.

Peterborough's representative to the tenth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament, John Hunter, has been honored by being given a seat in the Cabinet, the important portfolio of the Education Department having been allotted to the member from this community.

The selection of John Hunter for this position of distinction will materially increase local interest in the Boys' Parliament, which is a movement that deserves to succeed because of the obvious desirability of arousing a zeal for public service in the youth of to-day.

There is in every community a place awaiting the young man who shows an ability to succeed in public life, and in some cases the path to the top is remarkably short.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal leader in Ontario, was five years ago merely the secretary of a farmers' club with little thought of seeking political honors. Yet in that brief period he has won two federal elections in a Conservative constituency, and at the age of thirty-four finds himself at the head of his party in this Province.

The Boys' Parliament should inspire in those connected with it a greater interest in civic affairs—a development that is surely of much importance.

Congratulations are in order to Peterborough's representative upon having been chosen for a well-deserved promotion.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

Much is being heard during the municipal elections in various Ontario centres as to the rapidly increasing burden of civic taxation and as to the desirability of the Ontario Government lifting at least a portion of the load by taking over the entire cost of a number of services for which at the present time the municipalities are heavily taxed.

How great has been the increase in municipal taxation can be appreciated from the annual report of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs, which contains some figures for 1929 that are startling.

A comparative table in this report shows that while the organized communities increased in population only 443,466 between 1919 and 1929, their total assessment during the same ten-year period increased by $882,000,000, their municipal taxes by over $34,000,000, their school taxes by more than $19,000,000, and their debenture debt took the alarming jump of $179,000,000.

It is not, however, necessary to go back as far as 1919 to get a startling camparison.

The increase noted in 1929 as contrasted with 1928 was sufficiently arresting, for the statistics show that in the one year the total taxes raised by the municipalities increased by almost $5,000,000 and their debenture debt climbed $16,000,000 higher than it had been in 1928.

It is certain that when the figures for 1930 are compared with those of 1929 a similar upward trend will be strongly marked.

The municipalities with such statistics as these to bolster up their claims should be able to demonstrate to the Ontario Government that the time has arrived for a readjustment of the burden of taxation.

HONORING THE LIBERAL LEADER.

Conservatives of St. Thomas and district have signified their willingness to participate as individuals in the complimentary dinner to be tendered shortly to Mitchell F. Hepburn, newly elected leader of the Ontario Liberal party.

The right spirit is evident in this gesture of friendliness.

The choice of Mr. Hepburn as Liberal leader has been an honor to the whole district he represents, and it is fitting that on an occasion such as this party banners should be put away and the community unite in paying tribute to the man upon whose shoulders such heavy responsibilities have been laid.

The position of opposition leader is one of great importance, as is indicated by the fact that in Ontario a special salary is provided for the statesman who occupies the post of directing His Majesty's loyal opposition.

There is every reason therefore to do honor to Mr. Hepburn, who was the choice by an overwhelming vote of a most representative convention for the honored position of leading the Liberal party, and whose selection, as has already been pointed out, does credit not only to the new Liberal chieftain but to the constituency he represents.

The banquet in his honor might well therefore be made a community affair in which both Liberals and Conservatives could find common ground in paying tribute to a native son who has made good.

NO EXCUSE FOR NOT VOTING.

There is really no excuse, except sheer indifference or laziness, for any voter refusing to exercise his or her franchise at the municipal election on New Year's Day.

The day is a public holiday, giving nearly everybody plenty of leisure time in which to register a vote; the polling booths are easily located and not a great distance away, and there is a contest both for the mayoralty and the Board of Aldermen.

Under such conditions the electors are left without a valid reason for declining to do their duty as citizens.

They cannot surely plead that it is a matter of no particular consequence now the Council for 1931 is to be made up, for to take that attitude is to develop sooner or later a spirit of indifference among those in civic positions.

If the citizens generally indicate that they regard municipal policies and problems as matters of minor importance, those who are elected to conduct the affairs of the municipality cannot be blamed if they are infected with the same spirit and transact civic business as if it mattered little to no one how it may happen to be transacted.

Electors should shake out of such demoralizing lethary and, studying the field with a view to selecting the strongest possible Council for next year, go out to the polls on Thursday and do their full duty as citizens of a progressive and wide-awake community.

NOT HELPING MATTERS.

Several times in recent weeks there have been reports of meetings in Western Canada where the principal topic under discussion has been the breaking up of the Dominion of Canada by the creation of a separate unit in the Western section.

As long as things were going fairly well there was not any agitation in this direction. It has come to pass since the breakdown of the price of grain. It would seem to indicate that in some way or other the rest of the Dominion, or particularly that section of it known as the East, is in some way to blame for the trouble which the Western section is facing.

We do not believe that it is possible to bring logical and reasonable argument to bear on this point that would show that the West faces its present condition by anything which has happened in the East. There is no section of the Dominion which has escaped the results of the depression which has made itself felt. There are cities all the way from Halifax to Vancouver which are finding it necessary to put forth unusual efforts to create employment this winter, and we do not know of any place which can say that it is in as good shape as in normal times.

This is not a time to talk about breaking up the Dominion of Canada. There would be no good purpose served by so doing. The West would suffer from it and so would the East.

It is a time when a common cause should bring the Provinces to a closer understanding of their various difficulties. If there is to be any measure of relief for wheat growers in the West, we imagine it could be done only by financing which would be largely carried by the East. The East had nothing to do with creating the huge problem of the debts of the Wheat Pool. On the other hand, the East, through the expenditure of public money on the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, will have to pay the major portion of the cost, although the benefit of that road is for the West and its grain movement.

Those people in the West who seek to break up the Dominion are not helping themselves at all; they are not hastening the solution of their own pressing problems, nor are they making it possible for the East to meet them half-way in any steps they desire to have taken for the handling of any problem which the West believes can be met by sympathetic action on the part of the East.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE DAY IS SACRED.

We read in the papers where at three different places police had broken into drinking parties where it was said people were making merry in anticipation of Christmas. Then, too, it was noted in another place where in recent days provincial police had seized $100,000 worth of liquor for shipment to United States to supply the Christmas trade there.

There is something painfully wrong about using the word Christmas in such a connection, and there is something sadly lacking in the mentality of those who can possibly read into Christmas the advent of a time for an indulgence in drink and wild parties. The two things cannot possibly be tied together; there is no point at which one can be coupled to the other.

Christmas day as a sacred institution in the world; it marks the birthday of the child Christ, and His coming was the only means known to Heaven for bringing the world back to the Divine Father. It was not in a spirit of levity that the world's Greatest Gift was made. It was of such a nature and so enormous in its conception that there must have been little joy left in Heaven on that first Christmas morning.

It would do no harm at all if the world were to pause for a moment in its sometimes strange celebration of Christmas, and recall that everything in connection with it was staged in humility and tinged with poverty.

The inn where His mother would have lodged was crowded on that Christmas day, and the only place where room could be found was in the stables.

And there was born the Child that changed the course of history; set tradition and custom to one side, and left the world with a new gospel, the fulfilment of the old.

• • • •

Right now this world can well stand to look long at that humility, for it is a fact that there are times when we are much impressed by our own importance and quite taken up with the manner in which we can do things.

We move around more quickly than we ever did before; we are a great folk for saving time, and we almost make a fetish of our own efficiency.

Then, too, we do a good deal of boasting of our national powers; we can fabricate and launch tremendous ships of war, and we come to the place where we put much confidence in standing armies and all such things.

We pursue business as we have never done it before. Competition is so keen in many lines that the man with the least power of resistance must prepare for the day when he will have to close up and seek some other method of trying to earn an existence.

It is possible, too, that we have arrived at the point where we view poverty as something which is bound to be always present; we accept it as part of our social order, and often we find comfort in convincing ourselves that those in poor circumstances have only themselves to blame.

Yes, it might be well at this season of the year to see if it is at all possible to absorb some of the humility that was so closely woven about the Central Figure in that first Christmas.

Perhaps we could once more learn the lesson that love is the greatest thing in the world, and that riches do not consist of the things which a man possesses.

And when we are at it, might it not be possible to pay some heed to the words, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." That might make our method of weighing the shortcomings of others a great deal more kindly.

The deep significance of Christmas is spiritual. There is really not a thing connected with it which suggests the holding of wild parties or indulgence in strange desires.

It is a time when the welfare of others might well bulk very large on our mental horizon.

It is of small purpose that we repeat "Peace on Earth," if we do not strive for that peace; and it is hardly short of mockery that we should talk of good will toward men if we deny ourselves the opportunity of making that good will a tangible and a known thing. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

This is one time at least when economy is the favorite word with municipal candidates. But the real test is after and not before election day.

GRANDMOTHER

The later published portraits of Queen Victoria bore a startling resemblance to my grandmother as I remember her. She, too, was rather short, stout and dignified, her features very similar, and she ruled her household with the same firm hand.

Sixty-five years ago she had been one of the pioneers of that section of Ontario, coming from Ireland as a bride of seventeen, her young husband only two years older. They obtained a grant of land from the Government, and settled down patiently to drive back the forest from the little cabin which they had built in the wilderness. Painted Indians were to be seen in the woods by day, wolves howled around the cabin at night. The nearest grist mill was thirty miles away. The only roads were the trails which had been blazed by Indians through the pine forest. Over these trails, in the beginning, Grandfather carried the wheat they had raised in the clearing, cut with a sickle, threshed over a stump and winnowed in the wind.

But that was all in the past, and Grandmother at eighty-two—widowed for twenty years—invalided for fifteen—sat in her big wing chair and welcomed many an old friend of those trying early days, which they lived all over again in Gaelic.

Grandmother had fourteen children, ten boys and four girls, and in the family were two pairs of twins. Collectively they were rather a crowd when young and pretty much of a size. "How many of you children are there anyway?" somebody had asked one of the older boys, who was something of a wag. "Well, you see, sir, we're ten boys, and each boy has four sisters." "I knew Mrs. X..... had a big family" marvelled the questioner "but I didn't think there could be quite so many! Let me see . . . ten boys, and each of you has four sisters . . . Gracious goodness!

The old farm was the nicest place in the world for a child to spend the summer. Four hundred acres of all kinds of interesting places. The lake near the house, the creek on the north hundred where speckled trout rose to a worm on a bent pin, the cool woods where myriad feathered songsters held perpetual concert, the little brook tumbling through the tree sheltered rocky ravine, and the big sheep pasture—the last of the uncleared land—which one might cross stepping on stones all the way. Swallows, hundred of them, nested under the wide barn eaves and filled the evening air with their twittering. Later on whippoor-will, killdeer and loon would have their innings. There were all sorts of farm animals in profusion, and one made many pets among the colts, calves, lambs, puppies and kittens.

We had four bachelor uncles living at home, whose delight was to tease and to flatter the relays of nephews and nieces who came visiting. We spent the most wonderful weeks, helping in the fields—quite unconscious of the hindrance we really were—romping from dawn till dark, when we dropped into bed to sleep like a log until we rose happily to another blissful day.

As October drew near and the evenings turned cool, we gladly clustered around Grandmother by the open fire, listening avidly to the Irish fairy tales she had heard from her own grandmother while we watched her knitting needles fly rapidly in and out. Grandmother was never idle except while she slept.—and even then her busy brain wove the interesting dreams with which she later regaled us.

What To-day Means To You

"CAPICORN."

If December 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 1:45 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

December 30th promises to be full of contradictions. What is regarded as important will prove to be insignificant, and what is considered a trifle will have serious consequences. Travel is indicated, as well as some financial worry, which, however, will adjust itself, if dealt with frankly and promptly.

Children born on this December 30th will be phlegmatic, and, apparently, indifferent. They will never reveal spontaneously, nor display enthusiasm. Quick, at their studies, and possessing retentive memories, their brains will be store houses of information, of which they will make good use in after years.

If born on December 30th, you are gifted with a striking and charming personality. This, if used in the right manner, can become your chief asset. You are, however, prone to depend upon it in order to shirk doing those things which you ought to do. An attractive smile and a pleasing mannerism are poor substitutes for work. The mere fact that others are willing to help you, should not make you dependent on them, and render you indolent. You have it within you to make good. You will never do so, however, so long as you rely solely on your personal magnetism.

You are rather superficial in your knowledge; you never take the trouble to go to the bottom of things. It is too much bother, more especiallly as you have discovered that superficialism is, in most cases, as advantageous as fundamentalism. You are a ready talker—humorous and witty. In all social gatherings, you are considered a prize package. You have a large number of acquaintances—but very few real friends True friendships demand giving as well as taking. The signs denote that a fair measure of success in life awaits you. They also portend that a far greater prosperity would be yours if you would worck more and play less.

CRILE EXPLAINS NEW LIFE CELL

Cleveland Savant Breaks Long Silence as to Discovery of Cancer Cure.

BRAIN CELLS RESPOND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 30.—The artificially created life cell of Dr. George W. Crile is an attempt to penetrate the mystery of cancer. The Cleveland savant broke his silence about the recent rumors of his discovery and revealed the secret to the American Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday.

Crile's accomplishment is described most simply as breaking Humpty Dumpty to bits and putting him together again so that he appears alive.

The Humpty Dumpty he employs are cells, the tiny units forming bodies of animals, which are the protype of all eggs.

He has tried this on brain body and cancer cells, but the brain cell alone thus far has shown the master like qualities necessary for the rejuvenation.

When cancer cells were used a different effect was found, one whose significance has not been determined, for Crile said this is a preliminary report.

"The research," he said, "was undertaken for the purpose of discovering some physical principle which might account for the conversion of normal cells into cancer cells, this is, into cells the energy of which is used only for growth."

This wild growth is the outstanding characteristic of all cancer.

His Principal.

Crile said he went to work on the principal that the fertilized eggs of animals, the ovum, containing elements that electrically are both positive and negative.

He "postulated", that if the substances forming a living cell were mixed together properly in an electrical solution, called an electrolyte, these substances would organize themselves into a "unit which would present a cell-like form."

In other words, something lifelike might result without intervention of the usual union of male and female elements.

He separated brain cells into their constituent fats, proteins and ash. He found that only fresh brains retained the power to reunite but that by preserving the fats in ether he could wait perhaps a month after death and still get the return.

When ready the three brain substances were mixed in distilled water containing some salts, a laboratory made substitute for the watery elements in which the brain cells normally live. The salts produced the electrical effect.

Millbrook Resident Acts As Santa Claus

MILLBRROK, Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—A service that was unique in community annals was performed by Fred E. Scott, local furniture dealer and undertaker, who offered to supply Christmas cheer to any families in the village, or the three townships, where Santa Claus was not likely to pay a visit.

Word of this generous offer was given to the clergymen of the different churches in the area mentioned, and broadcast through other channels, at least a month ahead of the time when such help would be needed, and on Christmas Eve Mr. Scott, attired as jolly old Saint Nicholas, visited the home of which a list had been left at his business premises, and brought large quantities of supplies to fill waiting stockings, and make happy all the members of the family.

The service, which entailed an expense to the generous donor, of at least three hundred dollars, was particularly appreciated in this year of unemployment and so of real need, and may possibly prove an incentive to other citizens to join in the happy task another season.

Mr. Scott, who wished to show his appreciation of the generous patronage given him since he joined the ranks of local merchants several months ago, was prepared to go beyond the amount mentioned in his Christmas service had there been requirement. If any family lacked Christmas cheer in the village or surrounding district, it was not the fault of Mr. Scott, but because the name had not been handed in at his store in readiness for the giving of the help required.

OBITUARY

MRS. F. T. WARD

STIRLING, Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—The death occurred on Tuesday evening, December 23 of Mrs. F. T. Ward. The deceased had been an invalid for some time so death was not unexpected.

The late Mrs. Ward was formerly Jennie McGee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGee, of Sidney.

She leaves to mourn her husband, one son Ernest, and one daughter, Mrs. Bert Eggleton. One son Albert predeceased her. There are two sisters, Mrs. C. Reynolds, of Marmora, Mrs. E. Emerson, Carson City, Mich., two brothers, Archie of Claremont, Dakota, and Tom Carson City.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon from St. Andrew's Church. The Rev. A. N. Reid was assisted by the Rev. R. Simpson, of Woodville, the Rev. B. Byers and the Rev. E. Rowland. The Rev. R. Simpson, a former pastor, took his message from the text found in Timothy 2:10. "If it were not for Jesus who brought light into the world, we could not bear the sorrow of parting with our loved ones. It is natural for us to weep but faith sees beyond the gloom of death to a great refulgent light."

RICHARD CHARLES COURT

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Dec. 30. — Richard Charles Court, a veteran of the South African war, and who was employed as messenger at the Bank of Montreal, died Monday morning, one half hour after he had reported for duty. The deceased, who had been employed at the bank for the past ten years, reported for duty early, but was obliged to return home, where he passed away. He is survived by his wife and five daughters. A peculiar coincidence in connection with his passing is the fact that the late Thos. Gage, whom he succeeded as bank messenger, dropped dead ten years ago while on duty.

VOTE TO

RE-ELECT Alderman DAN HOLLAND

One who can be depended on to serve Economically, Efficiently, and Energetically the best interests of our City.

3d-27,30,31-4383

ELECT JIM ELLIS AS Alderman FOR 1931.

He will bring a life-long business training to assist in the transaction of the City's affairs on a sound, economical basis.

I am anxious to see the debenture debt reduced or not increased—and every effort be made to reduce the tax rate.

I believe that right now there are American manufacturers looking for Canadian sites, and a special effort should be made to bring them to Peterborough—same applies to English firms.

Make work for the unemployed where possible, as a man prefers to earn his living rather than have it given to him.

All committees should be made to keep within their estimates.

We should look after sewage disposal before trouble comes up with Otonabee Township.

The Council should bring pressure to bear on the Dominion House to have the Trent Canal completed, which would bring many more tourists to Peterborough by water.

FRANCIS M. HUGO DIES IN NEW YORK

Was New York Secretary of State From 1915 to 1920—Had Heart Trouble.

NATIVE OF KINGSTON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Francis M. Hugo, native of Kingston, Ont., and New York Secretary of State from 1915 to 1920, died to-day at his home on West End Avenue at the age of 60.

Mr. Hugo, former Mayor of Watertown, N.Y., and at his death a member of the Republican State Committee and active in local Republican politics, had been ill since December 9. Death was due to heart disease.

He is survived by his wife, the former Florence Goodale of Watertown, and one son, Francis Goodale Hugo.

Mr. Hugo was born in Kingston, Ontario, sixty years ago. He attended Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., and while there became acquainted with Howard Folger, President of a Steamship Company operating in the Thousand Islands. This acquaintanceship resulted in Mr. Hugo serving as purser on vessels of that company.

After his graduation from Queen's University, Mr. Hugo took a post graduate course in law at Cornell University. He afterward formed his own law firm.

He served as Mayor of Watertown for several years. In 1914 he was elected Secretary of State and served for six years.

After he had completed his term as Secretary of State in 1920, Mr. Hugo went to New York as Vice-President of the National Surety Company.

GOES TO INDIA

therefore, he has had to abandon this trip. He will not make speeches during the few weeks which remain to him in Canada, and his only public engagement, with the exception of the New Year's levee will be the Quebec reception. It is anticipated that Lord and Lady Willingdon will say their farewell to the Canadian people through the medium of a statement to be issued before their departure.

Indications now are that the next session of the Dominion Parliament will lopen before Canada's new Governor-General has assumed office. It is generally expected that Parliament will open before Canadas new Govruary, and it seems unlikely that Viscount Willingdon's successor will have arrived in Canada by that time. The old custom which decrees that the departing and arriving Governor General pass each other on the high seas will not be observed this time. Assuming that the new Governor General is chosen from among the many who have been mentioned for the post overseas, he will probably not be leaving for Canada before Lord and Lady Willingdon arrive in England.

MORE ACTIVE INTEREST SHOWN BY TRADERS IN GOLD SECTION

Fair Amounts of Lake Shore Being Picked Up On Standard Exchange.

PIPE LINE CONSTRUCTION.

TORONTO, Ont., December 30 (Special to The Examiner). — From the appearance of the gold section to-day traders are not going to wait until the New Year to begin accumulation of the better class stocks. Whether or not the rise has been too rapid for permanency has yet to be proven, but brokerage circles report substantial New York buying in McIntyre and greatly improved inquiry refarding the other dividend payers. Fair amounts of Lake Shore are being picked up locally, it is said, and the more favorable sentiment apparently is extending over into the lower priced class.

This upward movement is already evident in the action of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics index of eleven gold issues. In the week ended December 25th group index from 56.1 to 57.2 and a further increase is indicated for the current period. These levels compare with 57.8 for the week ended December 11, 61.8 at the beginning of October and a high of 64.5 reached in May of this year and an opening figure of 57.4 last year, the index for the same group declined from the high in January of 85.4 to 54.3 in December. Though copper was somewhat lower in London to-day the export price was advanced a quarter cent in New York to 10.80 cents per pound, bringing it in line with a domestic quotation of 10.50 cents. Advices from that centre to-day stated copper buying for foreign account came to about 4,000,000 pounds in early trade. The domestic price, 10.5 cents, is reported to have a firm tone and possibility exists for a further price advance.

LORD MILCHETT

France, Austria and Greece were there as was the Maharaja of Burdwan, one of the Indian Princes attending the Round Table Conference. Lord Dawson of Penn, the Royal physician, also was there.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, who aided Lord Melchett's political rise when the latter was a Liberal and who made him Minister of Health in the War Cabinet before the two were estranged by Lord Melchett's switch to the Conservative Party, was represented by Sir George Davies.

Among all these great figures was one humble person who perhaps knew Lord Melchett best of all. He was W. C. Scutt, the financier's valet for many years.

Lord Melchett died last Saturday of blood poisoning.

NORWOOD PUPILS STAGE CANTATA

Concert in United Church Sunday School is Credit to Teachers and Players.

SANTA TAKES PART.

NORWOOD, Dec. 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — A bright and colorful Christmas cantata, entitled "The Love Stamp," was given by the United Church Sunday school, Wednesday evening, under the direction of Mr. W. L. Walker, organist and choirmaster, assisted by the teachers of the Sunday school.

The first scene opens with a chorus, "Sing a Song of Christmas Day"; then enters the dressmakers, milliners and carpenters.

Milliners are: Reta Mason, Elanor Marks, Jean Patterson, Kitty Ridd; dressmakers: Jean Johnston, Joan Ridd, Doris Johnston, Madalene Wheatley; carpenters: Kenneth Metcalfe, Ralph Puffer, Raymond Rogers, Gerald Buck, James Buck.

Next enter "Mistletoe" and "Holly" (Kitty Edwards and Mildred Puffer), who sang a duet entitled, "Mistletoe and Holly"; then "Tinsel" arrives (Margaret Brethen), and recites "My Name is Tinsel"; then comes 'Candy Cane," Glyn Edwards, dressed in white and red stripes to represent the candy, and sings "The Christmas Candy." A chorus is then sung, entitled "Come Along."

The "Christmas Herald" (Earl Bongard) enters, taking his part splendidly, telling them that Santa Claus offers a prize and any child in the world may enter the contest, by presenting themselves to him with the most valuable gifts they are giving away, each giver and gift to be stamped and whose stamp marks the greatest value shall receive the most precious jewel in his treasure chest.

The dressmakers tell of all the dresses they had made for Santa and they were told they made many smiles in their work. The milliners then tell of their work, and the carpenters of their. The chorus, "Come Along," is then sung very brightly by all,

Scene II.

The platform has been divided in two parts by a curtain. Scene I has taken part on front half. The curtain is now drawn, disclosing the second half, which is set to represent Santa Claus' office. On the right is a large chest.

"Santa Claus" (Mr. Nelson) enters and discovers the chest. Going over to it he opens the lid and looks in. "Holly," "Tinsel," "Mistletoe," and "Candy Cane" watch him very closely.

Santa Claus then tells them that the prize is ready for all who care to enter. "Candy Cane" asks him why did he start this contest, and Santa tells him for a very good reason, — for giving at Christmas was all going wrong, few people giving anything worth calling a gift any more. The real Christmas message is forgotten.

A chorus is then sung, "One Wonderful Day." Santa then goes to the treasure chest and asks them if they want a peep at the treasure. He tells them that it contains the most precious jewel in the world and it shall go to the child who wins the prize in this contest. Then they all sing, "Filling Santa's Sleigh." The Herald now enters, announcing to Santa that the contestants are here, while they enter each with their various gifts, "Candy Cane" announces each by name and takes their gifts, placing them in a row upon the floor, also placing a placard on their pack, printed on them what each has given as the value of the gift, "Solid Gold," "Beauty," "Imported," etc. "Bob's" (Nelson Townsend) gift is a gold watch, which he values at $5. "Betty" (Leta Mason) offers a fan which is worth $6.50. "Mary" (Evelyn Buck) then comes with a five-pound box of candy, which she values at $5. Next, "Billy" (Garnet Wheatley) with a work basket that came from Paris, which he is very proud of and thinks it is worth $10. "Jane" (Olga Metcalfe) comes with a silk parasol which is worth $5. "Bonnie" (Hazel Rogers) brings a bracelet, at $5. "Donald" (Arthur Bongard) offers his gift, a book, at $3, and "Jimmie" (Charlie Bongard), a bathrobe, valued at $6. "John" (Earl Johnston) brings a pair of pajamas, at $2.50. And lastly comes "Constance" (Laura Metcalfe), who hesitates as she enters, as she feels her gift is small and of little value: a thimble, worth 25 cents, but as she gives it she tells Santa Claus a great deal of love goes with it.

Easy to Decide.

Santa Claus then asks them all to turn around and show their labels. On "Constance's" label the word "Love" is written; as he looks at this he tells them it is very much easier for him to decide than he expected it would be, and made them guess who they thought should win, and they all shouted "Constance," of course. He then tells them the greatest gift of all is "Love."

The chorus then sings "Laborers of Love." Bob then steps forward and wants Santa Claus to stamp his gift "Love" instead of "solid gold," but Santa tells him he can't stamp just the gift but he must have "The Love Stamp" on his heart. He then turns to 'Constance" and opens the chest, while 'Happiness" (Doris Gill) steps out, and tells "Constance" she receives the jewel, whose name is "Happiness," and she is 'The Spirit of Christmas."

Doris Gill then sings 'Happiness" as a solo. Kitty Edwards, Mildred Puffer, and Margaret Brethen sing "The Love Stamp." The cantata is then brought to a splendid close with the singing of "You Win the Prize."

FURNITURE NEEDED.

A small family, the man having no work, intends to move from their present home across the river, to this side of the city. They have very little furniture. Will those who have furnishings to spare, please telephone 1600, and they will be called for. The man and his wife and small child could use anything in the way of furniture; table, stove, chairs, bed or tableware.

A nice idea that had a very successful try-out before Christmas was the holding of bridge parties when the ladies were asked to bring groceries for needy families. Then there were children's parties with the same idea. These social entertainments can have as much pleasure for those entertained if they combine a thought for others less fortunate.

OTONABEE COUNCIL IS RETURNED BY ACCLAMATION AT NOMINATIONS

and as the reeves and deputy-reeves of Ontario directly represented the farmers, they should initiate a concentrated protest to the Government.

Some one remarked that Douro Township got 50 per cent. on their roads this year, while Otonabee received from the Highways Department only 40 per cent. on the township roads. Mr. McIntyre said this was due to Douro taxation. Belmont Township got 80 per cent. on their roads, but the Highways Department told them where the money was to be spent. This outside control, however, did not apply to Douro.

Mr. McIntyre—The township school authorities spend more than we do on roads and bridges, and we have no say whatever as to what they spend.

The reeve sketched some of the operations of the County Council, especially mentioning the improvements to the Bensfort and Wallace Point bridges. The outlay on county roads was $43,417.14 and on the suburban area roads $48,000. Old age pensions cost $8,061.59. There are 242 pensioners in the county and 19 in Otonabee. The county paid $25,000 to high schools and collegiate institutes in Peterborough, Lakefield, Ennismore, Bobcaygeon and others.

"I know you have high taxes," said Mr. McIntyre, "and I try to work for your interests just the same as for my own. There are only two from Otonabee in the eighteen of the County Council, and the others are just as anxious as we are."

Mr. Fife—So you don't think you can do any better next year?

Mr. McIntyre—Oh, yes, we do.

Mr. Fife—Well, that'll be all right.

Relief in Sight.

The reeve said he expected the old age pensions and the provincial highways would soon be removed from the counties' hands. He told Mr. Fife that at the good roads convention last spring the representatives of the counties had signed a petition to the Government for the transfer of the cost of highways entirely to the Government.

Mr. Fife—It must have been a big hall if all the reeves and deputies were there.

Reeve McIntyre — Most of them were there, and the road commissioners, too. Your deputy and myself were there. This question came up and they paid no attention to us about the cost of provincial highways.

A voice in the hall—This is not a democracy then.

Reeve McIntyre—With your support I expect to be here next year, and we are going to cut expenses again. The department has promised to take over the Hiawatha road next year, or to give us a substantial grant on it. We got $300 from the county for the Flat road (from the Locks to Bensfort bridge), and on the strength of that the department agreed that it be assumed as a county road. While we want the township expenses reduced, I might remind you that we get petition after petition for better roads.

William Fitzgerald asked Mr. McIntyre how many meetings were held by the Suburban Area Commission this year, and the reeve replied that there were considerably less than last year.

Some one said that 63 meetings at $15 a meeting in 1929 seemed extravagant.

Deputy-Reeve Huston.

Mr. Huston announced that he would be a candidate again and asked the electors for their support. He touched upon several items which the reeve had overlooked and suggested that ratepayers might attend the school meetings Wednesday night.

"If you would go there and do a little talking as you do here it might be a wise move," Mr. Huston said.

He referred to the purchase of a $7,000 truck by the County Council, and said it was doing good work.

Road Accounts.

Ambrose Doris, township road overseer, presented a statement of the monies expended under his supervision during the year. In Reeve McIntyre's ward $3,142.27 had been spent; in Mr. Huston's ward, $2,309.69; in Mr. Burns' ward, $3,295.04; in Mr. Bolin's, $3,012.92, and in Mr. Davidson's ward, $2,485.54.

The total outlay on township roads was $14,004. "We built 5¼ miles of new roads, put on 6,172 yards of gravel, spent $700 on new culverts, and we have 177 miles of roads to take care of."

The members of the Council briefly addressed the meeting, and Fred. Eason followed them to the platform. He questioned the value to the township of the assumption of the Bensfort road by the county.

Mr. McIntyre said that this road was to be included in the suburban area, and as a condition to that it had to be a county road.

"We are getting it in shape so the city will pay for it," Mr. McIntyre continued. "It will cost us eight cents on the dollar instead of 60c we are paying now."

"I am just expressing my own opinion," Mr. Eason stated, "and my idea is that it would be better to Otonabee people if the Wallace Point was put back on the county roads as it was in the first place."

More Money Saved.

Mr. Eason said that more ratepayers would be served by the Wallace Point road. The suburban area road to Bensfort bridge would be of no great benefit to the township, but it looked as if it was intended for South Monaghan people as an approach to Peterborough, and also as a little inducement to South Monaghan to join Peterborough County. Another opinion expressed by Mr. Eason was that the township roads built by Ambrose Doris represented a better expenditure of the ratepayers' money than the roads built under the county system. There was not the same overhead for machinery, which was not continuously used by the county, and more money was saved under the township's contract system.

Mr. Fife—Just three more years like this one, and the farmers won't need any roads.

Mr. Eason mentioned the grants that were paid to the northern townships, and declared that, on a similar basis, Otonabee couldn't possibly receive a proportionate share. Even if Otonabee received $15,000 from the county that amount would not be proportional to the grants to Burleigh and Anstruther.

Ernie Deyell—It is just the same as when you and I were there.

One of Mr. Fife's concluding expressions was to the effect that his taxes this year were equivalent to the value of one thousand bushels of wheat.

"I can remember when I drew wheat for 58c a bushel, but you could buy something with your money then."

Again urging Reeve McIntyre to see to it that the counties demanded of the Government their assumption of the entire cost of highways, Mr. Fife said: "If you don't go to the Government I'll run against you next year and I'll beat you if you keep the women vote out of it."

Reeve McIntyre — One woman's vote is as good as two men's.

Some one asked Mr. Fife, who was speaking from the platform as a nominee for the reeveship, what he thought of five men constituting the Old Age Pensions Board. His reply was: "We won't say anything about that. You and I are getting old, and if things keep on as they are going we may need the pension ourselves."

Then there was a reference to the appointment of M. Kennaley as tax collector, and Mr. Fife said: "If ever a man earned his $140 it will be the tax collector in the next two years."

Mr. Fife was the life of the nomination party, but the continuous thread upon which he strung his comments and humor was a manifest feeling that the farmers are being called upon to bear a tax burden that is incommensurate with their recent income.

Among other speakers was J. T. O'Connell, who complimented the Council upon its administration this year and proposed a motion that the elections be dispensed with. Robt. A. Wilson seconded the motion, but it was patently out of order.

M. Walsh, who also addressed the meeting, objected that it was not in accordance with British institutions.

The meeting wound up at that stage, but it was reported afterward that the various nominees declined to seek election for the coming year.

Annexation Question

"We had a delegation from Peterborough City and County to consider the feasability of our joining up with Peterborough County," said Mr Wood in the course of his address. "They came to us and invited us to take this step. Such proposals have been made for the past forty years. I can remember them even when I was a small boy, and at that time it was not considered good business."

Mr. Wood explained that he was bringing this matter before the ratepayers on this occasion because he was asked to do so, and he stated, "I am in favor of it." He admitted, however, that he was not very conversant with the proposals, and said, "I will leave it open to the public to find out its advantages and disadvantages."

Pointing out some of the features which annexation involves, Mr. Wood explained that to-day the Provincial Government assumes 50 per cent of all bridges. They assume 50 per cent of our bridges which at one time Peterborough County used to assume, it is different to-day in that respect, he said.

He also pointed out that the Peterborough County rate is higher than the rate for the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and he said he was told on good authority that the total debenture debt of Peterborough County amounts to about $90,000. The debt on Northumberland and Durham County while apparently larger, is not so great, as the assessment of the United Counties is considerably higher.

A Questioner: Did Peterborough say they would accept us as we are now?

Yes; they said they would accept us as we are with our debenture debt. They would have to take a vote in the County Council. I am only putting this matter before you, because I said I would; I am behind it.

Sewage Disposal Plant

Referring to the Peterborough City sewage disposal plant, Mr. Wood stated that three delegations have been to Toronto concerning the matter, and I think in the very near future it will be taken out of the river entirely. The Ontario Board of Health is pretty well tired of Peterborough's attitude and will call for some action."

Road Work

Referring to the local taxes, Mr. Wood exclaimed that during the past twenty years they had not raised at all. "It is—hardly enough," he said, "and we should have more money to spend on the township roads, yet we cannot very well come back to the people for more money in face of the demands for the County roads. Our County rate is now about 14½ mills, as compared with about 7½ to 8 mills, when I first came into the Council. I asked for a recommendation to the incoming County Council, to decrease paving next year, and I think you will find a change at Cobourg next year. Mr. Greer will not have the liberty respecting paving which he now has. (Hear! hear!).

Tracing the extensive paving program which has been undertaken in the County, Mr. Wood said that the debt has risen from $400,000 to $1,154,000, and there remains another three years in which to complete the paving program. The plan adopted to pay for these paving schemes has been that of issuing debentures. "We are not paying them, we are paying interest," he said, "and I would like to leave this with the incoming reeve whoever he is, that it is good policy to try and curtail this if possible."

In conclusion Mr. Wood thanked the ratepayers who had supported him and those who had not supported him, and exclaimed, "if either of my partners here wish to aspire to the reeveship they are welcome to it."

David Moncrief, in a very brief address, said that so far as annexation by Peterborough is concerned, I would want a lot more information before I would take any steps to go in with them. We might be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire and I am wondering why Peterborough is so anxious to have us; there must be some benefit to them."

Mr. Wood has said he would stand aside for us, and I am much obliged to him for the way he made the offer, but so far as running for the reeve's chair, I might and I might not. I will consider it. I don't know that it would be wise to change now. It is not what Waterman or I wish, but what is in the best interests of the township, that we must consider."

Fred Waterman said he was glad to have been nominated for reeve, and if elected in any form it would be his intention to serve in the best interests of the township. There is plenty of work to be done, but we want the wherewithal to do it, nevertheless we have to practice economy.

"Although accused of having something to do with the N. Monaghan affair, I wish to say that I did not know the deputation was coming, but I do consider the sewage pouring into the Otonabee River, is nothing more than a filteration plant for Peterborough. It is a matter we are all interested in and it is the duty of us all to see that the nuisance will be stopped sooner or later."

J. S. Perrin dispensed with a speech, contenting himself with merely thanking his mover and seconder and stating that he would consider about running for the reeveship.

Roy Whittingdon, junior member of the Council who was born and raised in the township, tendered his thanks to the ratepayers for the support they had given him and also to the members of the 1930 Council, and asked for continued support at the forthcoming elections.

Howard Bernard, whose name has been slated for councillor several times, "I won't say yet what I will do; I will consider it." The next man to be called upon, Dawson Rutherford, expressed surprise that his name had been mentioned, and said he would consider the matter.

Wilbert Barnard, thought the good attendance showed the increased interest which the people are taking in the affairs of the municipality. In these terrible times of depression, he thought, that not only individuals, but corporations, governments and councils should try to get together and make plans whereby we can relieve distress not only among ourselves, but among our neighbors.

"With regard to annexations I feel like Mr. Moncrief that it is a serious matter," he said, "and one which we must take up and analyze, for a few months, meanwhile getting all the information we can so that we will be in a position to come to a conclusion in the best interests of the township.

Speaking of the good roads system, the speaker declared: "I am not in favor and never was in favor of the scheme, nearly all the municipalities have big debts where the system is in operation. I think we can economize by keeping out for a time, until we can see what is going to come of the matter.

Mr. Barnard criticized the lack of publicity which had been given to the meetings of the council during the past twelve months, stating that during that time only three meetings had been reported. "I am not saying it was done to slight anyone, or that it was done by carelessness, but the ratepayers would like to know the minutes of each meeting, we are interested and we want to know how our money is being spent.

James McRoberts said that like the rest he did not wish to commit himself, but if you see fit to vote for me, he stated, and I decide to stand I shall be thankful to have your support.

"Sea leopard," "shark leather," "Iceland sole," "turtle fish" and "set pig" were the names of shoes made of cod and salmon skins shown recently in Paris.

Will You Need an Income of $100 a Month?

Some one has said that the sweetest words in the English language are "Enclosed please find cheque."

How would you like to have $100 a month mailed to you regularly after you reach age, say 50, 55 or 60, whichever you select? You would like to have it now, perhaps, and if you have the capital sum needed to buy such an income the Canada Life will guarantee it to you at once. But if you haven't the capital you can arrange now that you will have that income later on.

Suppose you are earning $100 a month—it may be $150, 200, or more. Whatever it is, there is a part of that income you want continued.

If you were not here, how much would continue? That is, how much of your income would go on, no matter if you earned a salary or drew pay or not? For many people the answer would have to be: "Not very much!"

It takes $20,000 capital well invested to bring in $100 a month. Under the Canada Life plan you do not need to save $20,000 in order to make sure of an income of $100 a month.

The Canada Life, with $175,000,000 of well-invested assets, will guarantee to continue that part of your income you must have later on for living expenses, say $100 a month. And the Canada Life may have to start the income going at any time for you or your family. There are no years of waiting if the need should come suddenly. That is, should you become totally disabled or should you die.

How you can provide such an income is told in our booklet, "Getting the Income You Want." Why not send for it now?

THIS COUPON WILL BRING YOU VALUABLE INFORMATION

Without obligation on my part, please send me by mail your booklet, "Getting the Income You Want."

CONTEST LIKELY FOR REEVESHIP OF SMITH TOWNSHIP

Eleven Names Are Placed in Nomination for Five Offices.

FINANCES GOOD SHAPE

Coons and Brown and Fitzgerald Are Nominated for Reeve.

An election battle was forecasted for Smith Township Council at the nominations held yesterday afternoon at the court house when eleven were nominated for the five seats in the council. The number of nominees will of necessity be reduced to nine because two, Gordon Fitzgerald and George E. Mullen, were nominated for two posts and must choose for which office they will stand.

For the past several years acclamations have been the rule in Smith but that custom was shattered yesterday and a fight is assured for all offices of the council. William Brown declared openly that he had aspirations to be reeve and would certainly contest the re-election of Henry D. Coons. Gordon Fitzgerald was also nominated for reeve but would not reveal whether he would stand for that post and make a three-cornered fight or be satisfied to stand for re-election as deputy-reeve.

Besides Gordon Fitzgerald, nominations for deputy-reeve were tendered to George E. Mullen, a councillor last year, and Allan B. Mann, who served on the council in 1928.

George Mullen was also nominated for councillor along with Charles Westlake, Vivian Millburn, Herbert McConkey, and Fred Armstrong. Millburn and McConkey will seek re-election and will be in the field. Westlake was non-committal.

Smith Township ratepayers have shown increased interest in the affairs of the municipality of late; and that added interest was in broad evidence at the nominations when more than seventy-five crowded the County Council chambers. It was the largest crowd ever seen at Smith nominations by Township Clerk Percy T. Udy, Mr. Udy told The Examiner.

Those nominated were:

Reeve—Henry D. Coons, proposed by Stanley Higgins and H. Clark Garbutt; Gordon Fitzgerald, proposed by Joseph Roseborough and Peter Nicholls; William Brown, proposed by Fred Johnston and J. D. Manley.

Deputy-reeve—Gordon Fitzgerald, proposed by Gilbert McIlmoyle and Howard Sanderson; George E. Mullen, proposed by Ernest Scott and Howard Baptie; Allan B. Mann, proposed by Albert Nicholls and R. T. Patterson.

Councillors — Charles Westlake, proposed by George H. Simpson and James A. Fowler.

Vivian Millburn, proposed by Harold Lewis and James H. Crapp.

Herbert McConkey, proposed by Mel McWilliams and Albert Nicholls.

Fred Armstrong, proposed by Peter Nichols and John E. McConkey.

George E. Mullen, proposed by Norman Edmison and Elmer Millburn.

Seek Re-Election.

In giving notice that he would stand for re-election, Reeve Coons gave a summary of the work of the Council for the past year. He declared that it must be recognized that the farmers are passing through one of the hardest economic periods in years, but since the township council had only control of 16 cents out of every dollar collected of taxes there was little hope of the tax rate being reduced. The revenue of the township had been higher than expected considering the financial position of the farmers, but there were more uncollected taxes than last year. On roads the council had expended $11,700, which was the largest expense bill. One or two small bridges were built. In the coming year an added grant of $1,000 will be received from the Ontario Government, said Mr. Coons.

On the advice of the Board of Health the council assisted financially in having the school children treated with toxide for the prevention of Diphtheria. All but two schools had taken advantage of this.

The finances were in sound condition and a balance would be shown on the proper side of ledger, Mr Coons stated. He gave notice that in the coming years the taxes would be higher and there was no means of economy for the township council to practice that would prevent this. The new provincial highway would add its share to the tax rate. Last year Old Age Pensions and Mothers' Allowance, over which the township council has no jurisdiction except to pay, made up two mills of the tax rate. The township council controls only five of the 28 mills collected as taxes, he said.

Gordon Fitzgerald did not say whether he would contest the election as reeve or stand for re-election to his office of deputy-reeve. He said that a new grader had been purchased and the townships road machinery was in first class shape. The council had made every effort to distribute expenditures evenly and spend where the money was most needed.

In declaring that he would be in the contest for reeve, William Brown said that during the past fifty years he had continuously served the municipality in some capacity. He started out as pound keeper, he said, and risen through every office to that of deputy-reeve. He admitted that he wanted to be reeve and stated that a "vast concourse of friends" had urged him to run. For the past ten years he had served on the Suburban Roads Commission.

George E. Mullen also would not say whether he would stand for deputy-reeve or re-election as councillor. He said that $340 had been spent by the township for weed cutting and questioned whether the farmers could not do the work better themselves and save the township the expense.

Herbert McConkey said he was in the ring for re-election.

In saying he would stand for re-election, Vivian Millburn made a strong appeal for the young men in the township to show a keener interest in municipal affairs. "We all have a smattering but it requires a closer study," he said. No partiality had been shown in expending the township funds and the tax rate had remained at the same figure as previous.

Allan B. Mann said that since the farmers' revenue had been greatly reduced a sincere effort should be made by the township and county councils to reduce taxation. He withheld his decision to stand for election to council.

Charles Westlake also would not say but Fred Armstrong stated that he would be in the field.

Mr. Udy drew attention to the fact that Ed. Elliott, county clerk was absent from the meeting because of illness. "It is the first time in my experience that Mr. Elliott has been absent," said Mr. Udy, who expressed the hope of Mr. Elliott's rapid recovery.

Polling booths for Smith township's elections on Monday, January 5, will be at: Third Line school house; Bridgenorth Foresters' Hall; Higgin's House, Lakefield; Selwyn Temperance Hall; Norton's House; Young's Point and 16th Line, Orange Hall.

TWO SUSPECTS GIVEN REMAND

Owen Sound Man and His Daughter Appear Next Week on Theft Charge.

NO BAIL ARRANGED.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 30 (C.P.)—Charged with receiving and having stolen goods in their possession, Neil Bell and his daughter, Mrs. Annie Myrtle Lavers of Clarksburg, Ont., were remanded one week at the request of the Crown Attorney, when they appeared in Police Court yesterday. The accused were not asked to plead or elect trial. Bail was not provided for.

The arrest of Bell and Mrs. Lavers followed a search by Provincial Police of the Bell home, where goods and merchandise valued at more than $3,000 was found. Most of it was identified by representatives from Toronto departmental stores. The charge alleged the goods had been received over a period extending back to 1925.

Capt. Percy Lavers, husband of the accused woman, who operates a fishing tug out of Port Dover, was arrested last night and will be brought here by Constable Cook of Meaford, who left Owen Sound this morning. No definite charge has been laid against Lavers.

Meanwhile police are investigating reports that another large quantity of goods have been cached in a vacant home at Collingwood.

FOUR ARE NOMINATED FOR REEVE; PROMISING CONTEST IN SEYMOUR

Three Enter Ring for Deputy-Reeve's Chair and Nine for Councillors.

KEEN INTEREST TAKEN

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30.—With four nominations for reeve, three for deputy-reeve and nine for councillors, a fight is promised in the township of Seymour for the election of the governing body for 1931. Much interest was shown at yesterday's meeting, and a very large number of the rate payers turned out to listen to the present council and prospective members make their pleas. Those nominated for the several offices are:

Reeve

T. J. Horkins, proposed by G. Duncan and W. M. Stephens; G. VanVolkenburg, proposed by P. B. Nelson and A. H. McKelvie; P. B. Nelson, proposed by John Quinn and A. H. McKelvie; Robert Innes, proposed by W. M. Stephens and R. Fry.

Deputy Reeve

Robert Innes, proposed by W. A. Wynn and A. H. McKelvie; William Duncan, proposed by A. Barnum and T. Fry; John Locke, proposed by J. Sanders and Fred Peake.

Councillors

Fred Peake, proposed by E. Craighead and Fred Bennett; Thomas Fry, proposed by W. S. Grills and Robert A. Linn; W. Duncan, proposed by A. Petherick and Alex Green; W. S. Miln, proposed by Alex Hume and A. H. McKelvie; W. S. Grills, proposed by Sam Diamond and Fred Peake; H. T. Rutherford, proposed by F. Barnum and W. Cock; W. Rowe, proposed by J. Currie and G. E. H. Brown; A. Brunton, proposed by J. Currie and W. S. Grills; Fred Barnum, proposed by H. T. Rutherford and T. J. Ketcheson.

All the old council were nominated and declared their intention of running for office, some however making the stipulation that they would withdraw rather than cause an election. The feeling was however that a contest at the polls was imminent.

Reeve Outlines Work

At the meeting following the nominations at which the candidates spoke Alex Hume occupied the chair. Reeve Van Volkenburg taking the lead, spoke on the work of the Counties Council as it affected the township. Referring to the paving scheme now under way, he stated that he had proposed the stoppage of it for the coming year, as in his opinion finances did not warrant the increased expenditure. There had been an excess of $15,000 spent on the road scheme in the past year, and this he thought was too great an outlay. He also stressed the fact that in his opinion there was a lack of co-operation between the Road Commission and the Finance Committee. The Reeve also outlined the sale of debentures and concluded with the statement that if he continued in office he would try and reduce the county rate. He also touched on some of the township work, stating that six miles of pavement had been laid in the township of Seymour.

Deputy Reeve Innes outlined the work that he had done in his division of the township which included road work and drainage. He had also acted as a member of the equalization Committee and the Property Committee for the Counties Council. He stated that he had served as councillor for four years, deputy reeve for two years and asked the support of the ratepayers for the coming term of office as reeve.

Councillor Duncan signified his intention of running for deputy reeve and asked for support, stating he has been two years on the council. He gave a brief survey of the work in his district which included the expenditure of $2,027.29 for roads.

Councillor Milne also stated that he would run for the same office for the coming year. He made his plea on the work that the council had accomplished in the past term of office, stating that it had tried to do what was right.

Councillor Rutherford made the statement that if there was an election he would not stand, but if the council was returned by acclamation he would allow his name to be left on the list.

P. B. Nelson, who was nominated for reeve declared that he had no intention of allowing his name to stand. It was his wish to see the old council remain in office, and made this plea to the rate payers.

John Lock emphasized the fact that he was in the field for deputy reeve, declaring that the fact that there were so many nominations tended to show that the people wanted an election.

Fred Paeke declared that he was not in the field for election.

Thomas Fry took the stand that if there was an election he would run for the office of councillor, but that he would not cause an election.

W. S. Grills, who is a one-time reeve of the township, declared his intentions of running for office.

W. Rowe also stated he would run for councillor, only if there was an election.

Fred Barnum declined nomination on the grounds that he would like to see the old council in office for another year as he saw no grounds for an election.

T. J. Horkins and Fred Brunton were not present to declare their intentions.

All speakers payed tribute to the loss the council had sustained during the past year with the deaths of W. Stephens, Dr. Free and Dr. G. A. Hay.

A motion was passed by the meeting recommending that the township representatives to the Counties Council be instructed to help in putting the financial system of the Counties Council as it now exists on a better basis.

ENDICOTT IS SEEKING THIRD TERM IN OFFICE

Liveliest Nomination Meeting in History of Ops Township Held Yesterday.

SIXTEEN NOMINATED

Three Qualify for Reeveship of the Township of Emily—Four for Omemee.

LINDSAY, Dec. 30 (Special to The Examiner).—The liveliest nomination in the history of the Township of Ops was held yesterday in the Town Hall, Lindsay. The hall was crowded to suffocation and the discussion was 'red hot. In fact it looked for a time as if a Donnybrook would be staged. Reeve Endicott, who is seeking a third term, as well as the members of the Council, were the objects of attack, the record of the Council for the past year coming in for severe criticism from several of the speakers. The chairman had a hard time keeping order, as charges and counter-charges were hurled across the room. Nine candidates were nominated for the Council and seven for the Reeveship. The fight on election day promises to be a hot one.

Five in Ops seek election as Reeve, as follows: S. Endicott, J. Davis, T. H. Reeds, R. Smith, W. Graham.

For Council only five have their hats in the ring. They are: J. Endicott, J. Naylor, Joe Magahay, J. Davies and W. Reeds.

Suspects Abandon Bullet-Riddled Car

MONTREAL, Que., December 30 (C.P.). — An hour after police had chased an automobile containing two burglar suspects and had bombarded it with revolver bullets, the abandoned machine was found, but no trace of the fugitives. The incident followed a message to Rosemount Station advising police that two men with a car were acting suspiciously about a chain grocery store in that district.

CITIZENS ASKED TO HAVE ASPHALT PAVING PUT DOWN

Alderman Harry Huffman Takes Exception to Certain Statements Being Made.

NO EQUIPMENT IN CITY.

Very Few Cities Lay Concrete Paving, Upkeep is Much Heavier.

Taking issue with certain statements which have recently been made public, and which he considers tends to convey an erroneous impression concerning certain undertakings of the City Board of Works, of which he is the retiring chairman, Harry C. Huffman, points out several different reasons why the city did not use cement in the construction of its roads, stating that in the first place the citizens, through a deputation to the City Council, asked for asphalt.

"The difference of 70 cents per yard more for the laying of asphalt as compared with concrete, is well justified," he contends, in the face of the fact that over $1,000 was spent to fill in the cracks on comparatively new cement paving throughout the city, whereas asphalt pavements are still in existence, almost as good as ever after having done fifteen to sixteen years' service. Mr. Huffman referred to the asphalt paving, which was also patched up during the past summer when the Warren Paving Company was here, on George Street north of McDonnel Street and on Murray Street. "It would have been impossible to get more value for our money than we have had from these asphalt paved streets," he stated.

It has been stated that "had this paving of Park Hill Road and Armour Road been laid in concrete by day labor, the city would have saved in the neighborhood of $11,000."

The foregoing statement has been made, said Mr. Huffman, without the author of it having a true knowledge of his facts. "It would be impossible for a city like Peterborough to lay cement paving, with our present equipment. It would involve the expenditure of an appreciable sum of money for the purchase of a new mixer and mechanical shovel, as it would be absolutely out of the question for us to think of putting in stuff at the same price as the contractors, without such equipment."

Prices were obtained on a new mixer, the minimum purchase price being $4,700.

Granting that such equipment was purchased, and Mr. Huffman contends that it would have to be, such an outlay would only be the means of saddling the city with debt. At the most, a paving plant could only operate two or three months out of each year. It would remain idle for the most part. There is also the annual difficulty of obtaining labor, of training new men in the handling of machinery and tools. In support of this argument, Mr. Huffman said that that even such an apparently simple job as raking requires a great deal of skill, and a whole lot depends upon these men for the finished surface of the road.

To show to what extent asphalt is favored by various large municipalities throughout the Dominion, Mr. Huffman obtained the following table showing the total percentage of asphalt which is in use in these municipalities:

	Per cent. Asphalt
St. Catharines	75.8
Oshawa	74.4
Westmount	97.5
Victoria	95.0
Ottawa	65.0
Winnipeg	76.0
London	91.0
Niagara Falls	94.2
Montreal	82.0
Kingston	99.5

So far as Ottawa is concerned Mr. Huffman states that of the remaining 35 per cent. of roadway which is not paved with asphalt, stone is used. Little or no concrete is used in the Capital City.

Contrary to a statement made at the nomination proceedings, which in substance averred that a deputation from East City had waited upon the Council requesting them not to proceed with paving in East City, Mr. Huffman declares that he is absolutely unaware of any such deputation. He does remember, however, that a deputation came to the Council from East City, with a petition signed by the ratepayers of the Park Hill Road section, requesting that wider paving be completed in these sections, at greater expense. The request was granted.

Criticisms have also been levelled at the Board of Works, Mr. Huffman continued, concerning the erection of shacks for the convenience of workmen on certain of the city undertakings. "In the judgment of the City Engineer, the City Commissioner and myself," he said "such conveniences were essential to the comfort and welfare of the men, and they were provided without the necessity of calling a meeting of the committee. A meeting would in any case have cost the city just as much as one of these shacks. The entire outfit was provided at a total cost of $450, of which sum the Government paid half. The shacks are of such construction that they can be easily utilized on the city rinks, on other undertakings which are bound to ensue, or they could easily be sold as garages if necessary."

Manufacturers' Association. He then presented him with a handsome mahogany console cabinet. On the inside of the door was the following inscription on a brass plate:

A Token of Esteem to Edward G. Patterson
December, 1930,
from
The Peterborough Manufacturers.

Mr. Patterson was deeply moved with the honor done him, and in his ensuing remarks spoke of the "romance of electricity in Canada." The Edison General Electric had started in the United States, but had spread to Toronto and Montreal. However, there was a need for the protection of patents in Canada, so relations were formed with the Hamilton Steel Company. Later, a factory of the Canadian General Electric was constructed in Sherbrooke, Quebec, but for some reason was transferred to larger quarters in Peterborough. In 1889, Mr. Patterson asked for a job in Toronto. Asked what he could do, he replied, "I can do what any young man my age can do," and was accordingly employed. In 1890 a building was erected in Peterborough, and two years later the Houston Thompson Company amalgamated with the General Electric. This released Thomas Nicholls, who became first general manager of the C.G.E. in this city. Some $28,000,000 has been paid in wages and $375,000 in taxes since the inception of the Peterborough factory. Mr. Patterson concluded by stating that his greatest regret was in leaving the plant, but that the happiest moment in his life was the present moment being among his friends. He introduced C. A. Salmonsen, his successor, and referred to him as "a young, energetic and experienced man," who would make a substantial citizen of Peterborough.

His Worship Mayor Denne attested to the splendid character of Mr. Patterson, by pointing out that he was always one hundred per cent. behind the City Council and community efforts in anything good. The Prince of Wales School stands as a permanent monument to his work on the Board of Education. On behalf of the citizens and Council of Peterborough, Mayor Denne expressed their sorrow at Mr. Patterson's departure from active business life.

G. A. Gillespie, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, read a letter from James Dutton, president. In the communication was contained eulogies and regrets, expressive of the feelings of the whole of the Chamber. For the past thirty years he had been calling on Mr. Patterson to secure his financial support for local community enterprises, and had never been refused. In conclusion, Mr. Gillespie welcomed Mr. Salmonsen, who had already entered into the city's activities with enthusiasm.

R. M. Glover, president and managing director of The Examiner, was then called upon to give a few remarks. He said that when he was a boy he had looked upon Mr. Patterson as an austere and unapproachable man, but an occasion came when he saw Mr. Patterson as a kindly gentleman, and it is as this type of man he now knows him. The speaker expressed his regret with Mr. Patterson leaving active business at not being able to drop into his office on occasions for the benefit of his good, sound advice.

The formality of the meeting then gave way to social chats which rounded off an important evening in the annals of the Peterborough business world.

Seine In Flood Causes Damage

After rising to a new high mark, the waters of the Seine are gradually receding, leaving damages behind that will run into millions. This picture, which was not an unusual sight, gives one a splendid idea of how high the waters had come up on the public thoroughfares.

With a small, but representative membership the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce accomplished wonderful results in the past. A larger membership is required. The Association must be adequately financed if it is to function to the credit of the city.

BUSY CAMPAIGN BY BOOTLEGGERS IN RURAL QUEBEC

Alcohol Runners Dress Themselves in Garbs of Priests and Nuns.

32 AUTOS SEIZED.

Smugglers Use Coffins, Milk Cans and Radio Boxes to Get Product Into Country.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30.—In coffin cases, milk can, radio boxes, under Christmas trees and in automobiles driven by people dressed as Priests and Nuns, bootleg alcohol, good and bad, destined for the rural districts, has been seized recently by agents of the Quebec Liquor Commission at the bridges leading from the Island of Montreal.

Due to the prevalence of alcohol, not belonging to the Commission, in many sections of the Province at holiday times, especially at Christmas and New Year's, the present campaign was commenced. The majority of the alcohol has been good, but two cases of temporary blindness have been reported, wood alcohol being the cause.

32 Autos Seized

Thirty-two automobiles, whose occupants were charged with illegal transport of alcohol, and 300 gallons of the bootleg alcohol have been seized.

Every way and means have been employed in trying to take Montreal-made illicit alcohol out into the country. One seized car held a large case which because of its shape and size would be taken to hold a coffin but instead held one-gallon cans of alcohol. Trucks presumably laden with milk cans have been found to contain alcohol. Radio boxes holding five-gallon tins of alcohol have also been seized, while under a load of Christmas trees another consignment was found.

One automobile driven by two "priests," whose clothes fitted the part but whose faces induced a remembering faculty to function in the head of one agent, was seized and found to contain alcohol of alleged illicit manufacture. The opposite sex in ecclesiastical orders have also been represented, as an automobile driven by women disguised as "nuns" was seized.

JURY BLAMES BROCKENSHIRE

Inquest Verdict States Constable McQuillin Was Shot By Windsor Man.

CLARKSON NOT CALLED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 30.—(C.P.)—John Brockenshire, Windsor, who is at present in a local hospital suffering from bullet wounds received when he attempted to evade capture, was named yesterday by a coroner's jury as the man who on Dec. 11, fired six shots into the body of Constable Roy McQuillin of Toronto, killing him almost instantly. The verdict, brought at the close of the inquest into McQuillins death yesterday, was as follows: "We the jury do unanimously agree that Roy McQuillin came to his death on Dec. 11, 1930, between Scarlett Road and Toronto General Hospital, from a bullet wound from a revolver in the hands of John Brockensire, according to the evidence submitted.

Brockenshire's companion on the night of the shooting, Harry Clarkson, also a witness, attended the inquest but was not called upon to testify. Clarkson's confession, obtained shortly after he surrendered on the night McQuillin was shot, was, however, read at the inquest.

Prince Rides Hunting, Is Absent From Dance

KING'S LYNN, England, December 30 (C.P.). — Stiffness and soreness arising from his strenuous day on horseback on Saturday were supposed to-day to account for unexplained absence last night of the Prince of Wales from the annual ball of the West Norfolk Hunt which he promised to attend.

More than 300 guests assembled and eagerly awaited the arrival of the British heir, but at the last moment learned with disappointment that he was unable to be present, although no reason was assigned. His brother, the Duke of Gloucester, motored from Sandringham to take his place.

It was recalled however that the Prince resumed his hunting last week after a long abstention and seems not yet to have overcome the tendency to muscle soreness which the unwonted cross-country riding produces.

Candidates Declare City's Great Need Is More Industries

What in Your Opinion Does Peterborough Need and if Elected What Will Your Policy Be Are the Questions Asked Aldermanic Candidates By Examiner.

PAVING QUESTION IS GIVEN CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION BY MANY OF THE CANDIDATES SEEKING ELECTION

Asked by The Examiner the two questions: "What in your opinion does Peterborough need for 1931?" and "If elected, what will be your policy in the Council?" the nine candidates for the five vacant seats in the Aldermanic Board replied, almost to a man, replied that the city's greatest need was more factories.

However, most of them were rather vague as to the policy they would endorse if elected. All would adopt a closer check-up on expenditures, but all admitted that in order to keep the city progressive and in its present state of cleanliness and order, there must be considerable expenditure.

It was apparent that all the candidates have given much thought to problems of local municipal government and the interviews show that they appreciate the difficulties and work involved in city administration.

The question of paving received considerable attention. Some favor the city doing its own paving, while others, mostly candidates seeking re-election, point out the expense of purchasing costly paving equipment and argue that the city would not get sufficient use out of the machinery.

The Examiner here presents the views and platforms of the candidates in alphabetical order.

James C. Ellis, manufacturer— "I suggested to my friends that an election should be avoided this year and the money thus saved, given to the relief of the needy," stated Mr. Ellis to the Examiner. "Such a thing was not to be so I let by name stand at nomiantions. There are many questions which he believes will have to receive the earnest consideration of the incoming Council. Expressing himself on the unemployment question, he is of the opinion that the city ought to provide accommodation for single men, who have no home or money and who are unable to obtain employment. "We have sons of our own, who can well realize that the active young man out of a job is liable to do many things, which would be absolutely distasteful to him if he was in employment. Sleeping in stables in winter time is not a thing we wold like our own sons to do," he exclaimed. Let us all cooperate, we may not do much indivividually, but every little helps.

Mr. Ellis is also of the opinion that a widow with one child should be eligible for the widow's allowance.

Suburban roads should be maintained by the province, is another contention, for which he argues, the province collects the revenue from the gasoline tax and not the city.

Mr. Ellis is also decidedly in favor of keeping the tax rate as low as possible, and realizes the necessity of reducing the debenture debt, and stands almost alone in the attitude he takes towards the sewage disposal plant, being of the opinion that "it is a matter which must receive attention before we get into trouble with the townships of Otonabee and Monaghan.

He favours also the extension of the city's own pacing plant, and the continuous seeking of new factory owners both American and European who are seeking Canadian locations, in short Mr. Ellis is a real booster for Peterborough, and has an active interest in the encouragement of good clean sports. He throws out the suggestion that Peterborough, which can boast of a new body of water within its limits should endeavor to stage a regatta on Little Lake.

He is seeking election, he states, with a full realization of the responsibility and work which such an office entails, and gives the promise to do his best at all times in the interests of Peterborough.

Having in mind the advantages which accrue to the city from her tourist traffic, Mr. Ellis is in favor of the extension and improvement of the tourist camping ground, and is also of the opinion that the Council should help in every way possible t. have the Trent Canal completed, as it will be the means of bringing in additional tourists over the waterway.

FRED O. GOODFELLOW — "Peterborough's most pressing need," stated Mr. Goodfellow, who is again seeking election to the City Council, "is to keep our money at home. We must stop it going out of town." He thought that a lot of the present trouble has arisen from a lack of this policy, and consequently the need has arisen whereby we have to provide for the unemployed in our midst.

If elected for the forthcoming year I will always endeavor to give real service, and will be in support of any measure for the reduction of taxation and for the betterment of the laboring classes.

Expressing himself concerning the paving question, Mr. Goodfellow is of the opinion that the city should undertake to do all its own paving, and if the Council do not think it advisable to purchase a new paving plant, he thinks that we could very well go ahead with the present equipment and lay concrete.

James Hamilton

James Hamilton, who is again seeking election, has had six years' experience on the Council during a period of ten years. He was chairman of the Board of Works in 1929 and during the greater part of 1928, having also held several other important posts. In an interview with the Examiner, Mr. Hamilton stated, "I always had the idea that I would like to do what I could to help the City of Peterborough along, and I feel that I am well qualified to work along these lines, especially in this coming year when there seems to be so many big questions coming up, particularly those concerning the Nicholls Hospital and the Peterborough Sewage Disposal Plant, in N. Monaghan."

"When we are led to believe that so many manufacturing plants will be seeking sites in Canada in 1931, I feel that I can be of real help in selling Peterborough to these manufacturers. It is really just a case of selling Peterborough to these people, and being a manufacturer myself, I have the advantage of being in sympathy with manufacturers' viewpoints and ideals."

Asked what his policy would be regarding the Nicholls Hospital, Mr. Hamilton conveyed the impression that there is no further action to be

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

I wonder how many of you are planning a New Year's party?

• • • • • • •

It may be that you are planning one for New Year's Eve or perhaps New Year's Day or any time during the holiday and if you are, you will welcome the suggestions I am printing today for a New Year's party.

• • • • • • •

Of course you will be serving sandwiches—no party is complete without appropriate sandwiches, is it? Butter sandwich bread before cutting each of the twenty-eight slices required. Spread one side with any preferred filling or one of the following:

• • • • • • •

Mix enough red vegetable coloring to one package of cream cheese to give it a rose color Spread on bread, sprinkle with minced parsley and sprinkle with finely chopped maraschino cherries.

• • • • • • •

Or mixed minced chicken, turkey or veal with cranberry sauce and minced celery and season to taste.

• • • • • • •

Drain the dressing off one small can of sardines. Mince the sardines and add the mashed yolks of two hard boiled eggs; ¼ teaspoon lemon juice; ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, little cayenne; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and mayonnaise to moisten enough to spread.

• • • • • • •

All these fillings can be used for the sandwiches. When all are finished cut strips of pimento and sweet pepper, or either one and form the letters in HAPPY NEW YEAR, putting one letter on the top of a sandwich

• • • • • • •

There will be two sandwiches minus letters. Before serving the refreshments, arrange the sandwiches in a row on paper doilies so that the greeting is formed.

• • • • • • •

Place the two unlettered sandwiches between words to separate them If there are more to serve than this number will supply, a second greeting of sandwiches can be across the other end of the table.

• • • • • • •

With the sandwiches serve an assortment of nuts, olives, preserved ginger root and tiny sweet cucumber pickles. For the beverage a fruit punch can be served.

• • • • • • •

Make a round layer cake frosted with red icing and as many small chocolate cup cakes with white icing as will surround the centre cake.

• • • • • • •

Arrange the cake and then with chocolate form the numerals of a clock on the small cakes. From the centre of the top of the layer cake make a line to the figure 12 to indicate clock hands pointing to midnight of the year

• • • • • • •

Serve a slice of the layer cake with one of the round cakes. No numeral should be so large that it occupies all of the top of a cake, for there should be space around each as on the face of a clock.

• • • • • • •

With the cake serve ice-cream with or without a sauce, and have gay red candles. Just the cake and coffee, with the candies make a picturesque and simple form of refreshments.

CANDIDATES DECLARE CITY NEEDS NEW INDUSTRIES FOR PROGRESS

taken, but that a representative of the City will be included in the Board in the near future. "It was my suggestion originally," he said.

So far as the sewage disposal plant is concerned, Mr. Hamilton was emphatic in stating that he certainly would not be a party to going forward with any improvements until the Provincial Department of Health can show that they have something that will do the work properly."

"It is a big problem but it is hard to know just what can be done, more than is being done at the present time," exclaimed Mr. Hamilton in referring to the unemployment question. "If conditions do not improve, I will always be in sympathy with any sane project for the benefit of the unemployed persons and the workingman." He was not pessimistic concerning the future, however and expressed the belief that conditions will improve. He pointed out in support of his contention, that Peterborough is in a very fortunate position compared with several other large centres of industry, and many of her factories are working at normal capacity.

Another matter on which Mr. Hamilton has very decided views, is that concerning the City's tax rate. "There is a cry to keep the tax rate down," he declared, "and we have to do it." Taking his own property as an example, Mr. Hamilton, pointed out that between the taxes he pays to the City and the taxes his tenants pay, it amounts to an annual outlay of appproximately $4,000, so naturally," he stated, "I do not wish to see the tax rate higher, than it is at present." Mr. Hamilton realized fully that if we are to do anything to improve the city, it is difficult to keep the tax rate down. He was not criticising the work of the 1930 Council, "I know the difficulties, after several years' experience," he said, and am aware that much of the money handled by the city is uncontrolled by the Council. "It is hard to make any promises to keep the tax rate down, but I would like to see the Provincial Government assume the total cost of the Mothers' Allowance and the Old Age Pensions, and also the total cost of the Provincial Highways, and return to the City of Peterborough, the gasoline tax collected from this City. If we could do that it would undoubtedly bring the tax rate down, somewhat."

"All capital expenditures for the year 1931, should be cut to the bone," was another of Mr. Hamilton's beliefs, although he said every year seems to bring up some piece of sidewalk or sewer which has to be completed. I would like to see the little piece of paving in East City completed, in the coming year, otherwise I shall be opposed to any paving, unless conditions improve very materially."

In conclusion, Mr. Hamilton, said he is again seeking election, realizing full yell the work and responsibility which such office entails, but he said he is willing to devote a great deal of time to the interests of the City and its citizens.

R. C. Heard

R. C. Heard, merchant who sought election to the Council last term, is taking issue on this occasion with two great questions of vital concern to Peterborough. "I realize," he states, "the necessity for keeping taxation as low as possible, consistent with giving good service to the citizens, and am opposed to the City taking on any unnecessary undertakings, which will tend to raise the present rate."

The unemployment question, Mr. Heard spoke of as a 'real live issue,' which in his opinion cannot be satisfactorily tackled without a conference between the City Council and the employers of labor, and if elected to the Council I will make every effor to take care of the interests of the workingman," he stated.

Expressing himself on the salary question, to which he was opposed last year, Mr. Heard, is still of the opinion that the matter should be submitted to the ratepayers for their consideration, and thus have the matter settled once and for all."

Daniel J. Holland has served two years in Council and this year so administered the business of the Property Committee, of which he was chairman, as to keep the expenditure of its several departments $1,000 less than its appropriation. He was born in the district, is traffic manager of the Peterborough Cereal Company and is a resident of East City.

Dealing with the city's needs, Mr. Holland said: "Realizing the depression through which we are passing, I would say the Council for 1931 must be one that will exercise every economy possible in municipal affairs, if Peterborough is to continue to be the progressive city that it has been in the past.

"I am in favor of as much development as can be accomplished without inreasing the present tax rate,' 'continued Mr. Holland. "Also, I favor employing as far as possible day labor on the city work and getting the taxpayers the best value and at the same time furnishing employment to local men. Every article required by the city that can be manufactured here or produced at a competitive price by Peterborough manufacturers should be purchased in the city, thus keeping the money in Peterboorugh and encouraging local industries.

"I would advocate an extensive advertising campaign, setting out the advantages of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre and the splendid factory site we have to offer Every alderman in conjunction with the industrial commissioner should exert every effort to add to our splendid line of industries.

"The debenture debt has reached considerable proportions, but taking into account the value of the public utilities, which are self-supporting the balance of the debenture debt which is chargeable directly to the city, is nothing to be alarmed about," stated Mr. Holland. "However, considering present business conditions, I am opposed to any increase in the debt, except in completing the work already authorized.

"My record in the Council is known and I can honestly say that I have given the city's business strict attention; always giving a ready ear to those who have approached me on civic matters. I have tried to give the public the active service needed to the office of alderman. If elected I will give the same service in the near future that I have in the past."

Harry E. Huffman, a member of the enterprising firm of Chas H Huffman and Sons, local contractors, has served three years in the City Council and is seeking re-election. In 1929 he was chairman of the Property Committee and this year he was chairman of the Board of Works, the most important committee and one involving great attention and study by its chairman.

Mr. Huffman said that he would base his appeal to the electors upon his record in Council and the administration he had given the Board of Works. "The Board of Works had about $8,300.00 less this year than other years to do its work or looking to the building and maintenance of the city's sewers, drains ditches, bridges, roads and sidewalks," stated Mr. Huffman. "This big cut was made in a sincere effort on the part of the Council to keep the tax rate down. I think that we accomplished much during the year that goes to make Peterborough a better city in which to live, and many of these can not escape the eye of the ratepayers Several streets have been defined with curb and gutter and if elected I intend to see that this work is continued, because it not only improves the streets and the value of property but also gives employment to our men. Then, too, with proper drains and curbing, the roadway is so rendered that it does not require further attention except oiling each year."

In further pointing out the accomplishments of the Board of Works, Mr. Huffman said: "We repaired our old oil wagons and did the street oiling ourselves at a cost of $8,750.00, which was a saving of thousands, because in 1928 it cost $13,500.00, and last year $1,700.00. I must say that one reason for the saving was that the streets had been oiled so well in other years that they did not require so much this year.

"I would like to call attention to the new bridge in Jackson Park, which was built this year. Not only this beautiful cement bridge was constructed but also the creek was thoroughly cleaned at that point and a new outlet made for the feeding of the artificial lake; and all this work accomplished at a cost of $2,650.

"Large 42-inch drains were laid on Park street at the Ovaltine plant; on Douro street; and at present the men are working on Bethune street north of McDonnell street. When this drain is complete the whole hillside in that section will be taken care of, and spring floods will leave property undamaged. We have given employment to about 150 men under the Unemployment Relief scheme. This had added greatly to the task of the Board of Works, since the men were given work in shifts. When this work is completed I am convinced Peterborough will have a storm sewer system to be proud of and under the scheme it only cost the ratepayers half. Again, I would like to point out that 75 per cent of the money expended went directly or indirectly into the pockets of workmen.

"I have been criticized," continued Mr. Huffman, "for having ordered the building of huts for the workmen. I believe such criticism is unfair. The men could not be asked to eat their lunches in zero weather on the side of the road.

"Paving seems to be looming as important in this election and I want to make my stand clear. The last paving contract was given to help relieve the unemployment and I know that direct wages paid out on this job were well over $10,000.00, because it was chicked up by the Workmen's Compensation Board. And this amount does not include the money paid for trucks, cement and other materials bought locally.

"I do not think it wise for a city of Peterborough's size to invest $65,000.00 in a paving plant that would only be used two months in the year and left to rust the other ten. It is nonsense to say that we can lay cement pavement with the mixers we have. The largest machine we have is a number 5 with a capacity of not more than 50 yards a day. A paving mixer can lay this much in an hour.

"I am sure that any council that represents the ratepayers will have to do a certain amount of paving each year and will lay it where and of the material the citizens ask for."

John A. McNabb, a merchant on George street, seeks re-election to the Council. He has served two years as alderman and was for two years a member of the Board of Education

Stating his view of the city's needs for 1931, Mr. McNabb went rather fully into some of the debatable points of methods to be adopted in dealing with problems of city administration. "I believe in the policy that the city should do as much of the necessary work under day labor as possible," he stated. "And if on a contract basis, local contractors employing local labor should be given the preference over outside contractors.

"Further, I support the policy that the city should do all permanent paving under the supervision of the city engineer.

"The council as a whole should put forth in 1931 an extraordinary effort to induce new industries to locate in Peterborough, and such a policy I pledge myself to further. New factories build a city and a city with various industries will speed prosperity to all," said Mr. MacNabb.

"Under present conditions civic undertakings involving large capital expenditure should only be approved as the city sees its way clear to pay them off without saddling the taxpayers with long-term debenture bonds. Our future debenture issues should not exceed our annual debenture retirement.

"Further, I will put forth a sincere effort to hold the tax rate at its present level, and if possible, by prudent and conservative retrenchment, reduce the tax rate by holding for a business-like administration of public funds. In preparing our budget, I will advocate all moneys placed in department budgets be spent according to the itemized statement, and if other questions of expenditure come up, chairmen must have change of expenditure endorsed by Council before spending money in any other way than that originally passed by Council.

"I will not support any policy pertaining to an addition to the sewage disposal plant, until such time as the Department of Health can show us a plant in properly working condition and suitable to our climatic conditions," declared Mr. McNabb.

"And if elected I will also advocate at the first meeting of Council a general change in committee chairmanships and committee personals.

"I am fully aware of the responsibility that is associated with such an important office as that of alderman," he continued. "I realize the position calls for one's best business judgment and careful administration of civic affairs. During my two years in office on the Aldermanic Board and two years on the Board of Education, I have always tried to give the citizens my best thought and business judgment to all civic questions. I believe that ability to serve increases as one gains experience in Council. If re-elected I pledge myself to give the citizens my time, talents and service with full realization of the work, effort and responsibility that office inolves."

Nagle E. Phelan has served eleven consecutive years on the Council and for ten years has been Chairman of the Finance Committee. He was born in Peterborough, educated here and is district manager of an insurance company.

"In 1931 we must put on more steam in efforts to secure more factories," Mr. Phelan declared in outlining his view of Peterborough's needs.

"Building must be encouraged and by that I mean the building of homes. In this connection I have been thinking of a scheme that would encourage building. It is simply that new homes should not be taxed until they have been completed and ready for tenancy. In that way a builder would not have to pay out money as taxes until the house was fully completed and he could begin getting revenue I haven't fully gone into the matter as yet, but will and will advocate it if elected. We need more homes.

"Also Peterborough Council should go strong after a share in the gasoline and license tax now taken from our citizens by the Provincial government. Also we should get a share of the amusement tax. This representation could be made strongly to Queen's Park if the Peterborough Council along with other Ontario municipal bodies went in one great assembly to Toronto. We should bring pressure to bear on it. Also I am strongly adverse to the city being forced to pay to the Provincial government a share of the cost and maintenance of highways not within the city's limits because we have sufficient expense in maintaining our own roads."

STUDENTS GIVE FINE PROGRAM

MUSICAL NUMBERS

A very successful Christmas entertainment, presented by members of the junior and intermediate departments of St. James' United Church Sunday school, was held Friday night in the school auditorium which was filled to capacity. A. E. Prest, superintendent of the school, presided as chairman and opened the program with the Christmas carol, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, the pastor, who also addressed the audience briefly. "A Christmas eve with the O'Flanigan family" was the humorous sketch given by Mrs. William Prest's class. This included both recitations and musical numbers, which were finely rendered.

Miss Margaret Smart contributed a very pleasing piano solo, which was followed by a recitation by Lavina Lowes, "Santa and the little mouse."

An original and very clever number was "The Kitchen Orchestra," enacted by members of Miss Jessie Martin's class.

The girls of Miss Clara Wilford's class presented a very effective pantomime in rythmic motion to music rendered by Misses Annie and Helen Payne.

A vocal solo, "I will not forsake thee," was sung in her usual sweet voice by Miss Geneva Sedgwick.

"The carpenter's daughter" was the title of a very appropriate dialogue by Miss Olive Prest's class, teaching the virtue of humility.

In the distribution of certificates and prizes, Mr. Prest was assisted by Ashton Fife, secretary of Robert Raikes diplomas, when the following boys and girls were honored: Robert Hardie, Leslie McLaren, Clarence Porter, Harold Fife, Muriel Byers, Maizie Evans, Evelyn Stewart, Cora Jamieson, Kathleen Seward, Florence Evans, Isabel Melrose, Lloyd Grose, Albert Porter, Edith McVera Davis, Clifford McKinistrey, Laren, Violet Watkins and Leslie Casey.

Special mention was made of three boys, Clarence and Albert Porter and Clifford McKinstry, who, in spite of a two-mile walk, have each attained perfect attendance at Sunday school for seven years, and were awarded with a framed certificate.

The Sunday school orchestra, with Miss Olive Prest accompanying, added materially to the success of the program and at this juncture contributed a fine selection.

"The Year's Holidays" made a very interesting and well rendered sketch, in recitation and song, embracing all the festive seasons from "New Year" to Christmas." Members of Miss Aileen Rose's class ably presented this number.

Miss Edith Smith, in her recitation, "Two Little Outcasts," won much applause.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was presented in pantomime by six girls of the Ever Ready Bible Class, of which Mrs. Beavis is the teacher.

Miss Geneva Sedgwick, another class member, sang the solo part.

Members of Miss Olive Prest's class again appeared in a dialogue, "The Christmas Aid Society," which was much enjoyed.

A vocal duet, "Songs of Joy," was a pleasing number, by Misses Aileen and Jean Rose.

Another pantomime portraying the Christmas scene was well done by the girls of Mrs. Meredith's class, with Misses Marjorie Stewart and Helen Spence singing "No Room in the Inn."

The closing number was sung by the entire audience, "Silent Night, Holy Night," followed by "God Save the King."

Much credit is due to the teachers of the youthful performers, as well as to Herb. Fowler, who attended the curtain, and to Arthur McLaren, who was in charge of the lighting.

Now Millions of Adults, too, check Colds

To relieve that "stuffed up" feeling in the head, sniff Vicks up the nostrils; also melt a teaspoonful in hot water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors.

2 WAYS at once!

Mothers were first to appreciate the modern method of treating colds externally, because it avoids the constant "dosing" so upsetting to children's delicate stomachs.

Now millions of adults, too, prefer Vicks for their colds, because, just rubbed on, it brings relief two ways at once:

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, thus helping the inhaled vapors to break up the congestion.

CANADA SLOWLY FORGES AHEAD TOWARDS A GREATER PROSPERITY DESPITE BUSINESS DEPRESSION

Passing Year Has Seen Many Important Events Including a Dominion Election, a Change of Government, Errol Boyd's Atlantic Flight and R-100 Canadian Visit

CANADIANS ARE TRUE TO TRADITIONS LOOK TOWARD 1931 WITH CONFIDENCE

Annus Mirabilis (an ancient phrase is an apt description for the year 1930, so far as Canada is concerned. If not exactly a year of wonders it was a remarkable year—a year of national progress despite business depression; a year of difficulties for farmers and city folk alike, difficulties being surmounted with the usual courage of Canadians; a year which saw a Dominion election and a change of government in a peaceful and business-like manner; a year in which a Canadian flew over the Atlantic and a great airship crossed to us and returned without mishap; a year free from great national disaster; a year with much unemployment, but also much compensating relief; a nerve-trying and a nation-testing year, but a year in which, despite all odds, Canada has been true to herself and her traditions, and one which enables her to look forward to 1931 with confidence that the worst is over and that the coming year will not fail to see the grey clouds of gloom swept out of the business sky.

To review ALL the events of 1930 in the space available in a modern newspaper is impossible; an attempt has been made to select the high lights and record those things which are worth remembering.

The Year in Politics

The year 1930 will live in the record of Dominion politics, not because there were two sessions in one year—that has frequently happened before, notably in 1896 and in 1911, after the incoming of the Laurier and Borden ministries—but because it was the first year in which there were two revisions of the tariff, in diametrically opposed directions. When Parliament met on February 20, there was a general feeling that it was to be a fateful session, that elections might come, or might not, but few predicted just exactly what happened. Even before the opening the year began its record-making, for on February 15 the first woman was called to the Senate, Mrs. Norman Wilson, of Ottawa, being the nominee. Hon. James Murdock was also made a senator. The address in reply to the speech was adopted without delay in the Commons and work began in earnest. In a few days, Premier King introduced a bill to prohibit the export of liquor to the United States, which was passed on March 25, on a vote of 173-11, only a few daring to oppose the measure, for fear of consequences in the constituencies, though many were really opposed to it.

On May 1 Hon. C. A. Dunning brought down the government's tariff proposals. They increased the preference on a large list of British goods, placed tea on the free list, imposed duties on fruits and vegetables coming from the United States, as well as countervailing duties upon a selected list of articles which had been badly hit by the new tariff bill of the United States, announced intended cancellation of the trade agreement with New Zealand in October, cut the sales tax in two and extended exemptions from income tax. At once the issue between the two parties was joined; the Liberals declared that they were giving a free gift to British industry for the sake of empire unity; the Conservatives retorted that the Liberals were sacrificing the industries of Canada; and the fight was on. It soon became apparent that only an appeal to the people could decide the issue, but the Imperial conference had been fixed for September, and it was only by mutual agreement that the session could be ended and the way cleared for dissolution. On May 6, Mr. King announced that the elections would be held.

Previous to this, however, a large quantity of legislation of note was passed; an amended pensions act, a bill establishing the eight-hour day on federal works, ratification of the halibut, sockeye salmon and naval treaties, and the bills transferring the natural resources to the three central provinces. Despite strong opposition from the Roman Catholic members, as well as some others, a bill creating a divorce court for Ontario, which had been introduced for two previous years by Mr. Woodsworth, Labor M.P. for Winnipeg, was passed.

Immediately after prorogation and dissolution, the Mackenzie King cabinet was re-constituted. Hon. J. H. King, minister of health and pensions, was called to the Senate and was replaced by Ian Mackenzie, of Vancouver; Dr. Cyrus McMillan, of McGill university, was sworn as minister of fisheries, and W. F. Kay, M.P. for Brome-Missisquoi, was sworn as a minister without portfolio. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, for seven years Speaker of the Commons, Hon. J. E. Sinclair (P.E.I.), and Messrs. George Parent (Quebec), E. W. Tobin (Richmond and Wolfe), Jules Prevost (Terrebonne), and L. A. Wilson (Vaudreuil-Soulanges), were called to the Senate. W. H. Moore, who had been chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board, resigned to contest Ontario South.

The campaign was a strenuous one. Both leaders traversed the Dominion from coast to coast, addressing many meetings and using radio extensively. As a result the poll was the heaviest in Canada's history, and a good thing, it was most decisive. The Mackenzie King ministry was hopelessly defeated on July 28; four ministers were defeated, Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance; T. A. Crerar, agriculture; McMillan, fisheries; and Kay, without portfolio. The solid blocs in Quebec and Saskatchewan were broken, and Mr. Bennett was given a majority in all the provinces except the two mentioned, but secured 24 followers in Quebec and 8 out of the 19 in Saskatchewan. But at the same time they had to count the defeat of H. H. Stevens and A. D. McRae in Vancouver, and of T. L. Church in Toronto West Centre, which broke Toronto's Tory solidarity for the first time for a generation. The completed returns gave: Conservatives, 138; Liberals, 87; United Farmers, 10; Progressives, 2; Liberal-Progressives, 3; Labor, 3; and Independent, 2. The first test vote in the new House of Commons on September 10 gave the Bennett ministry a majority of 38.

No time was lost in changing ministries. In record time the Liberals stepped out and the Conservatives went in. On August 7, ten days after the voting, and three months after the dissolution, Mr. Mackenzie King resigned and Hon. R. B. Bennett was sworn as Prime Minister, and announced his cabinet. Mr. Bennett was, in addition to the premiership, president of the council, secretary for external affairs, and minister of finance; Sir George H. Perley, without portfolio, was his chief lieutenant and acting premier in his absence, the other members of the ministry being: Hon. G. D. Robertson, labor; Hon. Hugh Guthrie, justice; Hon. H. H. Stevens, trade and commerce; Hon. R. J. Manion, railways and canals; Hon. E. B. Ryckman, national revenue; Arthur Sauve, postmaster-general; Murray MacLaren, pensions and health; Hugh A. Stewart, public works; C. H. Cahan, state; Hon. D. M. Sutherland, national defence; Alfred Duranleau, marine; T. G. Murphy, interior; W. A. Gordon, immigration; Robert Weir, agriculture; and J. A. Macdonald, of Prince Edward Island, without portfolio. No opposition was given to the new ministers at the necessary by-elections, and a seat was found for Mr. Stevens in British Columbia, and they were soon back at Ottawa preparing for the emergency session, which had been called immediately upon the change of ministry.

That session began on September 8, a month after the change of ministries. Hon. P. E. Blondin, a former postmaster-general, was nominated Speaker of the Senate and George Black, M.P. for Yukon, was elected Speaker of the Commons. No time was lost in getting down to business; the speech from the throne was the shortest on record; the debate on the address was the briefest; the emergency legislation was brought down in quick order; and prorogation came on September 22. Within the fortnight appropriation of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, a bill to prevent dumping of foreign goods and an emergency tariff became law. The tariff changes, merely preliminary to a more extensive revision in 1931, were presented by Mr. Bennett in a brief, business-like speech; duties were increased on 170 tariff items; specific as well as ad valorem duties were imposed on many imports; and the countervailing duties imposed by Mr. Dunning in May were abolished. It was avowedly a protectionist budget, but had a feature new to our tariffs, a provision that where manufacturers increased prices, the tariffs a protection should be withdrawn. This provision was actually put into operation a couple of months later, when the price of glass having been unduly increased the tariff protection was wiped out.

Premier Bennett left for England on September 23, accompanied by Hons. Hugh Guthrie, H. H. Stevens, and Duranleau, and the Imperial conference opened on Oct. 1. A week later the Canadian premier, spokesman for the Dominions, proposed that: "We of the British Empire in our joint and several interests, do subscribe to the principle of an Empire preference, and that we take without delay the steps necessary to put it into effective operation." He was given the support of all the overseas delegates, but failed to convert the representatives of the British government, so that, in this regard, the conference accomplished little; but as it was agreed to hold a further conference at Ottawa early in 1931, it was not considered that the proposition was killed—it was merely deferred for further study. The conference was not, however, barren of results; a number of agreements were reached on legal and empire questions, which will, in course of time, be submitted to the various parliaments of the British commonwealth.

YEAR OF OCEAN FLIGHTS CEMENTS EMPIRE TIES

Errol Boyd Spans Atlantic While R-100 Makes First Visit

1930 will go down in history as the year in which a Canadian—Errol Boyd of Toronto—successfully flew over the Atlantic to England, accomplishing the feat in 24 hours on Oct. 10.

It will also be notable for the first visit of a giant British airship, the R-100 having arrived at St. Hubert, near Montreal, on August 1, and reached England on her return on Aug. 16, accomplishing the return journey in 57 hours 5 minutes as compared with 78 hours 49 minutes for the trip westward.

Kingsford Smith, the Australian aviator, (who had Canadian connection because he went to school at Vancouver), also accomplished the trans-Atlantic flight, from Ireland to Harbor Grace, Nfld., on June 25. He later flew from London to Australia.

A number of fatalities in the air were recorded during the year, two being killed near Kingston on March 18, two at Regina on April 22, three at Calgary on Sept. 25, and three burned to death at Toronto on Nov. 2; but these were few in comparison with the wonderful development of both mail and passenger air service during the year, a feature of the latter being a working agreement between the railways and the airways.

QUEBEC WOMEN REFUSED VOTE BY PARLIAMENT

Liquor Commission Profits Satisfactory at Over $8,000,000

ASSEMBLY INCREASED

The Province of Quebec was bereft of two prominent political leaders during the year—one, Hon. Adelard Turgeon, Speaker of the Legislative Council, a leader in the past; the other, Hon. J. L. Perron, minister of agriculture, the right hand of the premier, and one of the foremost of modern French-Canadians, in finance as in politics, among those who have within two generations transformed conditions in old Quebec. They died within a week of each other. The year was one of changes and surprises. The ill-health of Hon. A. R. McMaster compelled his resignation of the treasurership, which he had held only from September, 1929, and on October 16, Gordon W. Scott, a leading accountant of Montreal, was sworn as his successor. He was nominated in the county of Huntingdon, but was defeated on November 9, and Premier Taschereau was compelled to himself take over the finance portfolio, owing to the brief time elapsing before the meeting of the legislature. Mr. Scott was, however, retained as a minister without portfolio as the representative of the Protestant minority and was appointed to the legislative council until next year when he will again contest a seat in the Assembly.

At the same time as the calling of Mr. Scott to the council, another honor was done to the minority by the selection of Hon. Jacob Nichol (who had been treasurer from 1921 to 1929) as Speaker of the Upper House. Adelard Godbout, M.L.A. for L'Islet, succeeded Mr. Perron as minister of agriculture. By-elections, in addition to that in Huntingdon, were held in Bellechasse, where the premier's son, Robert Taschereau, was elected; in Maskinonge, where L. J. Thisdel held the seat for the Liberals; and in Two Mountains, when Paul Sauve retained the seat for the Conservatives in succession to his father who had been elected to the House of Commons, and been appointed postmaster-general in the Bennett cabinet.

The legislative session began January 7, lasted until April 4, and resulted in considerable legislation of importance. The budget speech, by Mr. McMaster, on January 23, revealed a surplus of $4,011,795, which was actually $4,269,187 at the close of the fiscal year. The profits of the liquor commission continued satisfactory, being over $8,000,000, making a total for eight years of nearly $50,000,000. Twice within a month the legislators proved that though a majority were technically Liberals, they were in reality conservative when it came to recognizing the claims of the women of to-day. On February 19 a bill to admit women to the practice of law was defeated by 37 to 29, and on March 5 a renewal of the attempt to extend the provincial franchise to women was rebuffed by 44 to 24. The bills assented to included measures for agricultural co-operation, taxing stock transfers, increasing succession duties on large estates, regulating advertisements of moving pictures, amending the insurance act, strengthening the legislation regulating sale of securities, and extending the hours of sale in hotels and taverns to 11 p.m.

The membership of the assembly was increased from 85 to 90 and some of the constituencies were redistributed. A measure of considerable importance was one to create a commission to govern Jewish education, long a matter of dispute, owing to the rapid growth of the Hebrew population in Montreal. It was a compromise measure, and is to be repealed, an agreement for the Jewish children to continue at Protestant schools being reached. Opposition Leader Camillien Houde, has made the creation of this concession to the Jews a cause for attack upon the Liberals in the rural districts, a policy which may have widespread effects at the elections of 1931. That contest will be bitterly contested, and whichever way it goes, may have wide effect upon federal politics.

ONTARIO LOSES FERGUSON CANADA GAINS SPOKESMAN

Premier's Acceptance of London Post Necessitates Cabinet Reconstruction

HENRY PIVOTAL MAN

The outstanding happening in a year of active politics in Ontario was the announcement on November 28 that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson had accepted the office of high commissioner in London, and the consequent reconstruction of the ministry under Hon. G. S. Henry, who had been acting premier during Mr. Ferguson's absence in England, "a keyhole observer" at the Imperial conference. It marked the end of a decade of accomplishment for Ontario by Mr. Ferguson, and was regarded not only as a loss to the Conservative party, but to the whole province, and was by some regarded as the opening of an era in which new parties might evolve. A reconstitution of the cabinet had taken place on September 16 when Hons. Forbes Godfrey, John S. Martin and Lincoln Goldie retired, owing to ill-health; Hon. E. A. Dunlop, of Renfrew, became treasurer; Dr. J. M. Robb, of Algoma, minister of health; T. L. Kennedy, of Peel, minister of agriculture; W. G. Martin, of Brantford, minister of welfare, and Leopold Macaulay, of South York, provincial secretary, while Hon. J. D. Monteith, who had been treasurer, was transferred to public works and labor, and Mr. Henry was relieved of all but the administration of highways, a preparation for the greater responsibilities which were soon to fall upon him as Mr. Ferguson's substitute and successor. The new ministers were all re-elected without opposition. Three by-elections were held on October 28, to fill two vacancies caused by resignation and one by death, and resulted in the election of Conservatives in Perth South and Nipissing, and of a Liberal in Waterloo South, the latter an opposition gain.

The session of the legislature lasted from February 5 to April 3, but within the two months considerable legislation was passed. As a result of the general election of 1929, the opposition was negligible, totalling only 18 against 87 ministerialists in a division on March 18. In all, 160 bills were passed. The most notable was one extending the term of the legislature from four to five years; at the same time the salaries of ministers were raised and the leader of the Liberal party was given the whole indemnity to "leaders of the opposition" which had previously been divided with the U.F.O. leader. Chief amongst the legislation passed were bills to extend the hydro-electric service into rural and mining districts, amending the highways act in many essentials, bringing the mining act into line with modern conditions, strengthening the liquor control act (the sale of native wines being brought under its operation), enacting new safeguards for the investing public and providing for regulation of brokers, reforming the rural school system, and providing $10,000,000 for the development of northern Ontario, as well as a bounty for the smelting of iron ore. As in the other provinces, the unemployment situation required attention in the closing months of the year and necessitated considerable work for ministers and officials.

NEW P.E.I. MINISTRY HAS FARMER PREMIER

New Cabinet Is Without Lawyer to Advise It

Prince Edward Island, like Nova Scotia, had a new lieutenant-governor and a new premier in 1930. Hon. Charles Dalton, the father of the fox farming industry, was in November appointed to Government House in succession to Hon. F. R. Heartz, who had held gubernatorial office since September 24, while on May 20, Hon. A. C. Saunders, who had been premier from August 12, 1927, resigned to accept a position on the bench of the supreme court of the province. He was succeeded by Hon. Walter Lea, who had been minister of agriculture and provincial secretary-treasurer. The portfolio of attorney-general, which had been held by Mr. Saunders, was allotted to Thane Campbell, but he failed of election in Prince (the first time for half a century a Liberal was defeated there), and the island now has a ministry headed by a farmer premier (the first in the province's history), and without a lawyer to advise it. The legislative session, which opened on March 11 and closed April 11, was productive of measures creating a provincial police, to regulate the sale of shares and stock, to establish a department of education and health, and providing for a referendum upon proposed reforms in the education system, including increased pay for teachers.

ALBERTA ELECTIONS SUSTAIN U.F.A. PARTY

Endorsement of Guarantee of Wheat Pool Most Important Legislation

General elections were held on June 19, when the Brownlee (U.F.A.) ministry was sustained by 40 to 23, the most notable defeat being that of William MacDonald, of Macleod, who had only been selected Liberal leader on March 27. Captain J. T. Shaw, the former leader, having resigned early in February. The most important legislation of the session, which lasted from January 30 to April 4, was the endorsement of the guarantee of the wheat pool, the ratification of the transfer of the natural resources (which actually took place on October 1), an increase in membership from 60 to 63, fixing the legal status of women, and the making of the wild rose the floral emblem of the province.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY MARKS MANITOBA DIAMOND JUBILEE

Natural Resources Formally Transferred to Province by Mackenzie King

LEGISLATURE BUSY

Historically, the event of the year in Manitoba was the celebration on July 15 of the diamond jubilee of the creation of the province. It was a big day in Winnipeg; the handsome legislative building was the centre at which gathered the heads of church, state and business, with a goodly representation of agriculture, the backbone of the province. Although in the midst of a strenuous election campaign, Premier Mackenzie King discarded politics for the hour and, in the name of Canada, formally transferred to Manitoba its natural resources, handing Hon. John Bracken, the provincial premier, a cheque for $4,922,842.72, being the amount due the province in lieu of alienated resources. The legislative session opened on January 21, with the election of J. W. Breakey, M.L.A. for Glenwood, a native of Port Hope, Ont., as Liberal leader in place of H. A. Robson, appointed a judge.

The three months that followed were busy ones for the legislators. The budget on February 19 reduced the levy for old age pensions, health and child welfare and the death duties, but increased taxation on gasoline and corporations, on bottled beer, and railways. Later official figures showed that the province had a surplus of $180,570 for 1929-30, the profits of the liquor, $2,044,960, alone averting a serious deficit. The agreement ratifying the terms of transfer of natural resources was passed on February 12. Soon after, the wheat crisis became acute and the session was adjourned to permit of a conference of the three prairie premiers at Regina, at which it was agreed to guarantee the operations of the wheat pool and in due course the necessary legislation was passed.

Hon. Cairine Wilson, Ottawa, who is the first woman in Canada to be appointed to a seat in the Senate.

A division on the workmen's compensation bill, on April 1, sustained the ministry by 21 to 16. A new mining act, pensions for the blind, provision that pulpwood must be manufactured in the province, and aid to treatment of cancer victims were among the acts assented to. The later months of the year were anxious ones, for ministry and people, as the price of wheat continued to fall, and much of the premier's time was occupied in endeavors to safeguard the interests of the wheat growers and alleviate the industrial crisis which had developed out of the wheat blockade.

N.B. CONSERVATIVES RETURNED TO POWER

Legislation for Old Age Pensions, Mothers' Allowances Work of Government

It was election year in New Brunswick. The ministry of Hon. J. B. M. Baxter went to the country on May 26, when the 10th legislature was dissolved, and won an easy victory on June 19, the Conservatives electing 31 to 17 Liberals, as compared to 37 to 11 at the dissolution. There were three notable casualties, Wendell P. Jones (who had only been chosen Liberal leader on April 23) being defeated, whilst Hon. Lewis Smith, minister of agriculture, was rejected in Albert county and Hon. J. L. O'Brien, who had been Speaker of the assembly, in Northumberland. The session of the legislature which preceded the election opened on February 27 and closed on April 10, was notable chiefly for legislation providing for old age pensions, for mothers' allowances, for a minimum wage for women and for the protection of children. The budget showed a small surplus, due to the revenue from the sale of liquor, and it promises to be larger in 1931.

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS CABINET CHANGE

Amendment to Liquor Control Act Most Important Legislations

The Pacific province also saw a "shuffle" in the cabinet. On October 29, Hon. F. P. Burden retired from the lands department to become agent-general in London, and was succeeded by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, former minister of public works, who was replaced by Hon. R. W. Bruhn. Hon. W. C. Shelly, who had been finance minister, became president of council, and Hon. J. W. Jones, who had been Speaker from 1929, was sworn as minister of finance. The session of the legislature, which began January 28, lasted until March 25. The budget speech delivered by Mr. Shelly announced a tax on fuel oil, increased the tax on gasoline from 3 to 5 cents, and forecast new loans of $5,800,000. A showing of party strength on March 12 gave the Conservatives 21 majority (33 to 12). Perhaps the most important legislation of the year was the amendments to the liquor control act, which provided for a board of three members and taxes on breweries and distilleries.

NOVA SCOTIA ADOPTS GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Hon. G. S. Harrington of Sydney New Premier of Nova Scotia

A new lieutenant-governor and a new premier were among the gifts of 1930 to Nova Scotia, Hon. E. N. Rose, who had headed the ministry from July, 1925, resigning on August 11 to become minister of fisheries in the federal cabinet, and Hon. G. S. Harrington, of Sydney, who had been minister of lands, becoming premier. Hon. John Doull, of New Glasgow, became provincial secretary and Hon. Alfred Parsons, of Hants, a former Speaker of the assembly, was taken into the cabinet without portfolio. Mr. Rhodes' last session, which began March 5 and lasted until April 30, was notable for the passage of the bill establishing government control of the sale of liquor.

It largely covers the Ontario plan, but permits liquor at banquets under regulation, and the sale of beer by the glass in certain places under certain conditions. The Liberals fought the measure proposing the six months' hoist, which was rejected by 21 to 19, and the bill became law after considerable debate. Other legislation of the session provided for the organization of a provincial police force, for the payment of mothers' allowances (a Liberal amendment lamenting the absence of any proposal for old age pensions being defeated), making amendments to the education and land tax acts, and to prevent fraud in the sale of securities. The liquor control act went into force on August 1 and has already had a beneficial effect upon the revenue with the prospect that a deficit of $138,000 will be converted into a surplus. A by-election in Halifax in January gave a big Conservative majority; Hon. O. P. Goucher, member for Annapolis, was sworn as minister of natural resources early in the year and has since visited central Canada where he made a good impression as an envoy from Nova Scotia.

On November 18, Frank Stanfield, of Truro, who had been M.L.A. for Colchester from 1911, was appointed lieutenant-governor in succession to Hon. James C. Tory, who had been sworn in October 1, 1925.

SASKATCHEWAN SEES BITTER PARTY FIGHTS

Wholesale Dismissals of Employees of Long Liberal Regime Causes Protests

A year of transition, of bitter party fights, and, later in the season, of economic depression, which taxed the services of the government, marked 1930 in Saskatchewan. The new year was ushered in with wholesale dismissals of civil servants employed during the long Liberal regime, a fact which gave rise to strenuous debates in the legislature (the session of which lasted from February 6 to April 11). At first, the government insisted upon an investigation of charges against these civil servants and others by a committee of the House (in which they were sustained by 33 to 26, on February 26), but on March 18 the ministry agreed to a reference to a royal commission, which was appointed on May 18, and consisted of Justices MacKay, MacKenzie and Embury. R. S. Leslie, M.L.A. for Weyburn, was chosen Speaker at the opening session. Guarantee of the wheat pool was unanimously agreed to on February 27, and on March 1 a recess was taken until March 10 to enable the ministers to proceed to Ottawa to discuss the final terms of transfer of the natural resources. An agreement was reached, legislation in ratification was passed, with provision for reference of some points of law to the supreme court of Canada, and the resources were formally transferred on August 1. One of the bills passed prohibited the use of religious garb and emblems in public schools, thereby creating a good deal of protest from Roman Catholics. The later months of the year found conditions in the province very critical, and necessitated much governmental action.

St. John's Defeat Norwood 5-2 in Second Game

SAINTS OPEN LOCAL SEASON WITH 5-2 WIN OVER COMBINES WHO PUT UP REAL ARGUMENT

Peterborough Youngsters Are Better Close-in and Superiority There Wins for Them.

600 SEE BATTLE

Saints Take the Lead in Second Period After a Deadlock in First Session.

(By F. D. C.)

St. John's juniors opened the local season last night with a clean-cut win over Alex Kempt's Norwood-Havelock combines in a junior O.H.A. battle that provided a crowd of 600 fans at Brock street rink with a good exhibition of early-season hockey. The Combines scored the first and last goals of the game, but in between the Saints ran in five counters to win the verdict by 5 to 2—and they were full value for their victory.

Conditions were anything but favorable to good hockey for the ice surface was rough and shelly to start with and soon became sticky, but in spite of this handicap the teams gave all they had and provided plenty of excitement and flashes of smart hockey. The visitors showed every bit as much speed and determination as the winners but the Saints combined better and had more success in working in close, and that about settled the argument. Plenty of penalties, with the Saints drawing ten as against seven, enlivened the proceedings.

Alex Kempt's youngsters, most of whom were with the team last season, are a representative lot, with Beavis the goalkeeper and Thompson, the first line centre-player hailing from Hastings; Shannon, one of the defence players living in Marmora, and McLaughlin, the other defence man and Voyer, the first string right-winger claiming Havelock as their home, while Kempt, Rathwell and Tedford from Norwood and Shearer, who lives in the Keene district, complete the team. The eastern section of the county is keenly interested in the Combines and there were fans from all the centre represented to see their favorites put up a gallant fight for victory.

The visitors from the East were not outskated nor outgamed and although the Saints' superiority when within the scoring zone turned the scale, the Kempt-managed Combines showed enough to indicate that they will not be disposed of in the group race without a tough fight. Like the Saints they were handicapped by lack of practice but they should improve rapidly and give the rest of the outfits in the group plenty over which to worry.

Their stars last night were the defence pair, McLaughlin and Shannon, and the flopping little goalie, Beavis. The latter dived into plenty of close-in shots and helped materially in keeping the score down, while McLaughlin and Shannon, fast-skating boys, were always dangerous. Up in front the whole two lines worked their heads off with Thompson, Voyer, Kempt and Shearer looking particularly good.

St. John's, as expected, iced a team that was materially different in composition from last year's outfit, in fact only four of the players in uniform last night were with the 1929-30 team. Wesley, a smart-moving goalie from Ottawa Valley League, performed efficiently in the nets, making some fine save, while Howe of last year's team and Jimmy Ellis, in spite of frequent penalties, turned in good cards, the latter's speed and puck-carrying ability catching the eye of the fans. The first forward shift consisting of Cuthbertson, now the veteran of St. John's squad, and Norm Calladine and Jack Gardner, the baby members of last year's team, gave a fine display both individually and as a line. Calladine and Gardner scored two goals each on outstanding efforts and Cuthbertson was effective both on the attack and defensively. The second line, Wilshaw Milliken and Merrett, all new to St. John's uniforms, showed speed and checking ability as well as some effective combination.

The Play in Detail.

The Saints made the first dangerous move in the early moments of the game when Gardner gave Calladine a close-in pass only to have Beavis flop into the spot. A little later the local line threatened again, but were foiled. Ellis drew the first penalty of the game, but the Combines' advantage was short-lived, Shannon getting the gate immediately after. Then the visitors broke into the scoring column when in a mix up close to the Saints' net Thompson batted the puck through Calladine's legs into the net, a play that gave Wesley no chance to save.

The Saints' second line came on and came close to sewing it up. Ellis and Milliken combined for one dangerous attack and the latter came back with a neat pass to Merrett which beat the visiting defence cold. Beavis, however, saved the situation with a neat stop. McLaughlin and Shannon were doing some nice rushing for the visitors but had difficulty in beating the defence, while their shots from outside were smartly handled by Wesley. Finally Gardner sewed up the game with a sparkling rush in which he skated round the Combines' rear guards and slid the rubber into the net, well out of the reach of Beavis.

Almost from the face off the Saints almost took the lead when Ellis and Gardner combined for a close-in shot and Cuthbertson just missed banging home the rebound.

Early in the second period Ellis was penalized and while he was off Wesley was called upon to save twice in rapid succession from mix-ups in front of the Saints' nets. He beat the attackers, however, and Calladine relieved the pressure with a rink-length rush and a back-hand shot that Beavis had to jump for to handle. Calladine came back with another dangerous raid that ended with another smart Beavis save. McLaughlin was benched for tripping Cuthbertson and with a one-man advantage the Saints flashed in front. Ellis, Milliken and Wilshaw went down together and after Beavis had saved twice Milliken scooped one past the Combines' goaler to put St. John's in the lead.

They got a real break immediately afterward when Shannon and Shearer were penalized in quick succession, leaving the visitors three men short for a few moments. The advantage enabled the winners to increase their margin, Cuthbertson giving Calladine a pass at the mouth of the net, which the centre-player converted into a goal. They should have had another right after this play when Howe missed a Cuthbertson pass with the empty net yawning in front. Beavis beat off several other attempts and the teams were soon at full strength again. Then the advantage went to the visitors when first Ellis and then Gardner were benched but the Combines could not cash in and the period ended with the Saints in front by 3 goals to 1.

The winners pressed early in the third period but Beavis making some fine stops, a particularly brilliant one on a shot to the corner of the net by Calladine, held them off for some time. Finally, however, Calladine stickhandled his way through the Combines' defence and his low shot into the corner beat Beavis completely.

That goal cinched the game and the excitement died down for a while, only to revive again with the period rapidly drawing to a close when a string of penalities in quick succession added spice to the argument. Howe served two in a row but the visitors failed to score while he was off. Then Ellis and McLaughlin mixed it and both were signalled to the penalty box. With the Combines having the edge with a 5 to 4 numerical strength Jack Gardner increased the Saints' margin to four by sailing in alone to trick Beavis at close range. Immediately afterward he got the gate for slashing and the Combines had five men on the ice against three of the homesters. Cuthbertson and Merrett did some great checking however, and the visitors failed to capitalize the opportunity—their best chance of the night. The balance of the battle lacked excitement although the visitors succeeded in reducing the margin in the last few seconds of play when Shearer dashed in and batted a shot past Wesley.

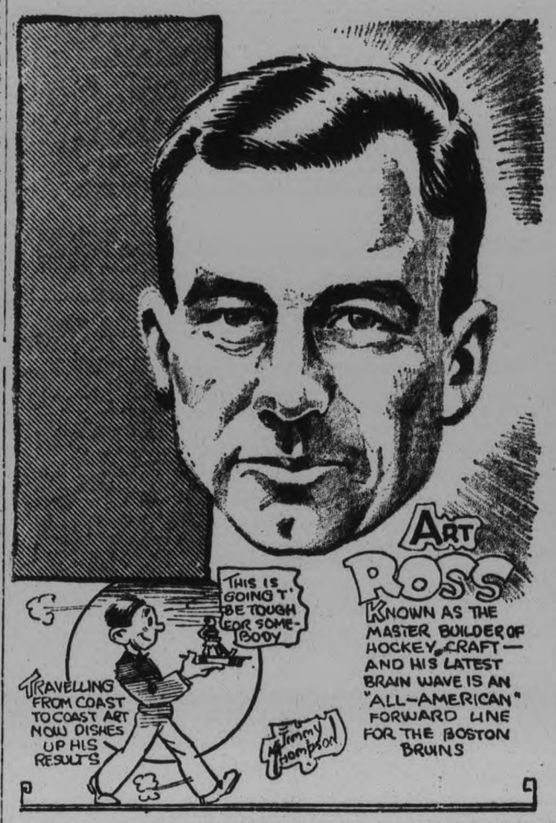
ROSS WANTS THIRD LINE



Art Ross, experimenter and builder of hockey teams is at it again. Two years ago he took two defence players and a rookie, Weiland, Gainor and Clapper and made from them the famous "dynamite trio." He took Marty Barry, who had been overlooked by the other big league pilots and made him the play maker of his second line flanked by Harry Oliver and Galbraith. Now he has started in on a powerful third line which he made after a careful study of teams from coast to coast. The centre man of the trio is Art Chapman who had a brilliant record with the Providence Reds of the Can.-American League on the Atlantic coast. "Smoky" Harris is on the left wing. He was secured from the Pacific coast league last spring. The third man of the trio is from Portland Oregon Club of the Pacific Coast League. These three men have received the name of the "All-American Trio."

HADFIELD'S PLAN TO BE CONSIDERED

Non-political Empire Development Board to Come Up at Ottawa Parley.

SQUIRES GIVES ASSURANCE.

LONDON, December 30 (C.P. Cable). — Sir Robert Hadfield's plan for establishing a non-political Empire Development Board to advise the different Empire Governments on all trade matters will be considered by the Economic Conference at Ottawa next autumn. This assurance has been given by Sir Richard Squires, Premier of Newfoundland, to Sir Robert, who is a leading industrialist of Great Britain, and a world figure in the metallurgical trades.

This is revealed in a long statement from Sir Robert on the present industrial situation in Great Britain, issued to-day. Sir Robert also describes a visit to Sheffield by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada during his recent visit to England.

Bennett Finds No Fault.

"When taking Premier Bennett around our works at Sheffield the Canadian Prime Minister appeared surprised at finding everything so well planned and arranged," Sir Robert's statement said. "I asked him whether from the general viewpoint he could find fault with anything, or see any of our equipment out of date. His reply was entirely to the contrary."

Sir Robert declared the industrial situation was deplorable, but impossible to remedy until all parties in the state get together. He declared there was no lack of knowledge or of enterprise upon the part of the British manufacturer, but there had been too much handling of the situation through party politics.

Sir Roberts' statement pointed out General Jan Smuts, Opposition Leader in South Africa, was coming to London next year to preside over the meetings of the British Association for the advancement of science. He expressed the hope that General Smuts, a man of vision who should be asked to help the Empire at this time, would use his great ability in bringing the plan to the attention of the statesmen who would be assembled at Ottawa. General Smuts himself should be the head of the Empire Development Board. Sir Robert proposed.

WEAK DEFENSE RESPONSIBLE FOR DOWNFALL

Opening Game of O.H.A. Schedule Produces Little in Way of Good Hockey.

LACKS TEAM PLAY.

"Red" Creighton Stars on Forward Line for the Local Entry.

OSHAWA, Ont., December 30 (Special to The Examiner). — Peterborough's entry in the Intermediate section of the O.H.A. opened their 1930-31 schedule campaign last night at the Oshawa Arena when they met the Oshawa Intermediates in the first game of a twin bill, and were defeated by 7 to 0 in a game which produced very little in the way of brilliant hockey.

Lacking team play to a marked degree, the Peterborough sextette were outclassed by the well conditioned and well coached Oshawa team, and were never in the running, although they put up a great battle from beginning to end.

They never quit trying, and the Oshawa fans urged them on in the last period, as the leg-weary forwards vainly tried to pierce Oshawa's strong defence. Peterborough's play and scoring efforts were confined practically entirely to lone efforts, combination work, and team play seldom being attempted. They possess two peppery forward lines, with plenty of hockey ability and fight, but they could not seem to get going. Offsides, criss-crossing, and other similar ball-ups, marred their play. The Oshawa forwards back-checked all the way, and they were given little chance to get a good shot at Burr, and those they did get away, Burr handled like a veteran.

Weak Defence.

A weak defence was the secret of Peterborough's downfall. The forwards were unable to score, but the defence divided when they should have packed, and packed when they should have fanned out. The Oshawa forwards buzzed in on Gillespie practically at will, but the Peterborough custodian made the homesters earn every one of their goals and none of those scored would have been saved by any average goalie, nor by a lot of those who are rated better than average. The Oshawa forwards went right in and gave him no chance, but even then he made some wonderful saves.

The work of "Red" Creighton, Peterborough's slim left winger, made a big hit with the fans. This boy played a whale of a game and worked like a Trojan at all times. Maudsley, the centre man, turned in a nice game and made some nice plays, but he lacked the necessary punch to carry himself past the defence, after beating the entire forward line. Hatton showed up well, and so did Hayden.

Elliott was the best player on the ice. Rowden, Conlin, McDonald, and Houck were the pick for Oshawa forwards. DeGray and Elliott worked well, and both made some great rushes.

The game opened fast with Oshawa scoring their first goal with only a minute of play having gone by. McDonald banged in a rebound from Rowden's rush. A minute later, Elliott broke away and Rowden scored on a loose puck. This concluded the scoring for the initial stanza.

Scoring goals in the first minute seemed to become a novelty and Rowden scored when McDonald checked Maudsley inside Peterboroughs blue line.

Up until this time the game was fairly close but in the second period, Oshawa opened up. Elliott scored in less than a minute after the third period opened and immediately after Conlin bulged the twine for a tally. Rowden got the next goal on a lone play which ended with a hot shot. McDonald scored Oshawa's seventh and last goal on his on rebound.

With a little more practice, on team play and a little more condition the Peterborough squad will be hard to beat and they will be heard of again before the schedule is much older. The teams:

Oshawa—Goal, Burr; defence, Degray and Elliott; centre, Conlin; right wing, Rowden; left wing, McDonald; alternates, Houck, Gilfillan and Gunn.

INTRA-CITY BATTLES FEATURE TO-NIGHT'S NATIONAL PROGRAM

Canadiens Tangle With Maroons at Montreal While Americans Meet Rangers.

LEAFS ARE IDLE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 30. (CP)—Six teams are scheduled to contest three National Hockey League games to-night, two of them featuring intra-city rivals and the third the second invasion of Boston this season by the Ottawa Senators.

Each of the games will have an important bearing on the standing of the clubs engaged. At Montreal, Canadiens and Maroons meet for the second time this season and a win for Maroons will place them in a tie for the leadership of the International section with their opponents.

In their previous meeting, however, Canadiens romped away with a seven to one victory and a win to-night will give them a comfortable lead in the league standing to work on. Since the first game between the two clubs the Maroons have found their ture form and have climbed from last to second place so the prospects are for a hockey classic at the Forum.

At New York the star-spangled Americans meet the Rangers. A win for the latter will enable them to hurdle the idle Chicago Black Hawks into second place behind the league-leading Boston Bruins. The previous meeting of the New York clubs resulted in a scoreless overtime time.

The setting for Montreal and New York games is almost exactly similar. Each has a team favoring the wide open attacking game against a close checking opponent strong on the defense and content to await the break before slackening the cautious style. Ability to force the opposition into their own style of play will probably decide the issue.

Gerard Responsible

Maroons and Americans represent the teams whose apparent desire is to win their games with the least possible effort and incidentally Eddie Gerard, now managing the Americans, is responsible for the system used by both. It was he who guided the Maroons to the Stanley Cup and the world's title a few years ago.

Should the Americans win their tilt they would take undisputed possession of third place in the International section of the league breaking the tie that now exists with the Toronto Maple Leafs, both teams having 17 points. The Leafs are idle to-night.

Ottawa, with a losing string of seven games behind them will have to show a sensational reversal of form to win at Boston from Art Ross' clever aggregation. The Senators may be without the services of Alex Connell their star goalkeeper who was on the sick list and could not play last Saturday.

The last meeting between these two clubs was a close and exciting contest with the Bruins having to come from behind to eke out a 2 to 1 victory but since that time the Hub town representatives have been improving with every game and should have little difficulty vanquishing their opponents although the latter are bound to battle all the way.

Rumors circulating in Montreal are to the effect Alex Connel, Ottawa goalkeeper, is being angled for by the Montreal Maroons. Confirmation is lacking, however, though there would be no dearth of buyers if the clever netminder was on the market.

Harry Lush Awarded Prized Poultry Cup

A fine silver cup has been presented to Harry T. Lush of this city by the New England Poultry Association as a token for good sportsmanship. Owing to custom difficulties and delays, Mr. Lush's birds did not arrive in time for the judging, but so favorable was the comment on the fowl while they were in Hartford that it was decided to award a cup. It is stated in a letter from H. W. Schriver, Chairman of the Show Committee, that the Buff Laced Polish pullet, the Polish male and female, the entry in the French class and the Mediterranean would have undoubtedly taken first prizes.

The Executive of the Association have expressed their hope that Mr. Lush will make a large entry next year.

BAILEY IS SECOND TO HOWIE MORENZ

But Goodfellow Leads the Scorers in Both Divisions of N.H.L.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30. — In addition to compiling the outstanding individual scoring feat of the present National League season by netting four goals in a single game, Eberhard Goodfellow, centre ice star of the Detroit Falcons, has also achieved leadership among both scorers and point makers, according to the official statistics issued last night from the office of President Frank Calder, including the games of Sunday night. Goodfellow has scored fifteen goals and secured eight assists, for a total of 23 points, which exceeds by three the number of points credited to Fred 'Bun' Cook of the New York Rangers, and by four, the total compiled by Howie Morenz, who is leading the International Section.

The free scoring which developed in recent games has accounted for several new figures being inserted among the scoring leaders. The entire Ranger forward line of the two Cooks and Boucher has come into the picture in the United States' Division, behind Goodfellow, this reflecting the recent string of Ranger victories. While Fred Cook is best of this trio on points, brother Bill leads on goals, with 14, and Boucher has furnished ten assists in addition to scoring seven times.

Ties among the leaders abound in the International Section. 'Ace' Bailey of Toronto Leafs is second to Morenz, while Jackson of the Leafs and Himes of the improved New York Americans are tied for third position. An all-Montreal tie exists for fourth place between Siebert and Stewart of the Maroons, and Aurel Joliat of Canadiens.

Turbulent play is reflected in the increased number of penalties. United States Section players hold the margin in this division, Eddie Shore of Boston and Harvey Rockburn of Detroit, leading all others with 57 minutes each. Joliat of Canadiens, and Alex Smith of Ottawa, each have served 45 minutes.

Giroux Challenges Two Canuck Titles

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30. (CP)—At a meeting of the Montreal Athletic Commission held here yesterday, two contracts of Arthur Giroux, of Montreal, who was challenged and signed for the Canadian flyweight and bantamweight titles against 'Frenchy' Belanger and Joe Villeneuve, the respective champions, were accepted. The Quebec commission has advised the local commission that they had given Villeneuve until December to defend his title. Unless Villeneuve defends his title it is probable that it will be forfeited to Giroux as he is the prior challenger.

Regarding the request of the National Boxing Association that the commission vote on the question whether the winner of a match between Al. Brown and Eugene Ruat should be recognized as the world's bantam champion, the commission voted that the winner should be recognized as the leading contender until he has fought Pete Sanstol of Montreal.

ROGERS HORSBY HAS TWO YEAR CONTRACT WITH CHICAGO CUBS

Understood the "Rajah of Baseball" Will Receive $40,000 Per Season From President William L. Veeck For His Labors.

CHICAGO, December 30 (C.P.). — Rogers Hornsby will lead the Cubs in the 1931 and 1932 baseball wars.

The fact that the Rajah will manage the club next season is not news, but it was not definitely known until last night that he had signed a contract for two years. President William L. Veeck said Hornsby put his name on the papers more than a month ago. Veeck would not say how much money Hornsby's contract called for, but it was understood to be in the neighborhood of $40,000 per season.

Salary as a player was approximately $32,000 each year.

The Rajah handled the Cubs against Cincinnati in the final series of the regular 1930 National League campaign, and won four straight—a feat they didn't come close to accomplishing in previous series with the Reds. He also led them to victory over the White Sox in the city series.

Hornsby succeeded Joe McCarthy when the latter's five-year career as pilot of the team was abruptly ended by Owner William Wrigley, Jr.

Hornsby plans to go to Catalina Island, Cal., training camp two weeks in advance of the squad. He still plans to be a playing manager, and wants plenty of time to work his legs into condition. He was handicapped at the start of last season by tenderness in his right heel, which had been operated upon for the removal of a bony growth. On Memorial Day he fractured his left ankle sliding into third base, and was out of action until August 5.

Toronto Leafs Face Worthy Opponents In Canadiens and Americans This Week

TORONTO, December 30. — Starting on Thursday night, the Maple Leafs will play a stretch of five games on successive N.H.L. dates against teams in their own section of the circuit. They play two against Canadiens, one here on Saturday and the other a week later in Montreal. Three of the five games will be played at Arena Gardens so the locals have a good chance to improve their position in the standing at the expense of their nearest rivals. They pay their first visit of the season to Ottawa a week from to-night.

The Leafs are now at full strength again, after nearly a month without Primeau and Conacher, and they are all set for a spurt which should determine to some extent whether they will win a play-off place this season or not.

The Leafs face two hard games this week here against Americans and Canadiens. Those amazing Americans are beginning to show the results of Eddie Gerard's handling and recently they have been setting a pace equal to any team in the N.H.L. In their last seven games they have registered five victories, lost one and tied one. They have not been defeated since Canadiens handed them a 3 to 2 setback in New York on December 7. Since that time they have beaten Philadelphia twice, Maroons, Detroit, and Boston once each, and played a one-all tie game with Canadiens in Montreal. They have scored 18 goals and had 11 scored against them over this stretch. A most imposing performance indeed.

CANADIENS BOW BEFORE BUSTLING RANGERS

The two teams are shown in an intricate pile-up in front of the Canadiens' goal, as the New York Rangers attempted to score in their match at Madison Square Gardens. On this occasion Les Canadiens went down to a 5 to 1 defeat.

They will seek the President Harding trophy, won by Dartmouth last year. The Marshal Foch trophy will be awarded to the individual winner of the ski jump included in the President Harding contest. It was won last year by Lloyd Ellingson of St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn.

OVERTIME VICTORY FOR GUELPH LEAFS

Oshawa's Debut in New Pro League is Defeated After Tight Struggle.

GUELPH, Dec. 30.—Guelph Maple Leafs broke away to a flying start in the Ontario Hockey League when they took the opening game of the season here last night from the Oshawa Patricias by a 2 to 1 score in a fast ten minues overtime encounter before a fair-sized crowd.

The game was played on fairly good ice, although the surface became rather sticky toward the end of the match. Most of the players were a bit shy on condition, but both teams showed a willingness to mix matters at all stages of the tilt.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

The weekly meeting of the First Peterborough (St. John's) Troop took the form of a troop hike last Friday. The boys were under the leadership of the Assistant Scoutmaster and went to Bear's Creek.

After cooking a good dinner the boys divided into two teams under P. L. Victor Millard and Patrol Second Cliff. Boate and spent two hours in a good "chase." Both sides were given an opportunity to act as pursuers and when the game ended Victor Millard's followers had been most successful.

A number of the boys returned to the city with the Assistant S. M. about 4.30 p.m., while the rest remained with P. L. Millard and came in later.

Next Friday, January second, the meeting will be held as usual in the Parish Hall at 7.15 p.m.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

CALEDONIAN CLUB.

Members of the Caledonian Club entertained their children at their annual Christmas tree entertainment in the Woodmen of the World Hall last Friday evening. This entertainment, which is very enjoyable and much looked forward to, is always well attended. This year was no exception, for besides the little folks, a large and interested audience of parents and friends taxed the hall's capacity. The hall was gaily decorated for the occasion with seasonable colors of red and green festoons. A large Christmas tree, lighted and decorated, occupied a prominent place at the side of the platform, and was the source of great admiration to the children.

Around the tree could be seen parcels, great and small, in all sorts of shapes and forms, and tagged with the children's names. These were the presents for the wee folks. In the centre of the hall tea-tables were laid for the little guests. These looked very inviting with their red Christmas crackers at each cover, and their streamers of red and green on a white ground.

A willing band of workers were busy in the afternoon making preparations for the party, and when the children arrived at seven o'clock, everything was in readiness for them. These were: Mesdames J. Reid (convenor), F. Castle, A. Jackson, R. French, G. Moffatt, W. Petrie, and Messrs. R. Graham, T. Kieran, W. Best and W. Grant.

A splendid program of songs, recitations, readings and instrumental numbers was carried through by the children, with Mrs. J. Wyllie as convenor and W. Petrie in the chair.

The splendid applause accorded each number by the audience was evidence of the high order of the program. Two telegraph messengers in the forms of Alick Anderson and Rae Borland arrived during the program with messages from Santa Claus, announcing his approach to Peterborough. When read by the chairman these received rapt attention from the excited audience.

After the program the sound of sleigh-bells announced the arrival of Santa (Robert Hendry), who, when he appeared at the door in the customary regalia and pack of toys, was heartily cheered by the audience, who sang "For he's a jolly good fellow," as he bowed and beamed to everyone.

The Caledonian Santa acted his part to the letter, and bestowed to each child a present, bag of candies and fruit.

A vote of thanks to Santa, the various artists, and brownies was proposed by the chairman and heartily responded to by everyone.

After the program tea, sandwiches and cake were served. A ladies' executive waited on the guests' tables, whilst a men's executive served the parents and friends.

After luncheon came a part without which no children's party is complete—a program of games. A Jackson, who is looked upon by the Caledonian children as their own official "entertainer," always convenes this part, and the young folks on this occasion received much fun and merriment. Music for these was supplied by W. Dougal at the piano.

The following was the program: Chorus — "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing"; violin solo, R. Wyllie, accompanied by Pearl Smith; vocal solo—Marion Ralston; piano solo — Pearl Smith; song—Betty McLeod, accompanied by Margaret McLeod on the piano; song—Muriel McMillan; recitation—George Nimmons; song—Jean McLeod; piano solo—Billie Petrie; song—Bertie Bethune; song—Andrew Brown; piano solo—Mary Pirie; song—Jean Castle; song—Dawson Clark; song—Isabel Gilmour; recitation—Barbara Gilmour; recitation — Doris Hendry; recitation — Fred Castle; piano duet—Mary Kingsbury and Margaret Wyllie; song — Alick Graham; song—Hugh Clyde; recitation—Robert Clyde; recitation—John Clyde; song—James Brown; recitation—Mary Stevenson; vocal duet—Betty and Roland Castle; recitation—Anna McLeod; song—Bruce Castle; cornet solo—Edwin Wheeler; piano solo — Roland Castle.

Rudyard Kipling At 65th Birthday

BURWASH, Sussex, Eng., Dec. 30. (AP)—Messages of greeting and congratulation poured in today from all over the world to the beautiful tudor house where Rudyard Kipling makes his home, the occasion being the famous author's sixty-fifth birthday.

There were few callers, however, for Kipling's love of retirement is as intense on his birthday as on all other days of the year and no recognition of the event so far as the outside world is concerned was expected from the creator of "Kim" and others. Kipling's literary activities now are chiefly confined to production of an occasional poem.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

WARSAW UNITED CHURCH

WARSAW, Dec. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).— The United Church was prettily decorated and well-filled for the Christmas entertainment held on Tuesday evening.

The Rev. J. W. Wilkinson acted as chairman for the following program: Welcome, Lenore McIlvena; motion song, juniors; recitation, "The True Santa", Laura Little; "A Wish", Ralph Little; "Christmas Basket", Lois Clysdale; "Joy to the World", Jean Hawthorne; Cressa Payne and Enid Darling; Christmas Carol, ten girls; recitation, Conas Clysdale, "A Christmas Present for Fame"; petal drill, twelve girls; playlet, "Who Is Boss?"; chorus, "Merry Merry Bells"; mouth organ solo, Kenneth Jakins; pantomime, "Holy Night," four girls, for which Mrs. George Taylor sang.

Santa Claus distributed the gifts and each child received a bag of candies and nuts.

BETHANY UNITED CHURCH

BETHANY, Dec. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).— The Christmas concert of the United Church was held on Tuesday evening, with the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Scott occupying the chair.

A comedy-drama entitled, "No Account David," produced by eleven members of the Sunday school was the event of the evening's entertainment. The cast was as follows: Grandmother Golden, Elsie Richardson; David Gamble, Bob Rumney; Mrs. Jona, Mrs. Walter Rowland; Chum, Harold Payne; Zetta Jona, Winnie Dawe; Jean Mathews, Doris Driver; Sheriff Barnes, Edgar Beer; Mr. Cooley, Fred Thompson; Witness Bill, Stewart Thompson; Ned Golden, Stanley Whiteside.

A much esteemed grandson was thrown under a cloud of suspicion for holding up a gas station of which he was truly guilty. His aged grandparent was reduced financially and was all packed to leave her old home as the sheriff was soon to come to sell. The young school teacher, Jean Mathews, was sympathizing with the old lady and in the midst of a severe storm a street arab broke through a window to appease his hunger and was a silent listener to the sad story. Falling hopelessly in love with the young girl, he came bravely forward and took the blame from Ned Golden. While serving the three-year penalty he wrote a famous book, bought back Grandmother's home and finally married the fair Jean.

The play was interspersed with piano solos by Miss Paton, a duet by Pauline Thorndyke and Lorraine Jackson in costume; musical selections by the Preston family.

Card Party Held.

Twenty-five table of euchre were played at the regular card party sponsored by the Women's Institute on Friday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. Byers and Hilliard Davis, Miss McKinley and James Lemon.

NORHAM SUNDAY SCHOOL.

NORHAM, Dec. 30. — (Examiner Correspondence.) — The round of Chrismas Tree entertainments in this vicinity was completed on Christmas eve when the Norham Sunday school held its annual Christmas concert in the church.

Two large trees adorned the corners of the platform. Oscar Laver, the superintendent, was chairman. The program commenced with a rousing chorus, 'Ring, bells, ring,' by the Sunday school, followed by prayer by the Rev. D. R. Clare. Two little girls, Edna Windo er and Eunice Turney, sang "Jolly Old St. Nicholas," and a recitation, "Bric-a-brac" was well given by Cecil Gummer.

A dialogue, "Freezing the Old Woman," was given, in which the husband in order to get the house keys, froze his wife, Ruby Brenton, and when he went to use an antitode, he found a lump of ice. A pantomine, "Silent Night," was beautifully acted by girls from Pine Grove school with Mrs. Harry Wilson singing the solo.

Little Edna Windover gave a recitation, "A little wish," given in a clear, distinct tone.

The primary class sang, "Away in a Manger." This was followed by a Christmas Tree drill prepared by Norham Public school. The tableau at the last showed the boys sitting with Christmas trees, decorated by the girls with garlands and all sang "Merry Christmas Bells." Josie Barett gave a recitation, "The Christmas Tree." A duet, "Resting 'Neath His Wings" was sung sweetly by Misses Frances and Lucille Lean.

A dialogue, "No Christmas in our House," when Kenneth Gummer as father, stoutly maintained his disbelief in Christmas and the worry of Christmas presents and emphatically declared that his orders were no Christmas in his house. His wife (Eunice McCurdy) protested strongly, also his mother (Josie Barett) while the children (Ronald Grant and Lenore Isaac) gave a wild protest but all in vain, the father remained firm in his declaration, no Chrismas in our house.

A chorus by seven young girls, robed in white, decorated with tinsel, sang sweetly "Star of the East." Frances Lean accompanied them with the guitar.

Harold Yates gave a reading illustrating the wild rush visiting and picnicing on Sunday as compared to a quiet, restful day near home.

Six little girls with arms entwined, sang sweetly "We're waiting for Santa Claus."

A dialogue, "Mrs. Brown's Visitors," showed Mrs. Brown waiting for visitors and making some very disparaging remarks about them. When they arrive (Irene and Margaret Plumpton) she is very friendly and appears delighted to see them. Later, when Mrs. Brown is preparing lunch, the visitors speak unkindly of her. Her little girl (Doris Nelson) says she will tell her mother and the visitors left hurriedly as Mrs. Brown returns.

A very cute duet, "Hurry up Mr. Clock," was sung by Victoria Mc- and Cecil Gummer.

George Smith gave a recitation, "Stocking to Wear," in a clear voice and with fine expression.

A quartette, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. Douglas Knight, Fred Huycke and R. Knight, with Douglas Knight presiding at the organ, sang "Keep Smiling" in a pleasing manner.

A dialogue, "Aunt Melissa's Money" was put on by Mr. and Mrs. Hawkey, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hutchison, Miss Clysdale and Mr. Owen Hawkey. In this, the poor relation wins the affection of the attractive hero instead of the young lady of the house. A country cousin from Beaver county exposes the evil intentions of Adolphus who is trying to get Aunt Melissy's money.

The closing item was a very pretty drill put on by nine young ladies.

A treat was given to the children at the close of the program.

SENTINEL HALL.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, December 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — Sentinel Hall was comfortably filled on Monday evening for the annual Christmas concert of S. S. No. 2 and Zion Sabbath School these two having combined in this event for many years. The Rev. F. G. MacTavish acted as chairman in his usual capable manner, and announced the following program:

Song, "Merry Christmas Day," the school; address of welcome, Doris Barnum; dialogue, "A Sick Pupil"; selection by orchestra, including Fred Barnum; piano, Evelyn Barnum, Grant Kerr, Art. Petherick, Freda Petherick; recitation, Pearl Kerr; solo, "A Promenade," Richie Deavey; dialogue, the Literary Society; recitation, Laura Miller; musical selection, Gladys Simpson and Evelyn Barnum, piano, Fred Barnum, Grant Kerr, Art. Petherick, mouth organs; tableau, Laura and Irene Miller; monologue, Cora Petherick; dialogue, "A Spelling Lesson"; recitation, Viola Watson; piano solo, Evelyn Barnum; recitation, Jean MacTavish; "A Choice of Trades," small boys of school; recitation, Gladys Petherick; drill, "In Grandma's Day," girls of school; selection by the orchestra; dialogue, "Christmas with the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe"; recitation, Helen McKenzie; pantomime, "A Tin Lizzie"; recitation, Flayde Simpson; chorus by the school; tableau by the school.

The arrival of Santa Claus brought the program to a fitting close for the younger members of the community. Much credit is due to Miss Mary Peake, teacher of S.S. No. 2 and the various Sabbath School teachers who assisted in the preparation.

S. S. NO. 1 CONCERT.

A splendid Christmas entertainment and box social was held in Sentinel Hall under the auspices of S.S. No. 1, of which Miss Clara Perry is teacher. A good program of varied numbers delighted the large audience, and the pupils showed evidence of much training.

At the close Miss Perry was presented with an address and gold wrist watch by the School Section while Mrs. E. C. Pollock, who assisted in the training and acted a pianist, received a remembrance from the teacher and pupils.

Mr. Battisby acted as auctioneer for the sale of boxes.

BRANCHES SCHOOL, SELWYN.

BRIDGENORTH, December 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual Christmas concert of the Branches School, Selwyn, was held in the school on Monday evening, December 22. The school was prettily decorated for the occasion, and was packed to the doors.

The following program was presented, with R. F. A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PICTURE BOOK.

"Have the children gone to school yet?" asked Uncle Wiggily one morning as the rabbit gentleman came sliding down the banister stair railing, which he always did when he was in a hurry.

"School? Gone to school?" asked Nurse Jane. "Why, of course, they haven't!"

"Well, it's nearly time, and they may be late. But before they go I have something special to say to them," Uncle Wiggily went on.

"Don't be silly!" squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Don't you know the children aren't going to school today?"

"They aren't! Why not?"

"It's Saturday—that's why!" and Nurse Jane couldn't help laughing, which made the feather duster come loose from the end of her tail where she had tied it to clean the furniture.

"Oh, so it is Saturday—I had forgotten!" Uncle Wiggily said. "Well, so much the better. I'll have plenty of time to tell the bunny boys and girls what I want them to know when they come to breakfast."

"I wonder what it is Uncle Wiggily is going to say?" thought Nurse Jane as she went on dusting the piano while waiting for the rabbits to awaken and come to breakfast. They were allowed to sleep a little later on Saturday morning.

At last Uncle Wiggily sat at breakfast with his bunny boys and girls stretched in two long rows in front of him.

"Now, my dears," said Uncle Wiggily, "What I have to tell you is very serious. It is getting near Christmas and——"

"Oh— Oh! Oh!" gurgled Baby Bunty, Jingle, Jangle and many others.

"Quiet, please," said Mr. Longears. "I want to tell you that none of you, on any account, is to open the door of the back room!"

"Why not?" asked Baby Bunty, Jingle and Jangle.

"Because," answered Uncle Wiggily, "it is too near Christmas. That is reason enough, isn't it?"

"Sure!" said Buster and Custer, two boys. "We'll see that the girls stay out of the back room, Daddicums."

"Oh!" said Baby Bunty, laughing.

"Oh!" said Jingle, smiling.

"Oh!" said Jangle, giggling.

Then they all ran out to play in the snow and Uncle Wiggily started to hop over the fields and through the woods looking for an adventure. But the first thing he found wasn't an adventure. It was a big, thick, heavy book. Some one had dropped it on the path through the woods, in a place where the wind had blown off the snow, so the book wasn't in the least harmed.

"Oh, what a jolly book!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I hope it's a Christmas book, with pictures in. And, if it is, and nobody comes to claim it, I'll take it home to my bungalow and put it away in the back room, to give to some one for Christmas. I must see if it has any pictures in."

Opening the big, thick, heavy book, Uncle Wiggily saw that it had a few pictures in, but not as many as he had hoped.

"It's more of a reading book than a picture book," said the rabbit gentleman. "But still and for all that it's good luck. These are reading stories my bunny children will like. I'll take the book home."

But first Mr. Longears sat down on a stump, took the book in his lap and began turning the pages. He looked at a picture here, read a story there and the more he went through the book the more he liked it.

Then, all of a sudden, a snappy, snarling voice close beside the rabbit asked:

"What are you doing?" Uncl Wiggily looked and there was the sly and hungry Weasel, who had sneaked up close to him. Wearing his winter coat of white fur, the Weasel could hardly be seen against the snow.

"I'm looking at my picture book," politely answered the rabbit.

"Let me see!" snarled the Weasel. "I don't see any picture," he went on, leaning over the book. "Look closer!" Uncle Wiggily said. But still the Weasel complained: "I don't see any picture."

"Look closer!" whispered Uncle Wiggily. There was a good reason the Weasel couldn't see a picture. Uncle Wiggily had covered it with his paw. And now, when the Weasel looked very close, with his nose down low right in the book, Uncle Wiggily suddenly slammed the covers shut with a bang!

"Wouch! Scowch! Oh, my nose! My nose!" howled the Weasel, and pulling his long, slender nose out of the book, away ran he leaving the bunny gentleman safe and sound and not nibbled a bit.

"This surely is a lucky book!" chuckled Mr. Longears as he hopped home.

ACCIDENTS OCCUR NEAR CROOKSTON

Ivanhoe and Bannockburn Cars Crash—Two Ladies Slightly Hurt.

THIRD SEDAN DITCHED

CROOKSTON, Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The light snowfall which came on Sunday was doubtless responsible for at least two motor accidents during the afternoon. The first one occurred about 2 o'clock on the 8th Line of Huntingdon, a short distance west of the Madoc gravel road, where a sedan car owned and driven by Mr. John Benson of Ivanhoe skidded into the ditch, breaking off two wheels. Fortunately neither Mr. Benson nor his wife were hurt beyond being somewhat shaken up.

Two Injured

The second accident occurred about 4 p.m. on the Madoc gravel road just south of Crookston, when a sedan car with six passengers, owned by Mr. A. Wilson of Bannockburn, going north from Belleville, collided with a sedan car owned by Mr. Joseph Rollins of Ivanhoe, which was proceeding south. Apparently when Mr. Rollin's car was coming up a grade and attempting to pass a standing car, it skidded into the path of the other car, striking the running board and breaking the glass in the rear side window.

Miss E. Wilson, who was nearest the window, received minor injuries and was taken to Madoc to Dr. Beatty's office for medical attention. Mrs. Wilson also received a severe blow upon her hip and was otherwise shaken up, none of the other occupants seemed any the worse for the accident.

Constable Devolin of Madoc was called and so arrived on the scene and both cars were able to proceed on their way without any assistance.

A. G. Thompson Presented With Masonic Ring at Bloomfield Before Leaving for Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30. —(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—An interesting article in the Picton Gazette of Saturday last gives an account of the presentation of a Masonic ring to A. G. Thompson, manager of the Bloomfield branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who was honored at a very large banquet before his leaving for Campbellford to take over the managership of the Bank of Commerce at that place.

The presentation was made and an address read by S. E. Mastin, the latter expressing the regret of his many friends at Mr. Thompson's departure. Other addresses were given by E. B. Purtelle, chairman, Rev. C. S. Reddick, W. H. Gough, H. Y. Cooper, B. R. Leavens, Fred Hubbs, H. Leavens and Dr. Alexandra.

Mr. Thompson, who is a native of Colborne, has been manager of the Bloomfield bank for three years, before which he was accountant in the Campbellford branch. His appointment to the Campbellford bank is a very popular one.

CANDIDATES DECLARE CITY NEEDS NEW INDUSTRIES FOR PROGRESS

with which he has been so closely associated during the past ten years, Mr. Phelan said that the Council should be able to keep the tax rate down in 1931. In fact, he was inclined to believe that taxes might be reduced slightly if the Dominion Government follows through on its promise of relieving the municipalities of paying its present share in Old Age Pensions. In the election it was promised that the Federal government would pay all the Old Age Pensions, he said, and if they do it will lessen our taxes by $15.-000 "Every expenditure must be scrutinized carefully. Our debenture debt is about the same as other cities of similar size. By careful handling I see no reason why the debenture debt should go higher, and by 1932 it should be materially reduced."

Mr. Phelan advocated the continuation of unemployment relief by the city. "We have sufficient capital to carry on until the end of January. Then I would advocate taking a deputation to the government and requesting that the work be extended to take care of all unemployment until the situation has improved. By these means we not only relieve unemployment, but also get much work done at only 50 per cent of the cost to the ratepayers."

E. Melville Turner who headed the polls in 1922 and who during the succeeding years up to 1926 was chairman of the legal and reception committee, the fire water and light committee and the parks committee, is again seeking election to the City Council and is making as the main plank in his election platform, that of strict economy in the expenditure of public monies during the coming year.

"I think that the 1931 aldermen should be put in with the idea of economy" he stated in an interview with The Examiner, "and that the people's money should be spent commensurate with the best value obtainable for every dollar.

In stating some of the items he proposes to take up if elected to the Council, Mr. Turner, said he was of the opinion that much time and effort should be devoted towards obtaining new European and United States branches of industries to locate in this city.

Unemployment Measures

Regarding unemployment, he is of the opinion that everything possible should be done to relieve the situation by employers retaining their labour where practicable, instead of paying out relief and gives the assurance that if elected he will be heartily in sympathy with any scheme which is put forward to alleviate distress. As a means of providing employment, he thinks that if the paving question is considered again in the near future, that where possible, the work should be done by the city, with the materials which experience has shown will stand up with the least expenditure of money.

"I am also of the opinion that the consolidation of all relief organizations should be one of the first steps taken by the new council, and placed on a permanent basis, so as to prevent overlapping of relief activities, which has been in existence in the past" he stated.

Sewage Disposal Plant

Any further activity in connection with the new structure at the sewage disposal plant, should in Mr. Turner's opinion, be withheld, until such time as plans for the work have been approved by the Provincial Board of Health.

Another matter which he considers should receive the early attention of the incoming council, is that concerning different methods of civic government, having in mind the adoption of improvements which have been found suitable in other municipalities.

Parking is also a matter which, Mr. Turner considers, is a question which will call for special regulations this next summer, both in the interests of the tourist and of the citizens, and he considers it will be necessary for the Council to co-operate with the Police Commission in providing satisfactory methods of relieving the condition which now exists on our principal thoroughfares.

Fire Department

After having served as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Mr. Turner considers he is in a position to state that no finer Fire Department exists in any other city of the same size in the Province as the Department we have here. There is however, he states, another very necessary piece of equipment which must be purchased in order to cope with possible outbreaks of extensive oil or gasoline fires. The equipment is of a minor nature, but Mr. Turner expressed the opinion that delay to provide it is a serious matter.

The insurance rates at present prevailing, Mr. Turner believes, should be investigated and pressure brought to bear on the proper parties, with due regard to a reduction of these rates.

He will also press for a survey of the city's bus service, with a view to making several improvements to the benefit of the citizens as a whole, and also for representation to be made to the Government to assist in consolidating the many offices which they have in this city under their control, particularly the Post Office and Custom House.

The crying need for public lavatories, cannot be greater in any other city than Peterborough, and this will be but another of the numerous public improvements which Mr. Turner will make it his duty to agitate for their construction.

He spoke also of the railway services, and is of the opinion that the companies concerned should be approached with a view to having certain schedules changed, particularly those affecting the mail services. He would also urge the proper protection of all railway crossings throughout the city.

Nicholl's Hospital

"Before any definate action is taken in connection with the additions to our present Nicholls Hospital, the candidate thinks that plans should be submitted to the Council for their approval and if the expenditure is not too great, then such plans should be passed on to the people for their consideration.

Mr. Turner expressed satisfaction in the manner in which the Parks have been cared for in the past year, and is in favour of further developments at King Edward and Riverside Parks. He thinks that Central Park and Victoria Park are now in such good shape that the ratepayers will not see the necessity for any further large expenditure in this direction.

Speaking of the schools, he also expressed his admiration for the manner in which the Board of Education had discharged their duties in the past year, stating that he could see no need for any increased expenditure next year, in this direction.

Locks Bridge

It being the decision of the Provincial Government to carry the highway over the river at locks bridge, Mr. Turner says it will be the duty of the County and City Councils to co-operate and to demand from the Provincial Government the best bridge possible at this point, and to see that the whole cost is borne by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

Mr. Turner's wide interests also include the bathing beaches in the city, which he considers should be improved, and the Federal Government should be urged to install proper life saving facilities at advantageous points along the river, and eliminate a great hazard which faces bathers, both children and adults.

It would be the duty of the incoming council, he opined, to investigate the present dual arrangement whereby the tax collectors and the treasurers offices are combined and to provide separate offices, with due regard to the proper operation of these two important city services'

And in conclusion, Mr. Turner said he would always be one to promote the best relations between the County Council and the City Council and to do all he could to eliminate any unpleasantness which should occur from time to time.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them inserted.

COMMENDS GOODFELLOW'S ACTION

Dear Mr. Editor.—The action of Mr. Frederick O. Goodfellow in offering to withdraw as a candidate for alderman if he was going to be the cause of an election, is something that commends itself to a great many citizens who favored an acclamation this year.

It has been said repeatedly that it is difficult to get good men to run for municipal office. This is hardly true, as we have had some of the best men in the city in the Council during the past few years and at the present time. If, however, the people of Peterborough desire any new blood in the Council, they could not do better than try Mr. Goodfellow.

Without offering any criticism, Peterborough might have been better on occasions in the past when major issues confronted our aldermen, if they had more solid men of Mr. Goodfellow's type in the Council, a young man with few frills and who is not an oracle, but who is sound through his possession and exercise of good common sense.

Yours truly,
J. ARTHUR.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 32 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jane snatched the bundle from the cook. Her hungry mother arms folded the sleeping infant to her breast, while hot tears of joy ran down her cheeks and her whole frame shook with the emotion of the moment. "Come!" said the Swede, "we got no time to waste." He led her to the ship's side and they climbed to the waiting boat below. A moment later he cut the rope that held it and slowly they floated away.

Then silently bending to the muffled oars the Swede pulled steadily toward the black shadows of the Ugambi River. Jane wondered if the man knew where he was bound. A half hour later the moon broke through the clouds, showing a narrow tributary up which the Swede turned the small boat's prow. Giant trees overhung its banks. Ghostly Spanish moss dropped from the bending limbs in riotous profusion.

Now and then the river's surface would be suddenly broken by a huge crocodile startled by the splashing oars. From the dense jungle came the voice of the hyena, the coughing grunt of the panther, the deep awful roar of the lion. And with them, strange uncanny notes—more terrible because of their mystery. Huddled in the stern of the boat Jane sat with her baby strained close to her breast.

Even though she knew not to what fate she was going, still was she happy and thankful because of that little, tender, helpless thing she pressed so tightly in her arms. Again and again she tried to strain her eyes through the blackness of the jungle to have but a peep at those beloved features, but only the dim outline of the baby face rewarded her efforts. She could scarce wait for the coming of day.

McNabb's Platform

IN BRIEF, UPON WHICH HE IS SEEKING RE-ELECTION

THE BUDGET

All monies passed by City Council for departmental expenditures must be spent according to an itemized statement. Should any additional proposition arise for expenditures by any committee in excess of those originally provided for in the appropriations, then the committee's chairman and his committee must have Council's sanction before proceeding with that project. No committee shall spend any monies in any other way than embodied in the budget and passed by Council.

TAX RATE

Next year should see an earnest effort to hold, by a conservative retrenchment of capital expenditures, both tax rate and assessment at their present levels—and better, to reduce the rates if possible.

INDUSTRIES

To put into force an aggressive policy for inducing new factories to locate here, and to encourage, as far as the law permits, their establishment and subsequent operation in Peterborough.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

I firmly and unswervingly stand for not spending another dollar of the city's funds on any addition to the present Sewage Disposal Plant until the Provincial Board of Health submits a proposal for a plant suitable to our climatic conditions—one that will operate efficiently and economically.

A HEROINE OF FIFTH CENTURY

The graceful and lovely figure of St. Cecelia has aroused the imagination and enslaved the interest of Christians for many centuries. The youthful musician who is one of the most widely known martyrs of the early Church is always pictured as a frail maiden of indomitable courage and winning beauty. So the presentation of episodes of her life which form the basis of the play, "A heroine of the Fifth Century," is outstanding in interest and held the aroused attention of a good-sized audience last night in the auditorium of St. Alphonsus Lyceum, when pupil nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital gave the initial performance of their three-act drama. The play will be repeated to-night.

The girls were trained by the Sisters of St. Joseph at the Hospital and the whole performance bears that sign manual of the gentle sisterhood; a quiet charming restraint and a gracefulness in gesture and intonation that lend an atmosphere of reposeful sweetness to this dramatic story of the appealing figure of St. Cecelia.

The Sisters made the most of the space at their disposal and have contrived a very attractive setting with a back drop that simulates a pretty garden and a profusion of tall palms, to re-create the idea of a life that was lived in spacious courts and lovely outdoor nooks. The costuming is excellent also, carrying out the Roman tradition with long, flowing robes and veils, metal fillets for the hair and tasseled cinctures. Gold spangles edge the floating veils of the maiden and gold embroidery finishes the tunics of the male characters which are also impersonated by young ladies. The imperial eagles of Rome glitter on the helmets of the tall centurions and the perfect arrives in all the majesty of imperial purple velvet toga and scarlet tunic.

Splendid Acting

The cast is splendid and the whole performance, in three acts, lives up to the motif of the play; the angelic purity and sweetness of the martyred girl, St. Cecelia, Miss Isabelle White, in the stellar role, is admirable, giving it that impression of sanctified but unconscious sweetness which the legendary saint wears as a halo. Miss Yvonne Leroux is a very satisfactory Agatha, mother of Cecelia and ambitious for her daughter's worldly advancement. Miss Marguerite McDonald is especially good as Judith, mother of Valerian, who is the youth chosen by Agatha as her daughter's suitor. But Valerian (Miss Marie Turcotte) is converted by Cecelia to the faith of Christ and forsakes his proud home and mother to dwell with the men of the Appian Way, where Christianity had its humble beginnings in the proud Roman city. He is companioned by his young brother, Tiburtius (Miss Marie Rishea) who has not yet donned the toga virilis of his race. The loss of her two sons inflames the hatred of the haughty Judith, and she at once sets about to plot revenge upon Cecelia and her house. She is aided by her kinsman, Talmachius the Prefect, a difficult role handled capably by Miss Gertrude Garvey.

Then there is the old and faithful servant, Martha (Miss Stella Murphy) and the former sweetheart of Valerian, Miriam, (Miss Rose Pelland) who joins with his mother is revenge upon the hated Christians. Friends and companions of Cecelia, a bright and lovely group of maidens, are Irene (Miss Irene Hourigan) Ana (Miss Blanche Kelly), Beth (Miss Ann Moloney) and Ruth (Miss Laura Hogan) Miss Della Hadden is a beggar woman, Miss Lorraine Masterson is Paulus, messenger for Valerian. Miss Florence Stewart is Lotus, servant of Talmachius, and guards are Miss Dora Lawrence and Miss Gertrude Lynch.

A group of girls who form the chorus in several pretty song numbers led by Cecelia, include the Misses Margaret Grady, Madeline Flynn, Gladys Perdue, Marie Connelly and Frances Clancy. They are gowned alike in appropriate floating garments of soft colorings, with glittering metallic fillets over flowing veils.

Specialties between acts were interesting Members of St. Peter's High School Orchestra played very entertainingly several times; its personel including the Misses Gladys Perdue and Madeline Flynn, also Joseph Nolan, James Duffus and Clarence Collins.

A Christmas hymn was sung by Mrs. Leo Picard; the Misses Deforge and Curtin gave an Irish step dance in costume and Miss Angelica Young was a bright young Highlander for her Scottish dance, while small Billy Jones and his sister, Marcelle, had a cute Dutch number in a recitation with music.

Accompanists of the evening were the Misses Berenice Flynn and Veronica Scollard.

"A Heroine of the Fifth Centurey" will be repeated at the Lyceum this evening commencing at eight o'clock.

To the Electors
Although all the routine business of the Council is carried on at the evening meetings, still there is a tremendous amount of work in connection with the City Council that must be looked after in the day time.
There are investigations to be made, negotiation to be carried out, prospective industrial executives to be met, and so on.
Fortunately I happen to be in the happy position to be able to devote considerable time to this work, if elected, and with the study I have already made of the City's affairs, I know I can be of some service to this community.

ONWARD CONFIDENTLY INTO THE NEW YEAR

As the new page is about to be turned and the last few hours of the old year swiftly pass, let us face the incoming 1931 with a calm confidence in the basic strength of this beloved Canada of ours—resolved that come what may in the days that lie ahead, we Canadians will have faith in our homeland and a love in our hearts for our fellow-citizens that will defy the buffetings of temporary depression and keep the good ship Canada on an even keel until the balmy breezes of better times waft her safely into the harbor of prosperity once again.

ROWLAND TIVEY, FENIAN VETERAN AND RAILROAD ENGINEER PASSES BORN IN DERBYSHIRE IN 1839

One of City's Highly Respected Citizens Passed Away Last Night.

CAME TO CANADA IN 1866.

Only Two of 'Old Guard' Are Now Left in City of Peterborough.

Rowland Tivey, one of Peterborough City's oldest and most respected residents passed on last night, but has left behind him a model of manly virtue, chivalry and industry for all who would follow his precepts. As engineer and designer, soldier, sportsman and lover of nature, he extracted from life the full measure of enjoyment and contributed much for the betterment of his fellow men.

The late Mr. Tivey was born in Melbourne, Derbyshire, England, on January 13, 1839, and in the month of May 1865, was united in marriage to Hannah Povey of Birmingham. At this period of his life, the results of his earlier training had made themselves apparent, and his success as a civil engineer was assured. Realizing that Canada offered a wide and promising field of endeavour, and wishing to gratify his inherent longing to participate in the big game hunting which this country affords, he decided to leave his homeland. Arriving in Canada in the year 1866, he settled in Prescott, and almost immediately afterwards enlisted with the 56th Battalion, and saw much service in the North West in the Fenian Uprising. His death severs yet another link between the survivors of that gallant little band of veterans who fought for Canada at the battle of Ridgeway, and leaves but two of the "old guard" in this city, namely Colonel J. W. Miller and H. Nesbitt.

Came to City in 1882

Returning to Prescott, on the cessation of hostilities, the late Mr. Tivey occupied the important position as civil engineer and bridge inspector on the old St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway for a period of 17 years, after which he came to this city in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway, now the C.N.R. He was engineer and bridge inspector for the whole Midland division, from the year 1882 until the time of his retirement about thirty years ago.

BALDWIN STATES TORY PROPOSALS

Give British Farmer Guaranteed Price and Market For Wheat.

AID FOR DOMINION.

LONDON, Dec. 31— (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—"We will give the British farmer a guaranteed price and a guaranteed market for his wheat, in addition to other valuable help on sound lines," declared Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative Prime Minister, in his New Year's message issued last night.

"As for the development of Empire trade, we have worked out the quota scheme which in our view will give the Dominions all they want by the way of a secure market. More important than even the best of schemes—we have what the Socialists entirely lack, both the wish and the will to come to such an agreement with the Dominions, without delay, as will build up a great Empire trade to the mutual advantage and lasting benefit of our people."

The Conservative leader also declared his best and most cheerful political wish for 1931 is: "May the present Government come to a speedy and unlamented end."

The Manchester Guardian, commenting on the statement, asked if the Dominions were to have a guaranteed wheat price as well as a guaranteed market, and if so, "is the price to be the same as the British farmer's or lower?"

"It is certainly not safe to say we will take a fixed quanity of Dominion wheat at the world price, for the Canadian farmers can affect the world price by the amount they plant or release for export," the Guardian added. "That they failed to hold up the world price on a previous occasion does not ensure they will not try again, for they had then no guaranteed market to fall back upon."

Colombia Rioting Takes Eleven Lives

BOGOTA, Colombia, December 31 (C.P.). —Eleven persons were killed and twenty injured, it was learned to-day, in political rioting which broke out yesterday in Capitanejo, in the Department of Santander, between parisans of the Conservative and Liberal Parties. Federal troops were patrolling the village to-day and order appeared to have been restored.

E. G. PATTERSON REMEMBERED BY C.G.E. EMPLOYEES

Presented With Address and Electric Refrigerator at Noon To-day.

A FORMAL FAREWELL.

Entire Personal of the Plant Assembled Around Platform.

Ten minutes earlier than its routine noon hour signal to-day, the big whistle at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant, in its old, unvarying and unfeeling tone, sounded a farewell to E. G. Patterson, retiring works manager, whose long term of service ended this afternoon at five o'clock.

This departure from the customary schedule was to call together the entire body of employees to pay to Mr. Patterson the tribute which they had planned. For the occasion a special platform had been built in the spacious yard south of the gatehouse, where, on behalf of the assembled hundreds of men and women from all the departments, Alderman R. S. Cotton read a tributary address to Mr. Patterson, who was presented with a C.G.E. electric refrigerator. And as a further evidence of the direction of the thoughts of the employees, Mr. Cotton and Mr. Frank Lawless, as representatives of the employees, called at the Patterson residence this morning at 10 o'clock with a gift of a beautiful basket of roses for Mrs. Patterson.

On the temporary platform with Mr. Patterson were J. G. M. Wilson, who performed the duty of chairman; Robert Doble, former mechanical superintendent; R. E. Layfield, W. H. Moore, L. D. W. Magee, Fred Cavalier, Frank Lawless and Carl A. Salmonsen, who, it is understood, is to succeed Mr. Patterson.

Mr. Wilson said he was glad to see such a large attendance of the employees on the occasion of the farewell to Mr. Patterson.

"We are also glad to see our old friend Mr. Doble with us," he added. "You all know the purpose of this gathering, and it only remains for me to call on Mr. Cottom to read our address to Mr. Patterson."

In this noon hour event, with its palpable note of finality, Mr. Patterson was revealed to the crowd, deeply circled about the platform, as just one of themselves whom the years had bound together, but in his parting words he still spoke as an executive of the company.

The address read by Mr. Cotton was as follows:

To Edward George Patterson, Esq.

Greetings.

We the employees of the Peterborough works of the Canadian General Electric Company, on this, the eve of your retirement from the position of works manager, extend to you sincere good wishes.

HUMBOLDT MAN SHOOTS HIS WIFE WOUNDS DAUGHTER, LATER SUICIDES

Westerner Blows Brains Out When Trapped By Police After Chase.

TRAGEDY FOLLOWS QUARREL

HUMBOLDT, Sask., Dec. 31 (C.P.) —Harry Jones and his wife are dead to-day and their adopted 17-year-old daughter, Doris, lies on a hospital cot struggling for life against a critical bullet wound. Jones, according to the tale of the tragedy unfolded by Doris, shot his wife and daughter after a heated argument. He then committed suicide when police overtook him as he fled from his home.

A journey to Winnipeg for the Yuletide season was Jones' Christmas gift to his familily. They returned from the holiday journey to their home in this little Saskatchewan town yesterday. Doris said a heated argument developed when they entered the house.

Shot Wife Twice

In hospital, suffering greatly from her wound, the 17-year-old girl stated that her father suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket, shot his wife twice in the abdomen and fired three shots at her, one of them entering her body below the heart.

The girl scrambled to safety through a window and neighbors rushed her to hospital and notified police. The officers found Mrs. Jones' body on a bedroom floor, life extinct. The husband had fled from the house and pursuit was immediately commenced.

On the outskirts of the town Jones was overtaken. He stopped as Chief of Police Palmer ordered him to surrender but as the officer stepped up to him, Jones drew his gun and blew his brains out, falling dead at the chief's feet.

Franco-Italian Navy Building Holiday Ends

ROME, Dec. 31 (C.P.).—The Italo-French naval construction holiday, arranged last summer, ends officially to-day, but resumption of building in the near future is regarded here as unlikely.

It was guardedly admitted to-day that the recent visit of Robert L. Craigie, naval expert of the British Foreign Office to Rome and Paris resulted in a sort of "gentleman's agreement" for a continuation of the holiday at least until after the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations January 19. At that time direct negotiations between French and Italian experts will be resumed.

Lads Ask $10,000; One is Shot Dead, Two Are Arrested

CLINTONVILLE, Wis., Dec. 31. (CP)—An alleged attempt to extort $10,000 from Dr. W. J. Finney, 52, ended last night with the fatal shooting of a 15-year old boy and the capture of his youthful companions by a posse in ambush.

Dr. Finney reported to the Sheriff he received a letter directing him to leave $10,000 at a fence post on a lonely highway Fifteen residents of Waupaca County hid in shrubbery nearby. Three youths got out of an automobile and one of them, startled by a movement in the shrubbery, fired on the hidden posse. Answering rifle shots killed Gordon Pope, 15. His friends, Douglas Parfitt, 17 and Howard Hustermark, 18, were arrested after a short chase.

$5370 WAS GIVEN IN RELIEF IN 1930

AID FROM GOVERNMENTS.

In direct relief Peterborough has given out $1,174.51 more this year than in 1929, the records show this morning at the office of Arthur Metheral, city relief officer. The relief bill this year totalled $5,370.77 as against $4,296.26. Of this years total the city will receive from the Federal and Provincial Governments $461.45 as their two-thirds share of the difference between the total relief given here during the last three months of the year and in the same months last year.

Relief figures for the past five years are: 1930, $5,370.77; 1929, $4,296.26; 1928, $4,320.70; 1927, $4,985.13; 1926 $6,336.71; 1925, $6,514.85. During 1926 and 1925, Finch Miller was relief officer, Mr. Metherall taking charge in 1927.

POLLS OPEN AT 9 AND CLOSE AT 5 NEW YEAR'S DAY

Deputy Returning Officers Asked to 'Phone Results to The Examiner.

PLENTY OF CARS.

Candidates Will Be Invited to Address Crowds in Front of The Examiner.

City ratepayers will go to the polls tomorrow to elect Peterborough's mayor for 1931 and five aldermen, who will sit in Council for two years. Their choice for mayor will be limited to Mayor Denne and Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, while for council they can select from nine candidates, six of whom have had previous experience on that body.

No matter how cold or stormy the weather a big vote should be cast, since the voters are offered the service of hundreds of cars to convey them to the polls. These cars have been arranged for by the candidates in their anxiety to get the vote out. The mayoralty race is adding spice to the election and, judging from past years, should increase the vote and heighten interest.

The polls open at 9 in the morning and close at 5 in the afternoon. The Examiner will have its full staff at work and will be able to give out information on the returns soon after the polls are closed. Deputy-returning officers are urged to phone The Examiner office immediately after sending the results to City Clerk Armstrong, so that the service to the public may be increased.

All candidates are invited to come to The Examiner office between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening, by which time full returns should be known. Arrangements have been made to provide facilities for the candidates to address the citizens, giving thanks for victory or voicing lament at defeat.

WOMAN IS SLAIN KILLER TAKES LIFE

Worcester Housewife Attempts to Eject Visitor and Gets Shot.

DAUGHTER 'PHONES FATHER.

WORCESTER, Mass., December 31 (C.P.). — Mrs. Iaxel R. Engstrom, aged 34 years, was snot and killed in her home early this morning by an intruder identified as Charles Athanas alias Yapa, who then ended his own life. The tragedy occurred in the living-room of the Engstrom home while Mr. Engstrom was on night duty as a fireman at a station in another part of the city.

Athanas, who had been drinking, called at the house after midnight on the pretext of looking for 2a friend. A struggle ensued when Mrs Engstrom attempted to eject him. He pulled a gun, police say, and fired twice at her, the shots taking immediate effect. He then turned the gun on himself.

Shots Waken Daughter.

The shots awakened a 14-year-old stepdaughter of Mrs. Engstrom who telephoned her father, and the four-and-a-half-year-old daughter of the couple. The medical examiners' verdict was murder and suicide.

Athanas had been a visitor at the Engstrom home once a month ago, police said, when he visited Frank Grace, who at that time was sick and was being cared for by Mrs Engstrom's sister, Miss Betty Ruthstrom. When he appeared at the home last night he insisted on finding Mr. Grace. Mr. Grace, questioned by the police, could not identify Athanas

Mr. Grace was at first detained for questioning when he could not identify Athanas, but was released when identification was made by others of Athanas' acquaintances.

REV. FATHER MINEHAN DIES

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 31.—Rev Father Lancelot Minehan, Pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church since 1914, and a prominent figure in the Catholic Church, died in hospital from a stroke which he suffered yesterday morning. He was 60 years old.

700 Births, New All Time Record, is Set In Peterborough During Year 1930

Seven hundred births—a new, all-time record—were registered in Peterborough during 1930. Births this year exceed the total set in 1929, which was the previous record, by 4, records at the City Clerk's office reveal.

Owing to the high birth-rate and comparatively low death total, the city's population increased by natural means by 354. Marriages showed a decrease from 1929 of 14.

The stork visited two Peterborough homes along with Santa Claus on Christmas Day. A boy was born in St. Joseph's Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, 601 Rubidge Street, and a girl in Nicholls Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Nicholls, 140½ Park Street. There was nothing unusual in this, since Peterborough always gets its share of Christmas babies.

Vital statistics for the past five years are:

	Births	Marriages	Deaths
1930	700	224	34[illegible]
1929	626	377	238
1928	600	235	339
1927	568	295	336
1926	556	204	295

TWO SHOT DEAD IN BANK ROBBERY AT NEW ORLEANS

Three White Hooded Bandits Open Wild Fusillade on Entering Building.

TELLER MAY DIE.

Grab All Money in Sight and Flee in Waiting Car.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.— Three white hooded bandits shot their way into the Third District branch of the Whitney Trust and Savings Bank here today, killed two men and wounded another and fled with a bag of money.

Dressed in white hoods and long coats, they burst through the front door and began shooting wildly without warning. Pierre N. Rizan, a bank watchman, fell dead at the first outburst of firing, slugs from a sawed off shotgun riddled his body. Gilbert Dietrich, a depositor, fell befor the hail of bullets in front of a teller's window and died a few moments later.

Teller May Die

Albert Bronson, a teller, sank to the floor of his cage with a pistol bullet in his body. Doctors said he would probably die.

As one bandit stood at the front door firing rapidly with the shotgun, another took a position at one side of the lobby and sent a cross fire of pistol bullets through the room.

Meanwhile, the other ran into a teller's cage and grabbed all the money in sight.

They ran from the bank, firing as they fled.

Beside the curb in front of the bank stood an automobile with another bandit at the wheel. All piled into the car and drove away at great speed.

Building in 1930 Established Record

Official figures available to-day at the City Engineer's office give Peterborough a building total for 1930 of $797,895, which sets an all time record for this city. Going back over the past five years shows that 1930 was more than $100,000 higher than the previous record of $625,577 made in 1928. Figures for other years were: 1929, $618,276; 1927, $624,295; 1926, $342,757.

TORONTO MAN DISAPPEARS

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 31.—Major Osborne Lean, disabled war veteran of Toronto, whose disappearance in 1927 and dramatic return in 1929 created widespread interest, has again vanished. Major Lean left the house early to-day for a walk and since then has not been seen.

Major Lean had been sick for a week. On his previous disappearance, Major Lean worked on a farm in Luskville for 18 months before returning, after saying he had forgotten who he was.

WESTERNERS STUDY PROPOSALS BY BENNETT BEFORE COMMENTING

Bracken Disappointed at Failure to Fix Minimum Price on Wheat.

WILLIAMS CRITICAL.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 31 (C.P.). — Government and farm body leaders on the Prairies to-day mulled through proposals of the Dominion Government to alleviate distress among Western farmers, announced last night by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in an address at Regina.

Slow to comment on an address that the West has eagerly awaited since Mr. Bennett's return from the Imperial Conference in December, Premiers and agrarian officials for the most part were reluctant last night to give "snap judgment" on the Prime Minister's plan to aid agriculturalists. Statements containing their opinions would be forthcoming when they had digested Mr. Bennett's speech, they intimated.

Heartening to Distressed.

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, considered the Bennett address would be "very heartening reading to many distressed farmers," though he expressed personal disappointment that the Canadian Prime Minister had not seen fit to fix a minimum price on wheat.

A member of the audience Mr Bennett addressed at Regina, George H. Williams, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, declared: "After reviewing Mr. Bennett's speech in its entirety, I can find very little in it of promise to the farmer except the guarantee of equitable Hudson Bay Railway routes and an implication that the Dominion Government would assist in finding seed for next year."

Mr. Williams described the Regina audience as "stunned and amazed" in disappointment. The show of enthusiasm, which he said had marked the opening of the meeting, "dwindled away toward the close of perfunctory applause."

New Rates Welcomed.

Both Premier Bracken and Mr. Williams agreed, however, that the declaration that Crow's Nest Pass grain rates would apply to the Hudson Bay Railway would be cordially received in the West. The announcement will "be welcomed by all Westerners," Mr. Bracken said.

ETHEL GAMBLE IMPROVING

Ethel Gamble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gamble, 169 Charlotte street, who was injured in the motor accident on the Chemong road early yesterday morning in which Irene Stewart was killed, is recovering favorably. Dr. A. G. Howson, who is attending her, states that there are no broken bones but severe shock was suffered.

The inquest into Miss Stewart's death will be held by coroner's jury this evening at 8 o'clock in the police court room.

LONDON, December 31 (C. P.). — Sir George Perley is made a member of the Privy Council in the New Year's honors list issued here to-night.

Sir George was Acting Premier of Canada during Premier R. B. Bennett's attendance at the recent sessions of the Imperial Conference.

Herbert Stanley Morrison, Minister of Transport, and Thomas Kennedy, Parliamentary Secretary of the Treasury, also were named to the Council.

The list created four new peers, five baronets, and 54 knights.

The List.

The barons who were elevated include Sir John Scott Hindley, commercial advisor to the Ministry of Mines since 1918, recommended for "public services"; Sir Ernest Henry Lamb, "for public and political services"; Sir William Plender and Sir Ernest Rutherford, both for "public service."

Baronetcies were conferred upon the following: Sir John Rose Bradford, President of the Royal College of Physicians; Sir Richard Arman Gregory, Professor Emeritus of Astronomy at Queen's College; George Roberts, who writes financial articles under the nom de plume, "Audax", who was honored for "generous charitable contributions."

Among those knighted were William A. C. Representative Indians and New Zealanders also were knighted.

Professor at McGill

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 31 (C.P.)— The raising of Sir Ernest Rutherford to the Peerage, announced to-day in the New Year's honors, is of particular interest to Canadians, as Sir Ernest was Professor of Physics at McGill University from 1898 to 1907. He was born in New Zealand and has had a long and distinguished career, being a Nobel prize winner in chemistry in 1908.

PACIFIC ISLANDS SUFFER 'QUAKE

Wall of Water Eight Feet High Sweeps Western Mandated Group.

HOUSES WASHED TO SEA.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 31 (C.P.).— Belated word reached here to-day of a tremendous earthquake and tidal wave in parts of Austral-Asia and Oceanica on the morning of Dec. 24.

A wireless message from the steamer Duris to the New Guinea radio station to-day said that after the earthquake a wall of water eight feet high swept the western mandated islands.

Its force was so great at Awinn that houses and cattle were washed out to sea. The European manager of the island and a number of natives escaped by climbing the palm trees.

In May-August, 1883, eruptions of the volcano Krakatao, between Sumatra and Java, produced a seismic wave which propogated itself as far as the English Channel and is estimated to have taken about 20,000 lives.

On March 13, 1888, Hatzfeldt Harbor and King William Cape, on the north-east coast of New Guinea, experienced a wave 30 feet in height after a period of earth tremors in Oceanica.

Dr. W. E. Wilson and Dr. J. H. Hess Will Go to Ballots in Hastings.

HYDRO BIG QUESTION.

HASTINGS, Dec. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—A stiff fight is assured in the election for Hastings Council. Dr. J. H. Hess is opposing the re-election of Dr. W. E. Feeling is running high and many arguments were heard on the streets last night following the qualifying of candidates.

The candidates for Council are: J. J. Collins, C. B. Plant, W. A. Lavole, A. Parker, R. C. Doxsee, W. M. Foulds, S. Hatherly, J. J. Perrault and William Lynch.

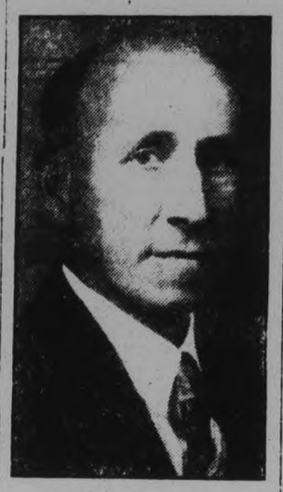
Gets Acclamation



CHARLES S. TANNER

Reeve of Lakefield, who was returned by acclamation at the municipal nominations held on Monday. Reeve Tanner is expected to be one of the contestants for the wardenship of Peterborough County for 1931.

EVERY OFFICE IS CONTESTED

Battle Royal Will Be Fought Next Monday in Seymour Township.

FIVE FOR COUNCIL.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31.—The slate for the election in the township of Seymour shows that a battle royal will be fought next Monday, with an election for every office.

With one reeve and one deputy reeve to be chosen, two names are slated for each office, while five men will contest three seats for councillor.

George Van Volkenberg and Robert Innes are both out for the reeveship. Mr. VanVolkenburg held that office in 1930, and is seeking re-election, while Mr. Innes held the office of deputy reeve in the last council and is determined to try for the premier chair.

For deputy reeve Wiliam Duncan and John Locke are both slated. Mr. Duncan is stepping up from the rank of councillor, while Mr. Locke did not figure in the 1930 council.

The five names given for councillors are Thomas Fry, W. S. Milne, W. S. Grills, H. T. Rutherford and W. Rowe. Mr. Milne and Mr. Rutherford are both members of last years' council and are also seeking re-election, while the other three men are prominent in the township. Mr. Grills is an old member of the council.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

Your votes are respectfully solicited to elect

Malcolm McIntyre

AS

MAYOR

FOR 1931.

His past 10 years of service as Alderman, during which, had he had the support of his fellow Aldermen, he would have saved the City $14,000 to $15,000, the cost of the dustless sweeper — long since scrapped.

Who had the honor of twice heading the polls, once receiving the heaviest vote ever polled in the City for an Alderman.

Who was successful in saving the City $3,500.00 on the paving of Aylmer Street, from McDonnel to Dublin, and could make a like saving to the City on the paving of all residential streets.

Why was it good leadership to pay the Warren Co. $11,000 more to pave Park Hill and Armour Road with outside help than it could have been done for with concrete and local help?

Your vote on New Year's Day is going to decide how similar work is to be done, as the Council has arranged to do $94,000.00 worth of paving in 1931, and a majority vote is all that is required to let the contract.

Using concrete and local labor would spread that amount over a very considerably larger number of streets than if let to outsiders. This gives the city an advantage not generally known, in the fact that our own workmen can repair the cement, and the outside contractor must be brought in to repair the asphalt.

I have the real interest of the City at heart when I ask the citizens to put me at the head of the 1931 Council, where I will be able to see that the city gets genuine value for every dollar spent for civic improvement.

TWO CANDIDATES ARE CONTESTING MAYOR'S OFFICE

Stage All Set For Keen Contest in Campbellford Municipal Election.

BATTLE FOR REEVESHIP.

Two of Last Year's Councillors in Field For Deputy Reeve.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The stage is all set now in Campbellford for what promises to be a keen contest in the municipal election. After receiving the qualifications of last night, the result shows that an election will be held for each office with the exception of the School Board, which was elected by acclamation, with the returning of three retiring members. Doctors H. O. Richardson, H. B. Longmore and O. C. Watson.

Two nominees have come out on the slate for mayor. Major J. M. Bygott and W. S. Wiggins. Both men have seen much service on the council and anticipation points to a fight for supremacy. Major Bygott has occupied the reeve's chair for the past three years, member of the council and a businessman of note.

Battle for Reeveship

G. A. Kingston and J. N. Stone are both slated for reeve. Here again a fight is foreseen. Mr. Stone who held the office of deputy reeve in the last council is stepping up to the senior chair with the support of many of the ratepayers for the public service he has rendered the town. On the other hand Mr. Kingston has gone through the chairs, having held the office of mayor for three terms, and is a man who is conversant with municipal affairs, especially as they are interlaced with the Counties Council.

For deputy reeve, two of last year's councillors are in the field, N. Alex MacColl and John O'Sullivan. Mr. MacColl is seeking election for the second time, 1930 being his first year of municipal experience as relative to the council, but during that time has proved himself an asset to the governing body of the town. Mr. O'Sullivan on the other hand has many years of town service to his credit, and has taken a keen interest as chairman of the Road and Bridge committee in the improvement of the town and is an able man to handle work situation.

With six councillors to be chosen, eight are slated for the office.

This list comprises new blood with the entrance of Ernest McKeel and D. Bennett. Mr. McKeel is a keen business man and would bring to the council new business ideas and the spirit of youth. Mr. Bennett, who declared his intention to withdraw after the nominations, has been prevailed upon by his many friends to let his name stand and qualify. He is a very popular business man and it is thought that he will poll a big vote.

H. N. Carr and J. R. Battisby are both members of last year's governing body, and have gained for themselves the respect of the old council and the goodwill of the citizens. W. J. Abernethy is an old councillor who has had much experience in municipal affairs and his record will bear witness for him. R. H. Cole is also an old member of the council and a well known figure in public circles, while N. H. Thompson and Frank Long will carry with them the support of many of the citizens.

For the Commissioner for the Water and Light Board, two entries are registered. C. H. Davidson, ex-mayor, and a man with twenty-six years of public service behind him, will be a hard man to beat; while James Blue, a local contractor, has many backers who will put up a stiff fight in his behalf.

AUTO KILLS ST. CATHARINES WOMAN.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 31 (C.P.).—Mrs. Benjamin Logan, 70, was killed last night on the Martindale Road, between St. Catharines and Port Dalhousie, when struck by an automobile.

Because a ram recently taken to Krakow, Poland, had one pair of sheep's horns and one pair of goat's horns, it was snet to the Warsaw zoo instead of the slaughter house.

WEST PROMISED LOANS, CASH AID BY R. B. BENNETT

Lower Freight Rates, Increased Foreign Markets Among Other Proposals.

SPEAKS AT REGINA.

Suggested Loan Corporation Fill Gap in Credit Machinery of Country.

REGINA, Sask., December 31 (By Frank Flaherty, C.P. Staff Writer). — Premier Bennett last night presented Western Canada with a New Year's surprise package. In a speech bristling with important announcements, the Leader of the Federal Government outlined the steps he proposes to take to improve the condition of Western agriculture. They included both temporary remedies and measures designed to be of permanent benefit.

Creation of a finance corporation with a possible capital of $5,000,000 to lend money to farmers to enable them to diversify their operations, direct relief for the more hard-pressed farmers, lower freight rates, increased foreign markets and credit facilities to provide for orderly marketing of the 1930 crop are included in the Government's program.

First Public Speech

It was the Prime Minister's first public utterance since his return from the Imperial Conference. He came to Western Canada to make it because, he said, economic depression is more acute on the Prairies than elsewhere.

In announcing the grain rates on the Hudson Bay Railway would be on the basis of the present Crow's Nest Pass rates, Mr. Bennett meets the wishes of the organized farmers of the West. In addition, he announced, the Government was making a complete survey of the whole transportation system with a view to securing lower rates.

Canada enjoys lower grain rates than the United States and freight rates in general are lower than in other countries. The Prime Minister said they had not yet reached their minimum because Canada possessed great and undeveloped aids to existing traffic channels.

The proposed loan corporation is intended to fill a gap in the credit

WILFRED BUCK IS EXONERATED BY CORONER'S JURY AT INQUEST HELD INTO DEATH OF J. ROXBURGH

Driver of Car Claimed He Glanced at Boy on Street at Time of Accident.

THREE IN CAR.

Man Died in Hospital From Internal Injury to Brain.

Wilfred Buck, 16-year-old son of Samuel Buck, driver of the car that struck and fatally injured John E. Roxburgh in Norwood on the evening of December 15, was last night cleared of all blame by the coroner's jury.

The jury returned the verdict. "The death of John Roxburgh was due to being accidentally hit by an auto driven by Wilfred Buck on December 15, 1930 at 8.30 p.m. in the village of Norwood. From evidence submitted the jury exonerates Wilfred Buck from all blame."

Witnesses testified that Mr. Roxburgh was walking east across the intersection of Spring and Colborne and had gone all but eight feet across the road when struck by Buck's car which was proceeding north. Buck and two passengers in the car, Learl Humphries and Raymond McGee, said that they were watching a boy on the right side of the street and failed to see Mr. Roxburgh until right upon him. The fatally injured man was carried 63 feet on the car before rolling clear, stated Constable Puffer, of Norwood.

Constable Isaac Puffer of Norwood said that it was Monday, December 15, that Mr. Roxburgh was struck. It was on Colborne Street that the accident occurred. Mr. Buck was driving the car in which two boys, Humphries and McGee, were passengers. The car was going north.

There is an electric light on the left sidewalk of Colborne street, witness said. Mr. Roxburgh was going east across the road. The spot where Mr. Roxburgh was picked up was 66 feet north of the crossing. "The car had carried him that far from the crossing," stated Constable Puffer. The pool of blood left where Mr. Roxburgh was picked up was nearer the left side of the road than the right. Two boys, Innis and Lumsden, who told the constable that they had seen the accident, had said that Mr. Roxburgh was on the crossing when struck.

Constable Puffer said it was a clear night and could not say whether it was cold enough to form a "cloud" on the windshied. Mr Roxburgh was 55 years of age, said witness. "He was very active, interested in municipal matters and church work; and secretary of the East Peterborough Exhibition."

The car was closed. He said that the light on the street was two rods south of the crossing and on the west side.

Dr. G. H. Cameron, who attended Mr. Roxburgh in hospital here, said that death was due to laceration of the brain substance. The doctor saw Mr. Roxburgh first on Tuesday Bruises were visible on the head and face. These were only scalp wounds, Dr. Cameron said. He stated that owing to the internal injury of the brain the spinal canal was bleeding

In the list of aldermanic candidates coming before the citizens to-morrow for election, is the name of E. M. Turner, of the firm of W. R. S. Monaghan Council Given Acclamation

CENTREVILLE, December 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—An acclamation was accorded South Monaghan township council, and the destinies of the township will again be guided through the New Year by Reeve Wilbert Wood, and Councillmen David Moncrief, Fred Waterman, Roy Whittington and Howard Barnard.

Six other nominees, one for Reeve and the remaining five for Councillors, failed to qualify, and thus prevented a fight from eventuating, which looked to be a decided probability on nomination day.

At the elections last year, the voters put in a new reeve and council, with the exception of David Moncrief, who has been returned again this term.

HAVELOCK COUPLE CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY ON NEW YEAR'S

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Parcels Will Be Fifty Years Married.

IN BEST OF HEALTH

HAVELOCK, Ont., Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Parcels, of Havelock will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on New Year's Day, and will be at home to their relatives and friends.

Mr. Parcels was born in Murray township in the year 1860, the son of John and Amerilla Parcels. Mr. Parcels' father was of United Empire Loyalist stock. His mother was a native of Scotland. When Joshua was two years old, his parents moved to Belmont, where they farmed for twelve years, after which they moved to Chandos. While in Chandos he met Emily Woodbeck whom he married on January 1, 1881. He claims this was starting the New Year right.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. S. Glazier of Apsley who died a few years ago. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Parcels took up farming in Chandos, and remained there for eighteen years, where most of their children were born.

Seven Children.

There were seven children, four girls and three boys, namely, Edward of Winnipeg, Joshua, Jr., of Walkerton, and Orval of Havelock, who died a few years ago, Florence (Mrs. Lyons) of Chicago, Gertrude (Mrs. Mogg) of Galt, Grace (Mrs. Graham) of Galt, and May (Mrs. Rogers) of Havelock who died here four years ago.

Twenty-seven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Parcels moved to Havelock where they still continue to reside. Mr. Parcels has won an enviable reputation as a cook, having served in that capacity in camps in and around this district. He worked for a number of years with Rathburn & Co. and The Peterborough Lumber Co. He still takes a delight in preparing the occasional meal.

He started working for the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. as a fitters' helper eighteen years ago, and continued in their service until a few months ago.

Mr. Parcels has a very retentive mind and can recall many interesting happenings in the history of Havelock. He remembers when this village was only a cedar swamp. The only residents then were two farmers Messrs. Alex and William Mathison who owned and worked what is now the main part of Havelock. The latter is still living, in the same place, at the east end of the vilage.

He saw the C.P.R. line being laid out by the surveyors, forty-eight years ago.

Mr. Parcels has always enjoyed excellent health, and has never suf-

THE CITY'S BUSINESS IS IMPORTANT BUSINESS

To the Electors

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

The City Council has often been compared to the directorate of a large Industrial Company, and the comparison is rather a good one.

Now when you have money in a company, you select men for your directors whom you consider will best administer the affairs of your Company. You do not let sympathy, sentiment, or anything else but good, hard common sense influence you in this selection.

Your City Council are Directors of the City of Peterborough, a Corporation doing a business of approximately a million dollars a year. In selecting your Director-Aldermen for another year, vote for the men whom you consider will best handle your business. Let nothing else influence you.

WISHING YOU ALL A VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR.

James Hamilton.

MRS. M. JOHNSON CELEBRATES 80TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Tendered Post Card Shower by Members of Fenella Women's Institute.

BORN IN SCOTLAND

FENELLA, Dec. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A pioneer of Northumberland County in the person of Mrs. Margaret Johnson of Roseneath was honored on December 22, it being her eightieth birthday, with a post card shower by the members of Fenella Women's Institute.

Mrs. Johnson has been a member of the Fenella Branch of the Institute for amost twenty years and even after leaving this community and taking up residence in Roseneath some years ago, she has still retained her membership in the Fenella Branch.

Mrs. Johnston was born in Aberdeen Scotland, in 1850, coming to this country with her parents in 1852 and settling in Northumberland county, where she has always lived since coming to Canada.

Although long since past the allotted span of life, yet on conversing with her, one finds her to be thoroughly conversant with the present age as well as possessing a valuable reminiscence of days long ago.

Of a large family only two children remain, Mrs. John Dalnard of Hastings and Miss Jessie who lives with her mother. She is the grandmother of seven and has twelve great grandchildren.

Mrs. Johnson spends her time reading and knitting and still indulges in her daily walk when the weather permits.

WILFRID BUCK IS EXONERATED

continuously. He did not think the skull was fractured. Only a considerable blow could cause such injury as those suffered by Mr. Roxburgh.

Dr. M. F. Sutton, physician of Norwood, said he attended the injured man in Norwood on the night of the accident, but not in hospital. Death took place on Saturday, five days after the accident. He said the injuries were sufficient to form a pool of blood on the road, such as described by Constable Puffer. After the accident Mr. Roxburgh never regained consciousness.

Dr. Sutton said that the corner where the accident occurred was very well lighted.

Wilfred Buck, 16 years and six months old, said that he was the driver of the car that had struck Mr. Roxburgh. With him in the front seat were Learl Humphries and Raymond McGee.

He said he had quit school and is now working on a farm. He had a chauffeur's license and explained that he had to take out a chauffeur's license in preference of an operator's permit because he was under 18 years of age. The car was new in 1928.

He said that the left hand window was frosted but it was down about three inches from the top. He said he was driving from the Donegal school house, where there had been at practice for an entertainment and was going into the village on Epworth League business. He judged his speed to be 20 miles an hour. The lights were good on his car, and were full on.

Explaining why he did not see Mr. Roxburgh, he said some boys were playing tag on the road and he did not see the man until he was right in front of the car. "We hit him and then went on a little. Then I applied the brakes. I may have put the gas on after I struck him. I may have in the excitement," said young Buck.

"I didn't see him after I struck him. I saw him just as he was hit. He was right in front of the radiator. I glanced to see the boy on the street and then in front again. Mr. Roxburgh was there right in front," he said.

He admitted that he might have avoided the accident if he had not glanced at the boy on the street. He thought the constable's measurement as to the distance the car went after striking Mr. Roxburgh was about right. Mr. Roxburgh dropped off and then the car went on about five yards further.

After the accident, witness said he went in the car in search of a doctor. The brakes on the car were good, he stated.

He had passed an examination in driving with Mr. Pakenham of Norwood. He said he had never had any trouble in reaching the pedals. Although there was a cushion in the front seat he did require it for driving, he said.

Learl Humphries, the next witness was with Wilfred Buck on the night of the accident. He said he could not swear whether the window on the left was steamed up or not. The front window had a clear vision. Mr. Roxburgh was struck really before he saw him, witness said. He judged the speed at 18 to 20 miles an hour. He also had a chauffeur's license and drove his father's car. His attention was on the boy playing on the street and that is why he did not see Mr. Roxburgh. Humphries said.

Raymond McGee, 18, said he was also in the car on the night of the accident. He corroborated the other boys' testimony and said he also was watching the boy and she right sidewalk. He said Mr. Roxburgh had got almost the full way across the road before coming in front of Buck's car.

Roderick Webb said he was working a few yards off the accident. He heard a thud and saw Mr Roxburgh lying on the road and the car some feet ahead. The front head light was bent. He said there was a clear vision more than a 100 yards ahead in approaching the scene of the accident from the direction the car had come.

Robert Varley said he saw the accident and was standing on the corner. The witness was walking south on Colborne Street. He didn't see anything until he heard the impact and he saw the body fall off the right side of the car.

Herbert Moore said he ran across the road, but did not see the car. He was stooped down to put on his rubber on the right side of the road when he heard the impact. Another boy, who had chased him, was on the left side of the street.

Samuel Buck, father of Wilfred said the brakes were in good shape; they were relined in the summer.

Recalled Wilfred Buck said he had taken no precaution to protect pedestrians coming off Spring street. "They could see to protect themselves," he stated.

Provincial Constable David Sylvester said he had measurements at the scene of the accident. It was 66 feet from the rossing to the clot of blood on the road and it was eight feet from the crossing to the clot of said Mr. Roxburgh had had to walk 22 feet on the road to reach the place where he was struck.

Provincial Patrol Officer Ted Hornick said that a four-wheel brake car should stop within 30 feet. At 20 miles an hour the car was going 29 feet a second. He said that estimating Mr. Roxburgh was walking at four miles an hour the car must have travelled 100 feet while he was traversing the 22 feet to the place on the road where he was struck.

Dr. Harry Carlton, a Norwood physician, said that the light at that corner dimmed the vision for car drivers proceeding up the hill. He said Mr. Roxburgh was moderately deaf. He said it was a place where precaution should be taken by motorists.

The jury consisted of:

S. T. Harris, Hubert McCannan John Devlin, S. Kerneghan, T. Mark, John Eedgwick, foreman, Edvard Collins, Jack Primeau, Wm. Welch Alex Archibald, Albert Throop and Hugh Robinson.

He likes it particularly because it carries all the news of the surrounding country and he has always found its news items to be accurate and reliable. In a small town news travels quickly; but just recently the noon edition of this paper told him of the Havelock Post Office being broken into along with a local barber shop, the same morning that it took place. "Just imagine" said Mr. Parcels, a paper coming all the way from Peterborough to tell me a rare bit of news like that." His favorite authors among the modern writers are, Peter B. Kyne, Zane Grey, and Ralph Connor.

His is a nephew of the late Joshua Anderson, the centenarian pioneer of Anderson's Island, his mother being a sister to this old gentleman who died a short time ago, in his hundred and fourth year.

Mrs. Parcels' parents were Martin and Johanna Woodbeck of Rawdon township. Her hobby, outside of her household duties, is doing fancy work and she possesses a wonderful collection of all kinds of needle work.

They both take great pride in their garden, which is always one of the best in the district.

James Manners Injured When Truck Is Ditched

WOOLER, Dec. 31 (Examiner Correspondence) — James Manners, of this community, met with an accident on Saturday evening when returning from Frankford when he failed to make a turn on the road, with the result that the truck he was driving turned over in the ditch.

The young man was picked up unconscious and Dr. McMullen, of Frankford, was called and had the boy taken to his home. It is thought his injuries are not serious, and the truck, although badly broken up, is not beyond repair.

NO ELECTION IN HAVELOCK

Town Council and Three Members of School Board Given Acclamation.

SANDERSON, REEVE.

(Exainer Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Dec. 31.—Not only the town council, but three members of the school board were elected by acclamation, when Wm. Martin failed to qualify before nine o'clock Tuesday evening. The new members for this body are as follows: Bernard Smith, James W. Ketchen and Alex Leeson.

Monday evening after the nominations it was definitely known that Reeve Richard Sanderson and Councillors Ernest Seeney, John Howe, Alfred Spencer, and Harvey Gordon were returned by acclamation for a second time, since no one was nominated to run against them. This is considered quite a thing for Havelock, where there has been some real live elections in years gone by.

TWO FOR REEVESHIP BELMONT, METHUEN

Nine Nominated For Councillors and All Qualify, Promising Hot Fight.

HAVELOCK, Ont., Dec. 31. (Examiner Correspondence). There is no doubt about there being an election for the Belmont and Methuen township council.

There were four nominated for the reeveship, namely: James W. Russell, Frank Breckenridge, W. E. Griffith and Ernest Spencer. Both Russell and Spencer are out of the field, leaving the old contestants to battle it out as they have in previous years. These are W. E. Griffith and Frank Breckenridge.

There were nine councillors nominated and they have all qualified, as follows: Norris Whitney, C. F. Steenburg, Joseph McNeeley, Harry Vansickle all of last year's council, along with Gilbert Wright, Isaac Anderson, George B. Saunders, George Barrons and Lemerick McGowan.

The meeting on Monday afternoon in the Belmont Town Hall was one of the largest ever held in the history of Belmont. At one time it looked as though an election might be avoided, when both Griffith and Breckenridge said they would drop out in favour of Mr. Russell, but the latter would not hear tell of this idea.

MAJOR SHEPARD SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Motions to be Heard by Judge Hopkins Feb. 2, Date For Passing of Sentence.

ACCUSED UNDER BOND.

TOPEKA, Dec. 31.—Motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment were filed to-day in behalf of Major Charles A. Shepherd; Army Medical Corps officer, formerly of Belleville, Ont., convicted of the poison murder of his second wife at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929.

Court attaches said the motions would be heard by Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins February 2, the date for passing of sentence. The trial jury assessed life imprisonment in returning its verdict at Kansas City, Kas., December 22.

Major Shepard is at liberty under $20,000 bond and meantime has resumed his duties at Fitzsimons General Army Hospital at Denver.

The motion in arrest of judgment was based on the contention that "the verdict of the jury is contrary to the uncontradictory evidence in the case."

Seventeen Errors

Seventeen asserted errors in the trial were advanced in the other motion, asking the court to discharge Major Shepard or grant him a new trial.

The defense set out that remarks prejudicial to Major Shepard had been made by Judge Hopkins during the trial and charged misconduct on the part of District Attorney Sardius M. Brewster in "misquoting the evidence" in his closing argument.

Judge Hopkins' ruling admitting testimony of Miss Clara Brown, Topeka nurse, and Sergeant J. E. Gresser of Fort Riley, both of whom said Mrs. Shepard told them on her death bed she had been poisoned, was cited as an error. Such alleged conversations, the motion contended, were not held in the presence of the defendant and were "wholly incompetent and improper."

Messrs. A. E. Spooner George Whitred and A. B. Smith are the trustees whose term of office is up this year.

Immediately after the close of the nominations a motion was carried to adjourn the meeting until eight o'clock.

Dr. W. E. Wilson.

Sharply at eight o'clock Town Clerk Alexander Wilson called the meeting to order. He read over the long list of nominees and expressed his wish that the meeting would be very orderly.

Reeve Dr. W. E. Wilson was the first speaker called. The Reeve thanked his mover and seconder, and was pleased at the large crowd present, showing that the electors are taking a deep interest in municipal matters. Dr. Wilson went thoroughly into the business transacted in the Counties Council during the past year. He explained how the debenture debt of the county had gone up considerably. It was his firm belief that the smaller municipalities would eb called upon for greater amounts in the coming years, as the schools and counties roads were taking more money each year. The Reeve then went into the financial statement of the town, which showed the village in good standing despite the hard year just passed.

Hydro Question.

In going into the Hydro question for the village, something which has been the main point before the citizens for some time, he explained it thoroughly from the start up to the present time. In spite of the large majority rolled up for Hydro when the vote was taken, the Reeve and some members of the Council have met with strenuous opposition in getting the matter cleared, which they have now accomplished, and have the promise of the Hydro to start work on January 5, providing the weather is favorable. He explained the resolution put through Counil to bring Hydro in this winter at a special session of the Council held after the 15th, when some members thought it was not legal to transact any business.

Councillor John J. Collins was next member of 1930 members called to give an account of his stewardship. He thanked his mover and seconder for again nominating him for Council as well as Reeve for the coming year. Mr. Collins complimented Dr. Wilson on his splendid address, and felt there was nothing left for him to discuss. In going over the statement he said there was $2,000 for the Public School which the Council had nothing to say about, and they had very little money to spend. He then touched on the all-important subject of Hydro, in which he has shown great interest all year.

Councillor W. M. Fowlds, the next speaker, dealt at length on the Hydro question. The stand he has taken at all times has been for Hydro. He was of the opinion that if the town built their own transmission lines and bought their power from someone else they would then own their franchise.

Councillor R. C. Doxsee dealt briefly with the statement and the Hydro question, and was of the opinion that the present Council should not have called the special meeting and passed the resolution for the bringing in of Hydro this year.

It remained for some of the nominees to enliven the meeting. Messrs. Coughlan, McCarthy, and Doughty, strong Hydro supporters, all stressed the necessity of Hydro at once. Mr. Coughlan explained the way Stirling had purchased their transmission lines, which Mr Fowlds said they had bought and owned. Mr Coughlan said Stirling put their system in fifteen or twenty years ago when they were making preparations to get power from the Seymour Power Company. Under the Hydro system he said the town would own their transmission line in the town.

W. A. Lavole thanked his mover and seconder for the honor, but as yet he had not made up his mind to run or not. But if he was elected he was strong for Hydro and to get industries to locate in Hastings.

Arthur Parker, the youngest nominee, had not made up his mind whether to enter the field or not, but was a strong supporter of Hydro.

Messrs Grady and Hatherly also made brief addresses, in which they stated they were not seeking municipal office.

BREWERS SUED BY LIQUOR BOARD

British Columbia Alleges Shortages on Beer Sold in Kegs Since 1925.

UNSTATED DAMAGES.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 30. — The British Columbia Liquor Board today filed a writ claiming unstated damages against the Pacific Brewers Agents, Limited, for alleged shortages on beer sold in kegs since 1925. The Liquor Board computes the shortages since 1925 amount to $280,000.

The Pacific Bewers Agents, Limited, includes all the Brewers in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster. The writ states that the claims against all the defendants are for damages for fraudulently representing the barrels delivered by them were of 25 gallons capacity, whereas, it is alleged they were of 24 gallons capacity or less.

The beer in question was sold under agreement made in 1925 between the Liquor oBard and the Brewer's Agents.

machinery of the country. Banks, railway companies, mortgage insurance and industrial corporations will participate in it as shareholders, and will have the backing of the Federal Government. Capital, which may be $5,000,000, will be used as a revolving loan fund to enable grain farmers to diversify their operations and branch out into mixed farming.

People were too ready to criticize the banks because they declined to lend money on some undertakings, said Mr. Bennett. It should be borne in mind that the only money the banks had was the money they borrowed from their depositors, the savings of the Canadian people. They could be required to repay these deposits on demand, and for this reason their business was restricted by their charters.

New Corporations Work.

The new corporation, however, would be able to do a class of business the banks could not undertake. It would be ready to lend money on the security of live stock purchased by farmers and to extend them credit in other ways.

Relief for farmers will be carried on by Provincial Governments, but with the active support of the Dominion. It will consist in providing aid during the winter and free seed grain in the spring.

Arrangements for increased markets for Canadian wheat in France and China were discussed by Mr. Bennett. The French Government has offered to guarantee a minimum purchase of upwards of 7,000,000 bushels of the 1930 crop and Hon. H. H. Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, is on his way to China to enter into negotiations with that country.

The difficulty with China is that the country's credit is impaired owing to the collapse of the silver market. The Government is prepared, Mr. Bennett said, to provide credit facilities or take other means necessary to establish a market in the Oriental republic.

In all these undertakings the Government will keep an eye on Canada's financial condition. Nothing will be done to impair the country's credit among the nations of the world.

No Fixed Wheat Price.

Fixing of wheat prices was ruled out of consideration by the Premier. In the first place the Federal Government had no constitutional power and in the second place it would be unwise to do so it if had.

For once, a Prime Minister succeeded in fooling the forecasters. Many predictions were made as to what Mr. Bennett would say. Although some of them came close, no one predicted the more important announcement—the creation of the Finance Corporation.

A crowd of more than 5,000 people listened to the Prime Minister's speech in almost stolid silence. There were occasional bursts of applause and an odd interjection.

Bus and street car fares in Italy are being reduced.

MARMORA COUNCIL ACCLAMATION COMES AS SURPRISE TO VILLAGE

FIGHT IN TOWNSHIP.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Dec. 31.—After the nomination of nine candidates for seats on Marmora village council, the return of the council by acclamation on Tuesday came as a matter of surprise to most of the ratepayers. The councillors for 1931 will be F. S. Johnston (of last year's council,) D. E. Bell, (former councillor and last year's contestant for the reeveship), R. E. Bonter (ex-reeve of Marmora township), and Dr. H. Crawford who takes up municipal duties for the first time.

Those who did not qualify were A. Burridge, A. Sweet, Dr. D. L. Curtis, W. R. Linn and G. Wellman.

A warm contest is promised for the reeveship. F. N. Marett, retiring reeve is opposed by ex-warden G. B. Airhart who retired last year from eight years continuous service to the village as its reeve. B. C. Hubbell, a former councillor will be Hydro Commissioner for the ensuing year.

Four Qualify In Township

In Marmora township, an interesting election is in store. Three of the four nominated for the reeveship have qualified, T. E. Laycock, reeve for the past three years, as anticipated withdrew, leaving, W. D. Nickle, L. E. Neal and W. Billings, ex-councillors of years' experience in the running. Six candidates seek election on the council. J. Downard of last year's council, I. McCoy and T. Nobles, former councillors and W. Hamilton, C. Kelly and G. Vilneff, who seek election for the first time. Orville Leonard and J. McAvoy did not qualify. Heavy polling is expected in connection with both village and township elections on Monday.

KEENE

Mrs. Frank Norris of Montreal has been very ill at the home of her father, Mr. James Foley.

Word was received this morning of the death of Mrs. J. M. Center of Vancouver, B.C., who passed away after a brief illness.

The Young Peoples' Society of the Keene United Church held the regular meeting on Sunday evening. The topic was very ably taken by Miss Jean Armstrong in which she graphically described her impressions of the city of Ottawa.

Mr. Douglas Brown spent Christmas with friends in Keene.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1930

TO-MORROW'S ELECTION.

Those qualified to vote in to-morrow's election for the mayoralty and board of aldermen have been notified through the mails as to the location of the polling booth where their ballots are to be marked.

It is only necessary to add that the voting will take place between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and to mention the fact that there must be no "plumping" in the aldermanic election.

In marking his ballot for the Council the voter must be careful to vote for at least four candidates—otherwise his ballot will be spoiled.

He can, of course, vote for five aspirants if he so desires, but if he votes for more than five or fewer than four the result will be the same as if he had not bothered about visiting the polling booth at all—in other words, his vote will not count.

Vote as you like to-morrow—but if you want to start the new year as becomes good citizens of Peterborough, you'll vote.

ON THE EVE OF THE NEW YEAR.

The curtain falls to-night on 1930—a year that started out with bright prospects of material prosperity for this country, but that passes into history as a period of business and industrial depression in which the courage and resolve and determination of the Canadian people have been thoroughly tested.

The success with which that test has been met enables us to-night to face the new year undaunted, confident that Canadian morale is unshaken, the faith of Canadians in the future of their country undaunted, and the resolve of the people of this country to help each other through this time of stress is firm as a rock.

What 1931 will bring no one can say, but Canada looks into the months that lie ahead undismayed, courageous, hopeful.

There are encouraging signs on the horizon as the old year slips swiftly toward the inevitable end.

Economists, leaders in finance and business, industrial leaders are predicting an upward trend—they declare the corner has been passed and that a steady improvement in conditions can be confidently looked for.

These predictions are welcome for the hope they contain, but should they prove too optimistic the Canadian people have shown that they can meet depression with heads thrown back and courageous hearts, and they embark therefore into the new year with a stout spirit that refuses to be dismayed.

THE DUTY OF TO-MORROW.

Citizens of Peterborough can get the new year away to a good start to-morrow by exercising their franchise and assuming their share of the task of naming the city's government.

It is a responsibility that every elector should discharge cheerfully and willingly as an essential part of citizenship.

Good government can only be assured when there is a full and intelligent expression of public opinion; when there is indifference and lethargy on the part of the electorate the way is paved for inefficient, unqualified men to get into office and do the harm that inefficient men are almost sure to accomplish when called upon to deal with business that is too big for them to handle.

The electors of Peterborough are called upon to-morrow to choose a mayor and to select five aldermen from a field of nine candidates four of whom are members of the present Council, two more have had previous service on the board of aldermen and three are new to the field of municipal politics.

The Examiner has secured from the various candidates a statement as to the policies they propose to follow.

It is the duty of the electors to study those statements and weigh them in the light of their knowledge of the candidates, decide which aspirants for office are likely to give the best service, and then go out to-morrow and exercise their franchise.

Don't be satisfied to let somebody else do what every citizen should be more than willing to do for himself.

A CREED FOR CANADA.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, whose advertising campaign to arouse the people of Canada to the desirability of extending their purchases of Canadian-made goods has been pushed with commendable zeal and intelligence, has given Canadians a most admirable creed to follow through the new year.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce asks his fellow-citizens to subscribe to this creed for Canada:

I love her as my home. I honor her institutions. I rejoice in the abundance of her resources.

I glory in the record of her achievements. I have unbounded confidence in the ability of her people to excel in whatsoever they undertake. I cherish exalted ideals of her destiny as a leader among world nations.

To her I pledge my loyalty. To the promotion of her best interests I pledge my support. To her products I pledge my patronage. And to the cause of her producers I pledge my devotion.

There is surely nothing in that creed that any Canadian should have any hesitation about endorsing; on the other hand, there is a great deal in it that if generally acted upon would make better Canadians and a greater and more prosperous Canada.

It is a new year's message that every citizen of this country might well decide to-night to adopt and to practice; a greater love of this land as the home land, a greater loyalty, a more intense pride in Canada's achievements and resources, and a national consciousness of the importance of buying Canadian products are the foundations upon which this country can be built to new heights of progress.

STABILIZING WHEAT PRICES.

The farmer is the best fellow in the world, and as we all have farmers' blood in our system, there naturally is universal appreciation of his underlying qualities and his present difficulties. But beyond any measure which will alleviate the present troubles, how far can the other members of the national citizenship be expected to go in respect to permanent assistance? For that is precisely what some of the farmer groups are demanding. They ask for stabilization of wheat prices at 70c to $1.00 per bushel; they ask for a moratorium on debts; they ask for the regulation of prices on goods and products used by the farmers, including machinery, clothing, shoes, etc; they ask for the abolition of the gold standard; nationalization of currency and credit. One group even asks for the regulation of travelling agents or commercial travellers, which, they say, add to the expenses, though really they are stimulating competitive salesmanship.

They are asking all these things of the Federal Government. But they do not ask, "What is the Federal Government?" A Federal Government is merely a board of directors elected by and representing the entire citizenship of the nation. This citizenship is comprised of all sorts and conditions of producers—and consumers. This citizenship provides the cash to enable the Government to operate the country's affairs. Each citizen goes about his own business, and if his own business fails, he must perforce "bite on the bullet," and re-establish himself the best way possible.

Suppose the Government guarantees wheat at 70c per bushel, and this wheat was sold at 60c per bushel, would the Government pay the difference? Or would the community at large pay it? One supposes that the general run of citizens are pretty hard pressed as it is, to make ends meet, and pay normal taxation to the Federal, Provincial and municipal Governments!

Then we come to the question of the requested governmental decree against collection of interest on mortgages and bank loans. One must never forget that bank loans and even machinery sales represent money gathered from the savings of the citizens. Bank loans are made from bank deposits, where you and I are receiving three per cent. interest—for safety and assured income. The machinery sales are made possible because thousands of small shareholders have entrusted their funds to the corporations who are producing the machinery, and these shareholders and bondholders have a right to their interest. Nobody can deny that right.

What would become of the farmers themselves if the investing public refused to put their money into banks or industries or mortgage companies, if such money was to be endangered by authorized interest and dividend defaults? There would be no money to borrow in that case, and consequently no interest to default.

The same thing applies in respect to the suggested Federal Bank, to grant 3 per cent. credit to the farmers. Where would the Government get these funds? In the last analysis, all capital funds must come from the public. The Government issues bonds for a specific purpose, and investors subscribe for those bonds. How, then, could the Government lend money at 3 per cent. if the normal rate of interest paid on Government bonds is 5 per cent., or even 4 per cent.?

Let us see how really injurious price stabilization would be, at the suggested pegging between 70c and $1.00. Within a period of two or three years (during which time the world conditions will have assumed a more normal aspect, as it always has done following recurring depressions) the consequent intensive cultivation of wheat would create such a condition of overproduction as would make the present situation look insignificant by contrast—and it would be a permanent condition of abnormal production until at least such time as the advocates of price stabilization realized that we cannot "monkey with economics."

We surely have learned something from the sad lessons of universal exploitation, in the years of $1.50 wheat, and continued advances in security and commodity values! We built an edifice of inflation in all commodities, and even if wheat had gone to $2.00 we would have cried to the gods of fortune for $2.50, just as the market gamblers always look for higher prices.

All of which suggests that we take our medicine like men; that we do not stampede to the lifeboats which cannot hold us all. We can construct a temporary raft, and it must be done, but in future it would be well for all of us, farmers, bankers, workers and journalists, to keep an eye on the weather glass. If we don't, then we are merely dunderheads, not worth the saving.

The bare fact of the matter is, that the community at large, through its Government, cannot afford to do this that is asked of it. It is a practical impossibility. The farmer is not alone in misfortune. The vast number of corporation shareholders are already suffering from reduced or "passed" dividends; corporations earnings are down from 50 to 75 per cent.; retail and wholesale business is in exceedingly bad condition, their turnover is low and book-debts very high. The industrial worker is either on half-time, or only half the usual number of employees occupied in work. In a word, the whole country is suffering, equally, from the severe depression. Is it possible, therefore, for one section of the citizens to do more than give a helping hand to another section? Is it sound reasoning to ask two-thirds of the population to stabilize wheat prices, when this large proportionate group finds itself hard-put to make a comfortable livelihood in good times, and save a little for bad times?—The New Canadian.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner's best wishes are extended to all its readers for a happy and prosperous New Year.

There is urgent need of relief for many Peterborough families. The Examiner will be glad to receive your donation and apply it to the best possible advantage.

Vote as you like to-morrow—but vote.

One nice thing about New Year's Day is that it brings Toronto's mayoralty campaign to a close.

Hespeler evidently does not believe in mayoralty campaigns. The town has not had one in thirty years.

Windsor policemen who lost their jobs for stealing turkeys will have to be marked down as geese.

Toronto is to have one of the largest telescopes in the world, but so far neither Sam McBride nor Ald. W. J. Stewart have claimed any credit in connection therewith.

There must be times when Toronto ratepayers wish that all the candidates would jump into Burle Lake.

Canada's furriers are asking protection against the dumping of Russian furs into this country. The Soviet five-year plan evidently is a menace to many industries.

FATHER TOM

Father Tom had been stationed at X for forty years. In his younger days this mission extended twenty miles either way, but as the population increased parishes had been established within its boundaries and, Father Tom, approaching seventy, found himself with only X district and some welcome leisure to spend among his books and in his beloved garden.

Father Tom was of medium height, sparely built, with an upstanding shock of white hair which defied brush or comb. The corners of his mouth quirked upward even in repose, and his brown eyes twinkled behind the glasses he nearly always wore,—and looked over as he talked.

I can't think of anyone who loved a joke better than Father Tom. For all that he could be unbelievedly severe upon occasion. Woe betide the careless parishioner who transgressed the rules he laid down for the government of his parish. For example, "round dancing" which some people tried to introduce, was forbidden by him on the ground that it was immoral. And he saw that the rule against it was enforced, although it meant the breaking up of one or two big dances and the sending home of everybody. What would Father Tom say about the dances of to-day, when he declared the graceful old time waltz immoral!

I first met Father Tom on my fifth birthday, when he came to call on Grandmother, who had been an invalid for many years. He asked me three questions: "Why does a black cow give white milk?" "Why does a black hen lay white eggs?" and "Which is the gry goose or the white goose the gander?" I was too shy to speak; could only change fingers in my mouth, to the sorrow of Grandmother who apologized: "I don't know what't got into the child to-day at all, father. And she talks at the rate of a hunt sometimes; you'd fairly think her tongue was hung in the middle!" But an older cousin, who lived where ganders were white, thought the question easy, and his ready answer earned a nickel, and the ready laughter of these incomprehensible grown-ups.

Father Tom had a little old Irish man of all work who was a great joy to him. One day Father Tom's pet peacock fell into the well, and was rescued speedily dripping, but otherwise unharmed, by the anxious Mickey. "What did he say to you, Micky, when you brought him up?" teased Father Tom. And like a flash came the answer: "Faith an' 'twas Latin, your riverence, an' I don't understand him." "Ah, I see, Micky, Well, come in and have some whiskey before you change your wet clothes. Ah, Micky, that's good whisky!" turning the tiny glass in the light, "Thirty years old, Micky, thirty years old," "Is it now, father? Faith, 'tis shmall of its age."

One more Micky story. Part of his duties was to look after the graveyard. He was found there one day with a bad cold, coughing loudly. "Gracious, Micky, that's a terrible cough you've got!" said the visitor commiseratingly. "Thrue fors ye" gasped the sufferer "but there' many's the one here 'ud like to have it."

What To-day Means To You

"CAPRICORN."

If December 31st is your birthday, the most productive hours for you on that date are from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The least propitious periods are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The astrological indications for December 31st are favorable, and much can be attempted and much accomplished. The conditions augur especially well for scientific work and all artistic effort. In the afternoon and evening, there will be sensed a calm, of a benignant character, which will stimulate the emotions.

Children born on this December 31 will not shine brilliantly in their scholastic age. They will, however, "get by," and, at the time of adolescence, will begin to think seriously of life's responsibilities, and there will be created in them then an ambition that will eventuate in success.

If you were born on a December 31st, you are beset, at times, with a degree of melancholy that does not augur well for the final development of any plans you may have in view. You suffer too much from self-introspection and as a jury, determined to fix your own "status," you never find any extenuating circumstances You discover in yourself defects entirely unknown to the outside world, and aggravate evils which are of little or no significance.

This mental attitude also colors your appreciation of the efforts of others. You have not the gift of judging things as a whole. You will persist in singling out some little detail that does not attain perfection, and, for an insignificance, condemn what is otherwise a good effort.

You will never rise to great heights, nor will you ever achieve much. You will be lost in a position of great responsibilities, but very effacious in a sphere of secondary importance, where attention to detail, rather than vision, is a "sine qua non." Your disposition, meant to be cheerful and congenial, is marred by your mentality, and although you are loyal, true and straightforward, your friends are few. You, fortunately, do not carry your moods into he home, and there you remain content and happy, surrounded by those who love you and whom you love. Travel would do you a lot of good, but your horoscope holds out no prospect of such a possibility.

"CAPRICORN."

If January 1st is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to noon, and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The adverse period is from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

January 1st is full of hope and promise, when, fired with energy, you will find something worthwhile at hand to do—and will do it. New associations will be formed, new interests created. Something quite unexpected, but none the less pleasant, will happen before the day is over.

A child born on this January 1st will be unexpected, but none the less pleasant, have a very affectionate nature, and will always need some one on whom it can lean for guidance. It will, unlike most children, be very grateful and will repay in love all that is done for it. Never a strong character, but a sweet one.

Were you born on January 1st? If so, the Fates have been variable in their treatment of you. At times, you have enjoyed the fruits of success. At other times, you have been doomed to taste of sorrow and disappointment. The manner in which you have faced these two conditions provides the index to your real character. In days of achievement, you have not boasted. You have been modest in the hour of triumph. In days of adversity, you have not worn your heart on your sleeve. You have held your head high, and the outside world has never caught a glimpse of the ache within.

You are gifted with courage—both physical and mental. You are endowed with more than usual intelligence. You have a strong character, the admiration of your intimates, and the envy of your enemies. Your success in life has been marred by too much consideration for others, too great a respect for what you consider your obligations as a relative and a friend. No matter how much lack of consideration for you others may show, regardless of their ingratitude, you continue showering your bounty—spiritual and material—on behalf of self-imposed duties.

You feel, at times, a trifle embittered, yet never show it. You, realizing what you might have become without other entanglements, occasionally experience disappointment, but never repine. Your home life will be that of a perpetual "Giver", and only in the satisfaction of your own conscience, will you ever find reward commensurate with all you have done.

Miscellaneous Shower Miss Elfreida Pincombe

HAVELOCK, Dec. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Douglas Hutchinson was a gracious hostess on Monday evening, December 22, when she entertained a number of young people, at a miscellaneous shower, in honor of Miss Elfreida Pincombe, who leaves for Toronto on January 5th to enter St. Joseph's Hospital as nurse-in-training.

The early part of the evening was spent in progressive five hundred when four tables were played. The first prize was won by Miss Margaret Jones, and the consolation by Miss Donna Buchanan.

After the conclusion of the games, a knock was heard at the door, and Santa Claus (James Wilde) was admitted. He inquired for Miss Pincombe, for whom he had been looking all evening, and on being conducted to her, he presented her with a large pack, the contents of which proved to be many valuable and beautiful presents, linen towels bath towels, handkerchiefs, silken lingerie and many toilet accessories were received, testifying to the popularity of the young guest of honor.

Miss Pincombe thanked her friends for their beautiful gifts in a few words, and after a dainty luncheon, served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Jones, and her sister, Miss Margaret Jones, the gathering dispersed, with best wishes to Elfreida for success in her chosen career.

AT ST. PAUL'S, MARMORA.

MARMORA, Dec. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—Bright Christmas services were held at St. Paul's on Sunday, with the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, officiating. In the morning the choir very capably rendered the anthem, "The Birthday of the King." Mrs. W. H. Litt at the organ was assisted by Mr. S. B. Wright with violin accompaniment for the hymns, anthem and closing voluntary.

During the taking of the offertory Mr. Wright played the Pastoral Symphony from Handel's Messiah with his customary ability. It being Holy Innocents' Day, the rector chose for his topic, "The teaching of the three festivals following Christmas Day." He pointed out that those especially remembered on those days were martyrs for Christ. Saint Stephen was a martyr in will and deed. Saint John was a martyr in will but not in deed. The Holy Innocents were martyrs in deed but not in will. All who follow Christ must be ready to suffer. They must be martyrs in will. God will decide if they are to be martyrs in deed.

At evensong the address was on "The Past Required," and the soloist was Mrs. P. Gray, who sang "Softly the night is sleeping."

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them inserted.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir:

I would be very grateful if you could spare me a few lines in your paper regarding the city relief work.

There are a certain number of men working straight time known as key men. Up to date $56,000 has been spent, these men having put in steady time. Don't you think it would be fair to lay these men off a week about and let them be replaced by other city men who can do their selected jobs just as well?

I suggest that everyone be laid off a week about, for keeping a few would only breed unrest with the others. Hoping that the head men of this relief work read this and take action at once for time is precious.

Present Market Trading Indicates Gold Stocks Passing Into Strong Hands.

McINTYRE MOST ACTIVE.

One of Gold Issues Sets New High For Year at New York on Tuesday.

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (Special to The Examiner).—With the closing period of uncertainty and readjustment passing into history, varying opinions are heard regarding the coming year. Some are very optimistic, some are conservatively hopeful, some are noncommittal; the consensus, however, appears to be that 1931 will not only see the turn but a distinct recovery, with security markets either one jump ahead or one jump behind business.

Gossip around the street to-day was limited to discussion on the current strength in the gold stocks, whether or not the rise is well founded is still the question, but the type of buying apparently gives room for hope that a good part of the stock is passing into strong hands. New York is credited with purchasing large blocks of a few of the more important golds, particularly McIntyre, and local traders are said to be opening up to some extent.

The theory that some of the demand might be attributed to short covering in anticipation of the putting in operation of the regular Standard Stock and Mining Exchange loaning facilities was advanced and received some recognition. Majority of brokers reported little of this class of selling, however though they admitted a short position undoubtedly has its danger at this time. Mining circles, generally, were considerably elated over the fact that one of the golds was the only issue to make a new high for the year in New York yesterday.

OLD MAN WINTER VISITS MANITOBA

Midnight Revellers Will Require Fur Wraps For Outdoor Fun.

MILDER THURSDAY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 31. (CP)—Heralded by a vigorous northwest wind, Old Man Winter came back from his northland retreat, where he spent the Christmas holiday, and struck his last icy blow of 1930 in Manitoba.

Revellers who plan to greet the New Year with the time-honored boisterous vim, will need their fur wraps when they flit from party-to-party in the early morning hours but the more sedate who make their formal calls of the afternoon of January 1, 1931, are promised "mild weather" for the out-door adventure.

To-day, from the head-of-the-lakes to the Saskatchewan boundary, the Old Man made his presence known, the mercury receding to 16 below zero at Minnedosa, Man., and minus 14 at The Pas, Manitoba's northern gateway, and an equal reading in Winnipeg. At Port Arthur it was two below.

The icy blast of to-day is in sharp contrast to a year ago when temperatures in Winnipeg were well above the zero mark; reaching a maximum of 35 above the little minus sign.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta it was comparatively mild, and sub-zero readings were absent across the breat prairies to the foothills, and beyond to the Pacific Coast.

Tomorrow it is to become "milder" in Manitoba, with a continuation of "mild" weather in Saskatchewan and Alberta, and "fair and cold" in the Lake Superior area.

GENERAL LIST REMAINS FIRM

Market Displays Decided Disinclination to Take Stand on Either Side This Morning.

TRADING LOWER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 31 (C.P.).—Faced with a short session to-day and a holiday Thursday, the Stock Market on Toronto Exchange displayed a decided disinclination to take a stand either on the side of the advance or retreat this morning. Prices moved slowly, most of the leaders firm, but up only a small fraction.

Trading the first couple of hours was noticeably below that of the previous sessions this week. The oils were sidetracked for the time being, B. A. Oil and Imperial having a much smaller volume, while International Petroleum did not appear on the tape until near the end of the second hour. B. A. Oil was slightly higher above 15, while Imperial was just below last night at 17 3-8. International Pete. was quoted 14½ to 14¾. Final sales last night were made at 14½.

Nickel came out at 15 and added 1-8 later. Brazilian, C.P.R., advanced fractionally; Bell Telephone held unchanged, as did Ford of Canada. Massey-Harris was firmer at 10.

Catholic Paper Urges Soviet Timber Ban

LONDON, Dec. 31 (C.P. Cable).—The Tablet, noted Catholic Journal, to-day called upon all religious denominations to declare that they would not purchase one cubic inch of Russian timber for religious buildings "until Russian timber is felled, sawn and shipped under conditions of common humanity."

The appeal was apparently provoked by recent questions in the House of Commons, in which it was suggested the Russian timber camps were conducted under conditions of virtual slavery.

Argentina now has the largest per capita automobile registration of any country in the Western Hemisphere except the United States and Canada.

STANDARD LIST SLIGHTLY HIGHER

Profit-taking Produces Some Irregularity in Action During Forenoon To-day.

HIGH-PRICED OILS ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 31.—(C.P.)—Profit-taking produced some irregularity in action on the mining market in the forenoon to-day, but recessions were confined to a few cents in all instances and a good part of the list continued the advance.

Hollinger, Dome and Teck Hughes eased 5 apiece to $6.25, $9 and $6.20, respectively, at noon, and Vipond lost a couple to 98. McIntyre remained in demand, however, gaining another 30 to $20.30. After selling at $20.50, and Wright-Hargreaves, Granada, Siscoe, Sylvanite and Big Missouri were a point or so above last night. Mining Corp. saw heavier turnover and an advance of 5 to $1.45.

Both Nickel and Noranda were slightly higher in light trade and the Lindsleys moved up in fair demand, Sherritt Gordon gaining 8 to 83 and Falconbridge 5 to $1.40. Waite-Ackerman gained 5 to $2.05 and Amulet a point to 30.

Higher priced oils were the leaders in the group, B. A. Oil and Imperial both showing fractional gains. Acme Gas was slightly easier but Ajax Oil reecovered to sell 3 higher at $1.56.

BANK CLEARINGS ON SOUND BASIS

Figures For This City During the Past Year Are $42,795,606.

HIGHER FOR DECEMBER.

Peterborough bank clearings remained on a sound basis despite the industrial and commercial depression felt all over the world during the past year. Last week the clearings amounted to $802,641, while those of the month totalled $4,318,228. Figures for the year, $42,795,606, indicate that December's clearings were a little above the monthly average.

If the comparatively good fortune of this city can be gauged by its bank clearings, then Peterborough is certainly less troubled with the financial crisis now evident in Canada.

WALL STREET BECOMES FIRMER WITH ADVENT OF THE NEW YEAR

Stock Advance Virtually Embraces All Sections of the List.

TRADING DULL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (C.P.)—Wall Street turned its back on 1930 to-day with huge relief.

The security markets lifted quietly, as though ridded of a mighty burden. In view of the enormous deflation accomplished, Wall Street feels that its hopes rest on a firmer basis than those of a year ago, when it was still deluded with "new era" theories of economics.

The completion of tax selling, the prospect of a fair re-investment demand from the $1,000,000,000 in Jan. 1st interest and dividends, together with somewhat more favorable than expected mid-week business statistics, helped the advance in share prices, which embraced virtually all sections of the list.

Share advancing 2 to 4 points included U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Air Reduction, Eastman, American Power and Light, American Telephone, Stone and Webster, Borden, American Smelting, Union Pacific, New York Central, Chicago and Northwestern, and Lackawanna. Auburn surged up more than 8.

Trading turned dull after the first hour.

The advance in the rail shares which greeted the announcement of the four-party eastern unification plan appeared to have been largely due to hasty short covering, but Wall Street continued to regard the development as one of the most constructive of 1930, and carrier issues were firm again to-day. Steel issues were helped by expectations of a seasonal pickup in ingot production in January, possibly carrying operations up to 50 per cent. of capacity. Even the oils were firm, although the week's petroleum statistics showed another large gain in gasoline in storage.

The utility shares were one of the firmer groups.

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent., then dropped to 3, indicating that the year end firmness was relaxing somewhat sooner than usual.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—(CP)—Prime mercantile paper 2¾-3 per cent.

Foreign exchange steady, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents) Great Britain 4.85¾; France 3.92 11-16; Italy 5.23¾; Germany 23.81; Canadian dollar 11-64 of one per cent discount.

Bennett Claims When Hudson Bay Road is Fashioned Crow's Nest Rates Be Used.

BIG SAVING.

REGINA, Dec. 31.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett last night promised farmers of the Prairies what organized agarians of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have sought since construction started on the Hudson Bay route, grain freight rates to Churchill, based on Crow's Nest Pass rates.

"Millions of dollars would be saved for Western farmers if Crow's Nest Pass rates are granted, officials of the United Farmers of Manitoba have declared.

Construction of the Hudson Bay Railway is proceeding with all possible speed, Mr. Bennett said in his address last night. "When placed in operation," he added, "the grain rates will be fixed on the basis of the so-called Crow's Nest Pass rates.

NEW CONCEPTION OF EMPIRE SEEN AS OUTCOME OF OTTAWA PARLEY

Economic Experts Continue Work on Schemes for Improving Trade.

RESULTS MEAN WORK

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 31.—(CP).—Canada starts the New Year with confidence. Before it ends there will possibly have been written on the tablets of history the beginning of a new conception of Empire, in which the greatest British Dominion will figure as the moving spirit.

For the first time in history the statesmen of the Empire will assemble in Ottawa next summer. On the spot where Sir Wilfrid Laurier conceived the Imperial preference idea and first put it into effect, these statesmen will ponder how to further develop trade between the nations of the Empire.

Foundations Laid.

The foundations for this great gathering were laid at the recent Imperial Conference in London. Canada will become for a time the capital of Empire. And if all goes well, from Ottawa to the furthest parts of the Commonwealth will go a message of new Empire unity.

So far as Canada is concerned there are two centres of activity in this great conception. One is London and the other Ottawa. The recent appointment of Hon. George Howard Ferguson as High Commissioner in London is evidence of the great importance the Government attaches to the problems which are to be dealt with. Mr. Ferguson goes to London after seven years in the premiership of Ontario. That he is fully in sympathy with the policies of the Bennett administration and is amply qualified to prosecute on the other side of the Atlantic, the Government's hopes for increased trade has been abundantly proven.

Economic experts, in England and the overseas Empire, are now working on several schemes for improving Empire trade. At the Imperial Conference none were found to be immediately workable. The outstanding proposal—Premier Bennett's offer of reciprocal tariff preferences—was rejected by the British Government, but supported by the other Dominions.

Quota Practical.

It was found, however, that a quota on British wheat purchases, offering to the Dominions a certain percentage of the British wheat market, was practicable. Schemes for a quota on dairy products, canned fish, etc., are, like the wheat quota, still under consideration.

It is the earnest hope not only of Canada but of all the other parts of the Empire, that when the deliberations at Ottawa have been concluded and the Empire statesmen return to their countries that steps will have been taken for a concrete enlargement of trade between the nations of the Empire—for the forging of powerful new links in the chains that bind the Dominions and the Mother Country.

SEVERAL PLANS ARE SUGGESTED TO DISPOSE OF SURPLUS WHEAT

Runs Gamut From $1,000,000 Purchasing Scheme to Admission to Hockey Match.

AS LIVESTOCK FEEDER

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 31.—(CP).—Oddities of the grain situation in the Prairie Provinces are numerous and the many suggestions for the disposal of the surplus crops run the gamut from a $1,000,000 purchasing plan—as the contribution of a large commercial firm — to a bushel of wheat for admission to hockey matches of a rural league in Alberta.

With the price of wheat slumping from $1.40 a bushel value of a year ago to the 50-cent level of to-day, agriculturists in many areas have found substitutes for its use, promising greater monetary reward than ordinary marketing.

The greatest use, and the only one likely to bring the most valued monetary returns is the finishing of livestock for market. When high values prevailed, agrarians were content to sell "feeder" cattle which were finished by the buyer. To-day they are feeding oats and barley and shipping their cattle and hogs ready for the scales of the stockyards. Thousands and thousands of bushels have been disposed of in this way.

Some prairie districts have abundance of grain, but lack fuel and the money to buy it with. They have found substitute for the coal of Alberta and the products of the forest areas of Manitoba by burning barley —now at the lowest level in history —in the famed Quebec heaters. A bushel a day is the consumption of the heater, and "it makes some fire," is the comment of one user.

Association Established.

The latest suggestion comes from Calgary where a "grain products relief Association" has been established. Contributions of grain will be sought in rural areas, and with the co-operation of millers, it will be ground for the use of the needy of Calgary and district. Already several thousand bushels of wheat and oats have been donated.

Ye olde miller has come back to Manitoba communities. Farmers in the prosperous years purchased their flour from the town grocer; now they are having their own grain milled, and the little community mill —closed for a decade or more—is in business again.

Another suggestion was the "contribute a bushel of wheat to the starving Chinese," but lacking organized effort, it remains "just a suggestion," like so many other plans to relieve the burden of the tiller of the soil.

MONTREAL CITY BUDGET PASSED BY 26 TO 5 VOTE

Decision on Houde Administration Summary Comes After All Night Session.

AMENDMENT DOWNED.

Alderman Charges City Drifting to Financial Ruin and Possible Tutelage.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 31. — The budget of the city of Montreal was passed at five o'clock this morning after a wearly all night session which began yesterday afternoon. The vote in favor of the budget, submitted by the Houde administration, was 26 votes to 5, an amendment by the opposition being defeated by the same figures reversed.

The all night session was precipitated by the opposition amendment, sponsored by Alderman Leon Trapanier, former leader of the City Council, and Alderman Cabias. Approval of the amendment would have meant a virtual vote of non-confidence in the city executive committee.

Sees Financial Ruin

The city was drifting towards financial ruin and possible tutelage after eight months of the Houde regime, Alderman Trepanier charged. The administration, he said, had delivered the civic government over "to the politics, houses of prostitution and gambling dens opened wide under a protection toll-gate, nepotism, espionage and terrorism."

Mayor Camillien Houde defended the administration with equal vigor to its attacker. He reminded Alderman Trepanier that the latter was a member of the old Des Roches City Government which had been forced to bear "the odium of the Laurier Palace disaster." The Mayor said that while Alderman Trepanier was willing to make "general charges" he could not be persuaded to be specific with names and dates.

ROWLAND TIVEY

He established his home at 137, Stanley avenue, East City where he was living up to the time of his death. His wife predeceased him nine years ago, and for the past seven years the late Mr. Tivey had not enjoyed very good health, although he retained a keen eye and a vivid memory.

First President of S.O.E.

The late Mr. Tivey took a keen interest in the affairs of the Sons of England of which he was first president, and also had the distinction of being the oldest member. Up to the time of his illness, he marshalled every parade of the S. O. E. from the time he first became associated with the order in Peterborough. He was a sturdy, virile type of man and his great stature, made him peculiarly adapted for the honored role of marshall.

Outside of his profession, his home had his fondest affections, while he was also keenly interested in hunting and in the great outdoors. He was essentially a clean living man, and his loss to the city is one that is hard to replace.

For a number of years he was president of the Eagle Hunt Club, where he won fame as a crackshot with a rifle. Among his numerous reminiscences he was fond of recalling the fact that he once outclassed, one Mr. Bourgadais, at that time champion rifle shot. It was on an occasion when the late Mr. Tivey was in Toronto with a number of his professional colleagues. The champion was giving an exhibition of shooting, and the late Mr. Tivey's friends induced him to pit his skill against, Bourgadais—he did so, and won out.

His rifle rack, and numerous trophies of the chase which adorn the walls of his residence bear testimony to his love of hunting, and fishing.

He was also exceedingly proficient with the brush and pallette, and was a skillful draughtsman. In his home is a plan, prepared by him at the age of fifteen years, that likewise pays homage to his skill and proficiency in his chosen profession.

Although during late years he was more or less confined to his home by sickness, he delighted to go for an automobile drive into the country, and it is stated, he was wonderfully observant and could remember all the haunts of the furred and feathered denizens of the woods.

He was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church, where he was a regular worshipper up to the time of his sickness.

Left to mourn his loss are four daughters, Mrs. J. J. Howden of this city, Mrs. Eva Story of Hamilton, formerly Mrs. E. D. Story of Ottawa, Mrs. T. H. Adams of Stanley avenue and Mrs. G. C. Leach of Hamilton, also two sons, Albert Tivey of Sherbrooke street and Sidney Tivey of Chicago. Another son, Rowland Tivey, predeceased his father some years ago.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, Stanley avenue, on Friday at 2 o'clock p.m. The cortege will proceed to St. Luke's church, where a service will be conducted by the Rev. G. J. Bousfield. Interment at Little Lake cemetery. The Sons of England Order will take a prominent part in the funeral ceremony, and will provide two of the bearers. The remainder of the bearers will be: Frank Adams, J. J. Turner, H. Roberts, D. Drummond.

E. G. PATTERSON

the corporate employees for no doubt the last time.

"Dear friends and fellow employees," he said, "if I could only tell you what is in my heart I would try to do so, but I cannot. I am so overwhelmed by your kindness. I appreciate this gift and your address more than I can possibly say. But, I would like to remind you of this, you are working for the best company in the world. The company has seen fit to give me and some others a pension. There is a pension in the office for everyone, but to provide for them the company must make its goods as cheaply as its competitors. That means to each and every employee that he should give serious concern to his job. Do the best you can to increase production and lower the cost of it. That is the little advice I would like to leave with you. By lowering the costs the company will be able to sell its goods and to pay pensions when the people of the plant grow old.

"Just one more word. I sincerely hope that you will give to Mr. Salmonsen the same strength and support which you gave me since I came here thirty-eight years ago, after working four years with the company in Toronto. For yourselves and your families I hope that this company year of 1931 will be one of the best and happiest you have ever had. Thank you, again, and God bless you all."

The last detail of this informal program was the parting honor of three cheers which were given to Mr. Patterson. Noticed among the crowd were some of the retired employees who came down to the works for this concluding incident in Mr. Patterson's long career in this city where the C.G.E. factory has grown steadily to be one of the outstanding industrial plants in the country. To these men and to other veterans like Mr. Patterson, Mr. Dobie, "Jack" Wilson, R. E. Layfield and others, the brief ceremony must have brought a deep realization of the inexorable flight of time, the slow onward movement in the midst of accustomed surroundings that seem almost static in their personal elements. The contribution which Mr. Patterson made to this great industry is best known to his company, but its material evidences have always been apparent to the people of Peterborough who have watched the expansion of the C.G.E. plant with gratification that was more than civic pride and community interest. It was almost a personal feeling that has extended over at least two generations since the C.G.E. Company first came to Peterborough.

EXAMINER RELIEF FUND.

The Examiner wishes to acknowledge gratefully a donation of $3, "In Memory of A. J. C.", also a bag of cabbages and other vegetables from O. Stewart of R. R. No. 11, Otonabee, clothing from the Florence Exclusive Shoppe, and fruit cake from Mason's Store.

In making acknowledgment of the many donations received at this office for the Christmas Cheer Fund, The Examiner wishes to make special mention of the kindness of the Jewish citizens. Amost without exception, every Jewish merchant has contributed to this Gentile Fund, for a Christmas that signalizes for them nothing in particular. Although many Christians confine their giving exclusively to those of their own especial houseof faith, the Jew, evidently, regards the need first, rather than the color of the soul of the one in want.

STRONG REPORT BY ROYAL BANK

$6,572,627 PROFITS

The Royal Bank of Canada is forwarding to its shareholders a characteristically strong statement for the fiscal year to November 29, 1930. The past year has been a very difficult one in all parts of the world and various banking systems have been confronted with many and rapid changes. It is particularly on this account that the statements of the larger Canadian banks have been awaited with more than usual interest. Their ability to meet the conditions that have arisen and at the same time report a liquid position of marked strength testifies to the adaptability of the Canadian banking system. This is of paramount importance to the general trade of the country and in addition will result in outside banking centres of the world having increased confidence in the underlying strength of Canada's position.

Much Satisfaction.

Shareholders of the Royal Bank will find much reason for satisfaction in this year's statement. In a year which saw such general depression it was to be expected that total assets would be lower than in the banner year of 1929. Of greater importance, however, from the standpoint of shareholders, is the fact that the statement shows the bank has been able to take care of the many situations that arose without in anyway impairing the strong liquid position it is customary to report. This is shown by total liquid assets only a little less than 50 p.c. of total liabilities to the public.

Earnings have also been maintained at a satisfactory level and as a result profits for the year not only permitted of payment of the usual dividends and bonus, but, after taking care of appropriations for Officers' Pension Fund, bank premises and taxes, an increase of over half a million dollars to profit and loss account bringing the total up to $4,106,778.

The general statement of assets and liabilities shows that at the end of the fiscal year total assets amounted to $889,917,191, as compared with $1,001,442,741 a year ago. Of this amount liquid assets — represented by government and municipal bonds; stocks, and call loans—stand at $379,120,433. This is equal to 48.87 p.c. of liabilities to the public. Included among liquid assets are cash on hand and in banks of $164,251,285 being equivalent to 21.17% of total public liabilities.

Deposits have been well maintained. Those bearing interest are reported at $543,843,554 against $591-380,470, and free deposits at $151,745,505 compare with $180,707,298 at the end of the previous year.

The shrinkage in deposits is in line not only with the experience of banks in Canada, but in the principal countries abroad.

The lessened business activity throughout the country is reflected in a reduction in commercial loans to $444,815,877, down from $513,814,503 last year. The shrinkage in letters of credit outstanding from $53,641,778 to $38,299,506 is futher evidence of the curtailed activity in international trade, due to world-wide economic conditions.

Good Earnings Reported.

In view of the contraction in volume of business handled, the profit and loss account will doubtless be regared by shareholders as very satisfactory. Total profits for the year amounted to $6,572,627,: after providing for charges of management and making full provision for bad and doubtful debts. This compares with $7,145,137 in the previous year. The profits for the year, added to the amount carried forward from the previous year, made the total available for distribution $0,146,778.

BAPTIE SCHOLARSHIP PRIZES GIVEN TO SUCCESSFUL PUPILS

Murray Belch, Fairview School, and Margaret Lawson Are Winners.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).— The largest attendance probably in the history of Cavan Township nominations featured the annual occasion in the Town Hall on Monday, December 29, seating capacity being fully occupied, and many standing in the hallway and down the stairs, no other space being available.

On motion ex-Warden Jas L. McCamus took the chair; a feature of outstanding interest being the presentation of the Baptie Scholarship prizes to the two winners, Murray Belch, of School Setcion No. 14, having taken highest place in the entrance examination last June, second highest going to Margaret Lawson, of School Section No. 2.

The first named was a pupil of Miss Dorothy Hall, and attended Fairview school, while Margaret's teacher was Miss Margaret McCamus and she attended the Mount Pleasant school. J. N. McGill, township clerk, presented the framed certificates, and the cheques, congratulating the pupils and their teachers, and expressing pleasure that a boy was a winner this year, this having been the case on only one previous occasion since the scholarship had been established through the generosity of the late Margaret Baptie, of Ottawa.

Murray, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Belch, voiced his thanks in well-chosen words, giving due credit to his teacher for the honor, and Margaret, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson, also expressing her gratitude clearly, not alone to the donors of the prize, but to the help received from her teacher as well.

Both Miss Hall and Miss McCamus addressed the audience briefly declaring the scholarship to have set a higher standard for the entrance pupils, and to have proved an incentive to all the pupils in the township writing on this examination, causing more conscientious work, greater effort, and closer co-operation between teachers and scholars.

First Year

G. H. Hootan was the first nominee to address the meeting, referring to the deficit in the township finances this year of nearly $7,000. Over against this there is ten thousand dollars worth of machinery owned by Cavan; the amount paid out because of sheep killed by dogs, however, namely $900, was declared to be too high, reaching practically $1,000 when the valuators 'services were included. Other reasons assigned for the deficit were the demand for roads up to a certain standard; compulsory weed cutting; and the purchase of a new scraper for $256, which the speaker insisted had been such a saving in haulage, with the tractor already possessed, that the 'buy' had been a wise one.

Perhaps the point most eagerly awaited in Mr. Hootan's address had reference to the equalization of assessment scheme which he had sponsored in the Counties' Council, and which he had said had been reputed to have cost between eight and fifteen thousand dollars. Some municipalities were not satisfied, the speaker stated, hence the appeal to the county judge whose decision must be handed in by December 31 of this year. Considering the figures Reeve Hootan noted that the three valuators' services were $1472; the Judge is allowed $10 a day, a like amount for expenses, and his stenographer would probably have $10, $30 a day in all. Taking the number of sittings into account, the whole expense involved would be say $2,000; divided over the twenty-four municipalities in the counties, Cavan's share would be $90, divided again between the tax-payers an individual expense of fifteen cents was deducted.

"If Cavan doesn't benefit more in two years' time than her share of the expenses comes to I will agree to pay this township's share myself" (Applause). The demand for higher rental from the Counties' Council for the space occupied in the county building at Cobourg was also dealt with by Reeve Hootan.

R. J. McKnight withdrew from the contest for the reeveship, deciding to run again for deputy-reeve, and promising support to Reeve G. H. Hootan, if elected for 1931, in his contest for the wardenship of the United Counties. Mr. McKnight, as chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee, read a detailed account of the work done, and the expenditures for 1930, Cavan's share being $10,000.

Too Much Expense

Henry Elson decided to contest the reeveship with G. H. Hootan who defeated him by 160 votes last year, and spoke strongly on the need for retrenchment in expenses during this period of depression, promising, if elected to do all in his power to reduce expenditure and make taxes lighter for the farmers.

J. H. McGill stated his intention, after three years in the council, of standing year for deputy-reeve, and gave an account of expenditures in construction and maintenance of roads in his division for 1930.

John Greer, who was also nominated for deputy-reeve, was not present ,and J. N. McGill, as weed inspector, asked leave to speak for a brief period on this topic, receiving generous support for his suggestion of calling a public meeting, about April 1, 1931, with an official of the department present together with the Agricultural Representative, E. A. Summers, when a round table conference would give opportunity for asking juestions and acquiring necessary knowledge on this important subject.

Robert McCamus, who headed the polls in 1930 for his initial term in the council, stated his intention of running again this year, endorsing the policy of reduction in expenses, and promising a balanced budget for 1931, with the necessary amount of road work done, but no expensive projects undertaken.

J. O. Ball also declared his intention of standing for the council, gave figures for expenditures in his division, and claiming that the purchase of machinery by the township was justified by the saving effected.

William Pudsey declined to stand, but argued that if wandering dogs were shot by the farmers on whose land they were trespassing the amount paid out to owners who had sheep killed would be materially reduced.

Arthur Wood was making his first appeal to the electors, and decided to stand for the council for 1931, pledging himself to do all in his power to curtail expenses wherever possible.

The National Anthem closed the meeting.

Lakefield Residents Observe The Yuletide

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—This year as a pleasing innovation a few of our citizens have had lighted Christmas trees in front of their dwellings which has given a festive touch to the streets and added to the Christmas cheer.

"A Christmas tree in every home" is perhaps an exaggeration but a greater number of Christmas trees were sold in Lakefield this year than ever before.

Christmas mails this year were unusually heavy both going and coming which is a sign and a good sign that times are not very hard yet.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.— Fresh evidence of much enlarged use of corn by industries led to higher prices yesterday for all grains. Speculative purchasing of corn future deliveries broadened out to a notable degree, with additional stimulus coming from the fact that at Chicago and other main centres corn receipts had been suddenly curtailed. A brace for wheat resulted from advices of moisture dearth in domestic wheat territory, both winter and spring.

Corn closed unsettled 1¼ cents to 2 cents a bushel higher than Monday, wheat irregular at a shade decline to ¾ cent advance; oats, ¾ cents to 1 5-8 cents up, and provisions from 35 cents setback to a rise of 17 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 31. — All grains closed sharply higher here yesterday, wheat leading the way with advances of 1¼ to 1¾ cents a bushel. The December future got above the 53-cent mark after its recent record break to an even 50.

After a dull first hour traders were active and an appreciable volume of wheat changed hands, meagre offerings forcing values upward. Local interests were the buyers yesterday, the foreign clients being absent from the market.

A factor in the high price range was the traders' forecast of a bullish speech by Premier R. B. Bennett at Regina last night. Mr. Bennett was expected to announce relief plans for Western agriculturists.

Trading in cash wheat and coarse grains was not very urgent yesterday but values climbed in sympathy with wheat futures.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 31—Carlot prices of fresh eggs were lower, butter was higher and cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Prices of fresh Ontario and British Columbia eggs dropped one to three cents a dozen. Ontario extras were unchanged at 40 cents and firsts lost two cents at 33 cents, while pullets declined three cents at 30 cents and seconds two cents at 27 cents a dozen. British Columbia extras were down one cent at 41 cents to 42 cents and firsts and pullets were off two cents at 34 cents to 35 cents and 30 cents to 32 cents a dozen, respectively. Prices to retailers were unchanged. Quotations to retailers for fresh eggs were 15 cents to 22 cents a dozen cheaper and storage eggs 11 to 15 cents, as compared with the prevailing prices a year ago. Receipts were 2,651 cases.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized butter advanced one-quarter of a cent, being quoted at 30½ cents to 31 cents a pound. To retailers solids were 33 cents and prints 34 cents a pound. Receipts totalled 1,340 boxes.

With the day's receipts being only four boxes, Ontario cheese was quoted unchanged at 11 cents to 11¼ cents a pound.

New Brunswick Green Moutain potatoes, in carlots, were unchanged at 85 cents per 90 pounds, bulk, and to retailers were 95 cents per 80-pound bag.

TORONTO PRODUCE

The gradual strengthening of the local butter market, which was noted Monday was again evident yesterday, and in a larger way. Buyers were in the market for good-sized lots of certain types of butter, such as regarded June make, and ½c better better than previous quotations was possible, of ¾c higher than the former top market.

Butter Prices

Country shippers were quoted 29½c for No. 1, and 28½c to 29c for No. 2, solids, which was ¾c better than price quoted last week, and some of the previous weeks. Brokers were informing their customers that a graual price increase could be expected from now on, and pointed out that such conditions were usual at this season. Last year New Zealand imports played an important part in the trade, but with the barrier in effect and Australian goods not threatening local creameries have a more promising future.

Eggs

The egg market was unchanged from the dullness apparent during the past few days, and dealers found a poor demand even at real low prices. Receipts have increased to an extent that would justify large consumption, but with prices falling, consumers seem to have changed their diet, and a weaker market can be expected.

Egg Prices

Country shippers were quoted 35c for extras, 30c for firsts, 22c for seconds, and 26c for pullet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were offered supplies at 45c for extras, in cartons; 43c for extras, loose; 38c for firsts, loose; 33c for pullet extras, loose, and 26c for seconds, loose. Brokers were quoting fresh supplies, graded, in free cases, at 40c for extras, 33c to 34c for firsts, and 30c for pullet extras.

Cheese

Cheese prices were unchanged at 13c to 13¼c for new, large; 13¼c to 13½c for twins, and 13½c to 13⅝c for triplets.

Nearly 8,000,000 sheep were slaughtered for freezing in New Zealand in 1930.

ELECT JIM ELLIS AS Alderman FOR 1931.

He will bring a life-long business training to assist in the transaction of the City's affairs on a sound, economical basis.

Referring the voters to my talks in Monday and Tuesday's Examiner, I just want to add a few more of my suggested ideas on matters I believe should be dealt with by 1931 Council.

I think our Tourist Camp ground should be an advertisement that will draw tourists to Peterborough. It is already very highly spoken of, and if any improvement can be made, I am in favor of it. The Tourist spends money where he camps.

I believe the city should have a Regatta every year. We have a fine body of water, and Peterborough is the home the splendid boat building concerns with world-wide reputations.

I am at all times a booster for the home city; to me the best city in the world.

I realize the responsibility of being one of its Aldermen, and, if elected, I will give the very best service of which I am capable.

Wishing Happiness and Prosperity to every home during the coming year.

VOL. LXV., No. 153 — THE EXAMINER, PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1930 — PAGES 9 TO 16

Service Is The Motto Of Mayoralty Candidates

Strong Platforms Have Been Planned By Two Candidates

Mayor Denne Promises to Call a Meeting Immediately Whereby Plans Can Be Discussed to Oraganize a Civic Relief Bureau.

BOTH CANDIDATES PROMISE TO GIVE THEIR BEST IF ELECTED AS PETERBOROUGH'S MAYOR FOR 1931

Alderman McIntyre Promises to Put Into Effect All Those Things Which He Has So Conspicuously Fought For in Past Ten Years.

The two mayoralty candidates, Mayor Denne and Alderman McIntyre, were interviewed yesterday by The Examiner to learn their opinion on some of the vital problems expected to arise in Council early in 1931. The candidates were free and to the point in stating these problems of municipal government, and also explained on what basis they are appealing to the electors to-morrow. Both expressed confidence in victory.

Mayor Roland Denne

"Some further method must be devised of giving work to those citizens, who, owing to the depression are out of their regular jobs, and giving them an opportunity to earn their bread" stated Mayor Denne in answer to The Examiner's questions concerning some of the problems he saw facing the 1931 City Council. "This work has been progressing splendidly and will continue to do so under the present scheme until the end of January. Some 400 men who needed work badly have been employed laying drains which will make the city almost flood proof. They have accomplished a prodigious amount of work and proved beyond question that these men want to earn their way, rather than be forced to take charity.

"Certainly the Council should continue the method of cleaning the roadways of snow that was introduced two winters ago. This not only gives work to the many who need it, but increases the winter use of automobiles which directly benefits business in the city" continued the mayor.

"In this regard, I am most heartily in favor of calling a public meeting to which the heads of all city relief organizations, churches and fraternal organizations will be invited. This meeting would be for the purpose of going throroughly into the relief problems and be aimed at making a sincere effort of consolidating relief work. I had already fixed last Friday as the day for such a meeting until one of the aldermanic candidates insinuated that I was going to use it as a means of forwarding my candidature. If elected I will certainly have such a meeting held within a week.

Every Faith in City

"I have every faith in Peterborough and I know positively that this city has fared much better than any other city in Ontario during the present economic situation. Local merchants report splendid Christmas business. We must keep our heads up and every man put his shoulder to the wheel and soon we will win our way up to that condition where work is available to everyone.

"Despite what some knockers say, the city's finances are in splendid shape. Our debenture debt is moderate considering the many utilities owned by the city, which are all self-supporting and reduce the cost of power, gas and water to the consuming public. The new school also makes up a large share of this debt. City of Peterborough bonds secure the most favorable rate from financial houses of any city you can name in the province. I see nothing aprpoaching that should increase the issuing of debentures very much and within the next two years many will be written off.

"I can assure the citizens that if returned to the chair I will give them the same service as in the past. I feel that I am most favorably situated to be of service to the city. I am close to the City Hall and therefore am always on hand when anything requiring immediate action arises. I can easily take time out from my own business to give time and effort to securing new industries. Also it has been my habit to spend one or two hours in the city offices each morning, keeping in close touch with the city's business.

"I am not seeking re-election for any glory that may be attached to the office. I tell you one gets little time for that in the job. But I am out because I believe at this time my experience and time can be of real service to the city. Peterborough is the city my grandfather settled in, the city I was born in, and the city in which I have my stake. I want to see it prosper and if there is anything I can do to help it I will."

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre

Outlining the policy on which he is basing his appeal to the electors, for the mayoralty, Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, in an interview with The Examiner, tendered evidence of mature and careful thought to the problems which are facing the city, and a sincere concern for its continued welfare and prosperity.

While he did not at any period of the interview, entertain any doubts, but that the returns on polling day will show a majority in his favor, neither did he underrate the worth of his opponent Mayor Roland Denne, and he expressed the opinion that it would be a close fight.

Economy, is the keynote of his policy, while he also places a par value upon the necessity, especially during this period of industrial inertion, which is world-wide, of the city employing local labor on all municipal undertakings.

City Paving

"Another of the main things I stand for", he stated, "is that we undertake to do all paving with our own equipment, and by day labor. We already have the machinery, with the exception of one or two minor items, and we have the materials".

He is also in favour of buying locally made sewer pipes, and criticised the Board of Works Committee, for having purchased out of town last summer, when lower tenders for sewer pipes were submitted by a local firm.

"If elected I shall put into practice all the things for which I have so strenuously fought during my ten years as Alderman, mainly the saving of money. I have sometimes been successful, and at other times have been outvoted on such issues. Always have I opposed the issuing of debentures for amounts under $10,000, for bridges and machinery, and I still maintain the same attitude, in this respect. The construction of bridges and machinery and anything not included under local improvements, which are not in excess of the above amount should be included in the current year's estimates. To do otherwise, he contends, is merely establishing an underestimated tax rate.

Likewise, Alderman McIntyre, is not in favour of the issuing of debentures in any one year, of greater amount than the debentures that are maturing in that year. Such a precaution, he suggests would tend to reduce the tax rate, as the increase in assessment due to new buildings being erected would go towards making this reduction possible.

Alderman McIntyre has the conviction that several manufacturers will be seeking sites in Canada, in the forthcoming year, and points out that as chairman of the Manufacturer's Committee for two years he is in close touch with several likely prospects, and in the event of being elected to the mayoralty would exert every effort to secure these and others to favour the City of Peterborough. He also intends to bring his influence to bear, upon the Dominion Government for the construction of the proposed new Customs House and Post Office, by day labor.

Sewage Disposal Plant

Regarding the sewage disposal plant, he is not in sympathy with the adoption of any other method that that now in use, until the Provincial Board of Health can give conclusive proof that the volume of water and the current is not sufficient to take care of all that is allowed to enter the river. "We have sent delegations to Toronto", he exclaimed, "but we have not yet been shown any plant, which the Department will guarantee if used under the conditions, which we have here." In his opinion the volume of water and the current, of the Otonabee River is such that it is now taking care of the sewage, without any undue pollution.

Nicholl's Hospital

"If any action is taken concerning additions to Nicholl's Hospital", said Alderman McIntyre, "I would first require that the proposition should be submitted to the County Council, who should be asked to bear some share of the cost, in view of the fact that County patients are taken care of in that institution.

Unemployment Question

In answer to the question as to what he proposed to do concerning the relief of distress, if elected to the office of Chief Magistrate, he stated, "I will always promote and encourage any practicable schemes which will provide employment for local people. He considered he had answered the question very fully, in the preceding part of the interview, but wished to make it quite clear, that he has the interests of the unemployed at heart. Work will be provided in keeping the streets clear of snow, while he will also see to it that the approaches to all churches and other public buildings in the city, shall likewise be kept free from snow. Should the need arise, he promised, I should request a further grant from the Federal Government for local improvements, on which local men would be entirely employed. "I do not favour the wholesale distribution of relief or 'dole', and feel sure that this is not what the workers desire anyway!"

Subject to the results which the election returns shall prove on New Year's Day, Alderman McIntyre, will hold the chairman of each committee, entirely responsible for that committee. All matters of importance will be discussed by the respective committees, and anything that is passed in Council, he declared, shall be carried out to the letter. Such was not always the case, during the past year, he stated, mentioning as an instance that the re-numbering of Benson ave., which had been decided upon by the Whole Council, had not yet been carried into effect. It is causing great inconvenience to tradesmen, and others whose duty takes them along the avenue.

Criticising certain correspondence which has appeared in the local press, Alderman McIntyre, said, "although we have increased the number of factories, we have not experienced the increase in the number of houses, that we expected."

"I also would like to have credit go, where it is due", he continued, quoting from a letter dated, Waukegan, Illinois, March 2, 1928 and signed by the treasurer of the Johnson Motor Company. Addressed to S R. Armstrong, City Clerk, it read in part as follows: "but after giving due consideration to all of the elements that have to do with our business, we will in all probability establish our operations in Toronto. At least for the first year, we feel that Toronto is a more satisfactory location. We certainly appreciate the interest you have taken in connection with this matter and should we at a later date, become interested in a different location, we certainly are going to get in touch with you."

"Some short time after the receipt of that letter," said Alderman McIntyre, "the officials of the company came up to Toronto with the idea of securing the location there. Mr. Armstrong on hearing of the fact, communicated with me, and asked my advice. I told him to be ready to leave with me for Toronto ,and asked Mayor Denne to accompany us. He did so willingly, and lent us valuable assistance in securing the factory for this city. Mr. Armstrong had been in negotiation with the Johnson Motor Company, since the year 1926, during the term of Mayor Holloway."

Ring In 1931 — May She Be Prosperous

ACTION BY GOV'T TO AVOID STRIKE ONLY HOPE LEFT

Agreement Under Which Welsh Miners Been Working Expires To-day.

MINERS WILL NOT BUDGE.

Who Will Bear Cost of Reduction in Hours, is Chief Disagreement.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 31. (AP)—Government intervention was seen to-day as the last hope of averting a stoppage of work in the great South Wales coal fields which would entail idleness of more than 150,000 miners there.

An agreement under which the miners have been working expires to-day without their representatives and the mine operators having reached a further accord which would permit even temporary continuation in the shafts.

A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, said last night that the situation could not be worse and that the only hope lay in an appeal to the Government, which he was asking to bring pressure to bear.

Cook talked during the night with the Minister of Mines, who has been in Scotland, the Minister afterward commenting that he was "optimistic".

Miners Adamant

The South Wales miners are stated to be determined not to budge from their position. In its essence the disagreement between them and the mine owners simmers around the question of who is going to bear the costs of reducing the miners' working hours from eight to seven and one-half hours daily.

The owners say that they can not bear the entire cost of reducing the number of hours of employment and the miners say they can not substitute on the reduced wages which the owners declare must accompany shortened work hours.

The owners to-day posted notices in all the collieries stating the terms under which they were prepared to keep the pits open, the chief feature being that the underground workers will have to work seven and one-half hours daily every day of the week at fifteen-sixteenths of their present pay.

All the collieries were working to-day, but in some districts there were preparations for a walkout tomorrow. At all points, however, the "safety crews" decided to remain on the job no matter what happened.

In Labor quarters it was not expected that the Union would issue an official strike order. The prospect seemed to be that unless there should be a last-minute settlement the men would automatically refuse to work under the owners' terms after expiration of the temporary agreement and would consider themselves locked out.

Executives of the union were to meet in Cardiff this afternoon to consider any new offers by the owners, but there was no arrangement for a meeting or both owners and miners. Unless the Government can get both sides together, the union secretary said, there seemed to be no hope of a settlement.

TWO SHOT TO DEATH.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 31 (C.P.)—Mrs. Axel R. Engstrom, wife of a municipal fireman, and a man yet unidentified, were found shot to death in the living-room of her home early this morning. Police believe it was a murder and suicide. Mr. Engstrom had been on duty at the Tatnuck fire station all night.

South Africa has entered into an agreement with diamond producers and the diamond selling syndicate which is expected to help the industry.

MR. AND MRS. J. H. LISLE OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Campbellford Couple Married in 1880 By Rev. John Beattie of Rylstone.

PIONEERS OF DISTRICT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — With many years ahead of them yet on the road of life, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lisle of Campbellford yesterday celebrated their golden wedding surrounded by their family and many friends. Pioneers of the district despite the fifty years of married life left behind, they entertained in the afternoon and evening, receiving many congratulations and good wishes for their future.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisle were married on December 29, 1880, by the Rev. John Beattie of Rylstone, then Presbyterian minister of the district. Mrs. Lisle, who is now 70 years of age, was before her marriage, Miss Mary Rutherford, being born on September 14, in Rawdon township.

John Henry Lisle, now 74 years old, was born in 1856 near Stirling, later moving with his family to Allan's Mills, where his father was the miller for some years.

Here he first settled with his bride afterward taking up farming at Stanwood, where the family remained for thirty six years. They moved into Campbellford about fourteen years ago, where Mr. Lisle started gardening, which occupation he is engaged in at the present time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lisle are of Scottish descent, active and well and retain the full use of their faculties.

There are six children of the union, two sons, Robert and Charles of Stanwood; and four daughters, Mrs. E. Innes of Arcadia Valley, Alberta; Mrs. Idela Clark of Edmonton, Alberta; Mrs. Russell Stephens of the English Line, Campbellford and Miss Jessie, at home.

Many presents were received by the happy couple in recognition of their anniversary, including a gift from Arcadia Valley, Alberta, and a parcel from Scotland, which contained sprigs of white heather for luck.

An artificial fog, due to clouds of chemical vapor, was spread over an area of two miles square in one hour during a recent test in France

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Most mothers are relieved of the task of teaching their little girls how to sew, as in almost every school there are lessons in sewing taught during some of the years the little folks are in attendance.

• • • • • • •

But in olden days plain sewing was not so taught. Each girl was expected to know the rudiments, how to hold the needle, how to take the principal stitches, such as running, backstitching, overcasting, etc., even up to buttonhole stitchery.

• • • • • • •

Then schools took up the fine art of embroidery and great pride was taken in the samples of stitches put in decorative array and simple patterns on canvas.

• • • • • • •

The canvas with the neat array of stiches was termed a sampler. These 'samplers' are prized today as if they were needlework pictures. Often they are in the original mahogany frames!

• • • • • • •

It seems a pity that the practical type of sewing has entirely superceded this sampler variety. It would be such a pleasure for a child to have the fancy work of samplers in some form revived, with the beautiful colored yarns used to make the birds in trees, quaint houses, flowers all a-bloom, etc.

• • • • • • •

While it is not one of the actual necessities of sewing, it could remain one of the enjoyable features to be cultivated in the little girls by the mothers.

• • • • • • •

There are many times when time actually hangs heavy on the hands of little folk. In later years most of us look back in the rush of activities with a wistful longing to these very times when every moment was not over-crowded.

• • • • • • •

But while these moments exist, mothers can help while away the tedious moments by having an assortment of beautiful worsteds ready with canvas and cross stitch patterns printed in colors, whose very decorativeness will make the little fingers itch to set to work to transform the canvas and colored yarns into gay pictures.

• • • • • • •

The picture when worked may be made into a little tray to stand on the child's or mother's bureau; the glass will protect the stitching and the child will feel well-pleased with her youthful achievement.

• • • • • • •

At another time, the larger design may be finished into a tray for the dining room or the afternoon tea table.

• • • • • • •

The fascinating Mother Goose design "The Dish Ran Away With the Spoon," will appeal to the little folk and can be embroidered on material for kitchen curtains. In doing this she will begin to take interest in making the home attractive which is the root of home decoration.

FAITHFUL OPPOSE CHURCH RAZING

Soviet Cavalry Called as Believers Rush Bonfire of Holy Pictures.

RUMANIANS PROTEST.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, December 31 (C.P.). — Soviet soldiers began wrecking the Tiraspol Cathedral on the Russian bank of the Dneister River to-day, disregarding groups of the faithful who knelt in the snow chanting prayers, until the believers rushed a bonfire where sacraments and holy pictures were being burned.

Then the cavalry, held in reserve for such an outburst, galloped into the crowd, laying about with the flat side of their sabres. The objectors were dispersed.

Rumanians watched from the other side of the river, raising a great cry as the soldiers laid the sacred articles on the fire and almost breaking into a panic themselves as the fighting between cavalry and the bystanders reached its height.

The Soviet Government intends to erect Government buildings on the ruins of the old cathedral.

W. J. Boorman Falls And Cuts Eye Badly

J. W. Boorman of the Peterborough Bottling Works, sustained painful injuries last night, when he fell on the stairs of the Orange Hall on the corner of George and Brock streets. The fall resulted in a deep gash immediately over the left eye. E. F. Reid rushed the unfortunate man to the Clinic, where Dr. J. M. McCulloch found it necessary to close the incision with three stitches. Mr. Boorman's condition is considered satisfactory and it is expected that he will commence work again in a day or two.

"I am going if I drop dead," said sixty-three-year-old Edwin Cutsworth of Hull, England, as he started for his daughter's grave which he had visited every day since her death, but he fell lifeless within sight of the house.

JOFFRE SINKING END IS NEAR

Physicians Amazed at Rally Which Has Staved Off Death So Far.

HEART WAVERING.

PARIS, Dec. 31 (A.P.)—Marshal Joffre lay at Death's door to-day. Opening of the portal, it appeared, could not be delayed much longer, hardly more than a few hours.

His physicians, amazed at a rally which the 78-year-old soldier staged yesterday evening, remained at his bedside most of the night. Members of his staff stayed at the hospital, St. Jean de Dieu, also in expectation of the impending crisis which, it was not felt the Marshal could survive.

Dressing the wound caused by amputation of his left leg at mid-thigh, the physicians yesterday were amazed to find that it had begun to heal, an extraordinary development under the circumstances. This, and a perceptible improvement in respiration and general condition, led some observers even to feel that the Marshal might recover.

The effects of the wonderful rally began to wear off toward midnight, however. At times the Marshal seemed better and at times he seemed worse, but all of the time he grew steadily weaker and late in the night his heart, which has withstood staunchily the terrific burden his last illness has imposed upon it, began to waver.

In the view of the surgeons and physicians the rally is almost unprecedented in medical science and they are unwilling to commit themselves as to how long it will stave off the end, but they do not see how the patient can last much longer and another rally now seems impossible. Nevertheless they continue to employ all resources of medical science to maintain life with practically no hope that they will be of avail.

1930 CANADA FACES HER TRIALS WITH COURAGE 1930

Canadian Politics

Politically the year 1930 has been for Canada, one of three general elections and one major change.

The three general elections have been held in March, July and in the Federal election and the major change is the overthrow of the King administration as a result of the last named election.

Rt. Hon. Mr. King failed to realize the good augury which the success of Premier Brownlee and Bracken seemed to hold for Progressives appealing to Canadian electorates and went down to defeat after a term of more than nine years in office.

When the year opened the Federal situation dominated political interest. Technically the King Government could have continued in power for another year before having to renew its lease of power at the hands of the people. Industrial conditions were not good in the country nor was the farming community prosperous. Conditions generally were not such as to augur well for any government appealing to the country's electorate and speculation was rife as to whether or not the King Government would take the plunge. As opposed to the unfavorable conditions for an appeal, there was the superstition concerning the fate of any government which held on to office until the last moment of its mandate from the people.

In the midst of this uncertainty Parliament assembled at Ottawa on February 20th. Immediately the opposition parties took the offensive and commenced a steady campaign to force the Government to go to the people. So successfully did the Conservative Party, in particular, organize its clamor, not only in the House of Commons but in the country as well, that the Government was soon manoeuvred into the position of confronting an election challenge which it could only refuse as the cost of seeming to fear it.

WANT ELECTION

While this demand from the Conservatives for an election was being stirred up through the length and breadth of the country, the opposition parties in the House of Commons were placing the Government inexorably on record on various issues which could not but be embarrassing for it in the event of an election. Propositions were put forward to have it extend aid to unemployment, to the construction of a national highway and to technical education. To all of them the Government turned a deaf ear. Upon unemployment it took the stand there was no national emergency, while in the matter of highways and technical education it contended that the issues belonged exclusively to the realm of provincial jurisdiction.

It was during the proposal for Federal aid for unemployment that Premier King dropped a remark which, along with Hon. James Murdock's celebrated ultimatum that certain striking postal workers might stay out

Howard Ferguson who succeeds the late Hon. P. C. Larkin as High Commissioner for Canada in London.

"until Hell freezes over," will probably live as one of the political bon mots of the decade. Rt. Hon. Mr. King's utterance was to the effect that he would not give "one five cent piece" to any Tory provincial government for the relief of unemployment.

The remark was an unfortunate one, as subsequent events proved, although taken in its context it was no more than the logical sequel of Mr. King's contention that the agitation for Federal aid was wholly political, to relieve Conservative provincial governments from the necessity of caring for a problem which was essentially theirs in order to enable them to make a good financial showing by virtue of the fact that the Federal Liberal Government was bearing their proper burdens.

New Zealand Butter

Still another issue throughout this period was rising to confront the harassed ministry. It has been said that the Bennett Government had into power on New Zealand butter. However this may be, there can be no question that the Australian treaty and the New Zealand order-in-council were capitalized with utmost effect by the Conservatives as explanations of the drastic slump suffered by dairy prices. It was in vain that Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, quoted in the House figures that under the Australian treaty Canada's imports were only $3,519,703, while its exports were $19,135,217, and that under the New Zealand order-in-council its imports were only $14,987,302 and its exports $20,424,710. The people of Canada had derived an impression which nothing could shake that the country's great dairying industry had been sacrificed by the failure of the Government to provide protection for the home producer.

With his ministry constantly under attack Premier King refrained week after week from showing his hand. He carried on in the House with a safe majority a legislative program which was of purely routine character with one exception, the liquor export bill. This measure, which prohibited the export of liquor to the United States at the request of that country for Canada's co-operation in enforcing its liquor laws, was designed to gain strength for the Government with the prohibitionists in the country and to assure to the Government the support of three important prohibitionist newspapers, the Toronto Globe, the Toronto Star and the Manitoba Free Press. It is questionable if the measure was a factor in consolidating any support behind the Government. It passed with the approval of the opposition parties as much as with the benediction of the ministry, and its only real result, politically, was to reveal Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue as a dissentient from it but as yet unwilling to resign his Cabinet post. The spectacle of a minister clinging to office despite the fact that legislation with which he was not in agreement was imposed upon his department did not add to the dignity of the Government which the Government was making.

DUNNING BUDGET.

The final chapter in the chain of events leading to the election was the Dunning budget introduced on April 30th. It was designed as the instrument which was to unite Eastern, Western and Central Canada in support of the King Ministry. It proposed to re-establish the steel industry of the Maritimes and to implement the final recommendation of the Duncan Commission by granting a subsidy of 50 cents for every ton of Nova Scotian coal used in the production of steel in Canada. It revised upwards the entire complicated steel and iron schedule of duties, it removed the grievance of the dairymen on account of New Zealand butter by proposing to abrogate the New Zealand order-in-council, and it greatly extended the British preference, making thereby a play to Western Canada, which was told that Britain, in return for the tariff concessions given her, would surely accord preference to Canadian grain in purchasing her requirements. An appeal to business was made by reducing the sales tax to one per cent and by minor adjustments to the income tax. The tax on tea was removed, and retaliatory sentiment which had grown up against the United States was met by a number of countervailing duties, which made Canada's tariff on several items automatically the tariff which other countries might raise against her.

Ingenious to a degree and in reality a protectionist budget with the British preference extended to satisfy the West, the Dunning budget represented the King Government's strategy in response to Conservative clamor for a general election. If the opposition wanted an election with the budget as an issue, Premier King was willing to grant one. Yet when the announcement of the election finally came in the Commons on May 6, the issue upon which Rt. Hon. Mr. King declared himself prepared to appeal to the people was not the budget specifically but the one as to who should represent the Canadian people at the Imperial Conference which was scheduled for the autumn.

ELECTION RESULT.

The Canadian people settled that and other questions in a most emphatic way when the day of voting, July 28th, finally arrived. Throughout the campaign Premier King was dogged by his "five cent speech" and his refusal to recognize the unemployment crisis. In vain he tried to repair this error by an eleventh hour offer to share dollar for dollar with the provinces and the municipalities in unemployment relief expenditures. Conservative Leader Bennett raised the cry of promised energetic action in the industrial crisis, and enjoyed a triumphal tour from coast to coast. When the votes were counted it was found that the Conservatives had 136 seats, whereas only 123 were needed for a clear majority over all. The end marked not only the end of the solid Liberal bloc in Quebec, which returned 24 Conservative members, but also the end of third party domination in the Commons. The United Farmers, Progressives, Liberal-Progressives, Laborites and Independents combined only mustered a combined strength in the new house of 20.

Conservative Leader Bennett lost no time in implementing his promise of action to end the country's unemployment problem. He formed his Cabinet and took office in record time, and on September 8th he assembled a special session of Parliament to deal with unemployment. Three measures were submitted by the new Government and approved. One voted $20,000,000 to be expended on a dollar for dollar basis with the provinces and municipalities for public works and direct relief. Another was an act amending the Excise Act so that dumping of goods in Canada by foreign manufacturers would no longer be possible. The third was a general increase in the tariff schedules of the country designed to preserve the home market for Canadian producers.

LITTLE OPPOSITION.

The program was passed with relatively little opposition. The Liberals frankly recognized the mandate which the Bennett Administration held from the people, and did little more than go on record as disbelieving the ability of the proposed tariff changes to achieve any beneficial results for the country's industry.

The special session of Parliament ended, Premier Bennett went to the Imperial Conference. He accompanied Premier Ferguson of Ontario, who was not a member of the Canadian delegation, but who, before the Canadian Prime Minister returned to the country again, became known as Canada's next High Commissioner in London, the post having been rendered vacant by the resignation of Hon. Vincent Massey, who had been appointed by the King Government, but who had never served.

While Premier Bennett was in the Old Country he had an able deputy in the person of Sir George Perley, who handled the grain crisis which arose when the price of Canadian grain slumped below 60 cents per bushel and the prairie wheat pools seemed on the verge of disaster. Sir George refused the request of the three Prairie premiers for a fixed minimum price for Canadian wheat. The situation was subsequently relieved before Premier Bennett's return by the recovery of the grain market.

In the provincial field during the year the events of importance were the sustaining of the New Brunswick and Alberta Government in their appeals to the people, and the succession of Hon. George S. Henry to the post of Prime Minister of Ontario, left vacant by Premier Ferguson's acceptance of the High Commissionership. The New Brunswick election was fought on the liquor issue and on the Government's proposal to spend $10,000,000 upon the hard surfacing of roads in the province. Upon both points Premier Baxter was upheld, his government control policy being vindicated and his proposed highway expenditures approved. He captured 21 out of 38 seats in the Legislature, a loss of six seats as compared with his previous following. Premier Brownlee in Alberta appealed strictly on his administrative record, with the result that, whereas at the dissolution of the Legislature he had controlled 43 seats out of 60, after the election he controlled 40 seats out of 63.

Aeronautics

The year 1930 has been a memorable one in the development of the science of flying, and although it has been marked by several tragic disasters on the whole it has been one of great advancement especially for the British. On May 22 the Graf Zeppelin made a successful flight from Spain to Brazil and then proceeded to New York returning home to Germany which was reached on June 6. Commander Byrd later made Rear Admiral was warmly welcomed after one year and a half in the Antartic on June 20. Kingsford-Smith, the noted Australian flyer lands in Newfoundland from Ireland on June 25 and thence proceeded by way of New York to Oakland, California thereby completing a complete round the world trip on July 8. He later proceeded to fly to Australia and was married amid scenes of popular congratulations early in December. Viscount Ednam Mrs. Loeffler, Sir Edward Ward and the Marquis of Dufferin lost their lives when their plane crashed on July 21. The R-100 landed successfully at St. Hubert Montreal on August 1 and after spending some days here to the satisfaction of the thousands who went to visit the great dirigible made a short trip through eastern Canada and returned to England on August 16. The bodies of Andree and his companions lost in their effort to reach the North Pole in a balloon were found after thirty-three years. Coste and Bellonte flew from France to New York on September 2 and thence proceeded to fly across the country on September 5. The R-101 on its way to India and the largest dirigible in the world was destroyed near Beauvais in France with the loss of 46 crew and passengers including Lord Thomson, Major Scott and other distinguished British air experts on October 4. Captain Boyd and Lieut. Connor the Canadian airmen successfully flew from Newfoundland to Tresco Island off Britain on October 10. The science of flying in addition to the men lost while in the air suffered through the death of Glenn Curtis, a pioneer in aeronautic on July 23

Greece

The success of Greece at the Hague by means of which the Greek budget will on balance benefit from Reparations by a sum totalling $85,000,000 over and above payments for Greek indebtedness, was a welcome act of justice.

The most important political event in the year which paved the way to the historical meeting at Angcra was the signature, on June 10th, of the Greco-Turkish Agreement.

This historic Treaty brought a century-old strife to an end.

The State Budgets have been leaving real surpluses for the last three consecutive years and the stability of the exchanges has been maintained throughout.

Brigandage has been completely wiped out.

The end of this year will synchronise with the dissolution of the Refugee Settlement Commission, which has done so much in the way of improving methods of cultivation in Greece.

The British Empire

GREAT BRITAIN.

With increasing unemployment and a slowing up of industry so that the number of men on the dole reached a record figure, the year opened inauspiciously for Great Britain, which felt the world depression more quickly than the Western world. Chancellor Snowden won the thanks and the congratulations of his countrymen for his determined stand at The Hague, in which he obtained some revision of the Young plan by which Britain received a larger share of German reparations. The Naval Conference in anticipation of which Premier MacDonald had paid a personal visit to President Hoover in the fall of 1929, opened with ceremony formality on Jan. 21, King George himself presiding. His speech was broadcast throughout the world. It was hoped to secure an agreement between Italy, France and the United States, Japan and Great Britain, but it was early evident that no accord would be reached between the first two Powers. After twelve weeks of negotiation the conference announced an agreement between Britain and Japan and the United States, these three Powers agreeing to a six-year limitation of auxiliary warships. They also agreed to a holiday in battleships and aircraft carriers. All five Powers agreed on the method of listing naval strength, the humanization of submarine warfare and the probable limitation of submarine specifications. Special British security guarantees to France were not included in the agreement. A noted American expert dissatisfied with the results obtained, described the conference as "a holiday for hulks and a carnival for cruisers." Meanwhile the revised Young plan was agreed to at The Hague on January 20. The Budget brought down by Chancellor Snowden on April 14 provided great increases in taxation, but on December 9 it was announced that the estimated revenues were far below the actual receipts, and that there would have to be further taxation next year.

The tragic death of Sir Henry Segrave, when his speed motor boat broke up when going faster on Lake Windermere than any vessel had ever travelled in water, shocked Britain on June 13. On July 9 the Tories by a clever ruse nearly defeated the Labor Government, which managed to remain in office with a margin of three votes. Many rumors during the year of an approaching rapprochement between Lloyd George and MacDonald remained rumors, with nothing definite emerging, although the Liberals by their consistent support kept Labor in office. The Imperial Conference in November is dealt with elsewhere. The number of the unemployed grew consistently, reaching a record figure for the week ending December 12. The importance of the tariff issue and the part it will play in the next general election was universally conceded. Lord Beaverbrook, who gained ground tremendously until September, when it was thought his influence would oust Baldwin from the leadership of the Conservative party, lost prestige when no political party officials supported him. It is generally thought that a general election will be held in the late spring.

THE IRISH FREE STATE

The Irish Free State was generally prosperous in spite of world depression with few important political or social changes. Early in March the Cosgrave Cabinet was defeated on the old age pension issue and forced to resign The Republican Fianna Fail party named Eamonn de Valera president but after a week in office he gave way to Cosgrave once more.

SOUTH AFRICA

General Jan Christian Smuts paid a visit to Canada arriving in the Dominion or New Year's Day. Early in the new year the Prince of Wales continued the African tour which had been interrupted when he had been called home to the bedside of his father King George. He made a brief stay in Cape Colony and then proceeded to Uganda and Tanganika on a big game expedition in which he met with great success. After visiting Kenya he returned home by way of the Nile and Egypt arriving in England late in April.

The Earl of Clarendon who at one time served as Under Secretary of State for the Dominions was appointed Governor General of South Africa to succeed the Earl of Athlone in February. A general measure of women suffrage was adopted by the South African Assembly in May.

NEW ZEALAND

Sir Joseph Ward resigned as Prime Minister on May 15 and succumbed to the illnes that had forced his retirement a few weeks later. He was succeeded by G. W. Forbes who represented New Zealand at the Imperial Conference.

AUSTRALIA

Australia which had been overspending her income for several years faced a crisis in her financial situation during the year. A sudden and disastrous fall in the price of wool accentuated conditions and the budget showed a deficit of more than $60,000,000. The Labor Government proposed a prohibitive tariff and threatened the exclusion of many articles hitherto imported. In August Sir Otto Niemeyer representing the Bank of England went to Australia to place the finances on a sounder footing and he proposed a drastic cut in expenditures but in October in the absence of the Prime Minister in England, the Labor Government forced through a resolution disapproving the tariff policy of Sir Otto Niemeyer and refusing to carry out the proposed policy of retrenchment.

Early in December Sir Isaac Isaacs was named Governor General of Australia being the first Australian ever nominated by the King to represent him in the Commonwealth and creating a precedent for that office.

INDIA

The year 1930 was an eventful year for India. In the opening weeks of the year there was serious unrest and Gandhi was in open conflict with the authorities. On March 12 he began his civil disobedience march and while he openly exhorted his followers to be pacific and not to use violence there was serious rioting in several parts, notably in Peshawar and Calcutta. After long defiance of the authorities Gandhi was arrested in May and over 500 of his followers were taken into custody. In June the first volume of the long awaited Simon Commission report was issued and at the end of the same month the findings and recommendations of that famous commission were given to the world. Unrest continued and the Afridis, a warlike hill tribe took advantage of the disturbed conditions to raid the northwest frontier and threaten Peshawar. The rising, however, was quickly quelled, although civil disobedience and revolt was still rampant. It died down, however, in the fall. On November 12 the King presided at the first session of an All India Round Table conference and largely through the tact of Premier MacDonald real progress towards settlement seemed to be made during the first four weeks of the sitting.

EGYPT

Egypt began the New Year with Adly Pasha being succeeded by Nahas Pasha and the coming into power again of the Wafd or Nationalist party which had won an overwhelming victory at the polls. Nahas Pasha headed a deputation which came to England to negotiate a new treaty and after six weeks the conference broke down when Mr. Henderson the British Foreign Minister refused to listen to a demand of the Wafdists that they have control of the Sudan. Nahas Pasha resigned early in June when he quarrelled with King Fuad over their respective powers and the King named Ismail Sidky Pasha as the new premier. Things got worse and there was rioting in Alexandria on July 15. The King dissolved parliament and Britain sent two men-of-war to watch developments at Alexandria. Rioting was renewed late in July and subsequently the Wafd party adopted a policy of non-co-operation and a boycott of British goods. A new electoral law was drafted and elections were scheduled for the end of the year.

PALESTINE

On the fourth day of the New Year the Commission of Enquiry appointed by the British Government to enquire into the causes of the Wailing Wall riots in the previous August returned to England. The report was not favorably received by the Jewish people who took their case to the League of Nations who thereupon ordered a separate enquiry. The Commission recommended that there should be no repetition of the excessive Zionist immigration of 1925-1926 and that the rights of non-Jewish peoples should be respected. In May an Arab delegation visited England this only served to add fuel to the flames. Matters reached a head in November when the Zionists charged the British Government with not implementing the Balfour promise made during the war and there was much dissatisfaction expressed by Jews in the United States and some in Canada against the attitude of the British Government.

Other Countries

THE UNITED STATES.

Never in the history of the United States has there been such severe depression in industry and such suffering and destitution as there is in the large cities of the United States at the close of this year. Millions are being subscribed week by week for the relief of distress, but even then thousands of men and women are homeless and without food. The rich men of the United States have shown their usual generosity and enormous sums are spent on relief, but there is more suffering in New York, Chicago and the other large cities than anywhere else in the world outside of China and the famine areas of India. January 16 was celebrated in various ways as the tenth anniversary of Prohibition, but the feeling that some measure of modification must come soon is gaining strength. On February 3 Chief Justice Taft resigned. He was succeeded by Charles E. Hughes. A few weeks later Mr. Taft died. On February 15 the United States, which had sent a commission to Haiti, named Eugene Roy, a banker, as president of the island. On April 4, after ten years of conflict, the famous Muscle Shoals power development was placed under [illegible] March 15 the [illegible] On June 9 there was another serious slump in the stock market which brought a slowing up of industry in its train. President Hoover was rebuffed by Congress when he sought to name J. Parker to the Supreme Court, the first time the Senate veto had been exercised for 36 years, and again over the passage of the Veterans' Bill, increasing the pensions and allowances to soldiers who served in war, but in the latter case a compromise was effected. It was not until July 3, after one of the most controversial sittings of Congress in its history, that the Hawley Smoot tariff bill was finally passed. It was met with threats of reprisals by several countries and no doubt influenced Premier Bennett in framing Canada's tariff revision measure less than two months later. On July 31 it was announced that the American population numbered 122,728,873. On July 21 the Senate ratified the Naval treaty, Britain following suit in the Commons three days later and in the Lords on the following day. On August 1, in the presence of King George the agreement was finally approved by the Powers. Sir Isaac Isaacs

Australian judge who is the first to be named to represent the King as Governor-General of an overseas Dominion

United States protested twice against Russian methods, once in September for selling ten million dollars' worth of wheat short on the Chicago market and again for dumping convict made pulp for paper on the overstocked American market. The embargo against the latter commodity was later removed. Canada imported increasing amounts of Russian coal until the Government early in November prohibited any further shipments. The trial of eight engineers and scientists for alleged complicity in a plot to overthrow the Soviet Government in which statesmen of prominence in Europe were said to be implicated came to an end after a melodramatic trial, more like a Hollywood moving picture scenario than the grinding of the wheels of justice. The accused were sentenced to death, but the sentences were quickly changed to sentences of imprisonment on December 8.

SPAIN

The old kingdom of Spain which enjoyed comparative freedom from the internal dissension which once disturbed the country since Primo de Rivera assumed power in 1923 had a year of almost continuing revolt following the resignation and the death of the Spanish dictator. At the close of the year while the most serious revolt has been checked the Republicans have gained strength, and the position of the king and the continuance of the monarchy are being questioned A state of war was proclaimed throughout Spain at the close of the year and the revolutionaries made no concealment of their aim to set up a republic. The army, however, remained loyal and the Monarchists and General Berenguer seemed to have obtained the upper hand on Dec. 15.

AUSTRIA

The year 1930 was one of great importance for the economic development of the Republic of Austria. The Hague Conference brought to the Republic the final settlement of the reparation questions.

The Chancellor paid a visit to the King of Italy and to Signor Mussolini to express the gratitude of his country. During this meeting both Prime Ministers signed a convention of friendship, agreement and arbitration.

This meeting was followed by a visit to Berlin bringing to final conclusion a new Commercial Treaty with Germany.

Austria was able to float in summer the Development—Loan in spite of the depression over the world, which was in the U. S. A. as well as in Europe readily accepted.

On November 9th general elections were be held with the result of 93 seats for the Burgeois parties and 72 for the Socialists; the Communistic Party came away as in the former instance empty-handed.

ROUMANIA

The events in Roumania during the year 1930 have been overshadowed by the return of Prince Carol on June 6th and his proclamation as King Carol II. two days later, following the resignation of the Council of Regency. The change in rulers had a far-reaching influence upon the internal affairs of the country.

The political stabilization of the country had beneficial effects upon its economic conditions and its prospects for a speedy reconstruction with the help of foreign capital have been considerably brightened.

Anti-semitic disturbances, caused principally by economic unrest and which in the first part of the year began to assume alarming proportions, were speedily suppressed.

The year has witnessed the signing of commercial treaties with France England, Italy, Czechoslovakia Greece, and a provisional agreement with United States.

Parliament passed arly in the year the Administrative Reform Act, which will decentralize to a great extent the administration of the country.

POLAND

The past year has marked a new step in consolidating the strength of Poland in recovery after the Great War and in achievement of further progress.

The good relations of Poland with the Baltic States have been expressed by the exchange of visits of the respective Presidents of two Republics—Poland and Esthonia. The first visit was paid by the Esthonian President Strandman to Warsaw and was followed by the visit of the Polish President Moscicki.

Two Polish legations abroad have been raised to the rank of embassies: the legation in Washington and that in Angora (Turkey).

The parliamentary elections, gave Marshal Pilsudski and his adherents an enormous majority, so that for the next five years a stable government backed by a strong majority seems assured.

The population of the so-called "Corridor" claimed by Germans has given its answers to the German claims in the recent communal and municipal elections. 387 Poles and 31 Germans were elected to the communal and municipal councils.

In economics the most important step for Poland was the establishing of a new "Polish-Transatlantic" steamship line for direct sailing from the new Polish seaport of Gdynia to New York, with a call at Halifax.

Certain small Polish foreign debts, have been consolidated this year by special treaties signed at "The Hague" with three governments — Britain, France and Italy.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

President Masaryk's 80th birthday was one of the outstanding events of the year. It gave in March an opportunity to the whole nation to express its admiration and gratitude to its greatest leader.

During the summer months July and August there were organized in Prague and then in the famous watering place of Karlovy Vary Karlsbad, so called "Summer Schools" for English speaking visitors under the distinguished patronage of M. Ivan Derer, Minister of Education, and Dr. Eduard Benes, Minister of Foreign Affairs. The courses were given under the auspices of the British Society of Czechoslovakia and the American Educational Committee.

The conference of the Little Entente which includes Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Roumania, was held in the Strbske Pleso in the Carpathian Mountains, and dealt with various political and economic problems of Central Europe The representatives of the three States stressed among other things the necessity of maintenance of lasting peace and of International friendly relations.

GERMANY

The year 1930 began with negotiations of vital importance to Germany at The Hague, regarding the approval of the Young Plan, drafted in 1929, and later modified, and also concerning the evacuation of the Rhineland. On March 12th the laws giving effect to the Young Plan were approved by the Reichstag. On March 7th the President of the Reichsbank, Dr. Schacht, unable to assume responsibility for the modified Young Plan, resigned. He was succeeded by former Chancellor Luther.

On March 27th the cabinet headed by Chancellor Mueller, a Socialist, resigned in consequence of the disagreement between Socialists and the middle parties over unemployment legislation. On March 30th the new cabinet, under Chancellor Bruening (Centrist), assumed office.

On June 30th the evacuation of the Rhineland was completed.

Opposition to the financial and economic program of the Bruening cabinet led to the dissolution of the Reichstag on July 15th. The date set for the new election was September 14th. In the meantime the Bruening cabinet put through its financial program under the special powers provided for the constitution.

The elections brought great changes in the composition of the Reichstag. The middle parties lost ground, while the extreme right and left made great gains. The National Socialists (Fascists or Hitlerites) gained 95, the Communists 22, totalling 107 and 176 seats, resp. The Socialists remained the strongest party, with 143 seats, the Centrists being reduced by 7 to 61 seats.

In spite of the outcome of the elections, Chancellor Bruening remained at the helm and faced the Reichstag on October 13th. He was successful in obtaining parliamentary approval for the financial reforms introduced in the summer.

ITALY.

Mussolini and the Fascists seem to have strengthened their position during the year and although there was from time to time a warlike spirit evinced there was no serious clash with other nations during the year. On January 8 the Crown Prince Humboldt married Princess Marie Jose of Belgium amid scenes of great splendor and 6,000 criminals were released to celebrate the event. On May 24 Mussolini, addressing 125,000 of his followers, made a strong anti-French speech which caused a flutter in the chancelleries of Europe. On September 25 it was announced that France and Italy were reaching an agreement on Limitation of naval armament, and late in November Italy assumed a more pacificatory attitude towards her neighbors, especially Jugo Slavia.

RUSSIA.

It is still difficult to obtain authentic information about Russia since those in control only give out such information as they think will enhance their prestige in the world. The celebrated five-year plan for the industrialization of the entire country along Communistic lines begun in 1928 is reported to have made as much progress as its creators expected. The relief, including the control by the Government of a large portion of the wheat crop, were undertaken. Randolph Hearst was expelled from France for his anti-French sentiments, but the incident did not become an international issue. The Vanderbilt yacht Enterprise defeated Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock IV. in four straight races September 12-18.

FRANCE

The two outstanding events in France during the year now closing where the withdrawal of the last soldier from the Rhineland and also from the Saar Basin area and the promulgation by M. Aristide Briand of his famous plan for a United States of Europe. This with the participation of France in the Naval treaty and the discussions with Italy and the storms which centered about Andre Tardieu and finally forced his dismissal make the year a memorable one, usually important one for France. Andre Tardieu resigned office on Feb. 17 and M. Chautemps was chosen to form a ministry. The Government however, was never regarded seriously by the people and after five days it was overthrown. Eight days later on March 5, Tardieu returned to the premiership. His position was never stable and secure and he closed a stormy session on July 11 to reconvene in November amid signs of an impending storm. When Parliament reassembled the resignation of two ministers over the Oustric Bank scandals had weakened Tardieu's position and on a vote of no confidence he was defeated early in December. The accumulation of gold in France and the United States formed the subject of many conferences among bankers of the world, and a plan was put forward for the easing of the situation by France advancing large credits.

Two Intra-City Battles End in Draw Decisions

MORENZ TIES SCORE 1-ALL IN 3RD PERIOD FOR CANUCKS RANGERS DRAW WITH AMERKS

Canadiens Hold One Game Lead Over Maroons For Kennedy Cup.

SENATORS LOSE OUT 7-3.

Penalties Play Big Part in Ottawa's Overwhelming Defeat at Boston.

TORONTO, Ont., December 31 (C.P.). — Two tie games and the eighth straight defeat of the Ottawa Senators was the net result of the efforts of six teams engaged in three National Hockey League games last night, the slipping Senators absorbing a 7 to 3 drubbing from the Bruins of Boston.

Montreal Maroons and Canadiens split the points in their second meeting of the season through the uncanny ability of Howie Morenz to score in the pinches, the star centre getting the tying goal two minutes from the end of the regular playing time. The overtime failed to produce a score. Canadiens thus held their one-game lead on the Kennedy Cup, intra-city trophy, by virtue of their 7 to 1 victory in their first game with Maroons. Last night's game ended with a one-all score.

Before the wildly partisan fans in Madison Square Garden, the New York Rangers and New York Americans played their second tie game of the season 70 minutes of dazzling hockey ending in a deadlock at two each. This makes the sixth tie game for the Americans who are far ahead of any club in either section of the League in this respect.

The game at Boston was much closer than the score would indicate, penalties having a great deal to do with the top heavy score. Boston scored six goals in five minutes, three of them while the Senators were short two men. Mart Barry and Harry Oliver each scored twice for the Bruins, George Owen, Cooney Weiland, and Eddie Shore accounting for the other tallies.

Joe Lamb stood out for Ottawa in a robust display of aggressiveness that netted two goals and ten minutes in the cooler during the last two periods for the dark-haired centre from down east. Bill Touhey took Grosenor's pass for the other Ottawa tally near the end of the game.

At Montreal, Hooley Smith's counter on a pass from Dave Trottier, in the first period, loomed larger and larger as the game progressed through the second period and into the last which had almost gone when Morenz, completely outwitting Kerr in the Maroon nets, slipped the puck gently past him instead of rifling in his shot as is his usual custom.

The tie enabled the Maroons to keep pace with the Americans in the league standing and draw a point away from the Toronto Maple Leafs, who were idle. The usual heavy checking which features the encounters of the two Montreal teams was in evidence last night, but the game was kept well in hand by the referees.

New York Rangers and Americans battled before a capacity crowd for two periods without a score. Butch Keeling was the star of the game with an assist and a goal to his credit. Second string forwards for once overshadowed the famous Cook brothers and Boucher trio.

ROWLAND BUYS READING CLUB

Former American League Umpire to Operate Franchise in International League.

CLOSE DEAL TO-DAY

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (C.P.)—Clarence H. Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox and later an American League umpire, concluded the deal for the purchase of the Reading, Pa., club of the International League yesterday.

LARRY GAINS READY FOR ALL COMERS

Larry Gains, Canadian heavyweight champion, who has been in Europe for nearly a year, is going to leave England, where he is located, for home shortly. Gains says: "I have to come home, for I canont get anyone else to fight me in Europe.- And that goes for both Schmeling, the world's champion, and Carnera, the Italian giant. I have had thirteen fights over here without a loss. Eight I won by knockouts, four on decisions, and I took the other on a foul." The photograph above shows from left to right: Reggie Meen, the English heavyweight, who was recently knocked out by the Italian Carnera; Mrs. Gains, who was a German girl whom Larry married on his last trip over; the two Gains children, and Larry himself.

NEW YORK COMMISSION ISSUES ULTIMATUM TO JOE JACOBS

German Heavyweight's Manager Must Give Definite Answer Regarding June Bout.

FORESTALL STRIBLING "GO"

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (C.P.)—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday gave Joe Jacobs, new manager of Max Schemling, one week to answer yes or no to the commission's ultimatum that Schemling defend his heavyweight boxing title against Jack Sharkey here in June.

The commission's edict forestalled any hopes of Young Stribling to meet Sharkey, probably in Miami this winter, and then fit in the championship picture with the German heavyweight next year, if he won.

Jacobs was accepted as spokesman for Schemling after he showed a five-year managerial contract with the German, who won the heavyweight title on a foul last summer. Jacobs told the commission he would get in touch with Schemling by trans-Atlantic telephone and give his answer next Tuesday.

INDIANS ENTERTAIN BULLDOGS TO-NIGHT

Second Place Standing is at Stake in International League Game.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 31.—(CP)—Second place in the league standing is at stake in one of the two International Hockey League games to be played tonight when the Cleveland Indians entertain the Windsor Bulldogs. In the other game the Syracuse Stars, fresh from their surprising victory over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons last Sunday will invade Detroit in an effort to improve their position for their stern chase of the leaders from the cellar position.

Windsor can consolidate the second place position they now hold by a one point margin by a victory tonight. Cleveland has to produce a victory to improve as they have played one more game than the Bulldogs who can still retain their advantage if a tie game should result.

The Syracuse Stars showed unexpected strength in their last game with the Bisons and have been steadily improving as the season advanced and may provide the Olympics with a surprise in the way of scoring punch in what is expected to be a hard fought contest.

The race in the International league is wide open yet with every club still in the running for the honors. Those teams which started off badly are rapidly rounding into shape and all seven clubs are remarkably evenly matched according to the scores of the games played in recent weeks.

VETERAN TENNIS STAR SIGNS M.G.M. CONTRACT

Tilden Signs Contract to Appear in a Number of Short Films on Tennis Subjects, Which Automatically Disqualifies Him From Competing Under Rules Governing Amateurs.

AIDED UNITED STATES TO HOLD DAVIS CUP FROM FRENCH INVADERS FOR SEVEN YEARS

NEW YORK, December 31 (C.P.).—"Big Bill" Tilden finally has come to the end of the trail of amateur tennis—the movies have called, and "Big Bill" has answered.

A dominant figure in world tennis for more than a decade, Tilden informed the United States Lawn Tennis Association yesterday that he was retiring from amateur competition to accept a contract with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation. The contract calls for a series of short films on tennis subjects with the Philadelphia veteran in the leading role. Since the films are to be devoted to tennis, "Big Bill" automatically is disqualified from competing under the rules governing amateurs.

WM. T. TILDEN II

Tilden's decision closely parallels a similar one reached recently by Bobby Jones, emperor of golf. Jones also decided to give up amateur competition to make golfing films. There was one big difference—Jones retired while he still was monarch of all he surveyed. Tilden has passed the peak and has been forced to stand by in recent years and watch some of tennis' greatest prizes fall into the hands of younger players, notably the famous French triumvirate of Henri Cochet, Rene Lacoste, and Jean Borotra. Chiefly through "Big Bill's" efforts, America held the Davis Cup for seven years between 1920 and 1926, but the French broke through in 1927 and have withstood all challenges since.

LOCAL CURLING SEASON OPENS ON NEW YEAR'S

Play For Year Will Open With President and Vice-President Bonspiel.

THIRTY-FOUR RINKS.

First Time in Three Years Weather Has Favored Roarin' Game Fraternity.

For the first time in a period of three years, the curling fraternity of this city will participate in the time-honored game on New Year's Day.

Curling in rinks which do not possess the advantage of an artificial ice plant, is essentially dependant upon favourable weather conditions. Such conditions obtain at this time, and apart from the fact that this is one of the rare occasions on which curlers have been fortunate enough to spend the opening hours of a New Year on the ice, it also signalizes the opening of the curling season, so far as Peterborough is concerned. May to-morrow's bonspiel between the President and Vice-president, be of such a successful nature as to auger well for the future of the present season.

Last year it will be recalled, the "roarin' game" got away to a start before the Christmas holiday, but was brought to an abrupt halt, by soft ice, caused by a spell of mild weather.

This season of course, the weather has been of such an unusually mild nature, that ice-making has been out of the question. A good foundation of ice was laid on the rink, during the temporary period of zero weather which was experienced some week or so ago, and with a return of such weather conditions, Angus McIntosh and Herb. Martin, were industriously engaged this morning in laying out the rink in preparation for to-morrow's play. An innovation which will doubtless meet with the approval of all players, is being tried out this season and consists of a wide strip of white paper which is laid under the ice, in order that the rings at each end of the rink will show up to better advantage. The idea was borrowed from some of the Toronto rinks, where it has been in operation with good results to the players.

Thirty-four Rinks

Thirty-four rinks in all, will occupy the ice, which was this morning declared by Mr. Martin to be in splendid condition. The draw resulted as follows:

Dartmouth Student Captures Ski Race

LAKE PLACID, Club, N.Y., Dec. 31 (C.P.)—Thomas Mann, representing Dartmouth college, won the cross county ski race here yesterday, the first event of the annual men's week of winter sports, in which forty-six men from 13 institutions will participate.

Mann covered the 19.833 kilometers, of which some uphill stretches are nearly a mile long, in one hour, 31 minutes and 54 seconds.

LEFTY GROVE STAR PLAYER OF ALL-STARS

Baseball Writers' Association of American Picks Mythical Club From League Teams.

COCHRANE SECOND.

All-Star Squad Includes Six Players From American and Four From National Loops.

ST. LOUIS, December 31 (C.P.).—Lefty Grove, pitching ace of Connie Mack's Athletics, is the star of the 1930 all-stars.

Such is the verdict of 226 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, 218 of whom named the southpaw twirler in ballots returned to the Sporting News of St. Louis in the selection of its mythical club.

The all-star squad includes six players from the American League and four from the National, as follows:

Cochrane, Grove's battery mate, now named as the Sporting News' all-star catcher for the third successive year, ran a close second in popularity with the experts, polling 212 votes. Hack Wilson, Chicago's home run king, was next with 200.

For the first time since the selections were inaugurated six years ago Rogers Hornsby failed to place. Another feature of the vote was the strong competition against Ruth in right field. Once the almost unanimous choice for this position, the Babe received only 80 votes this year, compared with 63 for Hazen Cuyler of the Cubs and 56 for Church Klein of the Phillies.

At first base Terry was far ahead of his rivals with 196 votes to 24 for Lou Gehrig, next in line. There were in fact no close races for infield positions.

Of the 16 candidates mentioned for pitching honors, Ted Lyons of the White Sox was closest to the two victors, with 41 ballots.

Larry Gains Outpoints British Heavyweight

LEICESTER, Eng., Dec. 31. (Canadian Press Cable).—Larry Gains, Toronto negro who holds the Canadian heavyweight boxtitle, outpointed Charlie Smith of Deptford in a 12-round fight here last night.

Gains is one of three Canadian fighters campaigning on this side of the Atlantic this winter with some success. The others are Al Rioux, Montreal heavyweight, and Al Foreman, Montreal lightweight, who holds the English lightweight title and defended it recently.

BRUINS AGAIN HEAD SECTION

Defeat Senators Last Night to Top U.S. Group of National League.

INCREASE AVERAGES.

TORONTO, Ont., December 31 (C.P.). — Swinging into the New Year, Canadiens and Boston are leading their respective sections in the National Hockey League, but at that neither on is beyond the reach of the opposing squadrons, except in the case of one team in each grouping. Canadiens have 21 points. Maroons are one game behind with 19; Americans are just one point behind Maroons, Toronto are in fourth place with 17, and Ottawa is the only squad in the section that seems hopelessly out of the contention. The bytown team has won only foud games and tied one.

In the American loop, Boston are two games ahead of Chicago and Rangers, who are tied for second place with 20 points. Detroit is in fourth position with 17 points, and the staid old city of Philadelphia is occupying the cellar position. The latter team has won one game and tied one during the entire season so far.

Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit, appears to have a stranglehold on the scoring leadership. The Detroit lad has 15 goals and 8 assists, a total of 23 points to his credit. Howie Morenz, Canadiens, leads the Canadian group with 15 goals and 5 assists for 20 points.

In the American division, Boucher of Rangers leads the assisters. He has assisted ten times. The Canadian honors are divided, with Jackson and Primeau, Toronto, and Himes of Americans all tied with 9 points each.

Penalty leadership is also somewhat involved. Joliat and Alex. Smith have each served 47 minutes to head the Canadian list. Shore and Rockburn have been in the cooler 57 minues each in the opposition loop.

Shutout honors are divided, too. Worters, Americans, and Gardiner, Chicago, have each registered five. Toronto Maple Leafs have the same number, but used Chabot and Grant to do it with.

The leaders:—

Springfield Beaten By Philadelphia 2-1

Winning Streak Ends at Thirteen Games—Anderson's Goal Wins.

PHILADELPHIA, December 31.—The Philadelphia Arrows defeated the Springfield Indians, 2 to 1 last night in a Canadian-American League hockey game. It was the first defeat for the Indians after a winning streak of thirteen consecutive games.

Sharp defensive work by both teams prevented scoring in the first period, but the Arrows tallied early in the second when Hudson shot the puck into the net unassisted. Springfield evened the score just before the period ended, when Dillon counted on a pass from Heller.

The Arrows jumped into the lead again soon after the third period opened, Anderson scoring on a solo effort.

"Young" Stribling Has Better Right For Crack At Boxing Title Is Belief of Some Critics

NEW YORK, Dec. 31. (CP) The New York State Athletic Commission seems to have paved the way for the staging of a heavyweight championship fight in Chicago. Whether or not that proves to be the case depends upon Max Schmeling, the titleholder, and his manager, Joe Jacobs.

Taking the bull by the horns, the commission yesterday ordered Schmeling, through Jacobs, to agree, within seven days, to defend his title against Jack Sharkey here in June or else face forfeiture of the championship in this State.

The next move is strictly up to the Teuton slugger and his manager. They may decide to ignore the commission edict and accept, instead, an offer of $500.- for a championship match at Chicago with W. L. (Young) Stribling in the challenging role. More than a few boxing critics believe Stribling has a better right to a crack at the title than Sharkey.

The commission's action, however, was highly consistent if nothing else. The boxing solons have maintained from the start that Schmeling should abide by his promise to meet Sharkey in a return bout for the title. Schmeling's promise was made after he had won heavyweight championship by winning on a foul from Sharkey in a highly unsatisfactory bout here last summer.

Several aspirants for a place on the Junior team being sponsored by the Star Athletic Club and entered in the City Hockey League held a spirited practise at All Saints' rink last night. The youngsters exhibited plenty of teamwork and speed as well as brilliant individual work, and under the competent coaching of Chris Jay this outfit should make a name for itself in local hockey circles this season.

This club is operating from funds secured from social events and intends to hold another dance on Friday, January 9th.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The members of the Wide Awake C.G.I.T. group were entertained at a Christmas party at their leader's home on Saturday December 20, tea being served to over thirty guests at 6.30 p.m. Mrs. (Dr.) E. L. Burnham assisting her daughter in receiving the girls, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones, and other friends.

Christmas bells, tall red candles burning in silver and brass holders, and bright red runners on the long dining-table all helped to foster the happy Christmas spirit which prevailed throughout the gathering.

Following the tea hour when the hostess was assisted by her niece, Miss Jean Burnham, Mrs J. Albert Brown and Mrs. J. McKnight in serving the guests, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Jones addressed the girls, stressing particularly the importance of developing latent powers and seizing opportunity as ambitions were aroused and brought to fruition, especially in the spiritual nature.

A practice of Christmas carols followed, with music and other entertainment, and the thanks of the girls were extended heartily to their hostess before good-nights were spoken and departure was made for the several homes.

On both Monday and Tuesday evenings, preceding Christmas, the girls followed the custom inaugurated last year, of visiting a number of the sick and shut-in folk of the community, and singing for them Christmas carols, the service being gratefully appreciated, and bringing genuine pleasure to the carollers themselves. Lighted candles in many of the windows gave the girls welcome as they arrived, with much happy laughter and talk, for the singing of well-known Christmas hymns and carols, and over and over again the invitation was extended for another visit in the near future, not waiting for any special season like the Yuletide to give excuse for the coming.

On Christmas Day the girls remembered their leader with a gift of handsome book-ends in Crusader design, and several dainty handkerchiefs, the parcel being received from the tree at the family gathering at Mr. G. E. Burnham's on December 25th. The Christian calender makes the leader's gift to each one of her girls each year, helping with the daily keeping of the Morning Watch to which all C.G.I.T. members are pledged.

WOOLER CHURCH S.S.

WOOLER, Dec. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Under the auspices of the United Church Sunday School a two and a half hour program was presented in an excellent manner. The opening chorus by the school was much enjoyed. Many recitations by Kathlen Wessels, Lillian Gillings, Martin Ruttan, and others. The several drills which were most attractively displayed showing the untiring practise.

A vocal duet of a humorous character was given by Mrs. Lloyd Darland and Mrs. Francis Stacey.

An illustrated song, "When Polly Put the Pepper in the Tea", sung by Gwendoline Elford, serving her guests, Grace Mutton, Edith Valentine and Bessie Down.

WHITE SCHOOL

NORHAM, Dec. 31. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual Christmas concert, of the White School was held on Friday, December 19, with Fred Huycke as chairman. The following program was presented:

AT ROSENEATH

ROSENEATH, Dec. 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual Christmas entertainment was held at the north school on Friday evening when the school room was filled to capacity with parents and friends of the section and who were delighted with the concert given by the pupils under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Buck.

The program consisted of songs, recitations, readings and dialogues, also a mock trial was a particular feature and well acted by the senior pupils.

Mr. Richard McCracken made an excellent chairman and just before closing the numbers on the program, Miss Buck was called to the platform and presented with a handsome purse from the scholars. Though taken entirely by surprise she thanked them in a few well chosen words, her appreciation for the lovely gift and also to those who came to enjoy the concert in making it a success.

Santa Claus arrived on the scene, which delighted the kiddies most of all, and with several assistants he soon unloaded the heavily laden and artistically trimmed Christmas tree, each child receiving a gift after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Buck for her work and providing such a pleasant evening. The singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

ZION PUBLIC SCHOOL

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Zion United Church was the scene of a pleasant gathering just prior to the Christmas holidays, when the pupils of the public school presented their annual entertainment, the teacher, Miss Mary Wood, having trained them thoroughly for the occasion.

The entire school section was represented at the concert, a number motoring over from other points also, and hearty welcome was extended by Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., who was chairman for the evening.

Decorations were in gay colors quite in keeping with the Christmas season, the beautifully-trimmed tree being a feature of special interest, particularly to the younger element in the audience. Costumes were very pretty, and rendition of each number on the lengthy program was exceptionally good, warm applause testifying to the pleasure of the listeners. The items were:

Opening chorus, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," by the school; recitation, by Raymond Kennedy; chorus, "Little Star", by the pupils; chairman's address; recitation by Joyce Kennedy; recitation by Earl Hubbeard; dialogue (1st act) "Wanted A Radio"; violin duet, followed by the second act of the dialogue; chorus, "Santa Claus is a Jolly Man", by the pupils; recitation, by Audrey Kennedy; trio by Rev. Mr. W. W Jones and Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell; recitation by Freddie Brown; duet, "Happy Days"; recitation by Muriel Kennedy; chorus, "Who Is Coming Over the Hill", by the school; dialogue, "The Christmas Star"; violin duet, followed by a recitation by Betty Carveth; recitation by Clayton Thexton; chorus, "Away in a Manger," by the school; recitation by Wilmot Widdis; trio, "Three Little Kittens" (in costume); recitation by Douglas Carveth; solo, by Ted Sellence; play, "Dr. Quack"; trio, by Rev. W. W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell.

The arrival of Santa Claus (Harold Hubbeard) was the climax of excitement for the little folk, and the distribution of gifts from the laden tree brought joy to all hearts.

Miss Wood was heartily thanked by the trustees and parents for her excellent work in preparing the children for the entertainment, and a very happy evening was closed with the National Anthem.

BENSFORT

On Friday evening, December 19, a very successful concert was held in the basement of the Bensfort United Church. The Young Men's Class in charge of the program presented their play, "Regular Fix" in a very capable manner. This was their initial appearance but they hope to continue their dramatic efforts. Edmund Dawson acted as competent coach and trainer. Those taking part in the play are to be congratulated on their efficiency.

Under the capable instruction of their teacher, Miss Louise Poole, some pupils from Lake View School added considerably to the program. Sparkplug and his trainer, Barney Google (Jack Moncrief) caused a great deal of merriment. The children also sang several pleasing numbers.

Four children from Miss Stillman's school gave one number which certainly bore credit to their teacher's training.

S.S. No. 4 accompanied by their teacher Miss Muriel Ball sang a Christmas chorus. They also presented amusing dialogue "Getting Rid of an Agent."

Mrs. Howson's infant class was very amusing in a little dialogue, 'Lazy Children,' in which Helen Howson acted as mother.

Other numbers on the lengthy program were provided by the boys of Mr. Wood's class assisted in instrumental numbers by Frank Buckham.

At the close of the program on the failure of Santa Claus to appear Mr. Wilbert Wood assisted by the boys distributed presents from the well-laden tree.

LILY LAKE S.S.

The annual Christmas entertainment at Lily Lake, held jointly this year by the members of the School and the Christian Endeavor Society, was a great success, with a capacity audience attending.

The school was prettily decorated with the season's colors, with a Christmas tree attractively decorated and laden with gifts.

The children acted and sang very well, showing the splendid training they had received from their teacher, Miss Helen A. Stuart. Much credit for the success of the entertainment is also due Miss Evelyn Mason, who was convenor of the Program Committee of the Christian Endeavor Society.

J. A. Middleton, in his usual able manner, acted as chairman for the following program: Chorus, "Merry Christmas Bells," by the school; the chairman's address; recitation, Goldie Tully; recitation, Barbara Ferguson; song, Eric Mason, with encore; recitation, Harold Mason; song, Jean Hancock and Goldie Tully; recitation, Reggie Ferguson; reading, Elwood Nichols; instrument song by four boys; recitation, Enid Hancock; musical chorus, "Oh, Dem Golden Slippers,' by members of Christian Endeavor Society; dialogue, 'Christmas Eve at Spriggins," school children; song, "Lucy Long," boys of the Christian Endeavor Society; recitation, Billy Ackison; song, Enid and Jean Hancock, Helen Rowland, and Clara Saunders; reading, Dorothy Rowland; reading, "Sam's Letter," Roy Hancock; chorus by school, "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly"; reading, and encore Evelyn Mason; dialogue, "One Sweetheart for Two," Katheryn Rowland, Peggy McGowan, and George Middleton, dialogue by members of the school, "Santa Claus' Kids."

During the program, W. R. Potter, organist of Knox Church, and who is teaching the children singing spoke a few words, and also moved a vote of thanks to Miss Stuart to which she gracefully responded Miss Dorothy Rowland acted as accompanist during the evening.

Gifts from the Christmas tree were distributed as well as bags of candy and oranges to the children, by Santa Claus. The singing of the National Anthem brought the entertainment to a close.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, December 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Parish Hall of St. Thomas' Church was gaily decorated with wreaths, cutouts, runners, etc., in keeping with the Christmas season on Tuesday evening, when the Sunday school scholars were entertained at tea, tables being most attractively laid, after which the gifts and awards won during the year, were distributed, teachers and officers being remembered as well as the pupils.

After the service of the substantial meal, the special feature of which was creamed chicken served piping hot, games and music, filled in the time happily until all were ready for the arrival of Santa Claus and the tree was denuded of its load of many-shaped parcels and rolls.

An event of outstanding interest was the presentation of a handsome radio lamp to Rev. P. W. A. Roberts, who has been rector in charge of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan for the past two years, and who leaves next week for his new parish at Colborne. Miss Ella Grandy offered the gift on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' church, as a token of sincere appreciation and esteem, and the recipient made suitable acknowledgment, adding some words of his own personal pleasure in the associations and work of the A.Y.P.A. and giving encouragement for the continuance of the service in the months ahead.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were also remembered, later the same evening, by the parishoners of Trinity church (the Marsh), when at a largely-attended social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wood, the retiring rector was presented with a beautiful electric clock, and Mrs. Roberts was given a pyrex casserole in setting of silver.

Rev. Mr. Roberts preaches his final sermon in the local parish at evensong in Saint Thomas' church on Sunday, December 28. His removal means a loss not alone to the Anglican parish, but to the community as well, and general regret is felt at his going to another sphere of service, though good wishes for the success and health of both Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will follow them to their new charge.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM OF LOVE SOLVED IN NEW MODERN NOVEL

"Burning Beauty" By Temple Bailey to be Examiner's Serial Story.

A DELIGHTFUL YARN.

To be loved by two men, yet be unable to marry either of them, is not by any means a pleasant situation for any girl to be in. But that was the lot of Virginia Oliphant before unexpected developments took place. Virginia, by the way, is the heroine of Temple Bailey's new love story, "Burning Beauty," which will appear Friday in the pages of The Examiner as a serial story.

Miss Bailey, in her long career as a novelist, has written many delightful love stories. It is probable, however, that when her writing days are over, "Burning Beauty" will be chosen as her epic work. It is written in that unique style so characteristic of Miss Bailey; a style acquired only after years of patient effort. She has chosen in this new novel, characters true to this modern world; she has interpreted youth in all its forms; its aspirations and conflicts—its weaknesses and selfishness—its strength and sacrifice. In "Burning Beauty" these characteristics of this age are all effectively brought into play.

Three Men and a Girl

The story of "Burning Beauty" concerns the life of Virginia Oliphant, auburn-haired and beautiful, who spurns the love of two men in order that she may care for her reckless and worthless younger brother.

The two fine men who seek Virginia's hand would present a difficult problem for any girl. First there is Tony—gay, irresistible Tony, with all his millions, whose money tempts the hard working Virginia. And there is Michael—charming, steady Michael, who tempts Virginia with nothing but his undying devotion. But because her brother is weak and needs her strength, and because she believes he has it in him to become a great writer, Virginia is willing to sacrifice her chances for happiness for him.

Suddenly Virginia's whole world comes tumbling about her ears by her brother's crowning disaster with a sophisticated woman of the world. It is at this stage that Virginia shows her real worth. To tell more of the story would spoil it for the reader.

Examiner's New Serial

"Burning Beauty" has been chosen as the next serial story for The Examiner. It will commence Friday, January 2, and readers of The Examiner are warned not to miss the opening instalment. While the story concerns the life of a girl, her thoughts, ambitions and loves, we have no doubt that it will be found as absorbing to the men as we are sure it will to the women.

Fractured Hip Bone Viewing Santa Parade

Santa Claus has come and gone. He left gifts, but to Gordon Simmons, four-year-old son of Edward Simmons, 178 Adeline street, he brought a fractured hip bone. It was during the C.D.S.L. Stores Santa Claus parade more than four weeks ago that Gordon was injured and he still lies in Nicholls Hospital.

How the boy came by the serious injury has remained a mystery. It is in an effort to clear up the mystery that Chief S. Newhall is trying to learn the name of the woman who placed the boy on a hand sleigh at the corner of Reid and Wolfe streets on the morning of Santa's triumphal visit. The chief states that the information she may be able to give is very important.

FAMILY NEEDS IMMEDIATE HELP

Living in a Hovel is to be Found Mother, Father and Two Children.

ONLY ONE OF MANY.

Peterborough has its hovels. You mightn't think so, but they are here, just the same. In one of them, in a back lane, live four people. The man, who, even in times of employment, gets very little as wages, has no work now. There are two children, one four years of age, the other fifteen months. Another will arrive very soon. There is no provision for it. The mother is racked with anxiety when she thinks of leaving the other two little children, even for a short time, when she goes to the hospital. She cannot stay at home. The place is wretched, with only one room and a lean-to. There is a stove and a table, two or three chairs and a little corner cupboard for dishes, with a bed and a shakedown for the children. They will be cold in this wintry weather.

They are only one instance of the need that is rampant in the city in many small homes. The fund for their relief is still open. Any donations are welcome; in cash or fuel, food or clothing. Telephone 1600 and we will call for your gifts.

OLDEST OFFICER LEAVES SERVICE

Constable Dick Daly, Edmonton, Ends Sixty Years of Duty on New Year's Day.

BORN VAUGHN TOWNSHIP.

EDMONTON, Dec. 31 (C.P.). — Canada's oldest policeman, Constable Dick Daly, to-morrow will end sixty years of service in the uniform of the law. The veteran is retiring from Edmonton's city force, taking with him a clean record and a small pension. He was 79 last September.

The veteran policeman was born in the Township of Vaughan, York County, Ontario, on September 29, 1852. He has been a policeman for all but nineteen years of his life, and, despite his long years of service, boasts that he can "lick" any man of half his age.

During his service Constable Daly served as Chief Constable of Owen Sound, from 1885 to 1891, and as Chief Constable at Meaford, from 1891 to 1896, and was Police Magistrate at Shallow Lake, Ont., from that year to 1907.

He served also in other forces in Ontario, and came to Edmonton in 1910.

SUPPORT McINTYRE.

Dear Mr. Editor,—May I use space in your paper in the support of Mr. Malcolm McIntyre, candidate for Mayor for 1931?

I wish to say that Mr. McIntyre deserves this position of responsibility on account of his long council experience, his foresightedness in this time of trial and finally on account of the promise given him last year.

Mr. McIntyre should get more credit for the work done in bringing various industries here, as he has worked long and jointly with Mr. S. R. Armstrong and the Chamber of Commerce. The unethical entrance into this discussion by certain interests should be overlooked by the electors and an open mind maintained.

Any ratepayer, no matter how unimportant he may be in the life of the city, will find in Mr. McIntyre a ready listener to his troubles or complaints, and they will be judged according to their merit, fairly without bias; a distinct change from the present.

Mr. McIntyre will not tolerate extension of non-essential streets and projects, benefitting only individuals at the expense of ratepayers and instead of more needed works.

He has always supported the idea of work done by local labor and local contractors, and consistently opposed the awarding of a contract for $37,000 this year for paving, to outside interests, when a saving of $11,000 could have been made had his and other councillors recommendations not been over-ruled by a certain party.

Electors of Peterborough, think over the Mayoralty situation. Would it not be better to turn the job over to one, who always has the mass of the people and their interests in mind, who has had more council experience than most at present connected with municipal affairs, who is a successful contractor knowing how construction work ought to be done; who is of great business acumen; who is level headed and thorough, economical but not stingy; who is a man of absolutely sterling character —Mr. Malcolm McIntyre.

It is up to you electors to-morrow, to get out and vote for better city government in the future than in the past by elevating Mr. McIntyre to the Mayor's chair for 1931.

Very truly yours,
HOMER BORLAND.

PLYMOUTH CAR CONTEST

A county editor in California won the $1,000 a year for the rest of his life in the recent contest staged by the Plymouth Motor Corporation. Of the 1,011 prizes offered in the contest only one car comes to Canada and that is won by Dr. L. A. Sigurdson of Barrie. No Peterborough residents are amongst the money winners and the nearest to this city is C. E. Souch of Lindsay. Complete results of the contest will appear in Friday's Examiner.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

A. S. Zavits of Peterborough, former vice president of the Ontario Secondary Teachers' Association, was elevated to the presidency at the concluding session of the 11th annual meeting last night in the Royal York Hotel.

SEEING 1930 OUT

There will be many different manners in which the old year will be seen out and the new one ushered in this evening. Many churches of the city are holding the traditional Watchnight Service. Again, the old "wassailing" custom may appeal to the more lay-minded. This will take the form of midnight shows, dances, parties or skating.

Perhaps the healthiest way of spending the evening would be to skate over the dividing line between the years '30 and '31. All Saints' Rink will open to-night at 9.30 for this purpose. If the skaters are few it will close at 11.30, but if there is a good attendance it will last through till 12.30. It is exepcted that a band will be in attendance. Sacred Heart Rink has also special program.

L.O.L. NO. 50 ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1931

Successful Year Reported By All Lodges of the County.

The Duke of Manchester Lodge, L.O.L. No. 50, held an interesting meeting in their hall at the corner of George and Brock streets, at which officers were elected for the year 1931. There was a good attendance both of members and visiting brethren. The regular business was transacted, included a review of the year's work.

Worshipful County Master F. Millard and Deputy County Master F. Sanderson, assisted by Past County Master J. C. Waldie, were in charge of the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Worshipful Master, S. Cummings; Deputy Master, J. R. Childerhouse; Chaplain, J. Murphy; Recording Secretary, W. Sproats; Financial Secretary, F. Millard; Treasurer, A. Armstrong; Marshal, J. Montgomery; Lecturers, C. Johnston and L. Latchford; Committeemen, E. Scott, E. Reid, G. Raines, A. Hope, and W. H. Wilson; Tyler, W. Boorman; Auditors, J. Childerhose and A. Hope. Hall Board, S. Cummings and G. Raines.

Short addresses were delivered by the newly-elected officers. The W.C.M., F. Millard, gave interesting reports on the lodges of the County, all of which recorded a very successful year.

Refreshments were served by the members of L.O.L. No. 80, assisted by Mrs. F. Millard and Mrs. Little. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 33 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

About three o'clock in the morning the Swede brought the boat's nose to the shore and they landed before a clearing, where, in the moonlight, could be seen a cluster of native huts. Helping Jane ashore he led her to the village gate. Evidently they had been expected, for the wife of the chief admitted them, bringing food and a gourd of goat's milk for the baby.

As Jane received the welcome food the Swede spread her blankets on the ground and himself lay down to sleep a little way from her. It was some time before the girl could find a comfortable position on the hard ground but at last she fell asleep from sheer exhaustion. When she awoke it was broad daylight. About her were clustered a score of curious natives.

When she saw they were friendly, her face lightened a moment with one of those almost forgotten smiles of radiance that had helped to make her beauty famous both in America and England. The baby still slept. The natives had withdrawn at the command of their chief who now stood talking with the Swede a little apart from her. Surely there must be something deeper in his intention than he had yet disclosed.

As she was thinking of these things, there came a gurgling coo from the wee bundle in her lap that set her heart in raptures. The baby was awake. Now she might feast her eyes upon him. Quickly she snatched the blanket from before the infant's face. The Swede watched her as she did so. He saw her stagger. Holding the baby at arm's length before her, she gave a piteous cry and sank to the ground in a swoon.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS.—In sad and loving memory of my dear sister, Flora Davis, who passed away January 1st, 1929.
When beside your grave I stand,
With heart both crushed and sore,
In the gloom the sweet words come:
"Not lost, just gone on before."
So I'll be brave, dear sister,
And pray to God each day
To keep us walking in the narrow path.
For I know you are waiting on yonder shore,
And when He calls me home
Your smile will lead the way.

RISCA WILLIAMS TO GIVE PROGRAM IN PETERBOROUGH

Survivor of the Lusitania Disaster Will Provide Fine Program.

SONG, MUSIC, STORY

Risca Williams and his Welsh artists are scheduled to appear in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Thursday night, January 8. Mr. Williams is a Welsh baritone and is at present conducting a tour of Canada. He is one of the very few survivors of the Lusitania disaster and he will give a forty-minute lecture on the sinking of that great ship during the Word War, an event which did more than anything else to bring the United States into the war on the side of the Allies. David Lloyd George, a former premier of Great Britain, who has heard Mr. Williams give his lecture has described it as "The most thrilling story I have ever heard."

The program will be provided by a combination of artists of unusual ability and one will be Delphine Ayres Sames, pianist and soprano.

The tragic and gripping story of the sinking of the Lusitania as told by Risca Williams is now considered by the public as the standard and classic account of the world's greatest sea tragedy. He has combined with it a strong appeal for a nobler and higher appreciation of the gift of life.

Mr. Williams has had bumper crowds in all his appearances in Canada this year, and it is expected that St. Paul's church will be filled to capacity as the admission charge is very small.

Make Sure of Mayor Denne's Re-Election!

Mayor Denne has given Peterborough three years' efficient and business-like service, unhesitatingly devoting a large part of his time to the city's affairs.

That service the electors can repay to-morrow by devoting a few minutes of their holiday time to marking a ballot for Mayor Denne.

Confidence in a sweeping victory for him should not be allowed to endanger his return; on the contrary, every man and woman who appreciates the service Mayor Denne has rendered this community as Chief Magistrate for the past three years and realizes the importance of retaining his enthusiasm and driving power and energy in the municipal government should see to it that every possible vote is polled.

Every citizen who believes that Peterborough must continue to go ahead should to-morrow vote
